As reported by the Associated Press, purchasing agents representing China and Japan chanced to meet in the waiting room of a London munitions manufacturer and during some delay in obtaining an audience with the head of the firm they engaged in friendly conversation.

Finally they got to comparing the prices they were paying for war material and decided that both were paying too much. They agreed to go to the manufacturer together and do a little "collective bargaining." By putting up a united front each obtained prices about 40 per cent below those originally quoted by the manufacturer.

This week I want to tell my readers something of a former graduate of C. C. H. S. who has indeed achieved great heights especially in the field of public education. The alumni who will be the subject of discussion this week is Mr. Ewell Robinson.

Mr. Robinson graduated from this school in the year 1921, with a commendable record. After his graduation here, he entered the Jacksonville State Normal in the fall of the same year. He finished his course there and became the principal of a rural school in Chambers County in 1923. Mr. Robinson left Chambers county in 1926 and became the city superintendent of schools in Lineville, serving in this capacity until 1928. In 1928 he was elected by popular vote on a Democratc ticket in a Republican county the County Superintendent of Education. While he was serving in this office as the County Superintendent of Education of Clay County he was the youngest County Superintendent of Education in Alabama and the second youngest in the United States. In 1930 he received his B. S. Degree from Auburn and now lacks only about one-half the required work for a Masters Degree. At the present time he is serving as the principal of both grammar and high school in Childersburg. During the interview Mr. Robinson was asked what he intended to do in the future. He replied that he wished to mount to the top rung of the ladder of public education.

"One man's meat is another man's poison." The rain last Friday night, though it helped the farmers and those who had gardens allowed only a small number of people to attend the Home Economics Class play at the high school. This splendid play was given over Tuesday in the afternoon and in the evening also. A matinee is something unusual down here, but it seemed a wise move of Miss Griffin's.

We are proud to list Misses Beverly Hester and Roberta Curry among our former graduates. Both have accomplished much in the field of music. Miss Curry has sung on the stage in New York and elsewhere for the past several years. Miss Hester has studied extensively in music in Cincinnati and elsewhere and now she is the teacher of music at Judson College. Miss Hester graduated from here in 1916 and Miss Curry was a graduate of 1918. Both were A students and showed a promising interest in music while they were in high school.

We were glad to have a graduate and a former student back with us last Monday. Miss Mary Frank Smith, once a student here, and Miss Ester Lee Dennis, graduate last year, were visitors around the school Monday.

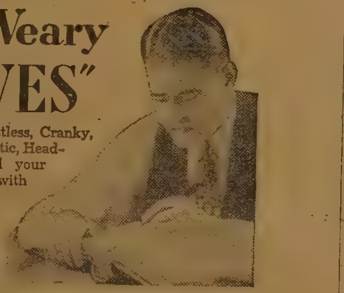
Work Weary "NERVES"



Do they make you Restless, Cranky, Tired, Sleepless, Dyspeptic, Headachy? Do they spoil your pleasure and interfere with your work?

Tens of thousands have found a way to get relief from overworked nerves—a way so simple, so pleasant, so low in cost, that we are constantly receiving letters that say, "If I had only found Effervescent Nervine Tablets sooner." Simon Brandt writes:

"I was very nervous from over-work. I couldn't sleep well, appetite was poor, and I felt weak for a long time.

"Used Dr. Miles' Nervine and now feel fifteen years younger and I am working the same as I did before—fourteen to fifteen hours daily.

"Sorry I did not learn about this wonderful medicine sooner as I had tried everything I could hear of, without results, until Dr. Miles' Nervine put me back on my feet."

When you are nervous, try this—put a Dr. Miles' Effervescent Nervine Tablet into a glass of water. Watch it bubble up like sparkling spring water—drink it—enjoy the feeling of calm and relaxation that follows.

Simon Brandt

In Dr. Miles' Effervescent Nervine Tablets a splendid formula for soothing overwrought nerves is combined with bicarbonate of soda and citric acid which tend to correct hyper-acidity—a frequent cause of nervousness.

For example, where the fare has been $5.00, under the new rate in coaches it becomes $2.78. In parlor and sleeping cars where the fare has been $10.00 the fare will be $8.34, with a further saving due to the elimination of the surcharge.

CHEAPER AND SAFER THAN MOTORING

These fares make traveling on Louisville & Nashville Railroad trains a most economical, safe and satisfactory means of transportation. Statistics show that even with the smallest automobiles the cost per mile averages between 5¢ and 6¢ and with larger cars from 8¢ to 10¢.

Avoid roadside delays, tire troubles, detours, hurried meals and the fatigue which comes from the strain of driving.

Board an L. & N. train, relax in comfort—travel economically, with safety and speed—and arrive at your destination fit and ready for work or play.

L. & N. DINING CAR SERVICE WORLD-FAMOUS

You cannot eat a better meal, better cooked or better served in any hotel or restaurant than you can enjoy in large, clean, comfortable L. & N. diners,—and food prices are reasonable.

Whether you travel for business or pleasure save time, save money, save energy by using trains of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

These rates are established for an experimental period of six months from April 1st. Their continuance beyond that time will be dependent upon the extent to which they are availed of by the traveling public.

Ask any passenger representative or ticket agent of this railroad for particulars and reservations.

WHAT A BLOW-OUT! WE MIGHT HAVE BEEN KILLED

YOU CAN'T BE LUCKY ALWAYS!

Put this Blow-out Protection on Your Car Right Now!

INVESTIGATION shows that the chances are better than even you'll have a blow-out some day. When, nobody knows. But right now is the time to learn the real cause of blow-outs . . . and the new way to prevent them.

When you drive 40, 50, 60 and 70—mile after mile—terrific heat is generated inside the tire. Rubber and fabric begin to separate. A blister starts—and grows—bigger and bigger—until BANG! A blow-out! And a terrible drag pulls your car off the road.

New Invention Prevents Blow-outs

But now Goodrich has created the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This remarkable invention resists intense heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus, blisters don't form. Blow-outs are prevented by overcoming their cause.

At gruelling speeds on the world's fastest track, the new Goodrich Silvertown, with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, lasted 3 times as long as first quality tires that did not have this feature. These SILVERTOWNS never blew—because the Life-Saver Golden Ply refused to give.

Safer Against Skidding

And that isn't all. Scientific tests show that the Goodrich Safety Silvertown has the most skid-resisting tread on the road. Its squeegee drying action gives your car extra road-grip and reduces danger of skidding to a minimum.

Let us show you this amazing new tire—now made THREE TIMES SAFER! You can put this blow-out protection on your car—at no extra cost. For Goodrich Safety Silvertowns cost not a penny more than other standard tires.

Liver Sufferers Amazed At Results Obtained From Remarkable New Treatment

Thousands Reporting Sargon Soft Mass Pills Have Brought Them Lasting Relief From Constipation—Sour Stomach—Sick Headaches—Gas—Bad Breath—Coated Tongue—Nervousness and Dizzy Spells After Everything Else Had Failed.

If Your Liver Is Not Performing Its Proper Functions—Sickness—Suffering and Ill Health Are the Inevitable Result.

Science Has Proved That Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, Laxative Pills, Herb Teas or Extracts Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest—it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and natural in their action there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them. . .

Only 60c for a full 30-day treatment. At your druggist, or write G. F. Willis, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

There Is No Law About Killing Rats

It was four o'clock in the afternoon, April 1 (All Fools' Day) had almost slipped over the horizon with the sinking sun, and we had just patted ourself on the back.

For once, we hadn't been a victim to any April Fool pranks. The day had passed without even the usual tall yarns, estimated to try the mental balance, being related.

But alas! The end was not yet!

Through the office door strode a man. Stern determination and the pride of conquest was written in every line of his face. We braced ourselves for a sure verbal attack:

He told how he had killed one hundred and fourteen rats, two of that number weighing three and one-half pounds, in his barn Saturday morning.

With never a backward look—he strode out!

A recently enacted fishing law put a quietus on a man relating stories of how he caught fish—that long—and of course talent is bound to express itself in some way.

But seriously—we advocate conferring the degree of "Supreme, Exalted and Immatchless Rat Killer" on M. B. Adams, of the Salem church community.

Observations

In going around I notice quite a difference in the growth of peas and vetch in the various fields. I pleaded with the folks last fall trying to get them to do three things, namely: Use superphosphate or basic slag, inoculate thoroughly and keep stock off until they were well established. Those persons who failed to take my suggestions may readily see why the crop was a failure.

So often when a new idea is introduced, we, as farmers are too reluctant in giving the idea a thorough trial. If we decide to try the new method when we finish with it, it is only half new because so many old operations are inserted. Those farmers who tried winter legumes last winter and are not satisfied with the results, might ask themselves this question, Did I give it a fair trial? and they will be willing to give it a new and fair trial next fall. It is imperative that we build up our soil, because there is little land left to be cleared. Unless we do this we shall be called robbers of the soil.

Soil Robbers

"Of all our resources, that of soil fertility is the most important. If one thing above another should be protected and developed it is the soil—the very breast of mother earth from which we must draw our nourishment, or perish. No man should have the right to impoverish his soil. No man should have the right to skin his land, butcher it up and sell the hide, hoof, bone and tallow, too.

"Such a man is not a farmer, but in very truth a robber of the soil and should be brought into strict account."

Worthy of Commendation

I'd like to commend Otho McKinney, A. T. Holifield, Robert Spence, George Hall, Tom Bailey and Jasper Brazil for their accomplishments with winter legumes this year. I hope those farmers who failed, somewhat, will go and take a good look at some of these fields. Don't be discouraged, but try, try again.

We are going to have some vetch turning demonstrations very soon and will be sure to notify everybody.

I was over to Otho McKinney's one day early in the winter and it was suggested that he cut all trees and bushes in his pasture. He spent no time getting ready, but went to work. Today he has one of the best prospects for a real pasture that I have seen in this community. I must say that Otho McKinney is one of the best young farmers in the community. He, too, is one of those farmers who makes definite plans and dispenses with a lot of hard labor. Hats off to Otho.

Speaking of Terracing

On checking up I found one man right in my front door who had failed to plow up his terraces after I spent a part of two days laying them off. What do you thnk of that? In calling distance of the school where the light is shining, yet failing to open his eyes and take notice. Can you beat that?

National Negro Health Week

This week, beginning April 2, is known as Negro Health Week all over the United States. The week's activities have the support of the United States Department of Health. Everywhere extensive preparations have been made for the observance of Negro Health Week by Negro schools and churches. What better way could we commemorate the birth, life and work of the founder of Tuskegee Institute than by trying to improve the physical condition of our people? Each of us is reminded this week of the importance of health and the need of an annual physical and dental examination.

In accordance with the celebration of Negro Health Week, the parent-teacher association has planned a program to be carried out at the next meeting, Friday, April 7, at the home of Adelle Austin. You are cordially invited.

Wholesale Grocer Features Alabama Farm Products

The Hobbie Company, supply depot for I. G. A. stores and other independent grocers throughout Alabama, is sponsoring a campaign to promote the sale of Alabama farm products. B. G. Sharp, General Manager of the Company, reports that hundreds of independent grocers throughout the state are cooperating with them in distributing and giving publicity to Alabama farm products.

Ths week is "Country Syrup Week," and the cooperating independent grocers are featuring this product. Mr. Sharp reports that this drive will dispose of practically all the surplus syrup which Alabama farmers have. It is reported that more than 20,000 gallons of syrup have been sold for Alabama farmers.

Among other Alabama farm products which will be featured in the campaign are Peanut Butter, Pickles, Honey, Butter and Cheese, the manufacture of which has recently been begun in the state.

Congratulations have come to The Hobbie Company from all over the state commending the policy of featuring Alabama products, which adds to Alabama prosperity.

"Our own business has increased materially and many of the cooperating grocers have reported increased sales since the campaign started. This leads us to believe tht the average citizen, as well as the farmer, is appreciative of what the independent grocer is doing to find a ready market and quick demand for Alabama farm products," said Mr. Sharp.

The Hobbie Company has warehouses in Montgomery and Birmingham. Richard M. Hobbie, well known throughout the state, particularly for his work as Alabama Food Administrator during the war, is a Director of the Company.

daily feature. An exhibition will be given for parents and the public in general at the Lay Dam swimming pool on July 4th and 6th. At all other times the Scout campers will be by themselves and their leaders.

Chilton County welcomes this opportunity to be host to 60 young Americans, and we feel that their stay will be most pleasant and profitable. Additional information will be given our readers as the time for the camp grows nearer.

Both Chairman Sam R. Powers and Scoutmaster, E.W. Lakeman (who will serve as assistant camp director to Mr. Sigwald) will attend a special troop camp training school at the Anniston Scout camp April 13 to 16, it is contemplated.

Concerning the plans for camping this year, Mr. Sigwald has sent out the following letter, which refers to both the camp at Spring Villa and "Treasure Island."

"This year we offer two camps and two camp sites. Both camps will last a week and each cost but $5.00 (cheaper than last year). Each has its advantages. Of course you will want the scout member of your family to attend the site nearest you. The June 8-15 camp is at our old site Camp Spring Villa, seven miles out of Opelika, and our second camp is located in Chilton County near Clanton, July 2nd-9th. If registrations permit a second session will be held June 15-22nd at Spring Villa.

"We have over 500 Scouts and each camp can accommodate only 60 campers, a total of 120.

"Let's fill out the attached registration card and rush it in to the Council office with the $1.00 reservation fee to assure this application being accepted and not be one of the 380 that may be disappointed. In each case the first sixty must be accepted. Make your check payable to '1933 Scout Camp'."

AUDITOR'S REPORT

stood. A recent ruling by Attorney-General Knight to Mrs. Gertrude Calloway declared that in view of the fact that the 1907 Act was only referred to, and not quoted, the Chilton County organization automatically functions under the 1915 Act. The law provides that to renew an old Act, it must be quoted and not merely referred to, he said.

Judge Reynolds declared that the law does permit expenditures for clerk hire for the Commissioners' Court, but said that it is supposed to be paid out of the road and bridge funds and not from the general funds. He explained, however, that money is constantly transferred from the general fund into the road and bridge fund—and stated that payment of the clerk's salary from the general fund was merely a transference of money from one account to another, and is thoroughly in accordance with the law.

He labeled Mr. Wilson's report as "merely bait to the Commissioners for a job auditing the books of the Commissioners' Court, by exhibiting animosity toward me," and declared that he has learned since employing Mr. Wilson, that his work is not acceptable to the state—and stated that $400 of the $700, which the Commissioners agreed to pay for the audit, is being held up until further investigation.

Following is a letter from Judge Reynolds to Comptroller J. H. Hard, Jr., and Mr. Hard's reply:

Clanton, Ala., March 30, 1933.

Mr. J. H. Hard, Jr.,
State Comptroller,
The Capitol
Dear Sir:

A private Auditor has been employed to make an examination of the books of certain County Officials in Chilton County and this auditor having completed the particular contract is now asking for a contract to be made to examine the other officers of the County.

Please inform me whether or not your Department would recognize this contemplated examination to the extent that it would not re-audit the work done by the private auditor.

Let me have this information at once.

Yours very truly,
L. H. Reynolds,
Judge of Probate, Chilton County.

March 30, 1933.

Mr. L. H. Reynolds
Judge of Probate, Chilton County
Clanton, Alabama
Dear Sir:

Replying to your inquiry of the 30th as to whether or not an examination by a private auditor would be accepted by me in lieu of an official examination by this department, I wish to advise that there is no authority therefor and a private examination cannot be acceptd.

Yours very truly,
J. H. Hard, Jr.,
State Comptroller.

The following is an excerpt from the auditor's report:

"There were certain features in the audit of the treasurer's books which are not commented upon in this report due to the lack of authority of the examiner to determine the exact standing of certain claims. These claims were in possession of the Court of County Commissioners and were not available to the examiner on an audit of the County Treasurer's records. The warrants covering the above mentioned claims were in proper order and properly signed.

"The examiner noted during the audit that several warrants had been erased or changed upon the face, comparing these warrants with the claims a definite amount was found. It is recommended that from now on that the Treasurer of the County accept for registration or payment no warrants which are in any way defaced. There should be purchased for the use of the Treasurer's office, a suitable safe for the keeping of the books and warrants. The present one is inadequate and unsafe.

"About the only criticism that could be offered as the result of the examination is the failure of the Treasurer to set aside at the bank separate funds for each account to correspond with the book accounts. Otherwise the office is managed in a competent, suitable manner, and the County Treasurer is to be complimented upon her records during the past years.

"However, the audit disclosed the need of an immediate examination of the Court of County Commissioners. The records and accounts are so closely related and interwoven that an audit, of necessity, must be based upon an actual examination of the records of the Commissioners Court. The Commissioners Court has a duty and right to know the exact condition of the financial affairs of the County at all times. No intelligent and accurate audit can be made by reference solely to the papers, records and accounts in the hands of the County Treasurer."

J. W. Sears Died In North Little Rock, Ark.

A wide range of friends and relatives in Coosa and Chilton counties were deeply grieved to learn of the passing of J. W. Sears in North Little Rock, Ark., last Thursday morning.

Mr. Sears was born at Weoka, Ala., where he lived until ten years of age when he moved with his parents to what is now known as Sears Chapel community. His parents were prominently connected with establishing the Sears Chapel Methodist Episcopal church and it received its present name as a recognition of their earnest efforts.

For over thirty years Mr. J. W. Sears lived in the Sears Chapel community where he was well known and deeply loved by a large number of friends and neighbors. In 1891 he moved to Chilton county where he lived until 1910, at which time he moved to North Little Rock, and lived there until his death.

His first marriage was to Miss Lou Smith, and to this union were born two children, a boy and a girl, both now dead.

His second marriage was to Miss Frances M. Logan of Poplar Springs community, near Hanover. She preceded him to the grave forty-one years ago. There are four surviving children of this marriage: Mrs. P. M. Moore of Clanton, Ala.; Mrs. B. M. Maddox of Pelham, Ala., and Mrs. Hattie Rasberry and Mrs. John Lima of North Little Rock, Ark., with whom he was living at the time of his death; and nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Tommie Waldrip, better known to a wide range of friends as "Aunt Tommie," who resides at Hanover.

Funeral services and burial were in North Little Rock, Ark.

Debt Repudiation Charged

The Legislative authorities of the State were charged with having "in effect repudiated" the State's debts to the schools and the teachers "the constituted authorities having declined or failed, in the absence of ability to pay cash, to issue negotiable warrants or certificates in payment of its indebtedness to the teachers, and having failed to provide revenue to pay contracts now running. . . . ."

In the same resolution the educators reaffirmed their faith in the public, appealed to the people to help them, and urged the Legislature in the remaining days of the special session "to enact some measure or measures that will enable the State to pay its honest debts," and that legal safeguards be placed about such funds "that under no condition may they be used for other purposes."

brought this on yourself! And now you are going to suffer at the hands of this jury."

Throughout the trial Garner sat with stolid indifference written on his countenance. Only on cross-examination, did he show any emotion.

He was represented by Percy M. Pitts, who made a plea that no malice or forethought had been exhibited by his client, and at the most he could be guilty of no more than first degree manslaughter, which carries a maximum sentence of ten years. Mr. Pitts submitted testimony to show that no ill feeling existed between Garner and the dead man, but that Franklin's neck was accidentally broken from a fall when he was pushed by Garner.

After being charged by Judge F. Loyd Tate, the jury was in the jury room little more than an hour—when the Sheriff brought word that a verdict had been reached.

During both days of the trial the court room was jammed and extra chairs were placed in the aisles.

Members of the jury who meted a twenty-two year sentence in the penitentiary to Ernest Garner were:

George W. Bates, Willard G. Davis, Burl McCarey, Wiley W. Parnell, Leonard H. Lowery, Edgar Hewitt, W. Frank Reynolds, James Langston, Leon C. Keen, Payton C. Jones, Leo Taylor, and E. Fred Merchant.

EDUCATION BILL IS APPROVED

STRAWBERRY OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

ROOSEVELT IS AFTER SHOALS DEVELOPMENT

"Far Reaching Humanitarian Document," Says Senator From Nebraska

With that same dynamic action that has characterized every movement since his inauguration little more than a month ago, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, "the Democratic man of the hour," launched into the Muscle Shoals and Tennessee Valley development program Monday, when in a terse message of less than three hundred words, he asked Congress for power to set into operation his dream of development of the Tennessee Valley.

Senator George W. Norris, veteran from Nebraska, who has envisioned for more than twelve years the Utopian development of the Muscle Shoals project, was selected to present the bill to Congress. Senator Norris declared that the President's message "is an official approval of a twelve-year dream I have had. It is the most wonderful, comprehensive and far-reaching humanitarian document ever to come down from the White House."

Following is the text of the President's message:

"To the Congress:

"The continued idleness of a great national investment in the Tennessee Valley leads me to ask Congress for legislation necessary to enlist this project in the service of the people.

"It is clear that the Muscle Shoals development is but a small part of the potential public usefulness of the entire Tennessee River.

"Such use if envisioned in its entirety, transcends mere power development:

"It enters the wide field of flood control, soil erosion, afforestation, elimination from agricultural use of marginal lands, and distribution and diversification of industry.

"In short, this power development of war days leads logically to national planning for a complete river watershed involving many states and the future lives and welfare of millions.

"It touches and gives life to all forms of human concerns.

"I, therefore, suggest to the Congress legislation to create a Tennessee

SILENCE NOTED ON QUESTION OF CO. AUDIT

Auditor's Pay Is Being Held Up By Order Of Judge Pending Hearing

A sepulchral silence has developed regarding the audit of the Chilton County treasurer's books, which resulted, it is stated, in a charge-back against Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds of a total sum of $1,845, for clerk hire during two years before the action of the commissioners provided a clerk for the court.

Although $400 of the $750 due G. W. Wilson, special examiner of Birmingham, who made the audit, has been held up through the authorization of Judge Reynolds, no communication has been received from Mr. Wilson, it is understood, other than a request for a copy of the order which stopped payment of his salary.

Judge Reynolds declared that he has learned since employing him that his work is not acceptable to the state and it is on these grounds that his salary is being held up, pending investigation, he said.

Prophetic conversations are being indulged in on almost every street corner in Clanton, and it is believed that further developments will be brought into the lime-light at a special meeting of the Commissioners' Court next Monday.

Danger Of Playing On Railroad Seen

For the past few weeks there have been small boys playing around the railroad tracks and the depot in Clanton, and some are reported as having been "playing tag" with passing trains, which is pointed out as being extremely dangerous by railroad employees.

The people of Clanton are asked to cooperate with the railroad in warning children not to loiter or play on the railroad tracks or too near them. The railroad is a responsible party but asks for the cooperation of the citizens of the town.

This condition, it is believed, is due to the fact that many children are having time on their hands since the closing of schools, and the old adage "Idleness is the seat of trouble" should be remembered.

Four Associations Ready For Car Load Shipments To Start Moving

The prospects are good so far, for a splendid strawberry crop in Chilton county, declare those connected with the various associations in the county, which include Clanton, Thorsby, Jemison and Maplesville.

A great deal depends on the weather, it was stated by many, while the crop is rapidly filling out, with shipments already started. Throughout the sections where strawberry raising has become a matter of business, pickers can be seen gathering and packing the berries.

J. N. Dennis of the Clanton association stated they expect to ship between 400 and 500 crates from here this week. He stated that the price is a little uncertain at this time, but is optimistic over the outlook for a good price.

Thorsby Ready

Thorsby, the largest shipping point in the county for berries, is preparing for a record crop this year, according to J. M. Smith, manager of the association there. They shipped thirty-two crates from Thorsby last Monday, and state they expect to ship 125 cars this season.

COUNTY SUPT. TO BE ELECTED IN THIS COUNTY

Act Calls For Special Election; Fixes Salary Of Superintendent

Information given the News this week stated that the Local Bill providing for the election of the county superintendent of education of this county by popular vote will become a law this week, with the signature of the Governor.

The Bill received a favorable report in the Senate Committee sometime ago, and was passed through the Senate last week. The Committee on Education in the House unanimously endorsed the Bill on recommendation of Representative Percy Pitts, with a favorable report and placed the bill on the calendar for final passage. It was to be passed this week, Representative Pitts stated. Immediately after the Governor places his signature on the Bill, it will become a law and the Probate Judge of this county is authorized to call a special election for the office of county superintendent of education.

This law fixes the salary of the superintendent at not less than $1800 per year and not over $2400 per year. It provides that the special election shall be called to elect by popular vote, a superintendent to assume his office on July 1st, 1933, and hold same until a successor is elected in the General Election in November, 1934. It fixes the term of office at four years, and provides also that the superintendent be elected as other county officials, in the future, instead of being appointed by the County Board of Education, as has been in the past.

The Bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator J. G. Duncan, Democratic Senator from this district. It was endorsed by the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County recently, and declared "directly in line with President Roosevelt's new deal for the people in bringing back to them their right to a greater voice in our government."

Regulate All Alike

On the settlement of the railroad problem depends the jobs of 500,000 men who are normally employed by the rails and are now out of work, the jobs of hundreds of thousands of others in related industries which must retrench as railroad purchases are cut, the savings of millions of our citizens who own railroad stocks and bonds, either directly, or through the ownership of life insurance policies, savings bank accounts, trust funds, etc.

It is an interesting and important fact that both political parties have planks promising the rails a fair deal. They realize that no problem affects a greater number of people. We shan't go far toward bringing back prosperity until we remove the legislative obstacles that, ever since the war, have made it impossible for the rails to "earn a living."

Motor carriers operate, unregulated or half-regulated, over the public highways. Ships ply waterways built and maintained by the government. Oil pipe lines run underground. As a consequence, the railroads must stand by and watch their business decline—while they are prevented from competing on an equitable basis with the other carriers. Every move of a railroad must first have the approval of government officials—while their competitors, for the most part, are not so restricted.

Regulate and tax all transport agencies on a basis of equality. There is the solution to the railroad problem—a solution at the same time to a number of other problems of the moment.

Time is drawing near now for many of our subscribers to pay their subscriptions to the News. Regretting it as much as we do, we will find it necessary to be somewhat strict about this this year, and want to ask those whose subscriptions are almost out to please remember this.

It seems that the voters of Chilton county will soon have an opportunity to cast their ballots expressing their wishes in regard to our county superintendent of education office. There has been little ado about this so far, but it is understood the Bill calling for this special election will become a law this week.

The News, like everyone else, is looking toward the strawberry this year. The strawberry is a small fruit, made up mostly of water, but it will mean a lot to Chilton county this year.

o-o-o-o

The drive against depression continues. At this writing legislation affecting the railroads and the issuance of securities is being pushed principally. Rigid restrictions will be placed over security issues. Railroad legislation will be designed to give the rails better opportunity to compete with trucks, waterways and other carriers, and to effect economy in operation. It is believed that a "federal coordinator of railroads" will be appointed by the President, with authority to direct the elimination of wasteful practices and aimless competition among carriers. This plan has the backing of the security owners and the institutional investors' group and of New York savings banks. There has been no official announcement as to whom the rail coordinator will be, but the name of Cary Gray, president of the Union Pacific System, is being put forward and has received wide backing. The President recently announced that there was, as yet, nothing definite about his rail program. A possible exception to this is his broad project for resolving Federal regulation of transportation into a single agency composed of five divisions, each dealing exclusively with railroads, highway and waterway carriers, aviation, radio and telegraphic and telephonic communication.

The Utilities And The Tax Burden

One way to appraise the worth to the public of utility companies at this time would be to take a look at their tax statements.

In a number of states they are the largest single taxpayer. In all states they are among the leaders. Whole counties depend on them to pay an overwhelming proportion of the cost of county government. And in small towns, particularly, elimination of utility taxes would often mean a hundred per cent increase in the local tax rate. There is an instance in Wisconsin where a town proudly announced that it would levy no general taxes during the coming year—because a large private utility system had built new plant facilities within ts jurisdiction, and particular revenue from these was sufficient to meet all municipal expenses.

Best of all, the utility is the most stable of all taxpayers. In bad times manufacturing industries trim their sails to the prevailing wind. If times get hard enough, they abandon plants entirely. The utility industry does not. Its physical properties are in use at all times. Whether conditions are good or bad, it must maintain service. It must be ready to meet unexpected jumps in demand. It must be prepared to expand and develop when the situation requires.

During depression utility tax payments, like utility employment levels, have declined less than any comparable industry. We all benefit from that—the property-owner, the home-builder, the worker, the industrialist. It helps lift some of the burden from our pocketbooks. And nowadays, with taxes mounting steadily in their relation to national income, it isn't pleasant to contemplate what would happen to the average taxpayer if utilities were taken over by the government, made tax-free, and this source of revenue lost to municipalities, counties and states.

"ROUND TOWN"

---by Doug

Things are looking up these days. The sun has been doing its stuff since Sunday. But Sunday was something of a wet day, maybe due to the beer flowing in 19 states in the union, or something. See that Alabama is not likely to have that 3.2 beer like some other states. I'm kind of like Will Rogers on that. It would take several bottles of that beer to make anyone feel like prosperity had arrived. In fact it would take too many of those bottles.

The Legislature of Alabama has adjourned. They stayed down in Montgomery for several weeks again this time and still we are just about in the same place, condition that we were before that group of statesmen, orators, lobbyists and others went into session. Reminds me of these conferences I hear about where nothing much comes from them. But when the beer question came up, those lawmakers had a good idea of what the "folks back home" expected.

However, Chilton county comes in for a little mention at the State Capitol in regard to laws this time. The local law, providing for the election of the County Superintendent of Education went through the Senate last week and landed in the House of Representatives. That Bill has sure cut a shine up in Clanton and abouts, if you ask me.

Now I've rambled plumb off to Montgomery, after vowing I'd stick to Clanton in this column. Getting back to this city of ours let's talk about the possibilities of our town for awhile. I've been doing a little thinking or something lately, and it just occurred to me that our town is not as wide awake as it should be. I mean by that that our business men are overlooking a mighty good bet. For thirty miles or more, in every direction except East, we have a trade territory that is wide open to some town. And ths territory is thickly populated with the best kind of people. The kind of people that buy and sell things. Now some of this business is going to the larger cities and should be stopped. Seems to me that if our stores in Clanton should get down to doing a little "going-after-it" that business would gradually be trickled into Clanton. Of course I realize that would necessitate the expenditure of funds, but it takes money to make money most of the time. That is what Mr. Woodin, secretary of the treasury, said. So he just makes some new money.

By the way, have any of you people seen one of the new bills of currency put out under the Democratic administration? They've been printing it by the millions in Washington. It is the crispiest and best looking pieces of paper you ever saw. All new, with bright green inks glistening in the sunshine, and with Mr. Woodin's signature sticking in one corner. Stacks and stacks of it have been bundled up to be shipped to the Federal Reserve Banks. Nope, I haven't seen any of it yet, but I'm looking for some. If you get hold of a crisp, new bill, see whose name is signed to it. If it has Mr. Woodin's name on it, then it is a brand new one, and Prosperity has reached us.

I asked Mr. Lande, the man up at The Leader, in Clanton if he had seen any of the new money. I figured if anybody got hold of a new bill, Mr. Lande would get it. He was like me, hadn't seen any but was expecting some right away. By the way, have you noticed lately how bright the inside of The Leader store is these days? Mr. Lande says it is Spring and he is putting in the Spring goods. So that accounts for the bright appearance of The Leader.

While I'm up in this end of town I'll say something that's been on my mind for a long time. I wish somebody would locate in one of those vacant buildings up there. The one Calloway Drug Company moved from, especially. Since Calloway moved, that side of the street is dark looking at night.

Was snooping round over toward Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company last Saturday and believe you me, they were sure turning the furniture loose. I just stood and watched the people that were buying that good furniture Tiffin sells at such low prices, and I'm not kidding you this time either, they were really buying it. Of course I know that Tiffin's sells a lot of goods, but Saturday was a wow over at that store. Well, they got a nice store and a big line of goods to select from.

Something else that looks mighty good these days is the wagons, trucks and automobiles that are being loaded with strawberry baskets and crates in Clanton. They have been carrying them out the past few days, and it ain't like it is going to be, either. I imagine that the same thing is occurring in Thorsby, Jemison and Maplesville, and especially in Thorsby.

I have been hearing some criticism about the relief idea, and just handing out provisions to the people. Some express the idea that it is ruination to just give things to people, when they should be working for their supplies. Of course this recent administration here of relief—the placing of men to work—is not so bad. But I'm kind of like some others. I'm not so keen on this free food and clothing. I keep hearing reports of people, white and negroes, stating "there is no reason to work for food and clothing, the Red Cross will give us that."

And did you know that President Roosevelt cut his own salary last week by fifteen per cent? Yep, he did that thing. In my opinion that shows him a big man—taking a cut like the government employees.

Here is a couple more swap items. Mr. A. D. Martin, one of our good readers on Maplesville, Ala., Route One, says he has a good two-horse reversible disc that he will exchange for a two-horse cultivator, or something else he can use.

C. O. Bell (who is Charlie Bell) says he has about fifty Red Zealand rabbits, good for pets, and for eating, he wants to trade for some corn or hay. Mr. Bell makes his home on Clanton, Ala., Route 5.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I stood in a large slaughter house and observed the machine like way in which the animals were slain. Cows, sheep, goats and pigs were pushed down a run way and then up an incline and to the knife. There was much blood, but no bravery, no heroism. They were caught in the grip of machinery and pushed on to death. Everything in the building—even down to the knife, was mechanical. That slaughter house gave to me a picture of modern warfare. No longer is the battle to be won by bravery. No longer will heroism play an important part in victory. Warfare has become machinery, and in the next war bravery and heroism will play no part. The machine of war that has the power to slaughter the largest number of men will claim the victory. The stalwart youth of that age will be pushed down the battle front to the greedy machine that poisons and that kills. One power will push and pull the soldiers toward the slaughtering place, while another power will dispense with poison and bullets. War has become nothing but a slaughter house, where the flower of mankind is butchered. My Lord, when will we become civilized enough to stop war?

A pastor stood before a gathering of young people and drove home a great lesson in the use of a dollar bill. The young people were asked to write the name of some sin that was being practiced. Many kinds of sins were named. Then the pastor asked for each slip of paper and placing them one at a time under the dollar bill, asked if they could see the sin named through the bill. The replies were, "We can see the dollar, but we can not see the sin mentioned on the slip of paper." That open to the pastor his field for his message. Said he, "My young friends, that is what I want you to say. When money comes between the eyes of men and the sins of the flesh, we rarely ever see the sin, but we can see the dollar with big eyes. There are thousands who fail to see the sin of whiskey, the sin of adultery, the sin of theft, the sin of dishonesty, and all because the dollar covers the sin." A silver dollar will hide the word "God." It will hide the word, "Purity." It will hide "Murder," and many, many other sins of which the human race is guilty. The dollar has hid out crime and it has hid out God. Better look for sin first and the dollar afterward. May the good Lord pity us when we can see nothing but the dollar.

And it came to pass that a stingy old guy died. He climbed up and around in that unknown world and finally found himself standing before the gate of heaven. He knocked on the door and St. Peter asked from within, "Who are you, and what good thing have you done to merit an entrance into the City?" St. Peter waited for the answer and after despairing of hearing an answer he heard from without, "I am the richest man in Hold-Um-Tight and I recall that one day I gave a poor newsboy five cents." After making that stunning appeal the rich man bent low and placed his ear to the key hole in the door to hear what he could hear. First he heard the rattle of money and next he heard the voice of St. Peter as he gave orders to an angel. Said he; "Gabriel, jump over the wall and give this nickel to that stingy wad and tell him that I say for him to take his measley nickel and go on to hell where he belongs." And I say unto you, no stingy "Wad" will ever be able to get through the gate into the City.

About thirty years ago in Pensacola, Florida, a man was fishing on the city dock. It was a frosty morning and rather than hold his line in his hands, he tied it about his waist and put his hands in his pockets. He was using a large hook, a big bait and a strong line. While standing there waiting for a strike his mind wandered, and when he least expected, a large shark struck the bait and made for the deep. The man lost his balance and was jerked into the water. That was the last seen of that man. A few days later a huge shark was landed from the bay and in its stomach was found a man's foot. The man went fishing, but in that case the fish went manning. I read that story many years ago and it filled my soul with horror. Since that day I have witnessed many horrors that were worse than that. I have seen many a man who was careless in his manner of living, jerked into the whirlpools of sin, and I have seen them devoured by the sharks of the sea. "First the man takes a drink. Then the drink takes a drink. Then the drink takes the man." In these days the devil has gone manning.

The lady spider is a regular virago. She beats and mauls her husband about in a most shameful manner. Old man spider hobbles about on broken limbs and chewed feet. Sometimes she will actually kill her husband and eat him. She is much larger than the male spider and believe me, she lords it over him. I have read of a human spider who was also a regular virago. In these modern times, "If you do not like your husband, kill him." What spiders we mortals are.

MY EXPERIENCE WITH WHISKEY, AS ADVICE TO OTHERS

I am a man of twenty-five years of age. I have drunk whiskey every since I was twelve years of age. I did as I pleased, had money to spend any time I wanted it. I set a fast pace from the time I was twelve years of age until I was eighteen. Then I decided to see the world. Well, I've seen as much as any man around here, and still drank whiskey. I returned home to Clanton at the age of twenty-two, still drinking whiskey. I stayed home six months before I married. Well, I still drank whiskey. I got in lots of trouble. My wife paid me out of it all. She told me she was going to quit me if I didn't quit drinking. Still I kept drinking. Then we separated. Then I went to her and lied, told her I would stop drinking if she would live with me. But I did not stop.

We separated several times. Each time I would tell her the same story, and she would try again. But the last drunk I pitched, she left me, and now at the age of 25 I have been taught my final lesson. She will not believe I have quit drinking. She says she is done with me for good. She has lost all confidence in me. So, Boys and Men, everywhere, let my experience be a lesson to all of you. Don't let whiskey come in between you and your loved ones. It will wreck your life forever. You may think you will get by, but it will get you some day. So, when you touch the bottle, think twice before you touch it to your lips. It will wreck your life, home and family. So, just think, think, think, before you drink.

THAT the great problem of the merchant today is getting more merchandise sold.

Some merchants are business men; others simply try to run a business.

The up-to-date merchant is in business to make profits; he expects his business to grow and prosper and to become greater each year.

This class of merchants is a credit to any city. You can always find their ads in the newspapers of your city.

They are ever anxious to build a clientele of satisfied customers and they do it by advertising and backing up their advertising with service, quality and prices that are right.

Good merchandise is always in demand when people know of its quality and value.

If few people know of its value, there are few buyers.

If many people know about its worth, there will be no lack of buyers.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

Many cities have arrived at the forking of the great highway leading into the future. They will choose one fork or the other. They must lead or be led.

One fork of the road may be little used, and this is the one chosen by the city leaders—the successful men. The other fork of the road in many cases will be chosen by those who should be led and who ignore leaders.

So now in each city the citizens have reached a point where they must either lead or be led. One way will lead th to building a bigger, brighter, busi and more prosperous city. The other way will lead them to "no one knows where."

Today is a day of high competit Cities compete with each other the sa as business. Each city must fight business if it intends to keep marching ahead.

All was done for him that loving hands co do, but God in His wisdom saw fit call him home.

He bore his suffering and pain with the same patience and kindness that always met the trials and hardships his farmer life. He always lived a Christian life before his children, gra children, friends and relatives, teaching them to live a Christian life, that when they come to leave the world they too could say, "they were perfectly ready to go and wanted to die," as he told us for several days before passed away. That's What It Is

I saw a man the other day about to dehorn his cow. I did not ask him why he was doing so; but jumped in to assist him. The cow had unusually long, sharp horns, therefore, I decided she must have been bad about goring other stock. As soon as the first horn was amputated, the man picked it up and exclaimed, "That's what it is." I asked him what, and he said it was "hollow horn," and that was why he was taking them off.

Now listen, folks, there is no such disease or ailment as "hollow horn." Every normal cow that has horns, has hollows in them. In most cases a cow has been sick for some time and probably is recovering before we detect it. Then she gets well in spite of the fact that her horns and tail have been cut off, and you tell me that you cured the poor thing. Don't take away her best defense against flies, mosquitoes and other insects by cutting off her tail. See the veterinarian.

He Is A Pioneer

I had as usual a long chat with A. G. Gordon, chairman of the board of trustees, the other day, on the development of our school and community. For years and years he has taken an active part in the promotion of the academic and vocational standards of our school and community. He has given his life for the training of boys and girls in his community, and as a farmer he is none the least. He said to me, "I will work as long as I am able to move and have my being."

Other men who have worked untiringly are George W. Williams, another pioneer, Ben Brown and Ben Love. The outlook for the future is still bright because we have such men as W. A. Dickinson, Ralph Oden, Joshua McDaniel, Moses Brown, A. B. Craig, Richard Turpin and others who are serving on the board of directors.

Thousands of Women Have Taken Cardui on Their Mothers' Advice

It is an impressive fact that many women have said they learned of the value of Cardui from their mothers.

What stronger evidence of her confidence in a medicine could a mother have than that she advises her daughter to take it!

Cardui is given the credit for relieving so many cases of womanly suffering that it is widely and favorably known. Druggists, everywhere, sell it.

If you are weak, run-down, suffering monthly, take Cardui. Take it for a reasonable length of time and try it thoroughly. As your health improves, you will share the enthusiasm of thousands of women who have written to say: "Cardui helped me."

IN MEMORY OF MRS. DOCIA CAMP

The people of this community and many of Clanton and Birmingham were very much saddened last Wednesday, April 5th, by the death of Mrs. Docia Camp of Birmingham. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Devaughn.

Weep not, dear friends and loved ones, for we believe our loss is heaven's gain. She leaves to mourn her lass a husband, Mr. Camp, one son, Mr. Leon Huckabee, one daughter, Mrs. Dovie Murrell, one granddaughter, little Patsy Ruth Murrell, all of Birmingham. Three brothers and three sisters, Mr. O. L. Devaughn, Mr. H. M. Devaughn and Mr. E. H. Devaughn, all of Clanton; Mrs. G. S. Minor, Mrs. J. R. Mitchell of Clanton; and Mrs. H. L. Gentry of Columbus, Ga.

She was sick only a few days, but all was done for her that loving friends and doctors could do. She was 49 years old and had been a faithful member of the Baptist church since early childhood.

She was in a hospital in Birmingham at the time of her death. The funeral was held at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. R. Mitchell, with Martin & Sons of Clanton in charge. Rev. S. J. Ezell of Clanton conducted the funeral. Burial was in the Maple Springs cemetery.

—Written by a niece, Lera Mae Mitchell.

"Polly of the Circus" Is Coming Here Soon

"Polly of the Circus" will head the program at the Wadesonian Theatre Friday and Saturday, April 14 and 15, with Marion Davies enacting the role of a trapeze artist and Clark Gable that of a modern young minister. This unusual romantic drama is based on Margaret Mayo's stage success of some years ago and was directed by Alfred Santell of "Daddy Long Legs" and "Sob Sister" fame.

As the circus performer who marries a minister, only to find that she stands in the way of his happiness, Miss Davies is said to have a role which gives her even greater dramatic opportunities than that of her last vehicle, "Five and Ten." The story also has its amusing moments, for the hoydenish circus aerialist discovers that ministers are not quite the forbidding persons she had thought them to be, while the small-town person gets a new slant on life under the "big top".

Highlights of the drama include the sensational fall of the trapeze star, the scandal which ensues as a result of her convalescence in the minister's house, the refusal of the board of clergymen to give the minister a church when he marries the circus girl and the subsequent drastic attempt of the girl to "repair the damage." C. Aubrey Smith has a prominent role in the production.

It looks as if a good many veterans may soon think the New Deal is a mis deal.

Liver Sufferers Amazed At Results Obtained From Remarkable New Treatment

Thousands Reporting Sargon Soft Mass Pills Have Brought Them Lasting Relief From Constipation—Sour Stomach—Sick Headaches — Gas—Bad Breath—Coated Tongue—Nervousness and Dizzy Spells After Everything Else Had Failed.

If Your Liver Is Not Performing Its Proper Functions—Sickness — Suffering and Ill Health Are the Inevitable Result.

Science Has Proved That Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, Laxative Pills, Herb Teas or Extracts Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest—it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and natural in their action there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them. ..

Funeral Directors Met This Week

An unusually successful convention of the members of the Alabama Funeral Directors association was conducted at the Jefferson Davis hotel, in Montgomery Tuesday and Wednesday according to a report from J. Mell Martin, funeral director, of Clanton, who is secretary and treasurer of the association. Samuel Martin, a member of the firm of Martin & Sons, also was in attendance.

Representatives from almost every recognized funeral establishment in the state were present, and an unusual amount of interest was displayed, Mr. Martin declared. The convention was presided over by President J. Lee Headley, of Gadsden.

Many technical and business problems confronting funeral directors over the state, were discussed in detail and methods of alleviation were suggested. Aside from the fellowship and rejuvenation derived from the association with each other, much constructive good was realized from the various addresses delivered during the two-day session, Mr. Martin averred.

Announce New Low Goodyear Tire Prices

New low levels have been reached in tire prices, according to Dief's Service Station, local dealers for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

"In addition to sharply reducing prices, Goodyear will produce but two lines of tires—the well-known All-Weather Tread and the Pathfinder, discontinuing third and fourth line brands," Dief's stated.

"Prices on All-Weather tires are now at the level paid for Pathfinders a year ago, while Pathfinders may now be bought at prices comparable to those paid for the Goodyear Speedway line at that time," he continued. "All-Weather prices are 43 per cent under 1929 rates, while Pathfinders cost 48 per cent less than in 1929, not including government tax."

This means that Goodyear tires, with full center traction, built with the famous supertwist Cord, which by its outstanding superiority over ordinary cord used in tire construction, imparts greater mileage and longer life, can now be purchased at a real saving.

"The plan of price reductions and discontinuance of two lines represents in principle what is believed to be the best judgment of most of the leading factors in the tire industry. The motorist always prefers quality and the decline in prices will give it to him at a figure he can afford to pay," Dief's concluded.

The student who is to have the honor of being the most intellectual of his or her class has not been named. This item of the Who's Who is decided by the teachers.

Here is what we all have been waiting for since the "good old days". Next Friday night, April 21, at 8:00 P. M. the Senior Two class will present the annual undergraduate play. The name of this play is "Girl Shy". The name itself signifies that the play will be one full of laughter and fun. It is a story of two boys, one who is girl shy and one who is not, at a modern college. Everything is modern except the old dean, and the negro wash woman. The girl, whom the father of the girl shy boy wants his son to marry comes to the graduating exercises with the Dad. Here serious and humorous complications follow when the girl shy boy hires a real vamp to pose as his fiancee while the home town girl is at the college. Watch for more announcements later. And for your entertainment music and songs and a black face comedy will be presented before the play and between the acts, all for only 15 and 25 cents. Come on, show that real school spirit and come.

It has surely been a long time since the auditorium has been packed. Next Friday night is our chance to show Clanton how to back their school.

Come on, you graduating Seniors. Do you want to have a rollicking good time when the Juniors entertain you? Good! be at the school house next Friday night as one big class and set an example of school spirit for your subordinates to look up to.

Last Wednesday Mr. Varnell, science instructor, took his chemistry class on a very interesting and instructive trip to the cotton mill. The entire class was shown over the cotton mill and its operation was explained.

From the Senior Two Class to Joe VanDerveer and Earl Ellis, come a load of thanks and appreciation.

The Senior Three Class is very busy now selecting its rings, caps and gowns, class historian, class poet, etc. for Commencement Exercises. This is a big moment in their lives. Some are leaving school and stepping into the wide world with its ups and downs while others are jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

Here are the Junior Twos with their Who's Who. Best all around, Juanita Miller; most dependable, Paralee Henson; most popular, Jane Pitts; most intellectual, Paralee Henson; most beautiful girl, Geraldine Deloach; best looking boy, Julius Martin; neatest, Edith Parrish; cutest, Frances Foshee; most loyal, Margie Nell Jones; best athlete, Horace Vinson; wittiest: Mildred Easterling; most original, Mary Ruth Goodman.

A class for tap dancers and other branches of this graceful art wouldn't be a bad investment in some respects.

Weird and mysterious happenings took place here at the high school last Thursday night. On that night, memorable to two students, the "C" Club completed the initiation of two new members. These two boys were James Dennis and Morgan Reynolds. James got his letter playing basket ball this year and Morgan earned his while serving in the office as manager.

Are our class elections such as for Who's Who and class officers corrupted the same as public elections are? This would indicate good training for some future politicians of the same color as several of our high state officials. Let us hope that our elections are not of this nature. The future of America rests on the shoulders of the youth of today and the habits he or she learns in high school will remain with him thruout his life.

Why walk a block to buy your candy when you can get some just as good if not better here at the school and at the same time display your school spirit.

We certainly are proud to have Miss Hilda Hart in our midst as a student at C. C. H. S. Hilda entered the music contest at Montevallo at the State Play Day and emerged with the honors of third place. Congratulations, Hilda! This contest was state-wide and third best in the entire state is nothing to scoff at.

Here come these Seniors with some more of their originality. Instead of the usual routine at their class night which will take place sometime in the near future, they have something new for us in the form of a playlet. The name of this entertainment is "Seniors at the Bar". This promises to be really good.

Are redheads, tempers and wildcats consistent?

People come and people go.
Where my paper went I do not know.

The school seemed rather masculine last Friday. Almost all the members of the fairer sex went to Montevallo to the state wide Field Day at Alabama College. Miss Griffin took her home economic girls and her physical education girls to attend this meet. This was very instructive to them in a number of ways. Miss Griffin wants to thank those who so kindly provided transportation to Montevallo.

I wonder how many of us realize the importance that no minute should be wasted now. Too few I fear. Final examinations are only a few weeks off and along with them come several plays and other attractions. We must be prepared for our examinations, yet we mustn't become sour.

Aviators Play At War Over Chilton County

Motors roared—propellors whirred—a dozen army planes hovered over Clanton! Automobile-loads of uniformed men rushed here and there.

There was a tenseness in the air! Cringing, expectant victims awaited a sudden swoop and a spurt of flame—that would sweep the little Chilton county metropolis off the map.

But it didn't come—

Captain Ladd and his boys, from Maxwell Field Aviation Training School were just playing at war. Assuming a state of war, various points in Chilton county were used by Captain Ladd in a test project to determine the resourcefulness of aviation students at Maxwell Field.

Sardis B. Y. P. U.

Following is a letter written by a member of Sardis B. Y. P. U. bringing out a few good points on the subject of the kind of man one might desire for a husband. If you will take a look at the lesson for February 12, in the B. Y. P. U. Quarterly you will see the motive which prompted the writing of this letter:

"The Kind of Husband I Would Like To Have

"The one I cherish for a companion in life is a sweet blue-eyed Christian gentleman about forty years old, who is neat, free from bad habits, and a Protestant in belief: with two willing hands which are not afraid of toil and care. One who is meek and lowly in spirit; honest, affectionate, kind and true. One who has courage to say yes to the right and no to the evil: that will help make a home where Jesus Christ will be our guest. One who is willing to travel down life's way hand in hand until we reach the golden end."

Our B. Y. P. U. is making some progress. We received some new members Sunday night and wish that others would come in and take interest in the work.

Our pastor, Brother Trice, filled his regular appointment here Saturday and Sunday, and delivered two excellent sermons to the church. He emphasized the need of the members of the church waking up to a fuller discharge of their duties.

THOUSANDS KILLED OR INJURED

Don't Wait! Let Us Show You How to Banish Fear of Blow-outs

WHEN you travel at 40, 50 and 60—mile after mile—the heat inside your tire becomes terrific. Rubber and fabric begin to separate. Then a blister forms—and grows bigger and bigger—until BANG! A blow-out! You can't steer : : : you can't stop. And then CRASH!

New Tire 3 Times Safer

To prevent such tragedies, Goodrich has built into every new Silvertown Tire the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This invention resists terrific heat—inside the tire—where blow-outs really start. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus blisters don't form. Blow-outs are prevented by overcoming their cause.

At gruelling speeds on the world's fastest track, the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown, with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, lasted three times as long as first quality tires that did not have this feature.

Skid-Resisting Tread

Moreover, actual road tests prove that the Goodrich Safety Silvertown has the most skid-resisting tread. Gives your car extra road-grip : : : reduces danger of skidding to a minimum.

Let us show you these remarkable tires—made three times safer from blow-outs at high speeds. They cost no more than other standard makes!

IN LOVING MEMORY

On Sunday night, April 2nd, the death angel visited the home of Rev. T. J. Deason and bore away his loving spirit from this sinful world to the Great Beyond. Grandfather's life was an example of a true follower of Christ. He believed in God and had a reason for his belief. He was a widely known minister of Chilton county, and won many friends in this world and won a crown in Heaven. It was hard to give him up, but we know now he is out of his suffering.

Grandfather is survived by twelve children, thirty-three grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren, and a host of friends and relatives. He was laid to rest in Shiloh cemetery, Brand and the Masonic lodge in charge.

Oh! How we miss him! But what a relief to know that if we live right, we will meet him in peace.

—A granddaughter who loved him,

The very latest and newest vogue of curling hair at the ends in soft ringlets was the main topic. Also discussion on why it pays to get a good wave. Do not think that all permanents are alike. They're not. Don't think any permanent will do. It won't. It is well worth your while to select and demand a good method. Then you will be satisfied and everyone else will admire your hair and you can feel proud to tell where you got it and what kind of a wave you have.

making garments from cloth furnished by the Red Cross organization, which will be distributed to needy persons over the county.

Approximately fourteen hundred applications for work have been made to members of the relief organization, it was reported, however, the number is said to have materially decreased since more suitable farming weather has been ushered into Chilton county.

Efforts are being made to induce every applicant to arrange to plant a garden and in this way it is hoped that many persons who are now charges may be helped to become self-sustaining. Also Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, Child Welfare Worker, who is in charge of the distribution of relief in the county, has aided several persons in securing employment on farms.

DEVELOPMENT SHOALS

Valley authority—a corporation clothed with the power of government but possessed of the flexibility and initiative of a private enterprise.

"It should be charged with the broadest duty of planning for the proper use, conservation and development of the natural resources of the Tennessee River drainage basin and its adjoining territory for the general social and economic welfare of the nation.

"This authority should also be clothed with the necessary power to carry these plans into effect. Its duty should be the rehabilitation of the Muscle Shoals development and the coordination of it with the wider plan.

"Many hard lessons have taught us the human waste that results from lack of planning. Here and there a few wise cities and counties have looked ahead and planned. But our nation has 'just grown.'

"It is time to extend planning to a wider field, in this instance comprehending in one great project many states directly concerned with the basin of one of our greatest rivers.

"This in a true sense is a return to the spirit and vision of the pioneer. If we are successful here we can march on, step by step, in a like development of other great natural territorial units within our borders.

H. Reynolds has announced that he has called an election for June 20th, for the purpose of allowing the people to choose whom they shall have head of the county school system. B. Lawrence has served in this capacity for the past nine years.

It is required that the newly elected county superintendent of education, under the provisions of the Bill, shall take office July 1st, since the law necessitates a thirty days notice of an election.

Although there are said to be approximately a dozen men in the county who can qualify to hold this office, only two men have expressed publicly their intention of entering the race at the time of this writing. Mr. Lawrence made public announcement last week that he expects to make the race to succeed himself; and W. T. Bean, principal of the Thorsby Junior high school, and former county superintendent of education, declared that he had been petitioned by several of his friends to enter the race but had not fully made up his mind. Mr. Bean served in this capacity two terms, 1912 to 1918. He is a native of Chilton county and has been engaged in the teaching profession in the county for many years.

The Bill was passed through the Senate and became a law little more than two weeks ago, on the recommendation of Sen. J. G. Duncan and Rep. Perry M. Pitts. For sometime there has existed in the county, it is reported, a dissatisfaction with the former system of filling the office of superintendent of education by appointment by members of the board of education.

Salary to be paid this official was set by the new law between $1,800 and $2,400 per year—to be fixed by the county board of education.

Democratic leaders in the county declared that at present they were not ready to say whether the Democratic party will enter a candidate. However, it is understood, that there are a number of eligible Democrats in the county, and many persons believe that the party will endorse a candidate before the limited time of qualification expires.

The present election is for a short term, expiring in 1934, when the county superintendent of education will be elected on a ticket with other county officers.

SINGING AT COURT HOUSE NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be a union singing at the court house next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. All the societies of the county will cooperate, and visiting singers have a cordial invitation to attend. Both books will be used. Prof. O. L. Devaughn of the Central Society will have charge. Everybody make a special effort to get here by 1:30 ready to begin singing, as there will likely be a long list of directors. Quartets are invited.

With the Easter singing last Sunday at Poplar Springs, the season for all day singings began. There will be an all day singing somewhere not far off almost every Sunday between now and the Fourth of July. There will not be a singing anywhere in the county as we know of on the fifth Sunday in this month, but the Jefferson County Convention will meet in the Grotto Auditorium at Five Points, and quite a few of our singers anticipate attending. Walnut Creek will have their annual singing the second Sunday in May, and Providence will have theirs the fourth Sunday. Refuge may change theirs from the third Sunday in May on account of the county convention at Jemison on that day; however, announcement of that will be made later. Collins Chapel will have their big day again the third Sunday in June.

The societies will not be able to carry on much for the next two months, but then they will give way to all big events in the county.—T. E. Wyatt.

THOSE GIVEN RELIEF MUST ACCEPT WORK

Over 1,600 Applications For Work Made; 617 Get One Day's Work

In outlining the purposes and methods of relief work Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, local child welfare superintendent, declared that there has been some misapprehension in regard to this work in the county. Several reports have reached her, she declared, of certified relief workers refusing to accept other work because the wages offered were not as high as those paid by the relief organization.

"This will not be tolerated," Miss Austin averred, "if episodes of this nature are reported to me, I'll see that the worker either accepts work offered —or is excluded from our lists."

Relief work is not intended to offer competition to local employment, but is for the purpose of aiding persons to live who have no other means of obtaining food and clothing, she said. "I want the citizenship of the county to assist me in tracing down rumors of certified workers refusing to accept any type of employment," she continued.

Miss Austin also stated that every possible effort is being made to get every applicant for relief work to plant a garden. Committees have been appointed in each community to assist in carrying out this requirement, she said. A canning program is being planned for the summer months with the purpose in view of placing as many as possible on a self-sustaining basis by fall.

One thousand and forty-two dollars were paid for work on the county roads by this organization during last week. More than 1,600 applications for work have been received, it was stated, and 617 received at least one day's work last week.

Chevrolet Economy Contest Is Closed

Optimism from the word go! That's the man who drives the new Master Six Chevrolet, according to Polk Bros., local dealers.

And he has a right to be optimistic—after seeing the results last week of Polk Bros. Economy Test, in which more than sixty test drives were made —and not a single contestant got less than twenty-five miles per gallon of gas.

More than one-third of the contestants chalked a record of little better than thirty miles. Curtis Hurtt and Roy L. Downs took the high prizes offered by Polk Bros. to the winning contestant, with a record-breaking mark of 32.5 and 32.4 miles, respectively.

Each contestant was required to drive over a requisite piece of road, the motor of the car was required to keep running, but otherwise any skill possessed by the driver was legitimate. Above sixty persons entered the contest and in no case was less than twenty-five miles realized from a gallon of gas, according to W. M. Polk, who declared the contest was in connection with a national mileage test of the New Master Six Chevrolet.

Ambitious Reporter Finds Figures Are Finicky Facts On Strawberries Here

Maybe you think you've worked for hard taskmasters—

But have you ever been a so-called newspaper reporter—and earned your bread and butter by taking orders from one o' these ginks called editors—(we mean to their face)—well, if you haven't—just take down your sign.

Why the editor gave this writer this little assignment the other day: Says he: "Find out how many strawberries wil be shipped out of Chilton county this year—and give me a story on it."

The writer, to show his efficency, bustled forward wth the announcement that "the crop has been estimated at two hundred and seventy-five cars."

"Oh, I don't mean how many cars—I mean how many berries—single berries. Let's have a little originality," was the somewhat stunning come-back.

There you are—

But trained in the school that recognizes no failure, we've made a brave effort and brought you, dear reader, after many questions and much computation the story.

The average pint cup holds about seventy-six berries—considering that there are 315 crates to the car—twenty-four quarts to the crate (forty-eight pints)—thus it is found that each crate contains 3,696 berries. Multiplying this number by 315 cartes, we find 1,164,240 berries to the car—and computing this by the number of cars—it is found that Chilton county expects to market 320,166,000 strawberries during this season.

There you are, Mr. Editor!

Of course it was a matter of computation—sticklers for exactness and others who have to be shown—may count them.

EXTRA SESSION CIRCUIT COURT ON THIS WEEK

Civil And Criminal Cases Disposed Of By Judge Tate This Week

A three-days session of non-jury Circuit Court got underway in Clanton, Monday morning, with Judge F. Loyd Tate presiding. More than seventy-five cases were scheduled for trial during this session.

Monday was devoted to the disposition of civil suits and Tuesday and Wednesday were spent in the trial of criminal cases. The criminal offenses ranged from violation of the prohibition laws to petit larceny.

Because of several major cases coming up for trial during the recent session of Circuit Court, it was found necessary, according to Judge Tate, to hold a special session of non-jury court in an effort to relieve the congested condition of the docket, which dates back to forced adjournment of the 1932 Spring session, because of the tornado that swept Chilton county March 21, 1932. Since that time the docket has been congested.

Roosevelt and 25 Per Cent

When Franklin D. Roosevelt announced during the campaign that if elected he would cut 25 per cent from the government's operating budget he was greeted by a loud chorus of derision. Long articles were written to prove that the job was simply impossible. His foes laughed at him; his friends uneasily wished that he would think before he spoke.

To date Mr. Roosevelt has been president a little more than a month; and the 25 per cent reduction that he promised has been made, and a little margin to spare.

To make it, of course, he had to tread heavily on some very sensitive toes and beat down influential opposition in his own party. But he didn't seem to mind doing it; and today his countrymen are confronted by the novel and agreeable sight of a president who believes that a campaign promise means just exactly what it says.

We Might As Well Use It

Since we have this money from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it seems to the News that we should make the best of it, using it to the best advantage for the future as well as the present.

During the past several years, there has been spent on the roads in Chilton County a sum of money that would astonish one familiar with good road building. The sum is so large, so astonishing, that the people in the rural sections of this county cannot imagine that much money being spent on their roads. Nevertheless, it has been done.

And still more of its is being spent, but is giving the unemployed some work. The News understands that these funds from the R. F. C. can be used for public improvements in towns as well as in the county and believes that our city officials would do well to get busy on this matter and put some men to work cleaning out alleys, ditches, cutting weeds and grass, and beautifying our town in general. We also understand that those in charge of this work are ready to cooperate with the officials.

While we realize that in order to save money and pay some debts, the town might get a little ragged around the edges, we can see no reason why this R. F. C. money should not be used to some extent in the city limits.

If You Drive A Car --- Read This

It would be a good thing if all automobile drivers were required to learn a little lesson concerning the potential destructive power of a moving car, and the great distances required to stop.

A car moving at the slow speed of twenty miles an hour requires 20 feet to stop under the best of circumstances after 4-wheel brakes are applied—and with the average driver, it will have moved 14½ feet before he is able to apply the brakes. At 30 miles an hour, it will go 22 feet before he applies the brakes, and another 45 feet will be required to bring it to a stop. If it is moving 40 miles an hour, the brakes will not take hold until the car has gone 29 feet, and 80 feet more will be covered before the car is stopped. At extremely high speeds these distances are increased many times.

How would you like to be in an automobile that has just leaped from a precipice one hundred or more feet high? You would be just as safe (at least until you hit the rocks below) as you are rolling along the highways mile after mile at customary road speeds. An automobile traveling 40 miles an hour has the same capacity for inflicting damage, or the same smash as it would have from a straight drop through the air 54 feet—and going 60 miles per hour, as if it were dropped 120 feet.

The automobile is one of the most useful, and one of the most potentially dangerous, of human inventions. Its safe operation requires constant caution, knowledge and regard for the rights of others. Because a percentage of drivers have lacked those qualities the highways of America see the unnecessary deaths of more than 30,000 people annually. Last year a slight improvement was registered—this year we can do a great deal more if we make the effort. It is a problem that is up to the individual driver, and its solution is in his hands.

The Farm Board will die officially on May 27th, unless there is some unexpected change in the attitude of Congress. Death-knell was the signing of the President's farm credit reorganization order. The Board started in June, 1929, with $500,000,000 of government money called a revolving fund. Its speculations in farm commodities attracted international notice. Two-thirds or more of the original fund has been lost.

The Board will be replaced by a different kind of government farm relief body. It is held doubtful, however, if the Administration's farm bill will apply extensively to 1933 crops, due to delay in its becoming law. The bill is frankly an experiment, and if it does not succeed it is promised the plan will be abandoned and another tried.

The index of wholesale prices, which has been declining steadily for months, recently made its first sustained rise. Farm products have shown an improved trend. An upturn in car loading has appeared. There is a substantial increased demand for such household appliances as washing machines, of which sales in February were the best in five months.

Indications toward the end of March were that commercial failures would be the lowest for that month since 1925 or 1926.

"ROUND TOWN"

---by Doug

Is he, or is he ain't? That is the question that is beginning to create some interest round town, or something. Having seen several newspapers refer to President Roosevelt as the 32nd President, I took exception to it, saying that he is the 31st President of the United States. But, no being so sure about the matter and to give another columnist, The Man In The Moon, a chance for voice in settling the argument, I called on him. While he didn't come forth in his usual cock-sure manner and state I was wrong, it was intimated that Roosevelt is the 32nd President, which I contend is wrong.

Now, another question rises up from this discussion. When a man serves two terms as President, is he two Presidents? In attempting to show me that Roosevelt is the 32nd President, another fellow sufferer, published a list of Presidents and had the name of Grover Cleveland down twice.

All right. So much for that and that. Here's my undisputed proof that I am right, technically, scientifically, politically and otherwise correct, in saying that Roosevelt is the 31st President. On one side of the Official Inaugural Medal of Roosevelt, which is three inches in diameter, appears the likeness of Roosevelt, with these words, "Franklin Delano Roosevelt—31st President of The United States."

This medal, designed by Paul Manship, and issued by the Official Inaugural Committee should be correct in every detail, and who are we, to question it? Will the Moon Man in his questionable and doubtful mood, be content to acknowledge my correctness in this?

I still say that if anyone will get one picture of each of the Presidents of The United States, he will not have but 31 pictures. Try it sometime.

That reminds me of the question—if a Barred Plymouth Rock hen lays an egg two inches in diameter, after consuming six grains of corn, two spoonsful of water, and cackling for three minutes, how long will it take a ship to sail around the world.

Got some more trades for you folks this week. Here they are:

Mr. W. B. Cox, well known in these parts, and who lives on Route 2, says he still has that good milch cow and a good riding cultivator he wants to swap for most anything he can use. He also says he has a disc harrow to trade for something. And a seven-jewel Elgin watch he will trade for a watch in good condition.

Away out on Lawley, Ala., Route One comes a letter from our friend E. B. Smith, who says he has a two-horse power International engine he would like to trade for a good second-hand car with starter and battery. He says the engine is almost new, but has a broken pump lever.

Folks, in the future, I want to ask you to please address your letters to this column, in care of the News. The Ed has been receiving some of the letters to me, and it would be much more convenient for both of us if you will just send them to this column.

Mr. W. A. Candler, Jr., who lives on Clanton, Route Seven, writes that he has 20 or 30 thousand feet of rough lumber, all sizes and lengths, he wants to trade for any kind of produce. Mr. Candler lives only one mile west of Clanton.

Have any of you who put trades in this column received any response? I'd like to know about it if you have made any trades.

And can Lloyd Howard swing a wicked accordion? You're asking me. And I'll say he can. Was peeping through the door at the Kiwanis meeting last week, and Lloyd was giving those Kiwanians something to tell their grandchildren about.

I saw Charley Petersen making a talk at the Kiwanis meeting but I couldn't hear what he was saying, but judging from the expressions on the faces of those in the meeting, they were enjoying his talk.

Did you ever hear of Erskine Ramsey? He's the fellow up in Birmingham who gives those big, free-hearted birthday parties, and is always contributing generously to good causes. I expect he's one of the wealthiest men in Birmingham. Anyway, he's a good sport and a dandy horse-shoe pitcher, so say Alex Callen and J. L. Teel.

Erskine, Alex and J. L. enjoyed a game of horse shoes in Clanton recently, and Erskine kind of showed up our boys a bit in throwing the mules shoe. Mr. Ramsey stopped his automobile, or rather had his chauffeur to stop it, in Clanton the other day, and in fun, Alex invited him to join them in the game. J. L., not knowing just who Erskine Ramsey is, was having the time of his life calling him "Uncle Ramsey."

The Economy Contest put on by Polk Bros., to see who could drive one of the new Chevrolets the most miles on a gallon of gasoline, sure stirred up the interest round town. It ended Saturday, and my what mileage they got on a gallon. Over thirty miles per gallon. Can you imagine that?

And you folks in Clanton didn't know you had a regular fiction writer in town, did you. Well, I didn't either but Vernie Teel, chief word-slinger and associate editor of C. G. N., will soon have his first story published, so I understand. Vernie, being the mild sort of fellow he is, don't go blowing his own horn, but I'm blowing it for him. His story "Honeymoon Begins" is a wow, and will soon be put in print. If possible, I'm going to try to get Vernie and the Ed to publish it in the News after the paper that bought it, gets through.

And the sales tax was killed by the Legislators last Friday night, the Senate rejected beer, and it is rumored that another special session of the Legislature is certain. If these special sessions keep up, it won't be long until the Representatives and Senators will have to be working like the school teachers are. And they broke the big clock down there Friday night. Speaking of "killing time" — they slaughtered the clock. You voters are going to have the pleasure of voting for or against an income tax.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

While I was a lad on the farm we had a neighbor who owned a mischievous cow. When our corn was about as high as the fence this old cow would come up to our fence and hop over into our field and play havoc with the corn. By assignment I became the watcher of the cow. I observed that she would come up to the fence and scrutinize it carefully. If it was high and well built she would walk around on the outside until she came to a low, weak place in the fence and then she would hop over. I would get after her with dogs and rocks and she would run back to the same place and hop over. She would not attempt the places where the fence was high and well built. She hunted out the low, weak places and there is where she entered to do her mischief. That is just like the devil in his efforts to enter the human heart. He does not try to enter where we have will power and resistance, but he sneaks around and locates the weak spots in our character and there is where he hops over to do his mischievous work. Better build high character fences all around the soul if you want to keep the devil on the outside.

Two automobiles ran together with a terrific crash. One of the occupants of one of the cars was badly hurt. No bones were broken, but he suffered the pain that it produced and stoutly refused to seek the skill of a physician. In a few days the bruise developed into something serious and then all the skill of many physicians could not save his life. In a crash he received a hurt that could have been healed if he had used the proper precaution. I have seen many human crashes. Neighbors and friends would run together and there would be the bruising of the heart and of the feelings. Many refuse the treatment of the Great Physician and they carry malice and hatred in the heart. Carrying these fatal diseases, something serious develops. "I got my feelings hurt, and I am out of that," says many a foolish one. Better have your feelings treated.

I saw a boy out trying to fly a kite. The wind was not blowing in sufficient force to lift his kite and the boy grew weary. Just then the wind seemed to sense the discomfort of the boy and came down with a hard blow and the kite went into the sky. As the boy tugged at the string he smiled and said, "Thank you, good wind, you helped me to fly my kite." The wind smiled back by holding his kite far above the ground. Passing on I saw a middle aged man as he hurried along the side walk. A gust of wind took his hat and hurled it many yards down the street. The man chased his hat with disgust and cursed the wind every time his foot touched the ground. The blowing wind made the boy happy, but it made the man mad. What strange creatures we mortals are. The things that make some of us happy, make the rest of us mad. What pleases one, irritates another. If you were God and had to deal with folks, you would soon find out how hard it was to please everybody.

Long ago I observed that the sparrow hawk had some peculiar ideas. The parent birds built their nest in the trunk of a tree and after many days of waiting, there wee little sparrow hawks in the nest. It was then that the peculiar quality of the birds came into light. I noted that the mother hawk would sit near the nest, while the father hawk would go away in search of food. When he would return with a nice little bird or rat, he would not carry the food to the little ones, but he would deliver it to the mother. She would take the luncheon to the nest and then tear it to pieces, giving to each bird its portion of the rations. The word, "Mother" in the original means to "Meter-Out" and the little sparrow hawk seems to have given it its true meaning. We all know that many of these old human male birds can not be trusted to look after the little birds in our home nest. The old bird goes out and brings in the spoils, but it takes a mother to divide and give to each little one its portion. God bless our mothers, they are our "Meter-Outs" in this life.

REAL FARM RELIEF

Electricity is a practical kind of "farm relief" that makes every dollar do the work of two or three on places where current has been introduced.

Tests reveal that the farmer and his family save three months yearly by turning four farm tasks over to electricity, according to the American Washing Machine Manufacturers association. "Washing clothes by old methods requires more than 1½ months of eight hour days a year," it says. "Pumping and carrying water, turning the cream separator and filling and cleaning kerosene lamps each consumes thirty eight-hour days a year."

Passing to the electrical age on the farm does more than give the farmer convenient cheap power for his tasks. It brings the home a higher standard of living by giving the famly an abundance of clean clothes at all tmes, makes good appearance a matter of easy accomplishment.

"Eighty-five per cent of the farms still lack electrical power. Of course many of these enjoy the benefits of such advantages as gas engine-operated washers. To operate the farms the power of 16,000,000,000 horses is used. Animals furnish 61 per cent, tractors 16 per cent, motor trucks 4 per cent, stationary engines 12½ percent, windmills 1 percent, electricity 5 per cent. Electricity will supplant much of this horse-power. Better yet, it will substitute for woman and man power."

NEWSPAPER FACTS

Some interesting facts concernin newspapers and advertising are contained in a new book by Fred J. Haskin, veteran syndicator of information from which the following are condensed:

Egyptians used advertising 4,000 years ago. Most early advertising was pictorial in character. The first newspaper advertising is said to have appeared in Germany in 1591.

It is estimated that about a billion and a half dollars are spent annually for all kinds of advertising in the United States. More than 360 American daily newspapers are equipped to print advertisements in color.

The fastest modern newspaper presses can turn out about 34,000 24-page papers an hour, and a somewhat larger number of 12-page or 16-page papers.

The first news agency in the modern sense is believed to have been that organized by Charles Havas of Paris in 1835. In 1840 he established a news service between Paris, London and Brussels, using carrier pigeons.

James Gordon Bennett began the publication of the first review of financial news in the New York Herald i 1835.

Liver Sufferers Amazed At Results Obtained From Remarkable New Treatment

Thousands Reporting Sargon Soft Mass Pills Have Brought Them Lasting Relief From Constipation—Sour Stomach—Sick Headaches — Gas—Bad Breath—Coated Tongue—Nervousness and Dizzy Spells After Everything Else Had Failed.

If Your Liver Is Not Performing Its Proper Functions—Sickness — Suffering and Ill Health Are the Inevitable Result.

Science Has Proved That Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, Laxative Pills, Herb Teas or Extracts Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest—it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and natural in their action there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them. ..

Facts...about our ELECTRIC RATES

ALABAMA householders are now paying considerably LESS THAN HALF as much for electricity today as they did 20 years ago, and more than ONE THIRD LESS THAN THEY PAID only six years ago. It Is Not Luck

It is the concensus of opinion that Archie Hall is the champion cotton raiser of the community. One man said to me the other day that ole Archie is just lucky. He lucks out over us every year. "Now remember," I said to him, 'Success does not depend upon empty dreams, but upon action, not upon luck, but pluck. So then if Archie Hall is leading each year it must be pluck." The secret of it all is based on the following: Thorough preparation of seed bed, seed selection, securing adequate stands and efficient cultivation. Drop around to see Archie Hall, maybe you will learn something.

Busiest Week

Last week was the busiest of all other weeks for shop work. There were farmers coming every day during the entire week. The following persons came in for work: Felton Pierson, Robert Williams, A. T. Holifield, G. Grant Holifield, Taft Spence, Julian Wilson, Lee Clerkley, Otho McKinney, Alvin Bryant, Jude Wilson, Hubbard Wilson, Rogers Bryant, Wilson Bryant, an dothers. Such tools and implements as colters, scrapes, scooters, dog irons, turners, pressing irons, hand saws, chairs, tanks, scooter stocks, etc. were brought in for repair.

We feel that it is through this medium that our shop serves the community. Our school owes to every boy and girl the training that will enable them to do their work, daily, with skill and satisfaction. When they are thus equipped they will be able to meet the chances of life with confidence in their own ability to do work for the community in which they live. To be able to do one's work with skill and satisfaction makes work interesting and stimulating.

He Is Unknown

He lives and dies a life of service for the other fellow. He lives in your community and mine. He dwells from the foothills of the Appalachians to the rugged crest of the Rockies. This unknown man does not amount to very much. He is seldom published in the papers. Few public speeches are made and few flags are heralded for him. He lives a life of medocracy. Monuments are erected, but not for him. He is too insignificant. He just feeds and clothes the world. He is a farmer.

Preserving Eggs Simple Process

Auburn, Ala.—Low prices and a liberal supply of eggs causes many farm people and others to preserve eggs in the spring for home use during the fall and winter.

This can be done by using waterglass or lime water, according to Prof. G.A. Trollope, head of the poultry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

He said that eggs preserved in waterglass will keep well for nine or ten months and that preserved eggs are especially useful in cooking and may also be eaten in place of fresh eggs.

Waterglass may be bought at drug stores and a mixture of 1½ quarts of the waterglass solution to 15 quarts of boiled water should be used. Stone jars or galvanized cans with tight-fitting lids make the best containers for preserving eggs

Lime water for preserving eggs can be made by dissolving 3 pounds of either unslacked or hydrated lime in 5 gallons of boiled water. Allow the lime to settle and then use the clear liquid for preserving the eggs. A pound of salt added to the lime will help.

"In preserving eggs," Prof. Trollope said, "first clean the container thoroughly, then put in clean fresh infertile eggs and pour in the preserving fluid until the solution stands about two inches deep over the top layer of eggs. Cover the container to prevent evaporation and put in a cool place where it will not be disturbed."

LOSS OF THE AKRON

Again the highest modern engineering skill has been set at naught by the elements, resulting in the loss of the world's greatest airship, the Akron, with a loss of 73 lives, only three of those on board being saved. This marks the most disastrous tragedy in the history of aeronautics.

The Akron's fate recalls that of three other American dirigibles—the ZR-2, the Roma, and the Shenandoah

The ZR-2, built in England for the American Navy, buckled and exploded over Hull, England, on August 25, 1921, causing the death of 62 of the 66 men aboard, 17 of whom were Americans, the nucleus of a crew sent to bring the ship to the United States

The Roma, built in Italy for the United States Army, went out of control at Hampton Roads and struck electric wires which broke, setting fire to the airship, causing the death of 33 out of a crew of 46, on February 25, 1922

The Shenandoah broke in three pieces and fell to earth during a storm over Noble county, Ohio, on September 3, 1925, killing 14 out of 41 on board, and seriously injuring two others

At present the United States Navy has two large dirigibles, the Los Angeles, temporarily out of commission as an economy measure, and the Macon, sister ship of the Akron, just completed. In the light of what has happened to nearly every dirigible sooner or later, ye may well ask whether they are worth while.

More than 100 German dirigibles were destroyed during the war without inflicting any serious damage upon their enemies. The allies lost a dozen or more, practically all they ever had. Of all the large dirigibles built by various countries since the war, only two of three remain, the rest having met with disaster.

The whole history of dirigibles, like that of submarines, is one of wasted money and wasted lives. The world would perhaps be better off if neither of these death-traps had ever been invented.

Five women, who got to pulling hair after their dogs fought at Broadway and 72nd street in New York City, had to be separated by two policemen.

News from Thorsby

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

Many Thorsby people were sorry to learn of the death of Mr. D. M. Paxson last week. Mr. and Mrs. Paxson had been esteemed residents of Thorsby for about thirteen years until last June, when they moved to Gainsville, Ga., to make their home with a daughter and granddaughter. Mr. Paxson was nearly 81 years of age, having been born in Henry County, Ohio, April 23, 1852. He and his wife were married in August, 1872, and so had spent more than sixty years of married life together.

The greater part of their life was spent in Alabama, Mr. Paxson being a contractor and builder. He has been responsible for large contracts in different parts of the state and had lived in Mobile, Tallassee and came here from Gorgas in 1919, to spend their declining years.

Mr. Paxson leaves two daughters, Mrs. Clen Hall in Gainsville, Ga., and Mrs. Laird, of Hollywood, Calif. He leaves also three granddaughters. Their friends will recall the tragic death of a granddaughter, Peggy Davis, in France a few years ago.

Mr. Paxson's strength had been gradually failing for some months and he passed away very peacefully last Thursday morning, April 13. The Christian Life Conference that was held last week end at Thorsby Institute and the Congregational church, was a huge success.

On Friday night the Helen Keller Literary Society, under the direction of Miss Davison and Miss Phillips, gave a very beautiful Easter pageant called "Dawning." About fifty boys and girls took part.

The week end Christian Life Conference for Young People was well attended. This was in charge of Miss Davison who was assisted by the young people and teachers of Thorsby Institute. Lois Thompson was chairman of the Conference and Ruth Primm, Secretary. Various addresses were heard. Among the speakers were Dean J. C. Rogers of Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., Rev. A. R. VanCleve of Southern Union College, Wadley, Ala., Dr. Steelman of Alabama College, Montevallo, Ala., and Rev. Don West, a mountain poet. At the banquet Saturday 120 were in attendance. This was in the Dining Hall. The color scheme was pink and green. The place cards were in the shape of rabbits. The banquet was prepared by the Dormitory girls under the direction of Miss Leech. Everything was very appetizing. There were singing and cheers during the banquet. At the close, toasts were given by several young people. After discussions in the afternoon there was an Easter egg hunt followed by a picnic supper. Saturday night at the Dining Hall for an hour there was a social for which games had been planned. After this Dean Rogers spoke in the auditorium and the Mountain Creek representation gave a short play having service as the theme.

Sunday morning an Easter sunrise service was held, followed by an outdoor breakfast. Easter carols were sung after this at various homes. Rev. A. R. VanCleve was the preacher at the morning service. In the afternoon the Southern Union College group had charge of the first part of the service, then the Piedmont College group took charge under Miss Hazel Maddox. Miss Laura Rogers, daughter of Dean Rogers, played a beautiful solo on the violin. Miss Maddox gave a short talk and the group gave a dramatization that brought out the idea that sacrifice and service are the most important things in life. The Communion service was in charge of Rev. F. P. Ensminger, D. D., of Demorest, Ga. It was one of the best conferences held at Thorsby. Phares Raybon was elected chairman for next year, Edith Foss, secretary, and Christine Dopson, treasurer. Representatives from six different places attended the C. L. C. Below is given an account of the trip to the cotton mill made by the Chemistry Class under the direction of Mr. J. B. Varnell.

"The very first steps in making cloth out of cotton is to have the cotton. This cotton is bought or brought to the mill and stored in warehouses. They usually have a good supply on hand and this is a good grade, mostly strict middling with a staple of fifteen-sixteenths to more than an inch.

"The cleaning room is next. This is where the cotton is brought into in ten-bale lots. They are untied and laid near the feeding end of the cleaner. When all of the bales are put in and mixed together they have a wide assortment to pick from thus assuring them a fair grade of cotton.

"After they go through the cleaning process the cotton is then blown from the cleaning room to the feeding and rolling room through a large pipe. After reaching this room it is in a knotty form. The cotton is fed into one of the machines by hand and it goes through two machines where it is beaten and at last it is rolled, like cloth, on a large spool. The spool of raw cotton is then weighed and graded again. Then it is ready for the spinning room.

"The rolls of cotton are brought into the spinning room and are put on the machines where they begin their first journey on the way to thread. The rolls slowly unwind and the cotton is drawn through one side of the machine that contains fine wire-like teeth for the purpose of tearing apart the rolled cotton. tI comes out on the other side of the machine in the form of a spidery web and goes into a small hole about one inch in diameter, then it goes thru another twisting concern and out of that into a long cylinder-like container. From there it is carried to the next machine and fed through again and untwisted. This process is carried on through the plant until the desired size of thread is obtained. The thread can be twisted very small. When the thread is as small as desired it is taken off the machines in the form of a bobbin and put in chutes according to size. These chutes go right down into the preparing room.

"The bobbins are taken out in the preparing room and put on a machine which winds this thread from the bobbin to a large spool which will hold about twenty thousand feet. These spools are then carried to a rack and put on it. The rack will hold from four hundred and fifty to around five hundred. These spools are wound on a large drum or spool which is about a yard wide. This thread is wound straight and around eighteen thousand feet are wound on it. This large drum of thread is then put on a machine and the threads are coated with a lardy substance and corn starch. After this has dried it is brushed by hand and cleaned. The reason of this coating is to increase the durability of it. Another machine in that department is a machine for making rope which is used in the mill. After the thread is prepared it is then ready for spinning or the weaving.

"The first step in weaving is putting the thread on the weaving machine, after this is done the bobbins are loaded and it is ready for weaving. The way the designs are changed is by a small chain with pegs in it. These pegs are moved to change the pattern. These machines all run by automatic control. The bobbin is knocked back and forth between the thread and it is woven. It one thread breaks in this weaving the machine automatically stops until the thread is found and retied. The cloth is wound on a roller and when a certain amount is reached it is taken off and is ready for the finishing room.

"The cloth is first carried into the finishing room and is re-rolled on a large spool. After that the cloth is tested and assorted according to grades and designs. Then the cloth is put in a machine and folded. Then the cloth is weighed and packed ready for shipment.

The water wheel, an overshot one, is four feet in diameter, with eleven boxes each with the capacity of four gallons, water developing enough power to run a good size generator. The wheel is furnished the supply of water by a 30-foot race 6x6. This is just the beginning of the development of the little stream that makes its path across Mr. Waldrop's farm. WHAT IS HAPPENING TO YOU?

IF you are among those who are trying to get along without telephone service, a number of things are likely happening that may directly influence the welfare of yourself and family.

You are probably missing the pleasant, informal gatherings that are arranged by telephone. Or, if there are children in the home, they no doubt feel cut off from the happy contacts that the telephone affords.

Being without a telephone also deprives you of the means of calling the doctor quickly, or getting help in case of fire or other emergencies. In short, the home without a telephone today is isolated.

The cost is less than ten cents a day. Any telephone employe will explain the party line and other classes of service.

Fifth Grade Pupils Of Grammar School Write Poems In Their Study Of Spring

The Fifth Grade Class of Clanton Grammar School,. with Mrs. Curry Thomas as teacher, has recently made an interesting study of Spring. So real has been the atmosphere created that even though in the class room, these wide - awake youngsters could almost feel the cool breezes rippling over budding trees and blooming flowers, and hear the joyous songs of birds. Poetry so perfectly portrays the spirit of Spring that these students decided to express themselves with short pieces of verse. We carry the following from their pens:

Spring in the Woods
By Kenneth Thompson

The violets are bright and right over here
The trees and birds rustle and cheer
Away out in the woods.
The bushes and the flowers
Are watered by spring showers
Awaya out in the woods.

In the Spring the woods are happy,
In the valleys they are sappy
Away out in the woods.
The red bird, robin and the wren
Like to go and eat with the hens
Away out in the woods.

When you go down around the brook
All the fairies like to look
Away out in the woods.
They fly about and pull the leaves,
They pull the acorns with perfect ease
Away out in the woods.

Spring
By Blanche Timmerman

Out in the woods where the grass is green,
Out to some grand old beautiful scene
Out to see many a pretty thing,
That where I'd like to go in the Spring.

Out where all the berries grow,
Out where all the roamers go,
Out to see many a pretty thing,
That's where I'd like to go in the Spring.

Out where all the vines are growing,
Out where all the birds are soaring,
Out to see many a pretty thing,
That's where I'd like to go in the Spring.

Out where clever, but dumb little scouts
Go slipping and sliding and tumbling about,
Out to see many a pretty thing,
That's where I'd like to go in the Spring.

Spring
By Grace Hicks Ezell

The melody of Spring is beautiful.
Ah, who would mind being dutiful
With the harmony of birds and bees
And the waving of majestic trees?
Oh, glady we all our gifts will bring
To thee, beautiful, joyous Spring.

O Spring, we lift our voices high
To sing thy praises to the sky
So all shall know that God has made
The flowers and the mossy glade.

Spring
By Billy Maddox

Oh, how the birds sing!
How they circle in a ring!
How the blossoms
Look like big 'possums!

Oh, how the sun is shining so bright!
And how the moon shines at night!
Down by the old brook
Where a fish is on the hook.

Spring

Now the grass is turning green
And the dear old earth is a pretty scene.
All about us flowers grow
While we sit thinking in a row.

Spring
By Elaine Burdette

Out in the woods
The cools brooks flow,
Out in the woods
The green trees grow.

Up in the trees
The little birds sing
Because they know
It now is Spring.

Spring Time
By Jimmie Wyatt

Said the violet, "Spring is here,
I do not fear."
Said the brook, "I am a funny thing,
For now I want to sing."
Said the honeysuckle, "I am bright,
And I present a pretty sight."
Said the dogwood, "Some people are cruel,
But I am like a little jewel."
Then said the sweetpea, "I am small,
But I heard Spring call."

Spring
By Thomas Pyron

I sat by a brook one spring-like day
And watched the squirrels come out to play.
The violets were purple, the skies were blue.
We scared the robins, and away they flew.

The trees were green-as green could be.
The woodland creatures were happy and free.
"'Tis spring time now," I said, " I know."
Spring is our friend, and not our foe.

Spring Time
By Lamurle DeLoach

Out in the woods
The trees are green,
And the birds are seen
In their nests of green.

Out in the woods
And down by a brook,
I'd like to stroll
With a good story book.

Spring
By Sara Elizabeth Venable

Spring brings the green trees
And the gentle breeze,
The birds bright feather
And the nice warm weather.

It brings the spring showers
And the sweet flowers.
The butterflies fly
Underneath the blue sky.

The children's faces gleam
With the light of a sunbeam.
They laugh and shout
And jump about.

FACE THE FUTURE UNAFRAID

ASK YOUR LIFE INSURANCE MAN HOW YOU AND YOUR FAMILY CAN BE FINANCIALLY INDEPENDENT

Within the next twenty years, from three to four of the business earthquakes we call depressions will come and destroy a great part of all the savings that have been built up.

Common Sense Says "Yes"

If the present depression caught you with a pocket full of worthless investments, what is the common sense thing to do now? Place your future savings in the one sure, safe, unfailing place — LIFE INSURANCE.

From every five to seven years, the dollars we have saved are put to risk. How great the risk is evidenced by the plight of thousands of men today who have found the savings of a lifetime swept away by forces beyond their control.

Spring
By Lewis Clifford Popwell

The birds are chirping,
The trees are green,
The brook is rippling,
Wild flowers are seen.

The dogwood is blooming
So wildly for me,
Gay birdies are singing
In the old cherry tree.

Spring

Down in the brook
The trout are swimming.
The fisherman, taking his hook,
His daily work is beginning.

The little squirrels in the tree
Are dropping acorns down on me,
While birdies in the cherry tree
Are singing pretty songs to me.

Spring
By Annie Cordelia Smith

The roses are blooming,
The birdies are cooing,
The brooks are bubbling,
The flowers are cuddling,
Into the grass beside the brook,
Where a little girl sits with her book.

It's time for us to go swim,
In the pond by the elm.
Down the sliding board,
Off the diving board,
We shout with joy and glee,
Feeling happy, gay and free.

Spring
By Kinyon Vinson

Here are the trees
The birds and the bees
Singing and growing
And smiling at me.

Here comes the robin
Singing to me.
I was sick and blue
But now I'm as happy as he.

Who remembers 'way back when everybody was excited about Technocracy?

IN MEMORY OF MRS. CELIA A. BAKER

On Friday morning, April 7th, th death angel visited the home of Mr. L. L. Lauderdale and bore her mother loving spirit from this sinful world t the Great Beyond.

She was ill two weeks and two day but all was done for her that loving friends and doctors could do. She wa 76 years old and had been a faithful member of the Santuck Baptist church since early childhood. She bore her suffering and pain with the same patience and kindness that she always met the trials and hardships of her past life. She always lived a Christian life before her children and grandchildren, friends and relatives, teaching them to live a Christian life, so that when they came to leave the world they too could say, they were perfectly ready to go and wanted to die, as she told us for several days before she passed away We hated so badly to give her up, but we know that our loss is heaven's gain and may God help each of us to live as she taught us to and be able to meet her again some day.

We miss her, Oh! we miss her! But the Lord knoweth all things best and carried her home to live with Him in that dear land of the blest, where there is no pain or sorrow or grief any more No fear and we should all live to meet her in that home sweet home up there We all loved her dearly, but Jesus love her best and called her to that happy home where she forevermore shall rest

She was good and kind to everyone until her life on earth was done and we should all be happy to know that crown of righteousness she has wo

Weep not, dear children and relatives, for she is safe at home, at rest with Jesus in His keeping. She is not dea but only sleeping.

She leaves to mourn her loss fiv children, three sons, W. C. Baker, Wetumpka; J. A. Baker, Deatsvill Claudie Baker, Tallassee; two daughters, Mrs. W. C. Jones, Wetumpka Mrs. L. L. Lauderdale, Clanton; twenty-four grandchildren; twelve great-grandchildren; two sisters; one brother, and a host of friends and relatives.

She was laid to rest April 8th in Sheppard cemetery. The pallbearers were her grandsons, as follows: A. C. Jones Herbert Jones, Odo Baker, Jodie Le Baker, Bascom Baker and Bill Baker Rev. Ivey of Wetumpka officiated, wit Spigener in charge.

WHY BE A MEMBER OF THE CHURCH?

The Lord's people are the Lord's church (1 Cor. 3:7; 2 Cor. 6:16). His church is His body (Eph. 1:22-23). There is one body (Eph. 4:4). This one body is the bride of Christ (Eph. 5:23). He will save His body His bride (Eph 5:23). All of God's people constitute this body and do His will (Matt. 7:21). Christ is the Head over all things to His church (Eph. 1:22-23). God commands that all things be done in the name of Christ (Col. 3:17). There is no other to save us (Acts 4:12). The whole family in heaven and in earth is named of Him (Eph. 3:15).

There is one spirit (Eph. 4:3-4). This spirit dwells in His church, His body (1 Cor. 6:19); Eph. 2:22). We are commanded to keep the unity of the spirit (Eph. 4:3), and not be divided (1 Cor. 1:10; Rom. 16:17-18).

Large Crowd Expected To Attend Play At The High School Tomorrow Night

Whoopee! Here is what we have been waiting for a long time. A play full of vim, vigor, pep and humor, spiced by romance and suspense. Tomorrow night, Friday, the Senior Two Class of the Chilton County High School will present for Clanton's immense enjoyment the three act play of snappy college life, "Girl Shy". And listen, folks, between acts there will be several vaudeville entertainments which are shows within themselves. A black faced dialogue "Two Coons In A Wreck," popular piano solos, popular songs, accordion music by that master of accordion players, Lloyd Howard, of Thorsby, and readings are to be offered to those who come to the high school Friday night, April 21st. But the biggest surprise of all is the admission, only 15 and 25 cents. Anthony Arsdale, John Ezell, the father of Tom Arsdale, the girl shy boy, played by Joe Moore, is coming to visit his son and is bringing Sylvia, the home town girl, Pauline Plyler, with him. Tom doesn't want to marry this girl so Oke Stimson, Tom's pal, and the one who is not girl shy, Dan Smith, gets Tom to pretend that he is engaged to another girl. Babs Sanford, a college flirt. Marilyn Hardy is chosen to be the girl. It turns out that Babs is trying to snag Tom anyway. Tom's father objects and you should see what happens. Humor is supplied by Aunt Caroline, who trys to be young, Roberta Cochran, and Dean Marlowe, her admirer, Grady Reynolds, Jr. And then the negro wash lady, Helen Moore, will burst your sides with laughter. If she doesn't Alfred Tennyson Murgatoyd, the college poet and pest, will.

In other words, to miss this play is to spoil the rest of your life. So DON'T MISS SEEING "GIRL SHY".

Chilton High School Girls Win High Praise

Not long ago Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, popular teacher in Chilton County High School; took a fine group of her girl students to Montevallo to attend a state-wide meeting of high school girls. It is understood there were 263 other high schools included in the various contests. At least one of our local girls claimed honors by taking a prize in music, and this week Prof. L. C. Warr received a letter from M. L. Orr, Chairman of Inter-High School Meet Committee, which reflects outstanding credit on the entire group of girls, as well as their teachers and parents. We carry the letter as follows:

Principal L. C. Warr,
Chilton County High School, Clanton,
Dear Mr. Warr:

Please let me take this opportunity of commending your school for the most excellent behavior of those of your students who attended the Inter-High School Meet. I shall appreciate it if you will call this to the attention of these students. It was a pleasure to have these people with us.

Also let me congratulate your students upon the excellent showing they made in the contests.

Thanking you for your cooperation, I am Yours very truly,

M. L. ORR.

Those who attended this meet are: Senior One: Dorothy Braley, Roselle Gentry, Dollie Belle Harris, Sarah Hollis, Mary Edith Jones, Lurla Littleton, Roberta Marcus, Mamie Meroney, Grace Plyler, Helen Roberts, Ollie Sharpe, Frances Strock, Ethel Wilkinson, Evelyn Barrett.

Senior Two and Three Classes: Mabel Harris, Hilda Hart, Frances Higgins, Lucille Johnson, Ovalee McCutcheon, Maude Norris, Frances Rasberry, Dorothy Sessions, Jeanette Sumner, Myrtle Powell, Louise Knox, Sara Johnson, Elizabeth McSwain, Helen Moore.

BETTER CANE SEED

Grove Hill, Ala.,—P. O. J. sugarcane, which is resistant to mosaic disease, has been introduced into the county thru the efforts of County Agents L. M. Hollingsworth and O. C. Helms. A co-operative order for 27,000 stalks of this cane was placed by 137 farmers. This has been planted, nearly every community in the county getting some of it. By multiplying these seed a much larger number of farmers will plant the improved variety next year.

Mosaic disease has been a serious enemy to the home syrup industry in south Alabama, and development of this and other resistant varieties is enabling farmers to continue to produce syrup.

CASH FROM CHICKENS

Evergreen, Ala.—Production of poultry, eggs, and cream is bringing cash to farmers of Conecuh County. During the past month 10,000 pounds of poultry, 500 cases of eggs, and 3,000 pounds of cream was sold cooperatively. For this farmers received approximately $3,500. More than 500 farmers participated.

Success of the poultry and cream industry has been made possible through the provision of an adequate market which the farmers have provided for themselves through their local farm organization, P. R. Pettis, county agent, said.

before polled. Yet realization in a half-dozen segments of his mammoth program to bring back prosperity has already been experienced.

The "new deal for the forgotten man" is well underway. Throughout the country thousands of men are being given employment in a giant conservation and rehabilitation program of national forests. Camps are maintained in every state for the physical grooming of candidates for this work.

Alabama's allotment of 5,000 men, with perhaps an increase in the near future, will do much—along with other programs that are being put into effect — to alleviate the existing unemployment conditions in the state. This work is under the supervision of Thad Holt, in Montgomery, but it is believed, according to Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, local child welfare worker, that within a short time Chilton countians may enter applications for work in these forestry camps through the county R. F. C. offices. Miss Austin stated to a representative of the Chilton County News Tuesday afternoon, that she expects further information in regard to the receipt of applications through her office by the last of this week.

Col. Page S. Bunker, state forester, recently outlined and presented a program to Secretary of Agriculture, Wallace in regard to forestry work in Alabama, which, if approved, will give employment to about 20,000 men, it is understood.

Present plans call for a major portion of work under the reforestation project to be on the Alabama National Reserve composed of 130,000 acres in Lawrence, Winston and Franklin counties.

ANNUAL EASTER SINGING AT POPLAR SPRINGS

On Sunday, April 16, 1933, the annual Easter singing was held at Poplar Springs. The first session of this singing was held here twenty-eight years ago. Most of those who were here to help organize the singing have already gone from this world, which only goes to prove that what we do in this life will live on. There were lots of good directors and a good class most of the day. The singing was a success throughout the day.

Singing was called to order by W. M. Davaughn, who sang one song. Prayer was led by S. J. M. Webb. W. M. Devaughn was elected chairman for the day. The chairman appointed W. H. Wilson, S. J. M. Webb and William Jones as committee and Mattie Lou Crew as secretary. The chairman sang another song while the committee arranged a program. First on program was R. T. Grant, one of the oldest singers in the county. Other directors were A. H. Glasscock, Emmett Wilson, J. E. Devaughn, O. L. Devaughn J. B. Hammonds, W. G. Culp, Archie Devaughn. Rev. Hand dismissed for the lunch hour.

Singing was begun again at 1:30 by the chairman. Directors for the afternoon were Lee J. Grant, A. O. Boswell, Ralph Grant, T. E. Wyatt, L. T. Grant, Jesse Jones, Akin Collins, F. T. Popwell, W. L. Sanders, Olin Williams, Dr. J. B. Williams, Edward Jones and S. J. M. Webb. Rev. Hand dismissed with prayer. Those performing at the piano were Mrs. Lena Mae Hancock, Miss Violet Hammonds, Lee J. Grant, A. O. Boswell, Ralph Grant and others.

We were entertained by the quartet from Jemison and special numbers arranged by W. M. Devaughn.

During the day the following announcements were made: The Chilton County Singing Convention at Jemison the second Sunday in May. The Coosa Convention the second Sunday in May. The Elmore Convention at Wetumpka the second Sunday in July. The Liberty all day singing in Autauga County the third Sunday in July.

U. S. OFF GOLD STANDARD GETS RISE IN PRICES

Roosevelt's Plan Is Meeting With Approval And Applause

Swinging the United States off the gold standard, last Wednesday, President Franklin D. Roosevelt inaugurated an unprecedented movement in bringing back prosperity by reducing money to a par with the prices of other products throughout the world.

Within a few hours after the President made the announcement that this country was officially off the gold standard—prices began to rise and quotations on the American dollar in foreign markets took a decided drop, thus stimulating purchasing of American goods abroad.

For several months most European countries have been off the gold standard and with the United States still tied to the gold dollar, it greatly increased the prices of American products abroad. Depreciated foreign money had a low value in gold-backed U. S. monies.

Under the gold standard silver certificates were necessarily backed by forty per cent of their face value in gold. Scarcity of gold handicapped the Roosevelt plan of issuing additional currency, it has been explained by financiers.

Cotton, the financal barometer in the South, has advanced several points since the embargo was declared. A survey of cotton mills in Alabama, according to dailies, showed that cotton textile orders have increased from 25 to 50 per cent. Stocks jumped $1 to $12 per share and in one day 7.198,964 shares changed hands.

International discussions involving President Roosevelt, Ramsey McDonald of England, and Edward Herriot of France have been underway for several days in an effort to stabilize money value and n this way stimulate trade—thus ending the depression.

Little Sidney Nelson, 11-year-old son of Mrs. H. Nelson, who operates a restaurant in Clanton, has set an enviable record. For four years, Sidney has not been absent from Sunday school. He is a student at the Clanton Grammar school and expects to be promoted from the sixth grade this year. His record in his studies is commensurate with his interest in Sunday school.

COUNTY JAIL HAS DECLINE IN INMATES

Five Prisoners Taken To Pen Following Short Term Of Court Recently

"Stone walls and iron bars do not a prison make," declared the poet of old.

But he was never in Sheriff Gillespie's jail—and, too, he kept his mind occupied with writing poetry and sonnets to some woman's eyebrows.

Not so with Tom Henley, locked in the Chilton county jail on a charge of manufacturing liquor. Four long days—nights, too—Tom has had the big jail all to himself.

He's the only prisoner on the jail docket—and has been since April 20, when the dog wagon came and carted his five associates away to begin a sentence in the state penal institutions.

Sheriff Gillespie declared that never before during his two and one-half years in office has the populace of the jail been so low.

Those sent to penitentiary during last week's special non-jury term of circuit court were: Fred Deramus, negro, 81 days for driving an automobile without lights; Robert Easley, negro, 77 days, violation of the prohibition laws; J. Hugh Varner, negro, 79 days, violation prohibition laws; Burnie Watley, driving while drunk, 81 days, and Robert Thomason, 78 days, violation of prohibition laws.

Clean-Up Campaign Starts Here Monday

City To Cooperate In Campaign Sponsored By Kiwanis Club; Will Continue Drive For Two Weeks; Aid Is Asked

One of the most important and impressive Clean-Up Campaigns Clanton has ever had will start next Monday, May 1st, and continue through Saturday, May 13th, with the city cooperating extensively with the Kiwanis Club of Clanton.

The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring this movement, and at the meeting last Thursday night at the Exchange Hotel, representatives from the city council as guests of the club began making plans for the city to do its share in this work.

It is hoped to make this Clean-Up Campaign the best ever had in Clanton, and the Kwanis Club and others taking part in sponsoring it, are seeking the cooperation of all the people of Clanton and would like to see it extended throughout the county.

The club hopes that the campaign in Clanton will be only a starter for a county-wide clean-up campaign, not only to improve the appearance of our county, but also from a standpoint of health conditions. This county-wide suggestion comes from Mr. Kitchens, a representative of the Federal Land Bank, who travels over this county considerably. Mr. Kitchens stated he would offer one-year subscriptions to the newspapers in the county for the best showings in rural sections in each Commissioners District, of homes on the greatest improvement in appearance of the premises. Those who think they will have the greatest improvement in rural homes during this campaign, are asked to notify Mr. Kitchens, before and after the campaign.

The Kiwanis Club in sponsoring this movement, is anxious not only to make towns in the county clean, healthful, but is anxious to see every farm home made as attractive as possible. A marked improvement can be made by moving old farm implements, broken automobiles and other articles, from the front of homes to some place in the rear, and by doing a little grading around the front of homes. It will be surprising how a little careful planning and a little work will improve a place.

The people of Clanton are asked to keep on the lookout next week, after this campaign starts, for the city truck and the street cleaning crew. The city truck will go about town, gathering up trash and garbage when placed at advantageous points by homes where cleaning is going on. Let's all get behind this movement and attend to the smallest details in making Clanton a more attractive town.

Seniors Will Give Play On May 5th

Another smashing hit for the entertainment of the populace of Clanton and Chilton County Friday night, May 5, the Senior Three Class of the Chilton County High School will present its annual graduate play. The title of this four star play is "The Simon-Pure Simpleton". The name itself is enough to make all lovers of good rollicking comedies to crowd the auditorium. Besides this is the regular annual Senior play and never in the history of the school have the Seniors offered a play that was not fit to be seen. And the play this year promises to surpass all which have gone before.

So, good citizens, of this good town of Clanton, feel that old school spirit that was abundant in your person when you attended the little red school house and come out next Friday night at 8:00 at the high school auditorium and see the play of your life. No kiddin'. Again here is the date, May 5th, 8:00 and the admission is only 15 cents and 25 cents.

Man Accidentally Shoots Self Recently

Believed to have accidentally pulled the trigger while cleaning a 32 caliber revolver, John Barefield, 69-year-old Louisville and Nashville Railroad employe, fatally wounded himself, last Wednesday, in a bedroom at his home, near Minooka—in the northern section of Chilton county.

The bullet centered the top of his forehead and ranging downward made its exit in the nape of the neck. Coroner J. Mell Martin returned a finding of accidental death. Barefield's son, Grady, was shaving in an adjoining room when the shot was fired. Rushing to his father, he found him slumped in a chair—his right hand still clasping the smoking weapon, he said.

For the past twenty-five years Mr. Barefield had operated the pumping station for the L. & N. at Minooka. Coroner Martin declared that no indications of suicide were found in his investigation.

Barefield is survived by his widow and six children. Funeral services were conducted from Providence church, near the station, Thursday afternoon, with Martin & Sons in charge.

Little Over Two Months Left In Which To Pay Taxes In Chilton County, Says Culp

W. G. Culp, tax collector of Chilton county, has recently released a statement regarding his plans of closing up the tax collecting business for this tax year. Mr. Culp states that under an enactment of the recent State Legislature, he is able to extend a little more leniency to the delinquents than has been the case in past years. Therefore, Mr. Culp is passing on these extra days of grace to the tax payers of the county thus giving them the benefit of the extension.

On July 1st Mr. Culp will begin to arrange for the advertising of delinquents; so until that date no extra fees will be charged those who pay up their taxes. Of course, interest began on January 1st this year on all unpaid taxes, and this will have to be included in all payments no matter when made. But after the first of July there will be extra costs in the way of fees, costs, etc.

Although this extension works a distinct hardship on Mr. Culp and his office help, inasmuch as it will bring the closing of this year's tax business right up to the opening of the new tax year, October 1st, yet he is glad to extend as much leniency as possible to the tax payers of the county, even if it does mean extra work for him.

Mr. Culp asks those who have not paid their taxes to bear this matter in mind and make every effort to pay their taxes before July 1st and thus save the extra cost that will be attached to it after that date.

Eligibles To Be Taken From List Already In Hands Of Local Agency

Selection of candidates for reforestation work from Chilton county will be begun at once, according to an announcement by Miss Kitty [illegible] Austin, local child welfare [illegible] who is in charge of emergency relief in the county. Only those whose names are already on file as applicants for emergency relief will be considered, Miss Austin stated.

After returning Tuesday from a meeting in Birmingham of relief representatives from counties throughout central Alabama, Miss Austin issued the following statement:

"The young men who are selected for the reforestation work will be taken from the lists already in the hands of the local relief agencies and no others need apply now. The quota for each county has not been determined, but local agencies are now compiling lists of young men who have dependents, and who are able bodied. Applications for emergency relief from some member of the family must have been in the local office by April 6 in order to be considered in the first call. No provisions have been made for additional applications, because there will be no

LITTLE INEREST BEING SHOWN SUPT. ELECTION

Only Two Announce Their Intention Of Being Candidates

The special election of a county superintendent of education, under the provisions of a recent Bill passed by the Legislature, is not arousing wide-spread interest in the county, according to reports. Although little more than two months will elapse before the newly elected officer must assume the direction of educational affairs in the county, only two persons have publicly expressed intention of becoming candidates in the election, set for June 20, by order of the probate judge.

Buford Lawrence, superintendent for the past nine years, has expressed his intention of being a candidate to succeed himself, and W. T. Bean, of Jemison, declared that many of his friends

Clanton's Clean-Up Campaign

The time comes around again for the people of Clanton to join hands and get to work. But working together toward one end and a very worthwhile end.

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton will sponsor another clean-up campaign for the town. This is not just another campaign, and should not be, but is a movement that everyone should take a hand in and attend to even the smallest detail until the campaign ends.

It would not be saying too much nor attempting too much if this movement was stretched a little and called a "Clean-Up and Paint Up Campaign." Everything that would go into a campaign of this kind is cheaper now than ever before in many years. However, even though it is only a clean-up campaign, it is a most worthwhile project.

The city officials of Clanton are joining in with the Kiwanians in this movement and lending their helping had. This is commendable and is a grand start. Let's all get busy when this thing starts and keep it going until there is nothing to be cleaned up.

Watch Out For The Twister

It would be a good thing if every insurance policyholder could read a report on the fight against replacing the insurance of one life insurance company with that of another, which was prepared by Frank L. Jones, vice-president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. The report has as signatory companies most of the large life insurance concerns of the country.

Every policyholder should guard against this pernicious practice, which is usually called "twisting." It is done by irresponsible agents, who try to persuade prospects to drop policies they have owned and paid for over a number of years in order to start new ones in their companies. The company itself is never party to such an endeavor, and it fights against it—but in most instances it can do little. The prospect himself is the only one to prevent the practice.

In practically every case the policyholder, if he succumbs to the blandishments of the salesman, loses. The policy he gets is probably worth about as much as the old one—but he must pay a higher rate, due to increased age, and he has lost cash value and borrowing privileges which accumulate only with time. The salesman's sole interest is to make a commission—at the expense of the policyholder and his dependents.

The best thing to do when a "twister" puts in an appearance is to refuse him, and then write to his company and the company in which you have your present policy, telling what has happened. There's no room in life insurance for this kind of salesman, and the public and reputable insurance men are alike interested in eliminating him.

Put That Dollar To Work

A dollar spent now for construction or maintenance of property is in for a very busy time.

It enters the pocket of the workman on the job. It goes to the local dealer who sells you the supplies and materials. It passes through the hands of the transportation companies that carry them from the factory to you. It spends a time in the coffers of the concern manufacturing them, and from there goes to its employes. It visits the related concerns selling raw materials and basic supplies to the manufacturer. It goes to the government in taxes, and to the investor in the form of dividends. And, finally, it starts the cycle all over again, when someone else uses it for improving his own property.

This little dollar, too, has an amazing purchasing power at this time. It will buy more lumber, more paint, more electric wiring, more of similar supplies, and employ more labor than it has for several decades past. It will give you a chance to improve and increase the value of your property at rock-bottom bargain prices. If you keep it in hiding, it's worthless—only by taking it out and putting it to work can you and others gain its potential benefits.

So—put your spare dollars to work on your property. Make them fix or renew the furnace, the roof, the garage. Make them paint the building and repair the steps. You'll be getting your money's worth several times over—and you'll be providing employment in a dozen businesses and doing your part to alleviate distress and build purchasing power.

Jobs are cheaper and better than charity—and without jobs there won't be any money for charity.

o-o-o-o

Tax reduction remains uppermost in the public mind. A definite start has been made with the cut in veterans' compensation, and the 15 per cent reduction of Federal salaries. Many of these cuts have already been compensated to the recipients more or less by the decline in the cost of living. Next Federal move is expected to be drastic reorganization of bureaus and departments to eliminate waste, unnecessary activities and duplication of effort.

The Treasury has been disappointed in the yield from the new miscellaneous taxes. Revenues to the government from sale of such articles as oils, matches, pistols and revolvers, etc., have been below the estimate. On the other hand there was a substantial recent gain in revenue from the automobile tax and the gift tax.

Tax losses from other sources were offset by a rise in income tax receipts. This is nothing to be proud of because the rise was due simply to higher individual tax rates, rather than to increased personal or corporate earnings.

"ROUND TOWN"

---by Doug

Round the town and back again Monday morning. Everything is quiet on the western front or something. Another round and round and things still quiet. So guess I'll draw on the old imagination some and see what comes of it. However, one cannot tell what the week end will bring in events in Clanton.

The Ed tells me that Mr. A. D. Martin got results and got them quick from his item in this column wanting to trade something. Mr. Martin was in the News office one day last week telling that the same day the paper came out, he made his trade, and through the help of this column. Mr. Martin is one of the county's best citizens and knows a good trade when he sees it.

Don't know that I have any trades for you folks this week. However, I did receive a post card and a letter from people with things for sale. I'm sorry, but I'm not allowed to run for sale items in this column free of charge. The only thing I can print along that line is where a person has an article and wants to trade it for something else.

Our friend Bob Alred is the proud possessor of a photograph of the one and only Jack Hayes. Jack sent Bob an action photo of himself, with these words on it, "To my pal Bob, with best wishes. And Jack's kid brother, Alec, is causing comment in baseball circles in the school he is attending.

I haven't eaten any barbecued pheasant, but taking others word for it, they are most appetizing.

Have you been inside the Dixie Cafe lately? They have certainly done themselves proud up there. The inside has been all decorated over again and looks like a new place. Several shades of green will greet the eye when one walks into the cafe. They say they are not through yet with their improvement program of that cafe. The owners are to be congratulated. Of course that means Mrs. Mattie Williams and Melvin Mims.

Did you ever notice that there are few places that appear to be suffering from any slump in business in Clanton? It's a fact, and a very pleasing fact at that.

"And how is my friend Dief these days?" That is a question I hear a lot of times from people who do not live in Clanton. Seems that man is about the best known man of Clanton. Everywhere you go, folks know and like Mr. Diefenderfer.

Now about this clean-up campaign that is going to be put over in Clanton. That is a dandy idea and now is a most opportune time to go into it. I'm glad to see our city officials are so interested in the idea and are lending their support to the Kiwanis Club in putting this over. A clean-up campaign is not merely an idea. It is not merely just a movement put on by some organization. It is something that every person in town should take hold of and do their bit in making it a success. A successful campaign of that kind in Clanton would do more for the town than a person could imagine. I would like to ask everyone in Clanton to give all help possible toward this movement.

Heard a stranger in our town say the other day that a clean-up campaign should be put on here as a county-wide movement. Now, whether he means that our county needs cleaning up, I don't know. But nevertheless he was a stranger and no doubt had received his impression from somewhere. Of course we all realize that the southern outlet and inlet of Clanton does not present such a pleasing view, and we hope that some means can be found whereby that swamp can be kind of cleaned up and out.

I understand that several small towns, some about the size of Clanton have organizations which are sponsoring dances in order to raise funds to pay school debts, church debts and so forth. In fact I know of one town where the P.-T. A. sponsors dances at regular intervals and is raising funds to pay debts with and do improvement. They say it is going over successfully.

I am not especially advocating that an organization in Clanton do the same thing, realizing that some people here would not approve of it. But, I don't see any particular harm in it. There is a class of people, including myself, who like dancing and find that it is a splendid form of recreation, when one has little time for recreation. We have a lot of people here who go to other places to dances, and why not keep this at home.

And the Cooke Players are going to show at Thorsby right away.

Surprising was the large crowd at the play at the high school last Friday night. The house was packed to overflowing. Truly the class that put on "Girl Shy" is to be congratulated. Many persons have been heard to say that it was the best they had seen at the high school in some time. These youngsters deserve credit and a lot of it. Miss Margaret Kendrick is also in line for congratulations. She directed this presentation.

Letters To The Editor

PITTS DISCUSSES INCOME TAX AND SALES TAX

April 21, 1933.

To the Citizens of Chilton County:

Since the Legislature has recently adjourned, I desire to take this method of giving you an account of my stewardship, as your representative.

You will doubtlessly recall that Gov. Miller did not include in his call of a Special Session, any economy measures, and for this reason under our State Constitution it required a two-thirds vote, instead of a majority vote to pass economy measures. In spite of this fact many economy measures were passed cutting the State's operating expenses. Besides others passed in the earlier part of the Session, during the last week there was passed through both the House and Senate a salary-slashing bill, which will save the State of Alabama $500,000.00 yearly. The bill was immediately signed by the Governor and now the present law, much to the apparent disgust of some of the "higher ups" who are just now beginning to realize that this county is passing through a terrible business depression. The records show that your Representative voted for these economy measures, as well as proposed measures to abolish useless offices and departments.

Also my record will show that I voted against the one cent gas tax and the sales tax. The last mentioned was the hardest fought for by the Administration forces. We sent the sales tax forces to defeat by eight votes, the last day of the Session. I had the honor of being selected by the anti-sales tax members of the House, as one of a committee of three to lead the fight against the tax on the floor of the House.

After passing economy measures, by reducing salaries, etc., I believe that the State can live well within its income; however, at the same time can not take care of the twenty million dollars indebtedness, and pay school warrants which should be made negotiable and bear interest. For this reason I voted for the re-submission of a limited income tax to the people of the State, which will be voted upon during the month of July of this year. In my humble judgment the most fair, equitable and just tax of all, is the income tax, where it is imposed upon those who are making money, and are naturally able to pay. Under the proposed measure a married man will have to have a net income of $3,000.00 per year before he is called upon to pay an income tax, with a five per cent limit on individuals and three per cent on corporations.

I submit to any person familiar with the State's financial condition, with millions of dollars in out-standing warrants that either a sales tax or income tax, one of the two is inevitable, to care for this deficit.

Today when the Federal Government is furnishing money to purchase the necessities of life for 80,000 families in Alabama, is it right, fair or just when buying their food and clothing, that the State should collect five per cent tax on this money furnished for relief?

I have always been a supporter of our schools, and would like for them to continue operating, but during these distressing times and depression, I feel like it is a question of food and clothing first, and schooling second. For this reason I could not believe the majority of my constituents desired me to vote for the sales tax.

Realizing the vast majority of the people of this County desired the privilege of electing the County Superintendent of Education by a direct vote of the people, I passed a bill through the House in 1931. Our Senator, Duncan, defeated this bill in the Senate, apparently since the 1931 Legislature he saw the error of his way, and introduced a similar bill about a month ago and in fulfilling my promise, I passed the same through the House, without a dissenting vote and the Governor signed same without delay.

There are three propositions which the Legislature passed submitting to the voters during the July Special election, first, the Sparks-Constitutional Amendment which amends the Constitution in order that constitutional officials salaries may be reduced, which is an economy measure. The second is what is known as the Warrant Act, which provides that all outstanding warrants will bear five per cent interest making the same negotiable. The third proposition to be submitted to the people of the State is the income tax. At a later date I desire to inform the people as to these propositions and feel like the majority of the people in this county will be in favor of all three of the propositions.

Of course the people of the county are familiar with the fact that a special local election for Chilton County has been called by the Probate Judge in compliance with the County Superintendent of Education bill passed thru the House and Senate to elect a county superintendent, which we vote upon during the month of June.

Respectfully yours,
PERCY M. PITTS.

D. W. Haskew

It was a beautiful spring day, and it was the Sabbath of our God. The birds were singing, the flowers were blooming and all of nature lifted its voice in a glad song. The good pastor walked up and down in front of his church and was heard to say, "O that I had the will power of my people today, I would fill this church with worshipers." That preacher meant every word that he had spoken. He meant to say that if he could act for the multitude he would turn their steps toward God's house. After all, church going is largely a matter of will power. If church members would will to go to church, just as they will to attend parties and business obligations, our churches would be crowded. At least ninety per cent of people who do not attend church, stay away for no other reason than they do not will to attend. Not many things will keep you from going to church on God's day when you affirm, "I will go."

In my pastoral rounds I am constantly hearing expressions like this, "I would send my children to Sunday school, I would go to church, but we have no clothes that are suitable to wear." It is a fact that many people are not able to dress as they did a few years ago. The lack of employment and the decrease in our resources have made it impossible for us to buy many clothes. But, listen to me, that should keep no one from church attendance. Man looks on the outward appearance, but God looks at the heart. When we do our best, angels can not do better, and that is all that God requires. If you are doing your best and have nothing but a house dress to wear, if you have nothing but a pair of overalls, make what you have clean and neat and come before the Lord with thanksgiving. A man asked me this question, "If you had nothing but a pair of overalls to wear, would you go to church on Sunday?" My answer came back as quickly as words could be spoken, "If I were doing my best and that was all I had, I would never miss a service in my church." And I meant it. Sin becomes double when we let our false pride keep us from God's worship.

While on the mountain peak Israel had selected a king to rule over them. He was tall and handsome and stood head and shoulders above other men. When it was found that Saul, the son of Kish, had been selected, all eyes were in search of him, and the anxious inquiry on all lips was, "Where is he?" God let them know that the young man had hid himself in hay and food supplies of a certain tent. He has hid himself in the stuff. They went in search of him and sure enough they found him buried under the "Stuff" brought along to meet the needs of life. They drug him out and informed him that he was a king and that he must be their leader. That picture is still on the screen of human life. Many of our finest men and women of today are hid out in the stuff. In many of our business houses, banks, offices and manufacturing plants, there are kingly and queenly men and women who are hid out under the rubbish of the world. They are called to be kings and queens in God's world, but they prefer to root about in the stuff, to reigning over God's empire. God has a kingdom for every living man and woman.

I was in the home of a bright spirit that moved about in a rolling chair. Rheumatism had done its awful work and the poor wife had to sit and suffer, and yet she was as bright as a rose in June. In conversation with her she made this remark that will follow me, "If I had to live over my life again, I would not give up so quickly as I did this time. I know I would suffer, but I would fight pain." It was the opinion of this good woman that most people give over to pain and fail to fight it as they should. That is the trouble with mankind in general, we are lacking in the fighting spirit. The depression has made many cronic beggars. They yielded to unemployment conditions and they are now in the rolling chair. Many yielded to the power of temptation and now they are immoral monstrosities. Many yield to the power of pain and it is not long until they are confirmed invalids. It takes a fighting spirit to master any foe. It is better to master than to be mastered.

A BARREL OF APPLES

By Dr. Christmas Seal

"One bad apple can spoil a barrel,' says an old proverb. A case of tuberculosis may, from the public health viewpoint, be like that bad apple—the disease tends to spread from him who has it to those with whom he lives.

But the spread of this disease can be prevented. How? By examining every person who has been in close contact with a case. This means not only medical examination of adults, but also of children. With the aid of the tuberculin test and the X-ray it is now possible to discover if a person is infected, and if so, how much damage, if any has been done. If any danger signals are discovered, much can be done to prevent the development of actual disease.

One difficulty is that tuberculosis usually develops slowly. Months or even years may pass before the symptoms become troublesome enough to drive the patient to the family doctor. Meantime other members of the family may have become infected. "People need to be reminded that 'that tired feeling' or the 'cough that hangs on' or certain other symptoms may be due to tuberculosis and should be investigated by a doctor," Dr. Christmas Seal says.

USING P. O. J.

Union Springs, Ala.—Sugar cane of the P. O. J. variety, which is resistant to mosaic disease, is being used in Bullock County this year. Twenty-five farmers have planted seed of this variety which is to be multiplied under the direction of County Agent James Nunn, in order that other farmers of the county may secure seed next year.

Mosaic disease is a serious enemy of sugar cane production in the south Alabama counties and the development and multipilcation of resistant varieties has been given special attention by county agents, Mr. Nunn said.

Liver Sufferers Amazed At Results Obtained From Remarkable New Treatment

Thousands Reporting Sargon Soft Mass Pills Have Brought Them Lasting Relief From Constipation—Sour Stomach—Sick Headaches—Gas—Bad Breath—Coated Tongue—Nervousness and Dizzy Spells After Everything Else Had Failed.

If Your Liver Is Not Performing Its Proper Functions—Sickness—Suffering and Ill Health Are the Inevitable Result.

Science Has Proved That Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, Laxative Pills, Herb Teas or Extracts Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest—it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle. thorough and natural in their action there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them. ..

Daylight Saving Time May Affect Us Here

If after May 1—when you dial your radio in for your favorite program and find that some cowboy yodeler has the air—or find that Kate Smith's moon has already come over the mountain—just remember that Day Light Saving Time is again in effect in the East.

In several eastern states. midnight April 30—the hands of the clock will be swung forward one hour and if you fail to remember you'll miss your favorite blues singer.

The change will make four hours difference between New York and San Francisco—but why worry: When it's 11 a.m. in Clanton it's 7 a.m. in Alaska, 6 p.m. in Berlin, 10:30 p.m. in Bombay, and 1 a.m. the next day in Hong Kong.

Anyway time's not so important. If you leave Hong Kong in an aeroplane, and could travel 1,500 miles per hour, you'd reach New York City several hours before you started.

N.F.A. Club To Give Box Supper

The New Farmers of Alabama Club is sponsoring a box supper at the County Training School Friday night, April 28th. The purpose is to raise representation and transportation fees for the Annual Conference in Tuskegee in July. This local chapter is a branch of the State organization which meets at Tuskegee annually and competes in the following activities: Oratorical contest, judging livestock, poultry, farm seed and farm products. Handsome prizes are given to the winners. Our local club members are busy making ready for the conference. They are interested in the conference because of its educational value and the prizes given. Come out and encourage them Friday night. Your presence will be appreciated.

Rules for Garden Contest

Variety—Each contestant must know the name and variety of all vegetables in his garden.

Fertilizer—Any method of fertilizing will be permissible.

Cultivation—Any method of cultivation will be permitted. Garden must show signs of being well kept.

Arrangement — Vegetables must be attractively arranged. Do not plant a part of the vegetables on one side and then skip to the other side. Be sure to complete one row before starting another.

Diseases and Insects—Each contestant must know all diseases and insects that may be found in his garden and the method of controlling or eradicating them.

Here Is Another One

A man came for me to go over and look at his young heifer that had just dropped a calf. On his way he mentioned many different things that might have been the cause of the ailment. On reaching the place I found that according to an agreement before he left, his wife had given the cow two large, filthy dish rags. She said the cow had lost her cud and the dish rags would do her good. Further questioning disclosed the fact that they had not fed the cow anything for several days. Read this over and over again, please: A cow has four stomachs, the rumen, the recticulum, the omasum, and the abomasum. The rumen is much the larger and will hold eighty per cent of the thirty to forty-five gallons that all the stomachs may hold. The grass or hay swallowed by the cow, first passes to the rumen or paunch, where it gets soft and later regurgitated (belched) into the mouth. That is it is brought into the mouth by muscular contraction, where it is chewed as a cud for a short time, after which it is ready for further digestion. The liquid part goes to recticulum or honey comb, and the solid part goes to the omasum, or many plies, etc. When a cow stands and chews her cud, she is chewing the grass that she has belched up from the first stomach. Please don't treat a cow so mean as to give her an old dirty dish rag.

Vegetable Needs May Be Supplied

Auburn, Ala.—Realizing that there is a greater need than ever before for home production of food, Alabama farmers are planting more vegetable gardens this year than ever before, and the prospect is that, so far as vegetables are concerned, Alabama will feed herself.

This fact is revealed by a close survey of the state made by Julian Brown, extension horticulturist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who is assisting county agents, farmers, industrial workers, and others with their garden activities. He finds that planting of gardens by individuals, municipalities, counties and industrial companies is proceeding at a rapid rate.

The keynote of the enlarged garden program is gardening for relief, and it is being projected so as to reach all families in the state, including industrial workers as well as farm people. Thru county relief organizations, out of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds, and under the direction of the Alabama Relief Administration, individuals in 55 counties have received more than 90,000 packages of garden seed.

These have been planted under the direction of county social welfare workers and farm and home demonstration agents, according to planting instructions given by Mr. Brown.

A type of garden being used extensively this year is the community garden, and it is estimated that more than 100 of these will be planted in the state, with Jefferson County taking the lead. These gardens are being planted for families who find it impossible to have an individual home garden and to provide a surplus of vegetables for canning.

PLANT SOYBEANS

Wedowee, Ala. — Randolph County farmers will plant this year their largest acreage to Otootan soybeans, reports L. M. Hollingsworth, county agent. Most of the soybeans will be planted for hay but some farmers are specializing in seed production.

The Otootan variety of soybean is a leader in tests of the Auburn Experiment Station. The soybean is one of Alabama's leading crops for hay, grazing and soil improvement. A large number of the farmers will fertilize their soybeans with basic slag, a product of the steel industry of Birmingham. Basic slag furnishes both phosphorous, lime, and other plant foods.

IMAGINE HER EMBARRASSMENT

"Oh, dear, my . . . oh, is he going to undress her right here?" Well, what would you think if you were the hostess at a sedate party and the shadow on a glass door ltading to a balcony plainly showed a man in the act of removing a woman's stockings?

That is exactly what ZaSu Pitts wonders, and that is why she asks the startled question of Roland Young, with whom she is conversing in the drawing room. But if she had only realized at the time that the man whose shadow she saw was her husband, Slim Summerville! And if Young had known that the woman was Veree Teasdale, the blonde married charmer with whom he himself was then carrying on an affair! But they found it out later, and then the fireworks began.

This is one of the amusing situations in "They Just Had To Get Married," the hilarious Universal comedy which comes to the Wadesonian Theatre on May 3 and 4, with Slim Summerville and Miss Pitts in the starring roles.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

Folks, you have got to hand it to the Senior Two Class and Miss Margaret Kendrick, their class advisor. They filled the auditorium last Friday night with their play, "Girl Shy," the first time it has been packed in a long, long time. Comments that are overwhelmingly favorable can be and are heard everywhere on the presentation of this play and the acting of the players and the coaching of the coaches, Misses Josephine Martin and Margaret Kendrick. Also the entertainment between the acts was lauded very highly. Oboy-have those Senior Twos got that C. S. Miss Kendrick and the Senior Twos want to take this opportunity to express their appreciation to all those who helped in any way, great or small, to put over this play.

Did you know that the first county high school built in Alabama was built at Atmore in Escambia County in 1903? This school, one of the first built under the state bill, was built only 18 years ago. During its existence, it has had eight principals. Our present one has remained longer than any one of the others (no reflecttion on them is meant at all) five years, which speaks well of him.

JULY 18 TO TELL WHETHER STATE EVER PAYS DEBT

If Voters Reject McDaniel Amendm't Warrants May Never Be Cashed

By Atticus Mullin

In The Montgomery Advertiser

Debts of the State of Alabama amounting to approxmately $18,000,000, for which warrants amounting to approximately $16,000,000 are outstanding, will probably not be worth the paper the warrants are written on unless the people of Alabama on July 18 ratify the McDaniel amendment which will make the debts legal and which provides for payment of the interest thereon through an income tax.

While approximately $16,000,000 in warrants are outstanding to pay debts, the McDaniel amendment also validates approximately $2,500,000 in school building fund appropriations, the buildings for which are already erected and being used by the State but for which the State has been unable to pay anything.

The McDaniel amendment makes legal $16,943,357.12 in warrants but the present administration has redeemed ap-

URGES BUILDING A NEW ROAD TO COLUMBIANA

Pointed Out That New Road Would Relieve Traffic On Paved Road

Alert for opportunities of aiding in the advancement of Clanton and Chilton county, Charles B. Cox, prominent local contractor and road builder, is endeavoring to promote through the County Commissioners' Court the construction of a seven-mile piece of road, connecting the Lay Dam road and a new highway that is being built in Shelby county, leading through Columbiana to Birmingham.

Commensurate with outlined state state plans to relieve the congested traffic conditions on the Montgomery-Birmingham highway, north of Clanton, Mr. Cox explained that the road will also tend to bring considerable trade from the northeastern section of Chilton county and Shelby county into Clanton, thus increasing business.

Mr. Cox recently outlined this proposition to the members of the court and expressed his intention of appearing before them again at their next regular meeting in behalf of this project.

In a discussion with a News reporter, L. H. Reynolds declared he has long advocated the construction of a road better connecting Chilton and Shelby counties and said that he believes now to be the opportune time to do the work, while the county has the relief program underway. He estimated that a road, comparing favorably with the Lay Dam road, can be built for approximately $5,000.

Local Young Men Are Getting Some Experience In Roosevelt's Forest Camp

Letter Tells of First Steps In Camp

They'll learn much in that University of Hard Knocks—those six young men the first contingent of Chilton county's quota to President Franklin D. Roosevelt's reforestation—"New Deal" program.

Robust and with an optimistic smile that four long years of depression have failed to down—they set out to do their bit in ending the depression. With Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, head of the local relief unit, they left Friday morning, for Birmingham to undergo physical examinations. Then—on to Camp McClellan for two weeks "hardening up."

Several of the boys are graduates of high schools and have held responsible positions—and no doubt will again! Six months out in the open—six months of strict discipline—six months of regular hours—six months of hard, healthy work will be an asset to be envied by anyone.

The group was composed of Clyde C. Deloach, Askew Rockett, Eugene Wilkerson, R. W. Ingram, Allen Cook, and Marcelle Wilder.

Miss Austin stated that she has not learned just what Chilton county's quota will be, nor when another contingent will be accepted. Consideration is being given several other applications from the lists of certified applicants already in her office, she said.

Officials in Birmingham paid tribute to Chilton's boys, declaring that they were the finest bunch of candidates that has passed through that office.

The Chilton County News predicts that their reputation will continue to rank with the best.

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF MAN IN LAKE MARTIN

Body Of Vaughn Gay Taken From Lake Martin Last Saturday, April 29

Coosa County officers were called Saturday to aid in the investigation of circumstances surrounding the death of Vaughn Gay, 23, whose body was taken from Lake Martin in Coosa County Saturday.

Gay had been missing from his home since Thursday when he is said to have gone fishing with three men who reported they heard him shout while manning a separate boat and upon investigation failed to locate him.

Physicians who examined the body reported that they found little water in Gay's lungs and that it appeared his neck had been broken. The body was sent to Montgomery for X-rays of his neck and an autopsy.

Jade Shaw, Clinton Shaw and Frank Browning, the men with whom it is said he went fishing, were being questioned by officers, it was reported.

Carload Of Corn Arrived In Clanton

A record of more than a decade duration was recently broken in Chilton county, when the first car-load of corn was imported into the county within the past twelve or fifteen years.

The car containing 28,000 pounds of corn, and 100 sacks of oats, received by Taylor Bros., wholesale grocers, was the first corn to be shipped into Chilton county since the first onslaught of the boll weevil about fifteen years ago, tended to increase the corn acreage in this section, it was stated by local merchants.

There is a shortage of corn in Chilton county, and over this entire section, which has caused the price to advance greatly during the past few weeks. Quotations on corn this week are seventy-five cents per bushel—the highest since the 1929 slump. The oat crop in the county is also said to be below normal this year.

Miss Margaret Stipes of Birmingham spent the past week as guest of Miss Leora Mims.

Relief Workers Take Part In Drive To Make Clanton Shine

Hoes, picks, shovels, mowers and cutters are seen plying their work with industrious citizens of Clanton as power behind them, in the city-wide clean-up campaign sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton which began last Monday.

While this campaign will continue for two weeks from Monday and is yet in an early stage, a great deal of improvement is being noted all over town. Vacant lots, alleys, front yards and back yards are tak[illegible]

$8,000 Estimated In Berries In One Day

This strawberry business is fast becoming a major industry in Chilton county. Ten cars were shipped from Clanton, eleven from Thorsby and five from Jemison in one day—Monday. Estimates are that this one day's output will net the shippers of Chilton county approximately $8,000.

With the season little more than half over, more than a hundred cars have been shipped and, according to leading growers in the county, it is expected that the aggregate total will be around three hundred cars this season.

LOCAL CLINIC IS RECEIVING MANY PATIENTS

Clanton Surgeon Sees Many Changes In Practice Of Medicine

Although less than a month has elapsed since the establishment of the Central Alabama hospital clinic, April 10, scores of persons throughout Chilton and surrounding counties have availed themselves of the superior medical and surgical diagnoses offered and in many cases are already having their troubles corrected, according to information from the clinic staff physicians.

Associated in this work with Dr. V.J. Gragg, hospital surgeon and staff physician, are Dr. T. J. Marcus, also of the hospital staff, and Dr. C. O. Lawrence, who recently removed to Clanton from Calera where he was one of the most popular physicians in that section.

In explaining the purposes and outlining the aims of the recently established clinic, Dr. Lawrence declared that because of the lack of time and facilities necessary to a thorough diagnosis, patients are often given inadequate treatment because the physician's skill is handicapped by a limited knowledge of the ailment. It is the aim of the Central Alabama hospital clinic to contribute toward overcoming this fault in this section, he continued.

Too often the patient receives treatment for symptoms and not for the

Beware of the "Home Racketeer"

The Lakeview, Michigan, Enterprise warns of a "home racket" which is now being worked in various parts of the country.

This year a great many patriotic citizens are preparing to do new building, and make improvements on existing property, in order to provide employment and put money to work. The home racketeer is taking advantage of this. He is always, of course, a perfect stranger and his method of operation is to get a home owner to sign what he believes to be an improvement contract, under the guise of providing much needed employment. In most instances, doubtless, the owner signs it without a careful reading. In reality, the document he signs is a lien on his property which is at once transfered to a third party, who then forces the home-owner to pay, whether the stipulated improvements are made or not. In no case, according to the Enterprise, is the work ever finished as agreed.

The moral is, don't do business with strangers. Do it with a concern which is known to you, and preferably one in your town. It will do the work as agreed, and at an honest price. It will give local workmen labor. The money you spend with it will go to its employes, and to the employes of numerous other industries which sell the local concern supplies, and so on. Put those idle dollars to work in honest hands.

Yes, it's time for a national property-renovation campaign, but there's no room in it for fraud. Do all the improving you can but go to your local dealers and workmen. Remember that the cost of improvements of all kinds now is the lowest in years—and remember, too, that jobs are better and cheaper than charity.

Averting National Bankruptcy

The Federal government has made a laudable start on the long road to economy with the adjustments in veterans' compensation, federal salaries, and the plans for reorganizing and simplifying various government departments.

There's room for a great deal more of the same kind of work. States and municipalities, especially, should follow the example. They take most of our tax money. They have been the most reckless in spending it. They have been most guilty on the counts of waste, extravagance, inefficiency, duplication of departments. Theirs is the responsibility for bringing taxes down to where they fit the reduced national income.

All political bunk to one side, it can be done. It will require, simply, a change in method. When a business makes its budget for a year it estimates what its receipts are reasonably expected to be, and adapts its expenditures to that. Government, on the other hand, has worked on the opposite principle—it has figured how much it wanted and then gone after it. The result is a tax burden that is wiping out jobs, closing industries, foreclosing properties, preventing home and industrial building and expansion. Business is writing itself down now—government must do precisely the same thing, if national bankruptcy is to be averted.

No Nation Can Live Alone

The approaching conference between representatives of the great powers of the world and President Roosevelt, will focus attention on one of the most vital problems of depression—the decline in foreign trade.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull recently said that America's share of the world trade that has been lost in the past few years reaches the astounding total of $6,000,000,000—a volume of business which at any time would mean the difference between depression and comparative prosperity. If the general world economic crisis had been wholly responsible for the collapse of trade, the problem would be a good deal less important—all over the world the industrial skies are brightening and the upturn has started. But foreign trade has gone to the doldrums principally for another reason—a growth of isolationist sentiment in the great countries. The result has been tariff barriers and embargoes to a greater degree than ever before existed.

In the modern world, we have annihilated space. The telephone, the radio, fast transport, have almost eliminated the former barrier of distance. In this world no nation can successfully live alone, remote and economically removed from its neighbors. Such a policy is the prelude to international distrust, suspicion, enmity. And in a world where such things exist there can be no permanent and sound prosperity.

The United States is taking the lead in seeking to obtain world cooperation for recovery, and to stimulate trade between nations. If the other powers follow, it will be the greatest blow yet struck at hard times.

The industrial picture is mixed. However, it is much improved over what it was a few months ago, even disregarding the favorable consequences of the legalization of beer. Retail trade is improving. During a recent week electric power production made the most favorable comparison with 1932 for some time.

During the last few days of March and early April a definite sales upturn in the automobile industry was registered. The industry sees this as an indication of a normal month during April now that banking difficulties are settling and financing can continue unimpaired. Increased requirements have already reflected in substantial gains in steel ingot production.

"ROUND TOWN"
---by Doug

Unless rain interferes too much, this clean-up campaign of the Kiwanis Club's is going to go over in a big way. Monday morning found many workmen going about town cutting weeds and grass on vacant lots and in streets and alleys. Of course it wouldn't be such a great success, maybe, unless the Pilot Club had a hand in it too. It is a splendid thing for Clanton that it has two such good organizations as the Kiwanis Club and the Pilot Club, able to work and pull together in movements for the benefit of the town.

A cemetery should be one of the beauty spots of the town, and from time to time, work has been done on our city cemetery to bring it to be a spot of beauty. It is getting another overhauling in this clean-up campaign. Now, if those owning lots there would put out some flowers and shrubbery right behind this cleaning, it would work wonders in appearance.

Let's all just get the clean-up spirit and keep this thing moving. In times like the present, there are few things that help one's feeling better than to see a clean street, a clean yard, alley, or vacant lot. It kind of brightens things up and makes a person feel kind of brightened up too. The city is doing its bit in this work, seeing that all the rubbish is properly hauled away to the trash pile.

Here's a trade for you folks this week. Raymond Marcus, who lives in Clanton, tells me that he has a good late, 1929 Model Chevrolet coach in good condition and wants to trade it for a Chevrolet or Ford truck chassis.

Speaking of doing some inflating of something a bit, it looks as if the President's inflation idea on our currency is going to push right on through. The Muscle Shoals development is showing up to be a sure thing, and already men are making plans to go to the Tennessee Valley to seek work when this huge project opens.

It would seem that Roosevelt is truly "The Man of the Hour." He is accomplishing things that others have tried for years and years. Here he comes into office and does these things without the least bit of trouble it seems. We are for that man. We admire his unassuming manner and his frankness. Frankness about everything, never hurt anyone, and the President's attitude toward his people is winning him confidence—the very thing needed by anyone to put their shoulders to the wheel and push.

What day is May 14th? Sunday, of course, but that is not all. It is Mother's Day, and what a day that should be for every Mother. Mother's Day always brings with it a certain amount of tender feeling from sons and daughters, for their Mother, but we shouldn't just have the one day. However, if it must be one day, let's sure make it a most enjoyable one for Mother. Remember, it is on May 14th.

This column extends deepest sympathy to the families of W. F. Fiquette and J. Wiley Smith. Death struck a hard blow at Chilton county in taking these men from us. They have been prominent figures in our midst and lived useful lives.

Beer has become legal in states comprising about 69,000,000 people. It will become legal at various dates within the next four months in a group of other states. States which are still unfriendly to beer, and are regarded as likely to remain so, comprise but about 12,000,000 of our population.

The principal reasons for immediate legalization of beer were the jobs it would provide, the money it would put to work. Indications are, shortly after its appearance, that it is living up to expectations.

First result has been a sharp jump in employment, sizable revenues to the federal, state and local governments, and an increase in spending—not only for beer, but for other articles. Railroads have hired additional crews to man beer trains. Related businesses—such as the manufacture of bottles and mugs—report a sharp pickup. Thousands of men are working at remodeling old breweries and building new.

Reliable figures will be difficult to obtain for some time—until the novelty of "beer is back" has worn off and stabilization of the industry sets in. It seems, however, that it will do much in helping the causes of employment, purchasing power and governmental revenue.

In accord with President Roosevelt's habit of doing the exceptional, is his calling of the leaders of the principal powers to Washington. Invitations have been sent Hitler, Mussolini, McDonald and the presidents and premiers of France, China, Japan, Brazil and other countries. Others, it is said, will follow later. Subject will be world recovery, and international cooperation for achieving it. The representatives of the governments will not hold round-table discussions—they will talk separately with Mr. Roosevelt.

Importance of world trade was the subject of a statement by Secretary Hull which at once followed the Presidential announcement. He said it is high time to call a halt to existing world tariff policies, pointed to the fact that America's share of the world trade that has been lost in the last few years totals about $6,000,000,000—a volume of business which means the difference between depression and comparative prosperity.

o-o-o-o

On the black side is the gradual shutting down of American copper mines—indeed when this is read there may not be a single one in production. Producers are simply unable to operate at present price levels. It is believed that a temporary complete shutdown would improve the picture.

The railroads' net profit is appreciably below the 1932 level, which was extremely low. Much hope is placed in the working out of the Administration's railroad program.

o-o-o-o

Everyone is agreed that recovery will be gradual—most are likewise agreed that it will be steady as well, and that there need be no fear of important recessions. New money is appearing, due largely to the war on hoarding, and it is providing jobs and stimulating production.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I have made a close study of birds and bird habits and I have observed that the dove is the most easily alarmed of any bird that goes on wings. On hearing a shot, or detecting a sound, the dove takes to its wings and tries to find safety in flight. When there is constant shooting the dove becomes confused with the noise and will fly in any direction that indicates safety. The Bible speaks of the Holy Spirit as being a Dove. We all know that the Spirit can be driven away from our hearts with the least provocation. When we begin to shoot at each other with a sharp tongue the Spirit takes its flight. The Spirit of God is love, peace and fellowship and It can not stand noise, smoke and fighting. If we shoot at each other the Spirit leaves us. The only way to retain the Spirit in our lives is to give It room along lines of love and peace.

I had a friend who was very reserved and quiet. He went about his own business without noise and without interfering with other people. One day this man had a light stroke of paralysis. For a few days it seemed that he was going to have some difficulty in talking at all, but when his system absorbed the trouble, his stroke had produced, his tongue was set free at each end and he talked all the time. My quiet, reserved friend changed into an incessant talker. He would talk when people were in sight and when they were out of sight. After his stroke he seemed to have no business other than to talk. One full set of remarks followed the full set just made. I have met many people who were not so well known to me who seemingly had suffered from several light strokes. These people would talk when others were talking and when they were silent. They would talk while awake and some of them would talk in their sleep. Blessed is the man and the woman who knows when to talk and how much to talk. I have always been told that it is "An empty wagon that makes the most noise." If we do not be silent when we have nothing to say folks will likely think that we have had a stroke.

My friend took a vessel of swill and carried it out to his Berkshire pen. I went along to see his prized possessions and heard much about the fine quality and breed of his swine. On reaching the pen he thus addressed his blooded stock, "Piggies, you are quality hogs and now I have something for you that you have been wanting for a long time. I shall expect you to stand back and act like nice piggies when I empty this swill into your trough." After his nice speech he poured the swill into the trough. Did those Berkshire pigs act like quality pigs and do the gentlemanly thing about their dinner? You should have been there to see. They acted just like any hog will act when swill is given. One of the most amusing things that I have seen in print in recent years appeared in a leading magazine a few days ago, lecturing the "Beer mugs" to act like gentlemen when the beer was poured before them. This article of the wet propaganda urged those who were going to drink beer to do it in decency and in order. This article imported to say, "If you beer consumers act yourself when you get beer to drink you will ruin our prospects to get open saloons therefore act moderately and be decent for a while at least." I have not seen as many years as Methuslah, but I have yet to find my first herd of "Soggy" folks who will act like gentlemen when whiskey is to be had. Just as well lecture a drove of swine to act decently in a tub of swill, as to lecture men and women to act decently when they can get their foot in a jug of rum.

I was in a hospital room not many days ago and found an aged lady all bruised and broken in a car accident. She informed me that she was quietly making her way along the highway when came a man under the influence of rum and ran out of his way to run over her. There she was, a victim of a drunken rowdy. And yet, there are folks who are saying, "Do away with your 18th Amendment." I am not a prophet, but I am safe in saying that if beer and whiskey come back to Alabama we will have two auto accidents then to where we have one now, and God in heaven knows that we are having too many now. Vote for the return of whiskey and be charged with murder.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS

Perhaps in no other industry is there such a variety of conditions as in the newspaper business. Totalled indiscriminately, there are something over 14,000 newspapers in the United States, ranging from the smallest country weekly which prints only two pages in its own shop, with additional pages printed by a syndicate, to the great metropolitan dailies which employ thousands of persons each.

For the smallest, probably not more than 25 pounds of paper is required each week, while the Chicago Tribune uses for one Sunday edition all the paper produced from timber grown on 24 acres of land.

According to Grove Patterson, the well-known writer, the New York Times employs 3,100 persons, with a payroll of $25,000,000 a year. Hearst's newspapers and magazines use more than $50,000,000 worth of paper a year.

But in spite of the disparity between the smallest and the largest of American newspapers, the publisher of the small country weekly need not be over-awed by the size of his metropolitan rival. The local newspaper has a place in the life of its community which the great dailies can not usurp if the local publisher is alive to his opportunities and makes the most of them.

Now, as always, the home town newspaper is the best and cleanest exponent of constructive journalism.

THANKS FROM MERCHANTS TO DUNCAN AND PITTS

Birmingham, Ala., April 27, 1933.
Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Gentlemen:

Please allow us space in your paper to express the appreciation of the merchants and citizens of the state for the loyal support and fine cooperation given by your Representative Percy Pitts and Senator J. G. Duncan, Jr., in the defeat of the Sales Tax at the session of the Legislature which has just closed.

These gentlemen certainly had the interest of the people of your section at heart when they refused to vote for this iniquitous tax measure.

I hope every citizen in your section will see Representative Pitts and Senator Duncan personally and thank them for their cooperation in helping defeat this measure.

Thanking you, I am

Sincerely yours,
—Alabama Independent Merchants Association, Inc.

THE SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION

Chilton County News
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Editor:

I hope if you have space that you will publish the few remarks in this letter.

I am not accustomed to writing in newspapers, but I feel so much interested in the welfare and education of the children of Chilton County I want to say a few words to the voters of this County.

I am sure that we all agree that the education of our children is the biggest and the most important business we have to do with. Considering the number of children and income we have from taxes we ought to have the best country schools in Alabama and yet it is my information that we are about the bottom of the educational list.

It seems to me that with the County receiving proceeds of 3c gasoline tax in place of 2c and considering that nearly all our large bridges are of a permanent nature and the Court House and Jail practically new that the County ought to be able to supplement the school funds enough to guarantee a nine months free public school for the children of this County and as I see the situation we the voters of Chilton County have it within our grasp to bring this condition about if we will forget politics, forget all political past prejudice and have only one purpose in view in selecting a man to head our school system; a man that is big enough to rise above little petty politics and look only to the interest of the education of our children; a man that can harmonize the different factions of our County then I feel like we will be able to establish in our County the best schools that are in the State of Alabama.

We look to our school teachers as being leaders of society who are capable of giving the very best thought to our boys and girls and who should take the lead in public matters and yet for the past years it seems like the school teachers of Chilton County have been afraid to express themselves on public matters unless a few leaders should agree with their suggestion and if they did not agree would cause the teachers to lose their jobs. People can't we citizens of this County adjourn politics for one election come together and select the best man we have in the County to head our school system, can't we think alone for the welfare and future of the children of this County and do as I have stated establish the best school in Alabama. We have the brains, we have the patriotism and we have the money, all we need is to consecrate the best thoughts we have and select a man big enough to lead us in this great undertaking and when we have elected a County Superintendent of Education by a majority of the voters of this County let's everybody give him their support and let's make our County a shining light in the educational world.

In conclusion it is my opinion that the voters of Chilton County have a great responsibility placed upon them, that is, to elect a County Superintendent of Education, and now it is with the voters of this County whether they will elect a Superintendent that can give this County such an administration of school affairs that we are entitled to or will we vote for some political faction to advance the personal interest of a few people or will we vote for our children.

Respectfully,
PERRY GORE.

FAMILY MEETING AT SARDIS HELD LAST SUNDAY, 30TH

The children and grandchildren of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hayes and of the late Mrs. L. B. Broadhead met last Sunday at Sardis, where Mr. and Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Broadhead are buried.

During their lifetime Mr. and Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Broadhead worshipped at Sardis. The family history and traditions that were made by these departed loved ones furnished a solemn and inspiring background for the occasion of the gathering of members of their families at their last resting place on Sunday past.

Those present at the gathering last Sunday were Mrs. H. B. McCary and children, of Birmingham; Mrs. Bessie Poyner, Mrs. R. J. Campbelle, and Mrs. J. L. Malone and children, of Selma; Mrs. S. J. Kicker, Miss Cleo Broadhead, Sherwood Crosby and J. H. Hayes, of Clanton; Mr. L. B. Broadhead and children of Maplesville.

A number of friends of the family in the community were also visitors during the day. All of them brought sweet recollections of days gone by. Their kindness and hospitality made the day one sweet to remember. We wish to express our thanks to them, and most especially do we wish to thank Sardis church and community for the care taken of the graves and grounds of our loved ones who sleep there.

Spray Formulas For Insect Control Given

By C. E. Stapp, County Agent

Insects are divided into two classes, namely, sucking and chewing. For sucking insects you may use one of the following mixtures:

1. Kerosene Oil Emulsion: Dissolve one-fourth pound of laundry soap or lye soap in one quart of water. Add two quarts of kerosene oil and mix thoroughly. This forms a stock solution that will keep for several months. When ready to spray, take one part of this stock solution and mix with 20 parts of water and spray under pressure.

2. Black Leaf 40: Dissolve a piece of laundry soap about the size of a hen egg in one gallon of water and add one teaspoonful of 40% Nicotine Sulphate, or Black Leaf 40. Spray full strength.

For Chewing Insects you may use one of the following:

1. Lead Arsenate Spray: Mix one ounce of lead arsenate to a thin paste with a little water. Add sufficient water to make three gallons of spray.

2. Lead Arsenate Dust: Mix one pound of arsenate of lead and 6 pounds of hydrated lime and dust plants thoroughly, paying attention to whether or not insects are on the top or bottom side of the leaves, as poison must reach the part of the plant attacked by insects.

3. Calcium Arsenate Dust: Mix one part of calcium arsenate with 6 parts of hydrated lime.

The above mixtures are too strong for bean beetle control. For bean beetle control, Magnesium Arsenate has proved fairly successful when used in spray form at the rate of one ounce dissolved in 3 gallons of water and sprayed on underside of the leaves.

Wadesonian Theatre Books Picture Here "As You Desire Me" For Next Week

Greta Garbo, who may always be relied upon for something different, appears as a platinum blonde cafe singer in her latest screen characterization as Zara in "As You Desire Me."

The new Garbo picture, which will open at the Wadesonian Theater May 10 and 11, is a filmization of the New York dramatic hit by the noted Italian playwright, Luigi Pirandello, with dialogue continuity by Gene Markey. George Fitzmaurice, who recently scored with his production of "Mata Hari," again directed Miss Garbo in "As You Desire Me."

The star is supported by Melvyn Douglas, who made his film debut opposite Gloria Swanson in "Tonight or Never": the celebrated character actor, Erich Von Stroheim; Owen Moore, Hedda Hopper, Rafaela Ottiano, Warburton Gamble, Albert Conti, William Ricciardi and Roland Varno.

Plays Dangerous Game

In "As You Desire Me," Miss Garbo enacts the role of a temperamental Budapest cafe entertainer who is mistaken by an Italian nobleman for the wife whom he thought to have been killed by invaders during the World War. In order to escape the demands of a ruthless novelist who has a hypnotic influence over her, Garbo resolves to enact the bluff of the nobleman's wife, a game which proves to be as dangerous as it is diverting. The novelist stops at nothing in his attempt to bring the erstwhile cabaret singer back into his power, and she is therefore forced to match her wits against his in order to defend her masquerade. The result is said to be the most adventurous, intriguing and romantic drama in which the fascinating Swedish actress has yet been seen.

Cotton Futures Continue Climb

New Orleans, May 1—Exploring new high ground for 1933 for the second successive trading day, all future cotton deliveries advanced above the eight-cent level today in a continuation of feverishly active trading, stimulated by inflation legislation, an advancing Liverpool market, strength of sterling exchange and higher stocks and grains.

The opening upswing in futures showed maximum gains of $2.10 a bale over Saturday's sharply higher close and sent values to well above $10 a bale over the 1933 lows, with May quoted at 8.11, July at 8.22 and October at 8.48. In subsequent volent fluctuations the day's gains were reduced but the close was $1.35 to $1.65 net higher.

Middling cotton for immediate delivery advanced to a basis of eight cents a pound flat, the highest price since last Autumn, as spot cotton quotations climbed $1.45 a bale on the day.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

The Senior Three class has a treat and I don't mean maybe in store for everyone Friday, tomorrow night. For tomorrow night is when they present their annual play. This play, the sensation of the season, is entitled "The Simon-Pure Simpleton," and you are promised three acts of the funniest fun found. And don't forget that entertainment between acts and especially the exhibition of tap dancing. You students get out and help the Senior class advertise, remember that you will be seniors some day (I hope), remember we want every student in the high school to be present tomorrow night at 8:00 and for him, her or it, to bring his, her, or its friend. Let's pack the auditorium for the Senior Threes. Come on S. S.

Two picnics and one camp in one week end. Last Friday night the "C" Club gave their picnic at Oscar Norman's camp. Saturday the Utopian Science Club held their picnic at the river and over last week end Miss Griffin took her Senior One Home Ec. girls to camp at Gragg's camp. Several boy friends were their guests for dinner Sunday.

Only 16 more days till school is out. It was a good move when Mr. Warr ordered all the magazines out of the library so that those who were reading them could study since they needed it real bad. Maybe now there will be less failures.

Last Friday marked the closing of a very interesting phase of study here. The students of Mr. Little ceased their study of Current Events. The next two Fridays which usually were the recitations of current events, will be turned over to a much important and greatly needed review.

With all the English notebooks, biology notebooks, chemistry manuals, flower notebooks, mapbooks, etc. to be handed in we have little time for leisure. So take on a serious and studious attitude for the next two weeks, but not too serious and studious, remember that everything has its limit. Now the limits on leisure time have closed in on us.

You wonder why all the Senior Threes are going around with a smile on their face? Well, it's not because they are leaving their dear ole alma mater for I am sure each one hates to leave, but the real reason is they are looking forward to the night of May 12. Am I not right, Senior Threes?

A number of our students are treading the ole corridors now for their last time. Some will go right out and face the ups and downs of this world immediately. Others will prepare themselves further and attend some college. Living up to the old tradition they will leave a memorial of some kind here. We will miss these outgoing Seniors, but let's give them all a smile and a word of cheer and commendation, for it won't be long now.

I wonder if I was wrong in speaking of our S. S. and C. S. I sincerely hope not.

There is usually some outstanding romance which will linger in the minds of us dear scholars. Who will it be this time? Several new ones have sprung up in the last few months.

I wonder who will have the distinguished honor of being Valedictorian of the graduating class of 1933? Does being the Valedictorian of a class mean that that person is the smartest in the class? Not necessarily.

If any student accosts you in the hall, and informs you that you are violating the United States Constitution, please excuse him, her or it, for he, she or it, is only studying the constitution under Mr. Little. This study is indeed worthwhile and important.

* * *

By the way, the faculty has not yet selected the most intellectual person for each room. Maybe they have been too busy. Anyway, we shouldn't let that item escape our notice.

It is pleasant to note that the Senior Class of this year will graduate in caps and gowns. May I say here that I believe that these caps and gowns add a touch of dignity to the exercises and besides this will be the only chance a few will have to wear them.

Better late than never. Here is the Junior One's Who's Who for the year of 1932-1933: Best all around boy, Marshall Lee Ware; best all around girl, Geraldine Hollis; most dependable boy, Grady Jones; most dependable girl, Annie Clements; most popular boy, Bobby Powers; most popular girl, Margaret Golson; best looking boy, Bobby Powers; prettiest girl, Thelma White; most loyal, Annie Clements; best athlete, Demar McEathern; wittiest, Harvey Armstrong; most original, Marshall Lee Ware; biggest grumbler, Kermit Jones; neatest boy, Bobby Powers; neatest girl, Willodean Teel; cutest, Thelma White; most friendly, Annie Clements, and most intellectual, Annie Clements.

Gee! We have a real P.-T. A. here. I believe we should show them more appreciation than we do. Our faculty is really and truly proud of them and they can't be blamed either. The high school P.-T. A. has, for the past few weeks, sent sandwiches and other refreshments to the faculty meetings of our faculty on Mondays. And every member of our faculty wants to thank the P.-T. A. for their kindness.

NOTICE TO FARMERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

Mr. Stapp states that out of the 370 farmers who borrowed Government money for crop production, that 130, or 41%, borrowed some money to buy corn and that 200 of the 370, or 64%, borrowed money to buy fertilizer for corn.

Mr. Stapp feels that every farmer should try to produce enough corn in 1933 that he will not have to buy corn to make a crop on in 1934. Mr. Stapp further states that if the farmers who run short of corn every year would plant 5 acres per mule, in vetch or Austrian peas this fall and follow same with corn in 1934, that he feels sure they will have plenty of corn in 1935.

Mr. Stapp states that farmers of Chilton county have already and are turning under more than twice as much vetch and peas this spring than has ever been turned in one season in the County, and that he is expecting many farmers pleased with their corn yield this fall.

Mr. Stapp further adds that all farmers who borrowed money this spring from the Government for crop production, signed a statement that they would plant sufficient food and seed crops to supply their needs.

When an applicant stated that he didn't have a hog, Mt. Stapp would stop and say, "What are you going to do for cracklins to go in bread next winter?" Every farmer who possibly can should arrange to grow his own meat this winter.

REV. T. J. DEASON

Hall of Clanton Lodge No. 423 A.F. & A.M. Clanton, Ala., April 27, 1933

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Clanton Lodge No. 423 A.F. & A.M.:

We, the committee to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our late brother, Rev. T. J. Deason, beg leave to submit the following:

Brother Deason was born May 4, 1862. He departed this life April 2, 1933. When a boy of 14 years he united with the Baptist church, and for thirty-four years was a faithful minister serving many churches in the county

Brother Deason was both a faithful Christian and Mason, and leaves a record of noble acts and duties well performed over a long useful life. He was initiated an Entered Apprentice Feb. 5, 1898; passed to the degree of Fellow Craft March 5, 1898, and raised to the Sublime degree of Master Mason July 7, 1898. Because he was faithful as a man, a minister, a citizen, and as a good Mason, Be It Resolved

1. That we tender to the members of his family our fraternal sympathy.

2. That we recognize that our county, state and lodge has lost an upright and faithful steward in all the walks of life

3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the county papers for publication, and that a copy be sent to the bereaved family, and one spread upon the minutes of our Lodge.

Respectfully submitted,
—W. H. Sartor, Chm., J. R. Mullins, S. J. Ezell

Local Attorney Plays Judge At University

Lawrence Gerald Hears Mock Trial By Students

University, Ala.—A hypothetical murder case which involved several technical points of law was tried by students of the University of Alabama Law School Saturday. The presiding judge was Lawrence Gerald, Clanton attorney, who was a student in Law Dean Farrah's first class at this institution in 1913.

The evidence was prepared by the practice court class and was carried out as completely as a regular Circuit Court trial. Attorneys for the defense were John L. Johnson, of Birmingham, and George LeMaistre, of Tuscaloosa; prosecuting attorneys were Pelham Merrill of Anniston, and Thomas Huey of Birmingham.

In the trial Billy Walker of Birmingham, was tried for the murder of Frank Broadway of Cecil. Broadway, a filling station proprietor, was slain in an attempted holdup of his place of business. In his dying declaration, he accused one "Billy Walker." Several difficult points came up in regard to the death statement, hearsay evidence, and mistaken identity. The jury disagreed, and there was no verdict.

The law school faculty paid high compliments to the trial judge who handled the case very skillfully, although previously he had heard absolutely nothing of the evidence, and of the four attorneys who demonstrated skill and preparation in the trial. It is hoped to make this type of practice trial an annual event. The courtroom was packed to capacity.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford Manning

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that the farm population increased in 1931 by 648,000.

It is estimated that the farm population was 32,000,000 by the end of 1932. This total will be close to the peak of people on farms, as of January 1, 1910. In other words, there are as many people living on the farms as at any time in the history of this country. The South has never had a decrease in rural population. The white rural population of the South increased 1,939,476 from 19120 to 1930. The percentage of increase in rural white population has been even greater during 1931 and 1932. The department describes the increase as the largest and most significant in the ten years that population changes have been estimated. A little while ago one rural community took a census and found sixty additional people. These people had moved in so quietly that no one realized the community had increased so much in such a short time.

The bureau believes that a considerable part of the farmward movement in normal years consists of persons who have had some farm experience antedating their city life. On the other hand, it is believed that comparatively few persons who move from farms to cities have previously lived in cites.

People are gong back to the farms in large numbers, with mingled hope and fear, after looking for work in the cities. Many of those returning to the farms allege that they have gone to stay, that the city will never claim them again. On the other hand, there are urban employers who say emphatically that they see no possibility of employing workers in the same numbers as prior to 1930. There are those who think that the cities will never again absorb labor from the country as they did in the first decade following the War. If these predictions are correct, then the rural situation takes on a quite different aspect from that which has been evident for a generation.

In the historical days the farmers were looked upon as the lower class of people, but in this modern day they are becoming equal to the other classes. Without agriculture the world would be intensely lost. Millions would starve to death, and the rest would go back to the fishing and hunting stage of our prehistoric ancestors.

Agriculture is the primary basis of wealth, and the world's stock exchange is regulated by the production of farm products.

Although according to physcal labor farming is easier to us than it was to our grandfathers, because of the modern machinery, but mentally it is harder now than it was then, because each day there is a new kind of disease or insect that the farmer has to fight.

Competition is much harder among the farmers than it once was, which makes an over-production or an under-consumption of the farmers' products.

Added Service Of L & N Is Extended

Results of the pick-up and delivery freight service on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, in operation now for little more than a month, have been sufficiently encouraging to warrant extension of the free service from 230 to 360 miles from the shipping point, it has been announced by freight traffic officials of that road. The enlarged plan goes into effect on May 10.

In addition to extending the mileage limits on which there is no extra charge for picking up and delivering freight at the store door, other stations are being added to the list of those where the service is available. Such stations, now numbering more than 500, are located in the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, Florida, Virginia, North Carolina, Indiana, Illinois Ohio and Missouri.

Under the provisions of the tariff the pick-up and delivery service applies on all less-then-carload freight with a few minor exceptions. The freight is handled by truck operators under contract with the railroad from the shipper's place of business to the freight depot at the shipping point and from the freight depot at destination to the receiver's place of business, upon request.

Beverages containing not more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight, originally in the excepted class, will soon be included in the service.

Unless otherwise provided in carriers' pick-up and delivery tariff, or in connection with the applicable freight rates or ratings, the store-door service is accorded without extra charge between points within Southern Territory on the basis of the current depot-to-depot rates on shipments moving to destinations within approximately 360 miles of the shipping point, computed via the shortest rail route. Shipments moving farther than 360 miles are to be collected or delivered, or both, on request, at the rate of ten cent per hundred pounds in addition to the published depot-to-depot rates.

Consignors and consignees who prefer to have their own vehicles pick up or deliver their less-than-carload freight are made an allowance of 5 cents per hundred pounds.

Brief Farm Facts

Mules on Alabama farms are getting old. Figures presented by F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician, Montgomery, show that 52.8 per cent of the mules on Alabama farms are 11 years old or older, and that 71.7 per cent are 9 years old or older. This information indicates the necessity for early replacement for considerable numbers of work stock.

The trench silo has solved an important problem for the small dairyman, making it possible to have a silo at extremely low cost. County agents can give detailed information.

Eighty farmers of Coffee County are planting improved Cook 307-6 cotton seed this year, reports W. M. Ray, county agent. The plantings will be made so as to prevent crossing in the fields and next fall the cotton will be ginned in such a way as to save the seed pure.

Fertilizer sales for 1933 are running about 25 per cent greater than for 1932, information from the State Department of Agriculture, Montgomery, indicates.

Timber should be treated as a farm crop and when properly managed it is one of the most profitable crops that can be grown on large areas of land, said Lyle Brown, extension forester of Auburn.

Liver Sufferers Amazed At Results Obtained From Remarkable New Treatment

Thousands Reporting Sargon Soft Mass Pills Have Brought Them Lasting Relief From Constipation—Sour Stomach—Sick Headaches — Gas—Bad Breath—Coated Tongue—Nervousness and Dizzy Spells After Everything Else Had Failed.

If Your Liver Is Not Performing Its Proper Functions—Sickness — Suffering and Ill Health Are the Inevitable Result.

Science Has Proved That Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, Laxative Pills, Herb Teas or Extracts Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Unless you have tried Sargon. Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest—it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle. thorough and natural in their action there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them.

What Negroes Are Doing

County Training School News

I notice that during the last two or three weeks fifteen or more persons have been to Fate Williams, purchasing velvet beans, cowpeas, seed corn, cotton seeds, eggs and fryers. They were not city people, but people living right in the community. Is it a fact that we can't save our seed from fall until spring? Is it not good management to hold your farm products until prices are highest? Most of us get rid of our products as soon as possible, regardless of the price and about the time of the year when we should be selling them to buy a little sugar, flour, work clothes or something of the sort, we have nothing to sell. It is nothing more than poor management when we sell our corn in the fall for 25c per bushel and buy it back in the spring for 75c per bushel. Why not try Fate Williams' practice for a change?

Don't Stop So Soon

I was talking with a lady on gardening the other day, and she made the statement that her garden was all complete. Every place in her garden was planted, and she did not need any more seed until next fall. Then she would need only turnips and mustard. Listen, folks, there is something that should be planted in your garden each month of the year. So often we do just as Mrs. A does her garden. We plant in the spring and let the stock eat the grass down in the fall, so that a row of turnips or mustard may be sown. What about those early vegetables? They will be ready for removal soon and what are you going to plant when they are gone?

The following may be planted during the month of May:

Cantaloupes—Rocky Ford or Banana—2 to 4 months; lima beans, Ga[illegible] pale or Carolina, 8 to 12 weeks; pole beans, Kentucky wonder, plant in corn field or along fence; squash, crook neck or mammoth white, 2 to 4 months

Whenever possible buy seed from regular seed houses for they specialize in handling seed which in most cases are fresh and reliable. Do not plant early varieties for late varieties, or fall varieties for spring varieties. Let us see if we can't have some year round gardens.

Helped By Cardui

Here's the true story of how Cardui helped Mrs. H. E. Dunaway, of McComb, Miss., as written by herself:

"I was sick and rather discouraged. I was so weak and thin, I was not able to do my work as it should be done. This made me fret a good deal, and did not help my condition.

"I had pains across my back and lower part of my body. My nights were spent in rolling from one side of the bed to the other, hoping I would soon go to sleep. Then when morning would come, I would be just as tired as when I went to bed. A neighbor, seeing how badly I felt, told me to try Cardui. After I had taken one bottle, I was much better. I kept on taking Cardui, and I was stronger and slept much better at night."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deep appreciation for all the favors, kindnesses and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our husband, father and grandfather. We are very grateful for the beautiful flowers and other tokens of esteem. FROM J. C. EDWARDS

Editor, Chilton County News:

Say thus saith the Lord God, behold thee o Gog, the chief prince of Metheck and Tubel (Ezk. 38:3). The fact that Ezekiel was directed to prophecy against Gog proves that the remnant whom Ezekiel pictures would not be left in ignorance concerning Gog's conspiracy and the coming assault upon God's organization which would be in their time, and that the remnant would testify against the conspirators. The conspiracy hatched in Satan's mind and prosecuted by his prince Gog may start by the commission of overt acts within the realm of the seventh world power and spread to all parts of the earth where God's people are located. Certainly Gog represents wicked forces which are anti-God and anti-Kingdom in assaulting and moving against God's Kingdom organization, including the remnant on earth and which forces reach a climax at Armageddon. We read in Jer. 33:6, Behold I will reveal unto them the abundance of peace and truth. Following the downfall of the enemy organization all creation shall be brought to an accurate knowledge of the truth. The greatest truth is that Jehovah is the only true God and the next great truth is that Christ Jesus is God's king, the rightful ruler of earth by virtue of the authority conferred upon him by Jehovah and that his kingdom will afford the opportunity for all men to be reconciled an restored to God.

Christ Jesus's sacrifice was absolutely necessary that man might be redeemed. The kingdom is necessary that men may know Jehovah and Christ Jesus and may be restored. The great name, fame and good reputation of Jehovah is therefore the most important of all questions. The people must know that Jehovah is God and Christ is King in order to find life. There is a difference in living and having a right to live.

DIZZINESS
relieved by Black-Draught

"I decided to take Thedford's Black-Draught, as I had been having bilious spells," writes Mr. Charles E. Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I get bilious, I feel sleepy and tired and do not feel like doing my work. It is hard to tell how I feel, but I do not feel good. I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something. After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. I guess it rids me of the bile, for I feel better—don't feel like I am dropping off to sleep every time I sit down. That, to me, is a very bad feeling."

Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

Boswell, and Thomas Steele, singing three songs each.

This brought us to the noon hour and we shared a bountiful dinner.

We were called to order at one-fifteen by I. D. Huett. Directors for the afternoon were L. T. Grant, Archie Devaughn, J. W. Cagle, Lee Grant, W. J. Gilliland, G. C. Weldon, J. R. Robinson, T. E. Rev. W. A. Goss dismissed with prayer.

Lauds Action Of Local Physicians In Forming Clinic Giving Free Examinations In Clanton

Following is a letter from Mr. G. C. Powell in which he speaks very highly of the recently formed clinic which is held in Clanton every morning:

Editor, Chilton County News:

I want to say a few words through your paper about the Chilton County Clinic organized by some of our doctors and held at the hospital every morning. It is of great value to our community. It is a place where those who are able to pay can get the opnion and service of several doctors working together, which is much better than one doctor alone, and those who are unable to pay are getting the kind and careful attention of these doctors so far as examination is concerned and are given a free diagnosis and, in some cases, free treatment.

However, any thinking person must realize that this group of doctors can not undertake to give free treatment to all who might come for it, or even free diagnosis to those who are well able to financially pay for service. Again, I say it is a great help to Clanton and surrounding community.

In my way of thinking, the most needed thing for Chilton county is a community hospital service on a co-operative plan whereby one could get such service at a rate that would be in keeping with the paying ability of our middle class of people. In these hard times, a man must be almost rich to pay a hospital bill or else be so poor he can pay nothing and depend on charity; and this last class has almost ruined our hospitals. This burden has been so great that it has closed the doors of many of them.

What I think we need is some co-operative plan whereby one could pay a reasonable amount in advance for such service and get it when needed. I have, for a long time, been on such a list to a Birmingham hospital and have found the service satisfactory; the only trouble being, it is too far away, and takes too long and too much expense for patients and friends to reach the hospital.

What we need is some such arrangements here in our own community or home town where we could have our sick ones near us and be able to see them and have them near at hand and avoid the great loss of time in getting to a hospital which might mean the difference of life and death to the patient and surely means expense in money and time to family and friends.

Yours very truly,
G. C. POWELL.

STATE'S DEBT

proximately $900,000 of this amount. The Supreme Court in its recent decision, while not directly settling the debt question, intimated very strongly that the floating debt of the State is illegal as it now stands.

The McDaniel amendment also writes into the Constitution of Alabama the main provisions of the Fletcher budget act which provides against future deficits and debts in this language. "To prevent future deficits in the State treasury, it shall be unlawful from and after the adoption of this amendment for the State Comptroller of the State of Alabama to draw any warrant or order for the payment of monies belonging to, or administered by the State of Alabama upon the State Treasurer, unless there is in the hands of such treasurer money appropriated and available for the full payment of the same. Any person violating any of the provisions of this amendment shall upon conviction be punished by a fine of not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than two years, one or both, at the discretion of the jury trying the same and the violation of any of the provisions of this amendment shall be grounds for impeachment."

The amendment provides that the Governor is not prevented from paying five per cent interest on the outstanding debt, or less if he so desires, and that this interest shall be paid out of the proceeds of any income tax which the people may authorize. In other words, unless the income tax amendment is also adopted the McDaniel amendment, while making outstanding warrants legal, will provide no method by which they can be made interest bearing or be finally paid.

It was learned at the Capitol Monday that scores of banks in Alabama hold State warrants as collateral for loans and for advances made to warrant holders. These amounts range from $5,000 in some banks to as much as a half million in others. At least two-thirds and probably three-fourths of the banks of Alabama hold these State warrants. And where banks hold no State warrants, they hold county warrants for which State warrants issued to the counties for school purposes are collateral.

The grave importance of the McDaniel amendment came to the front with the hint of the Alabama Supreme Court that the floating debt of the State is probably illegal. Thousands of warrant holders are affected, including individuals, banks, mercantile establishments and county treasuries. If the people turn down the McDaniel amendment, the view is being generally expressed that the holders of Alabama's unpaid warrants will have little hope left that the money will ever be paid.

LAST RITES FOR WILEY SMITH

Aged Citizen Passed Away At His Home Here Last Sunday

In tribute to one of Chilton county's leading citizens and pioneer business men—all Clanton business firms closed during the funeral services, Monday afternoon, for James Wiley Smith, father of Mayor J. Lee Smith, who died early Sunday at his home in South Clanton. Mr. Smith was 73 years of age.

Although Mr. Smith had been in ill health for the past five years, he was seriously ill for only a few days.

Beginning his career as a school teacher in his native county of Clay, Mr. Smith removed at an early age to Chilton county and after continuing his vocation of teaching for four years, he became engaged in the mercantile business which he followed until his retirement in 1922.

In 1891 he opened a general mercantile business in Cooper. Several years later he removed to Sylacauga and established a business there, which he operated for only one year before he went to Bristow, Okla., and was engaged in the mercantile business for about seven years.

Returning to Clanton in 1914, he established, with his son, J. Lee Smith, Clanton's first wholesale business, in which connection he remained until his retirement in 1922.

Mr. Smith was a member of the Clanton Baptist church and was prominently known over the county and state.

Surviving Mr. Smith are four sons, Mayor J. Lee Smith, M. V. Smith, both of Clanton, F. O. Smith and Dewey Smith, of Elmore; one daughter, Mrs. Ruth Lowe, of Clanton; and one sister, Mrs. Alice Kelley, of Anniston.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock from the Clanton Baptist church. Dr. S. J. Ezell officiated. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery.

The following friends served as pall bearers:

Dr. E. G. Hyman, Tom Taylor, Dave Easterling, Tom Patterson, Jim Popwell and G. C. Harris.

Martin & Sons were in charge.

W. J. FIQUETTE LAID TO REST

Was Well Known Trader In Livestock; Born In Coosa County

Funeral services for William Jackson Fiquette, 53, prominent resident of Clanton, who died Saturday morning at his home, following an extended illness, were conducted Sunday afternoon from the Shiloh Baptist church, where he had been a member for more than thirty years. Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church and the Rev. R. P. Cochran, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church, officiated.

Born in Coosa county, Mr. Fiquette at an early age removed to the Shiloh community, where he was married thirty-five years ago to Miss Ida Lou Poole.

During the construction of the several power sites on the Coosa and Tallapoosa rivers, Mr. Fiquette was employed as a foreman by the Alabama Power Company; and while engaged in this capacity during the constructon of the Martin Dam, at Cherokee Bluff, he suffered a paralytic stroke which he never thoroughly overcame.

Returning to Clanton, he made his home here until his death. He was prominently known over the entire county.

Surviving him are: His widow, Mrs. Ida Lou Poole Fiquette; three sons, Walter, of Decatur, William (Bill), and Clarence, both of Clanton; three daughters, Mrs. J. D. Thompson and Miss Gertie Mae Fiquette, of Clanton, and Mrs. C. W. Wade, Jr., of Decatur, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Eliza Fiquette, of the Shiloh community.

The following friends served as pallbearers:

People Reminded Of Poppy Sale

All World War veterans of Chilton county were urged to pay honor to their fallen comrades by wearing a memorial Poppy on Poppy Day, Saturday, May 27, in a message issued Monday by R. D. Woodson, Commander of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion. Commander Woodson declared that the wearing of the poppy is the individual way to show remembrance for the war dead and devotion to the ideals for which they gave their lives. The message stated:

"On Saturday, May 27, America will pay its annual tribute to the men who gave their lives in defense of the country in 1917 and 1918 by wearing the memorial poppy. I am sure that every World War veteran and all other patriotic citizens of Chilton county will wear this token of remembrance on that day. Wearing the poppy means that we have not forgotten our comrades who fell amid the poppies of France and that we are carrying on for America in their spirit.

"The poppies will be offered on the streets here by the women of the American Legion Auxiliary, our wives, mothers, sisters and daughters. They have volunteered for this work, giving their services without thought of personal gain. Disabled veterans have made the poppies which they will distribute, and the contributions they will receive will go entirely to the relief of needy veterans and veterans' families. Be sure not only to wear a poppy on Poppy Day, but be sure to wear an American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary poppy."

LOCAL CLINIC

real cause of his trouble, it was explained. This is not really a fault of the practicing physician for the numerous demands on his time make it impossible for him to study scientifically individual cases. "The principal idea in establishing this clinic was to make the Central Alabama hospital the medical center of Chilton county. The tragedy that swept this county little more than a year ago, one day after the closing of the hospital, proved that it is not only an asset, but an essential to this section," Dr. Gragg stated.

The clinic is open each morning from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Collaborate examinations by the three regular physicians and other Chilton county physicians who care to participate are given. Each day since the clinic was opened the number who came for diagnosis have ranged from one to twelve.

Declaring that the whole system of practicing medicine will be subjected to drastic changes within the next few years and confident that the Central Alabama hospital clinic is an innovation in medical science in Chilton county, Dr. Gragg said that if any clubs or other civic organizations are interested in the work that is being done that one of the staff physicians will gladly attend one of their regular meetings and outline the entire system.

CLEAN-UP

look bright and shiny in our town and the Kiwanis Club, Pilot Club and city officials are urgng everyone to keep busy in this clean-up campaign.

Considerable work is being done in our city cemetery, under the direction of J. Mell Martin, a member of the Kiwanis Club. The cemetery recently underwent considerable cleaning from the Pilot Club and it is being given another general cleaning and straightening up. This is one spot in Clanton that needs attention frequently and should be made a spot of beauty.

Residents in the rural sections of Chilton county should take interest in this campaign and join in with the spirit that is prevailing in Clanton to "clean things up." This has been suggested and is not a suggestion to be passed up. Each community could start a clean-up campaign of their own and work wonders in beautifying their homes and property.

Workers who have been signed up on R. F. C. funds have been available to Clanton in this campaign and the early part of this week have been used in the cemetery. However, it was stated that these workers would be released to work in different sections of the city throughout the remainder of the campaign, which ends on May 13th.

TORNADO HITS HELENA LAST FRIDAY MORN

12 Dead And Many Injured As Twister Travels In Shelby County

Striking with all the fury that demon winds can possess, the little Shelby by county hamlet of Helena was devastated just before dawn Friday morning, when a tornado that swept through Mississippi and Alabama hit the little mining village when most of its population were asleep, leaving twelve dead and more than fifty injured—and what was once a thrifty little town lay in scattered ruins.

After a night of elementary fury—when heavy claps of thunder and blinding flashes of lightning followed each other with almost constant rapidity—the winds, sweeping up from the southwest, struck the little mining town, nestled in the hills of Shelby county — just off the Birmingham-Montgomery highway — about 3:30 o'clock. Through the darkness and above the noise of the torrents of rain that beat down on the ruins and bodies of the dead, could be heard the agonized screams of the injured, pinned underneath the debris, while for more than three hours ambulance men and rescue workers labored to get through timber-covered roads leading into the town.

The storm also struck Demopolis, where two were killed; Centerville; Brent, killing three, Union Grove, Adamsville and other communities thru that section. Coalmont, four miles from Helena, too, was practically swept off the map, and twenty homes were

MRS. E. THOMAS AND CHILDREN BADLY INJURED

Wife Of Vocational Teacher Has A Narrow Escape In Accident

Mrs. Earle Thomas and her two small daughters suffered severe injuries, Monday afternoon, when the car in which they were riding collided with a truck at the intersection of the Birmingham-Montgomery highway and the Maplesville highway.

Mrs. Thomas and the children, Hazel 8, and Reita 6, were rushed to the Central Alabama hospital in a Spigener ambulance, where it was reported that their condition was not thought to be serious. Hazel suffered possible internal injuries and a possible injury to her back; Mrs. Thomas was not thought to be seriously hurt, and Reita received a severe laceration on her left knee, according to physicians who examined the victims. Williene, a smaller child, was not injured.

F. V. Hancock, who was driving the truck, declared that Mrs. Thomas failed to stop before driving on to the highway and said he sounded his horn, but was unable to stop before striking her car. They were en route to Tampa, Florida, for a load of fruit.

Mrs. Thomas was returning from a meeting at the court house in Clanton to her home at Isabella. She is the wife of Earle Thomas, vocational teacher at the Isabella High School.

"I des wants you tohep me mak' nintty Whitefolks-" was the plea of old Uncle John Zigler, 89-year-old ex-slave, to the members of the commissioners' court, Monday morning, when he appeared before that body to plead for help to get his patches plowed.

When asked if he expected to die when he reached ninety, the old negro replied, "I speck so—but you'all help me and I let you know."

Someone asked the old negro how he had been making a living. "I'se been 'swamping' for de white folks," he answered, "but that was 80 what was a 'swamping'—90 can't 'swamp'," he declared as he shuffled out.

Those Who Have Only Nine Toes May Beware

It wasn't blessings that were breathed on the "barefoot" boy by members of the commissioners' court, when they heard this story.

When the road crews went to work Monday morning, they found that thirty-five gallons of gas had been stolen from one of the machines.

Back and forth through the freshly plowed field near the machine was a beaten path by a "barefooted" person. An incompleteness in the right foot print showed that a big toe is missing. Four irate commissioners are looking for a "barefooted" boy, with nine toes.

Don't Forget Mother On

MOTHERS DAY

Sunday, May 14th

Another year has rolled around since last we observed the day set apart for honoring Mothers. Another year has been added to the ages of Mothers.

Next Sunday, May 14th, is Mother's Day. Don't forget her. Since you were a tiny tot, not able to get about yourself, she has not forgotten you, and during the many years of childhood, she was right there to see that you were given the best she could give, always.

Mother's Day is to recall memories of the Mothers who have passed to the beyond and to pay special tributes of affection to those living. Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, originated the idea of Mother's Day, which was observed in several cities in 1910.

After several women had spoken in behalf of the work in the county—and Miss Ruth Dobine, of the Auburn staff, rendered a general outline of the purposes and accomplishments of home demonstration work and cited its progress in other counties, Commissioner C. D. Duke made a motion to employ an agent for six months as a trial.

Commissioners Cobb and Atchison voted with Mr. Duke. Commissioner Mims was opposed to the move. Judge Reynolds also declared he favored the adoption of home demonstration work in this county.

EARLY START ON PROJECT IS BEING URGED

Three Mile Territory Taken In On Proposed Work Around Clanton

At last—after more than a decade of earnest effort on the part of many citizens in Clanton and surrounding territory—work will soon begin on the ditching and draining of several miles of swamps which surround the entire town, and for many years have afforded breeding places for mosquitoes and flies.

Plans for a three-phase project, drawn and submitted by engineers of the state health department, were submitted by a group of citizens to the members of the commissioners' court, Tuesday morning, in a petition for county aid in the furtherance of this project. After lengthy discussion it was agreed that approximately fifty employes can be furnished from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds available to the county for this work

Mayor J. Lee Smith called a special meeting of the town council at noon Tuesday and it was voted that the town of Clanton supply necessary funds for purchasing tools and equipment that cannot be bought with R.F.C. funds

A Home Demonstration Agent

Anyone who has years of training in economy in the home, whether the town home or the rural home, is certainly in a position to be worth a great deal to those who perhaps have not been so fortunate as to have this expert training. This is true with the Home Demonstration Agents, something Chilton county has not had in many years.

It perhaps would not be in line for us to say that Chilton county needs a home demonstration agent; that our women are in need of being taught things about the home. We are too inclined to believe that the women of our county are of the progressive type and that we as a whole, are a progressive people. But our argument is for a home demonstration agent for our county, and we do not believe we could find one woman who would refuse to listen to the experience of such a worker who has had expert training in this line.

We have had occasion to see the work of home demonstration agents in other counties, and believe that an agent would be welcomed to the homes of our county, once it is seen just how her work is done and the benefits derived from it. A home demonstration agent for our county would not mean a great deal of expense. Her work could be likened to the work of a relief agency in that it teaches our women and girls of the latest methods in dress making, canning and homemaking, economy in the home and methods of marketing home products.

Success To New Administration

One need not be a member of President Roosevelt's political party to admire the quickness and aggressiveness with which he has set his administration to solving the major problems of the day.

The handling of the banking crisis is being rapidly followed by the same sort of decisive action on other problems. Toward every issue he has touched, has been exhibited candor and fearlessness. He is laying permanently at rest the fear that he might pursue an occasionally radical course—his speeches to the American people, with his reiterated stand for sound money, less bureaucracy, decisive cuts in the cost of government, have met the overwhelming approval of the public. And that approval is evidenced in the Congress by a disposition to obey the President's every impulse—as is shown by its rapid passage of his emergency and economy measures.

To wish success for President Roosevelt is simply to wish success for one's state, one's business, one's self. In him is the hope of the American people for recovery and for a great future. His administration has got off to a brilliant start—may there be no wavering during its existence.

Sow Spring Safety Seeds Early

As winter begins to relax, golfers start thinking of fairways, fishermen of cool streams trickling away in the mountains, families of rides on warm, bright Sunday afternoons and in the twilight of the rapidly lengthening evenings. It's time to get the family automobile ready for another season.

Let us pause for a moment to consider the new season. Will it be like the last? Will it cost the lives of 29,500 more Americans? Will it bring serious and painful injury to nearly a million more? Will it cause an economic loss to the nation in excess of two billion dollars? That's the record of the 1932 automobile season. It should never be repeated.

It is true that there were fewer accidents and fatalities last year than there were in 1931, but much of the reduction was accounted for by decreased use of automobiles. On the other hand, safety workers and educators in accident prevention can view the results with a certain personal pride. If their teachings are beginning to gain results, or if the tragic record of the past is beginning to influence the man behind the steering wheel, we may look with greater hope to 1933.

"Get out the family car by all means," says James A. Beha, General Manager, National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. "Make sure it's in perfect condition. Have it inspected as to brakes, lights, steering mechanism, tires, rear vision mirrors and wind-shield wipers —all the small equipment which means so much to safety. Then resolve to drive safely, obey traffic laws and think of the other fellow."

If you do this, you'll have a happy year, unmarred by tragedy. Too, in these days of strictly regulated family budgets, it is worth remembering that high automobile insurance rates are the inevitable result of a high accident record—and that only safe driving can bring them down.

There is a new attitude abroad in the land. This began to be seen some months ago, and came to culmination with the bank holidays and their subsequent reopening. Where the average citizen was once frankly dubious as to the future of the country, he now believes that recovery is in the process of starting—that bottom actually has been reached, and that we are ready for the up-climb. Partisan politics has been forgotten. Practically unanimous support is being given the Roosevelt Administration by newspapers and individuals of all shades of political opinion.

Under the present banking plan, no bank can issue gold or gold certificates without express permission from the Treasury Department. However, gold is coming out of hoarding so rapidly that it is even forecast this stipulation may be removed within a short time.

"ROUND TOWN"
---by Doug

The Almighty Dollar. That "thing" that causes pains in the neck and stomach, causes misunderstandings and wars, divorces and murders. The "Elusive Dollar" so to speak, is beginning to weaken and listen to reason. Listen to the appeals of us forgotten men, including farmers and newspapermen and bankers and merchants.

We all have been devoting our thoughts on how to get our hands on a dollar (a dime would do sometimes) and it is being shown that time, patience and perseverance will win out, because that elusive dollar is about to give up and come back into its folds and pocketbooks.

What is a dollar? Well, a dollar is a thing. It has no arms, no legs and no wings. Yet it is about the hardest thing to catch and lay your hands on. It might be compared to a slippery eel, or something just as slippery. Reminding me of the man who said, "I'd give a thousand dollars if I was a millionaire."

Noted in last week's News that the Democrats will hold a meeting next Tuesday to devise ways and means of reducing taxes in Chilton county. Boy, these Democrats are going to be mighty hard to get around now with Mr. Roosevelt, that "Democratic man of the hour" up in Washington making things hum. The local Democrats are working right in line with the President's idea of bringing our government and country back to the people, the idea that is sweeping the whole country. It is even going into Republican counties too. That is what you call real democracy of the people, for the people and by the people. That is what the Democratic party offers you—and is giving you.

Chilton County is now in a position to extend deepest sympathy to the people of Shelby, Marengo and Bibb counties. These three counties were struck last week by one of those terrible twisters that wiped out the greater part of Helena and other places. Helena being the greatest sufferer.

It is a splendid opportunity for Clanton and Chilton county to get busy and show appreciation for the relief that was sent down here to our people in March, 1932, when we really needed it.

When people visit Clanton on Saturday they really visit. My hat is off to the hundreds and hundreds of visitors in town last Saturday, and what's more, our merchants report a good business. I thought maybe I'd like to mention the name of everyone who visited Clanton, in this column, but decided last Saturday that I'd need several columns to take care of them. But I'll be at the News office next Saturday and if any of you folks drop in, I'll be glad to talk with you on any subject.

To My Dear Friend, Dooker Pooker:- Hear me, O Dook, I am in a predicament. One of my closest friends, and enemies, has gone and allowed hisself to be hornswoggled, whipped, mashed, tramped and otherwise subdued by one of those necessary evils, a woman. He has weakened and allowed his resistance to be broken down, and despite my pleas and prayers, he will be completely taken over this month. Yes, the Ed is the fellow who will soon have the yoke on his neck. Now, I'm appealing to you to try to attempt to aid me in getting the Ed to reconsider or something. I've offered him some of your Pretty Pills, but he says it's no use. Isn't there something that can be done before the 25th of this month, when he will be completely and totally subdued? You know, I always thought the Ed was immune, but the most recent attack by a member of the fairer sex has whipped him down. Please advise me if there is anything that can be done about it, before it is too late.

Your servant, Doug.

Well, I'll just have to sit and wait for the Dook's reply. You all remember Dooker Pooker, the International Authority on the Subject of Wimmin. Unless he can come to help me, I'm afraid the Ed is going to depart from the company of the bachelors round town, and secure a Bachelor for a companion.

Saw our old friend Zack Appleton in town Monday. Zack is a friend to everyone. Folks up in Collins Chapel will remember him well, and they all like him too. He had been down here for the Memorial Day at Salem church, and was on his way to Ft. Payne Monday.

Valueless Dollars

It probably never occurs to most of us that there is such a thing as valueless money. And it isn't counterfeit either. Millions of honest and legitimate good dollars in this country are now absolutely valueless and useless.

This is the money that drops out of circulation. It is hoarded money. Its owners keep it in safe deposit boxes or in teapots or buried in the back yard.

Money has no intrinsic value—its value is determined by what it can do when it is working. When out of work, it is as useless as would be a number of similar sized pieces of tin. It isn't paying taxes or meeting dividends or employing labor or buying supplies. It isn't doing its part in keeping the wheels of enterprise turning.

There are two distinct ways of putting money back into circulation. One is depositing it in commercial or savings accounts in banks, purchasing government or other high-grade securities. The other is by buying needed articles or effecting necessary repairs. And this way is the best of all. The money spent serves a double purpose. It provides employment and alleviates distress—and it obtains for the spender the supplies and repairs at the lowest price since pre-war days.

Put at least part of the dollar in furnace renovation, into a new roof or other house repairs or paint, into some labor saving appliance, into plumbing or yard work. You'll get about twice the value you'd have gotten three years ago—and you will have helped the cause of recovery.

America needs more jobs, and less charity. It needs more spending—wise spending, that gets honest and permanent values in return.

Remember that right now "investment and employment are cheaper than charity."

The Administration's stand on gold hoarding is producing even better results than were anticipated. When the banks opened queues of people stood in lines at tellers' windows—not to withdraw money, but to deposit gold coin and certificates. Hundreds of millions of dollars of gold has been returned to circulation.

MORAL ECHOES
D. W. Haskew

I had a friend who was very dear to me. This man decided that he would cross the Atlantic and visit the Holy land. The ship lifted anchor in the Hudson Bay and my friend sailed out over the waters. In a few days the ocean rolled between us, but that did not separate us in the least. We loved each other just as much as we loved before he left me anl we lived in each other more than we did when we were together. An ocean divided us but we were not lost to each other. Many of my friends have crossed the bar and have gone out into the sea of eternity. They have left me behind but we are not lost to each other. We love and live in each other more tenderly than when we were in the flesh together. Death is the great divider. Death takes our loved ones out to sea, but death does not make us strangers to each other. Our loved ones may be on the other side, but we live in each other and we love each other just the same.

While traveling along the highway I saw a beautiful cedar standing on the banks of a ditch. The soil was bare and bleak where the little cedar stood, but it was a perfect picture of health and growth. I stopped long enough to investigate why that three could be so beautiful while its food supply was so scarce. I saw a large runner as it had dug its way down the bank of the ditch and under its bottom and had gone out into a rich meadow. From the meadow it was drawing up the moisture and the strength that made it so fresh and beautiful. It was feeding from the food supplies on the other side of the ditch. In this world we often find beautiful characters occupying unlikely places, and we wonder from whence they find the food supply that makes them so attractive. Faith has dug thru all the problems of life and is now feeding from the meadows of another world. Rich and beautiful grows the soul that feeds itself on the food from another world.

We read this proverb in the Bulgarian language, "There is not one big bridge, there is not one tall building, if it is to last, that does not have some human life and soul at its foundation to give it strength and life." It would surprise any one of us to see the records of any great bridge, or building in our country and see how many lives went into the structure. How many lives were woven into our railroad systems? How many lives are resting under our national highways? Near where I was pastor a bridge was being built and I was called upon to try and comfort seven widows and mothers who lost their husbands and sons in an accident. The life blood of eight men finally went in to consecrate the foundation of that structure. Often we stand and admire the great works of the toiling men, but we rarely ever think to reverence the sacrifice that he has made to build. Almost every great structure is sanctified by the life blood of some workman.

A kind-hearted old gentleman came to the parsonage door. He was more than eighty years of age, but his spirit was young. He let me know that he had never joined any church. I expressed astonishment that he should have lived so long without church membership and without a Christian experience. He replied in a jolly mood, "Why my brother, there is time enough yet." He was not far from the edge of his grave, and yet he said, "There is time enough yet." The devil has no more effective plan by which to capture a human heart than to make him believe that there is time enough for the salvation of the soul. He argues this to the boys and girls, to the young men and women, to all of us who are in middle life and even on down to the valley of the shadow of death, "There is time enough yet." The devil is not a fool and I rather think that he knows that every man should be saved, but he is making his appeal on the argument that there is still time enough to seek God. It never pays to put off until tomorrow the matters that should be settled today. Let every lost soul warn you in this language, "There is danger in delay."

The quickest way to make something popular is to pass a law against it.

Some live to a ripe old age, while others remain green or become rotten.

If everything else fails, why not try a return to the wampum standard?

Having the right of way doesn't help much when an idiot is driving the other car.

A human skull with horns was found in Oregon. Maybe Old Nick is dead at last.

It's best to begin at the bottom, unless one happens to be a well digger or a diver.

AGRICULTURE

The Second of a Series of Articles

By Clifford M. Manning

Heavy rains have caused the Alabama farmers to mark time this year, and to use all the favorable weather possible in preparing their land. Disc plows, turn plows and harrows have been preparing land, followed by planting in some sections. Most of the cultivatible land of the state has been plowed or will be plowed between now and late spring, which will bring the total to approximately 8,250,000 acres for cotton, corn and other summer crops.

In 1932 Alabama land in cultivation totaled 8,232,000 acres. It is probable that more will be planted this spring because the farm population has increased.

Soil preparation this spring will include 225,000 acres on which hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas grew during the winter to add nitrogen and humus to the soil. The legumes are being turned under now, and some have already been turned under. The estimated value of the nitrogen in these legumes is about $1,600,000. The Alabama acreage that was in winter legumes this year is the largest ever planted, and Alabama is the leading state in the nation in growing winter legumes. So you see what our farm demonstration agents are doing in our state.

Another feature of the time is the strawberry industry. Express shipments of strawberries has been going from all over the state. Conecuh, Escambia, Chilton, Cullman, and Marshall are about the leading strawberry counties of the state. Probably Chilton is the leading county of the state.

An optimistic report concerning probable boll weevil activties in 1933 was made by Prof. J. M. Robinson, entomologist at Auburn. Prof. Robinson thinks depredations this year will not be as great as before, because a frost early last November destroyed the insects' fall food supply and the cold weather of February was another blow. However, by saying that summer weather conditions may be very favorable so that weevils which do emerge will do more damage is indicated.

Oak Grove News

We had a fine singing here Sunday afternoon. Had a good crowd of visitors, although the weather was dark and threatening. Mr. H. H. Godfrey of Bessemer was a very welcome guest. Mr. Godfrey sings with the Riley Quartet and is well known about here. Mr. W. J. Northcutt called the meeting to order, and led the opening song, which was followed by prayer by Mr. Oscar Cobb.

The following directors then led the choir singing: Messrs. Cleo Gay, Henry Godfrey, Burl Martin, Cobern Cofer, Gordon Crumpton, Buster Lowery, Velpo Mims, Sam Collins, Ellis Martin, and Mrs. Johnnie Collum. Organists were Mrs. Velpo Mims, Mrs. Bertha Martin, Miss Violet Martin and Mrs. Homer Webb.

The Providence and Oak Grove quartets also sang several songs each.

We have our singing here every first Sunday afternoon and everyone interested in singing is invited to come and be with us.

Miss Gladys Cobb is sick this week.

Mr. Lassie Northcutt is improving nicely.

The Oak Grove ball team played Mars Hill Saturday afternoon, and lost the game; the score being 14 to 0 in favor of Mars Hill.

Mrs. Grace Gwyn and mother visited the latter's daughter in Birmingham Sunday.

Mr. Bob Killingsworth lost his house by fire Monday.

The play, "Dot, The Miner's Daughter," will be presented here next Saturday night, May 13th. Admission will be 10 and 15 cents, the proceeds to be used for the benefit of the church.

We invite everyone to come and spend about two hours with us which we are sure you will enjoy. Miss Roberta Satterwhite plays the part of Dot, the leading character in the play. Be sure to see Mrs. Bertha Martin and Sam Collins as the Darkey characters, also plenty of comedy throughout the play. You won't be disappointed.

Appreciation

I wish to thank the following persons for the good showing they have made on building up the terraces I laid off and for continuing the yard beautification as planned: Ralph Oden, Bud Barbour, A. T. Holifield, Ben Looney, Will Allen, Mesdames L. A. Draper and Howell.

Many people tell me that they appreciate my help so much, but when I visit them later, I find the same old conditions as before. If you appreciate my help, I'd prefer that you show me. Actions speak much louder than words.

N. F. A. Club Busy

The N. F. A. Club is busy getting ready for the Annual Conference at Tuskegee. The N. F. A. met Monday night to consider further plans of raising money. Heretofore only a few boys have attended the conference. We are expecting to carry at least 15 boys and an equal number of farmers and ministers. Rev. N. C. Shepard, R. C. Mixon and E. W. Burt, are all planning to make the trip.

Garden Contest Nears End

Those boys who are taking part in the garden contest have only a few weeks left. Those who kept busy all the while will find that it pays to strike while the iron is hot. You had better learn all of the varieties of vegetables in your garden and check closely to see that few, if any, insects are found in your garden.

Is Nitrate of Soda Poison?

A man said to me the other day that he didn't eat anything that had been side-dressed with Soda. In fact he didn't use any commercial fertilizer under his vegetables. I asked him if he ever bought canned vegetables, cabbage, watermelons, that were shipped from Florida or anything of the kind. The answer was yes. If highly fertilized vegetables from Florida will not hurt you it appears to me that the same would be true here.

OFFERS ASSISTANCE IN TAX REDUCTION

Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Sir:

Notice is now being published in the papers advising taxpayers of the County that in order to get reductions in their assessments that objections must be filed with Akin I. Collins, Tax Assessor, on or before the last Monday in May, which is May 29th and that these objections will be heard on the first Monday in June.

Last year many people entitled to reductions in taxes failed to properly file their objections and I want to urge that every one entitled to relief from oppressive taxes should file their objections in writing with the Tax Assessor promptly. The objections can not be considered by the Board of Review unless filed on or before May 29th and it is only necessary that the taxpayer set out the description of each item of property and his reasons for making objections to the assessed valuation of his property. Blanks for this purpose are available at the Probate Office and if you desire to get a reduction in taxes or file objections to the valuation now placed on your property, I will render you all assistance possible in preparing this blank.

Yours respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

Liver Sufferers Amazed At Results Obtained From Remarkable New Treatment

Thousands Reporting Sargon Soft Mass Pills Have Brought Them Lasting Relief From Constipation—Sour Stomach—Sick Headaches — Gas—Bad Breath—Coated Tongue—Nervousness and Dizzy Spells After Everything Else Had Failed.

If Your Liver Is Not Performing Its Proper Functions—Sickness — Suffering and Ill Health Are the Inevitable Result.

Science Has Proved That Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, Laxative Pills, Herb Teas or Extracts Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest—it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and natural in their action there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them. .. Only 60c for a full 30-day treatment. At your druggist, or write G. F. Willis, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

The Junior-Senior party given by the Junior class was held at the home of Miss Edith Foss last Saturday night. A Senior menu for a Senior evening was followed during the evening and was as follows: Course I. Refreshing appetizer which was a cocktail. Course II. Join a social group and a comfortable chair. Course III. Melody of Love rendered by Miss Linnie Bell Reinhardt on the piano. Course VI. A plate of edible viands, accessories and Adonis ale. Course V. Arise and go north, south, east or west, join another social group and a comfortable chair. Course VI. Selection rendered by Misses Mary Sue Porter and Verlon Goodgame. Couse VII. A cooling repast and water with little berry in it. Course VIII. Farewell to class of '33 by Mr. Conway Thornburgh. Course IX. Alma Mater. Course X. Gazing into the future which was a basket of candy given to the members of the Senior class and a horoscope. Those fortunate to be present at this gala affair were Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Sutlive, Miss Lillian McKee (class teacher), the members of the Senior class: Alice Simpson, Juan[illegible] Each, Kathryn Lenoir, Ruth Primm, Lois Thompson, Helen Low[illegible], Mary Bratton, Edna Lee Wilder, Conradine Pate, Brady Billingsley, Carl Ekblad, J. T. Faircloth, Guy Higgins, Leo Spivey, and the Juniors: Helen Albert, Olive Absher, Lorine McGlawn, Ida Lou Pate, Roof Pitts, Mary Louise Bates, Linnie Bell Reinhardt, Dorothy Von Franklin, Mary Sue Porter, Willo Dean Bean, Dulcie Hayes, Verlon Goodgame, Hal Broadhead, Lawrence Gerald, Jr., Rosamond Sammons, C. B. Jean, Conway Thornburgh and George Nix.

The following was the "Farewell to the Class of '33" given by Mr. Conway Thornburgh. "I have been delegated the supreme pleasure of telling you good-bye for the Junior class. Our sorrow at the passing of this, another Senior class, is immeasurable, perhaps I should say, unmeasurable, at least without a microscope. I am sure everyone feels that you have done a great deal for the school, especially, graduating. So we wish you all the best of luck, and it will be luck, in your exams. The unhappy prospect of seeing some of your bright and shining noses next year would prompt us to give you any aid possible, but don't ask us to!

"We devoutly hope that you will not bequest to us any of the attempted dignity assured by some of your classmates. May we as seniors set a good example to next year's juniors, an example that is sadly needed. In past years we have had reason to be proud of our Senior classes and so it is with sorrow that we see this present one let loose upon the unsuspecting world. We hope that next year our school will be able to regain some of the prestige it has recently lost.

'It is customary to say nice things about the different members of departing classes, and though hard to do in this case I shall attempt it. We will start at the bottom of the class and go up, taking the president first of course.

"You have chosen for your hymn, 'Marching With the Heroes,' which shows your unmitigated conceit! That line, 'till we are heroes too,' what conscienceless gall! Let us see then about these heroes of old!

"Can't you just hear old Icarius, the man who tried to fly, but went too near the sun and got his wings melted, groaning as he sees Carl Ekblad marching along with him.

"And poor old Apollo, how his knees must smite together as J. T. Faircloth joins the procession. How John, who was known for his furious driving, must blush with shame as Brady Billingsley overtakes him in a cloud of dust!

"Gladys Smith has already proved that she can show Beauty herself a few things about taming wild beasts.

"We can easily imagine the stifled rage of Sappho, who founded such a wonderful school in old Greece, as Lois Thompson falls into step beside her.

"We have all seen pictures of the Sphinx which has been silent for so many thousand years! Can't you just see that satisfied smile vanish as it catches sight of Kathryn Lenoir headed for Piedmont!

While we are seeing things, can't you imagine the chagrin of Helen of Troy whose face sunk a thousand ships and burned the topless towers of Ilium, as Conradine Pate muscles in on her racket!

Wing-footed Mercury, too, must bow as Guy Higgins charges up.

"And Nimrod, too, the mighty hunter, as Leo Spivey is seen hiking along, slaying snakes with Hawkeye's spear.

"The Simon Vestals of Rome had merely to turn their thumbs down to have a man killed, but we have that many who need only smile to make a man die of palpitation of the heart.

"As for Titania, the queen of the fairies, there are four to vie for her place in line.

"And Alice Ben Bolt is ousted by your own Alice Polk.

"If you think my few remarks uncomplimentary, remember, the present Junior class has had to put up with you for three years."

Winter Legumes Paid In Grazing

Eutaw. Ala.—Austrian winter peas and hairy vetch, in addition to supplying nitrogen and humus for building soils, furnished splendid grazing on many Greene County farms last winter and this spring, reports County Agent H. C. Appleton.

J. H. Walker of Ralph grazed 22 dairy cattle on 35 acres of Austrian winter peas for 75 days. This saved Mr. Walker more than 11 tons of legume hay or about $110, and greatly increased the milk flow. He also utilized the crop for soil building, as it was turned under when the cows were shifted to another pasture.

Mr. Appleton estimates that winter legumes added an average of about 45 pounds of nitrogen to Greene County acres on which they were grown.

Items In Brief

The bright green leaves of cabbage are richer in vitamin A than the bleached white ones. Vitamin A promotes health and growth.

The Alabama Polytechnic Institute—Auburn—will open for a full session September 5, the Administrative Committee has announced. Summer school at Auburn begins June 5.

Reports indicate that more soybeans will be planted in Alabama this year than ever before. J. C. Lowery, Auburn extension agronomist, advocates this leading summer legume for hay, grazing, and soil building. Otootan is a good variety for hay.

Burning off land is one good way to eradicate profits. Trees cannot flee from fire but must stand and take it, says Extension Forester Lyle Brown of Auburn.

Sorghum is the most dependable crop for silage now used by Alabama farmers. It will produce from 75 to 100 per cent more tonnage of silage than corn. Silage for winter feeding of dairy cows corresponds to fresh and canned vegetables in the diet of human beings.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

A very interesting and instructive program was given in chapel last Wednesday by Mr. Varnell's biology class. This program was a Bird Program. March the 15th was the official State Bird Day, but for some reason a program was not given on that day. Several interesting features were rendered on this program last Wednesday. The main feature was a bird guessing contest conducted by John Ezell, one of the members of the class. The winners of this contest were Tina Hyman and Grady Carter, who each received a cash award for their efforts. A song appropriate to the occasion was rendered by Maralyn Hardy and Hilda Hart with Helen Roberts at the piano. Those participating on this program were: Pauline Plyler, Roberta Cochran, Dorothy Braley, Earl Gray, Carl Jones and Virgil Robinson.

Chilton County High School graduates are certainly making a name for themselves in this world. We are proud to note that Miss Corinne Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Polk, and a graduate of the class of 1929, will be the valedictorian for the graduating class of Athens College. Besides attaining this honor she was the Queen of the May at the May Day celebration at the college this year.

We all sympathize with Mr. Little in the death of his grandmother last week.

Only nine more days until school is out. This will be probably the busiest part of school with final exams only a few days off, if it is not it certainly should be.

The Seniors really put their play over last Friday night. An exceedingly large crowd was present. Many favorable comments were heard on this play, especially on the feature of the program, Tom Frank Teel's performance. Those chorus girls and Miss Colley, their instructor, should be highly complimented. Miss Williams, whose coaching and directing contributed greatly to the success of the play is to be lauded also.

Again a Friday night is the night. For tomorrow night the Senior-Two class will give due honor to the Senior Three class in the form of an informal banquet at the Exchange Hotel tomorrow night at 8:00. You Seniors can prepare for a real enjoyable time when you are present tomorrow night. Several features are to be presented for your entertainment and enjoyment. Music dolled up in her best will be present. And eats, oboy!

The graduating Seniors are all busy attending to their graduation exercises and continuing their school work. This time of the school year is a very busy time with the Seniors and also with everyone else. Remember, time flies.

Well, folks, final examinations begin next week on Monday. Thursday night will be Class Night of the Senior class and the Friday night following that, the Commencement exercises are to be held with Dr. J. A. Keller delivering the Baccalaureate address. This class has proven itself worthy of the commendation of its loyalty and devotion to the school and the faculty. Much credit goes to their ever loyal and school spirited president, Margaret Jones, and to the other officers of the class as well as the members of the class who through their hard work and spirit of loyalty will leave behind them a memorial worthy of bearing their name and in the hearts of the remaining students a feeling of pride and admiration. While the members of the faculty will look back in later years and recall their work with this most splendid group of cooperative students.

At the time of the writing of this column only reports on the men's singles and the ladies' doubles were attainable from the Tennis Tournament which has been in progress here for the past two weeks. The winners of the Ladies' Doubles were Miss Sarah Colley and Miss Grace Plyler. The winner of the Men's Singles was Mr. Duggar of Verbena. Holding second place was Jesse Frank Foshee. Next week a full report will be given.

Those who attend the banquet tomorrow night will have the pleasure of hearing Lloyd Howard and his accordion at their best.

We sure do admire Miss Edna Cofield, former member of our faculty and now an assistant professor at the University of Alabama. Mr. Warr received a letter from her one day this week containing a dollar to carry on the Ruth Jones Memorial. This has been an honor which is bestowed upon the girl who most nearly possesses all the fine qualities, personality, friendliness, intellect and sweetness that Miss Ruth Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones, gave to this school before she was called to her Maker. Every year at the Senior Class night some girl has been honored with this distinction and it will still be carried on, thanks to Miss Cofield.

Congratulations, Pearl! Folks, Pearl Vinson is the student who will have the distinguished honor of delivering the Valedictory address at the Commencement exercises next Friday night. This distinctive honor goes to the student who has the highest scholastic average during her four years in high school. And my dear readers, Hilda Hart is the lucky and deserving scholar who has the honor of being the Salutatorian this year. This honor is bestowed upon the student ranking second in grades.

The Seniors will hold their traditional class night next Thursday night at the high school auditorium. This program will be different from those preceding it and promises to be worth attending. They will present a play, entitled "Seniors At The Bar," picturing the Seniors at court for their diplomas. This play will include the traditional speeches. The president's address, rendered by Margaret Jones, president of the class this year; the class poem by the class poet, Serena Mitchell; class history by the class historian, Mary Robinson; the class prophecy by the class prophet, Clyde Jones; and the last will and testament by Louise Knox will be a part of the play.

These busy Seniors have already begun work on their memorial which they will leave to their dear ole Alma Mater. This memorial is to be a beautiful drive way gate at the north entrance to the school yards. It is expected to be completed by the first part of next week.

BETTER GET MARRIED

If statistcs recently compiled by Dr. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago are to be accepted as accurate, those who desire to retain wealth, sanity, and even life itself, should get married if they are not already that way.

He declared that most of the inmates of poorhouses and insane asylums are unmarried; also that the death rate for single men and widoweds is twice as high as that for married men.

It has often been asserted that married men live longer, but a cynic once declared that this was not literally true as "it only seemed longer." However, Dr. Ogburn's researches seems to bear out the idea that married life is really conducive to longevity.

To be on the safe side, therefore, a young fellow had better get married; provided, of course, he can find some one who is willing to assume the role of party of the second part.

Dollar A Day From Chickens

Dadeville, Ala.—Many poultrymen of Tallapoosa are making a clear net profit of $1.00 a day from small flocks of chickens which they keep as a sideline to their general farm enterprises.

This is reported by Fletcher N. Farrington, county agent, who is assisting poultrymen in finding and following improved practices in feeding, breeding, and management. They are using a large portion of home-grown feeds in their ration, he said.

This spring 30,000 baby chicks have been bought by Tallapoosa poultrymen for replenishing flocks and starting new flocks. Mortality has been at a minimum.

HOME AGENT

to begin work by May 15.

Miss Dobyne in outlining home demonstration work and illustrating its advantages, related incidents and cited figures of various projects over the state whereby women have been able to materially increase the income of the family and to secure necessities and luxuries they would otherwise have to be without. In addition to the invaluable information gained regarding food preservation, the money derived from the sale of vegetables and poultry on curb markets by rural women in Alabama ran into millions of dollars last year, she stated.

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, county child welfare worker, in a petition for the temporary, if not permanent, employment of an agent, declared that she did not believe that there is any other method whereby the dependents in the county can be as well helped back to a self-sustaining basis. The R.F.C. will furnish cans this summer, she said, but so many of these people have no knowledge of canning and food preservation and unless they have someone to lead them will be unable to derive the best benefits from the canning project.

Among the Chilton County women to petition the court were: Mrs. F.E. Mastin, Mrs. J. Q. Wade, Mrs. T. L. Manning, Isabella; Mrs. Earle Thomas, Isabella; Mrs. Jessie Dorminey, Union Grove; Mrs. J. E. Dorminey, Union Grove; Miss Eunice Murray, Collins Chapel; Miss Mable Wilkinson, Enterprise; Miss Lorene Wilkinson, Enterprise; Miss Bertha Dennis, Clanton.

Mrs. H. M. Nix, Maplesville; Miss Lena Downs, Clanton; Mrs. C.E. Stapp, Clanton; and several others.

Mrs. Leon Baker, of Shelby county, related the advantages and benefits that have been derived by the rural women of that county during the past two years since the employment of a home demonstration agent. Miss Jessie Mae Carroll, Shelby county agent, Miss Mignon Mallette, Coosa county agent, both spoke in behalf of the work. Mrs. J. R. Waldrip, of Hanover community in Coosa county, also praised the work in her county.

Rep. Percy M. Pitts declared that since both the United States government and the State contribute toward this work that the counties hat do not maintain it by contributing their share are losing a portion of their tax money. Forty-four counties in Alabama retain county home demonstration agents, he said.

interested in the work. It was estimated that the actual cost of the project, in addition to the labor, will be about $1,000. Charlie Cox, local contractor, offered to furnish a stump puller to be used in removing trees and stumps.

It is understood that work will begin some distance below Clanton and will take in the territory to the Alabama Cotton Mills; it was explained that above the cotton mill that a natural elevation exists that will give drainage if obstructions are removed through about three miles extending below Clanton.

Superintendent of Education Buford Lawrence submitted a blue print to the court and outlined plans that have been suggested by the health department engineers.

Others speaking in behalf of the project were: Charlie B. Cox, W. A. Reynolds, Dudley Collins, Mayor J. Lee Smith, H. S. Shaw, John Thompson, Rep. Percy M. Pitts and others.

Representative Pitts related many complimentary remarks that he heard regarding Clanton and Chilton county during his stay in Montgomery during the special session of the Legislature and declared that in his opinion there is no other way in which it is possible to add more to the beautfication and health conditons of Clanton and surrounding sections than by proper drainage of these swamps. Health conditions will be greatly improved, it was explained, by the elimination of breeding places for mosquitoes and flies.

Drainage of the swamps surrounding Clanton is a realization to many years of continuous work by the Clanton Kiwanis club and other leading civic organizations.

PROGRAM FOR CLOSING WEEK AT HIGH SCHOOL

Seniors Will Observe Class Night Tonight At The Auditorium

This week is the closing week of events at the Chilton County High School, and will be marked by many of the annual exercises held at the close of school. Tonight, Thursday, May 18th, at 8:30 the Senior Class will observe their class night. Everything will be turned over to them and they promise you something brand new and different in the form of entertainment at a Class night program.

Tomorrow night, Friday May 19th, at [illegible]:00 the most important of all events in the minds of the Senior Class will take place. For tomorrow night is Graduation Night which will feature the Baccalaureate address which is to be delivered this year by Dr. J. A. Kellar, president of the Alabama Educational Association. This address promises to be one worth the time and everyone should hear this leading educator speak. Also on that night the Valedictory address and the Salutatory address are to be delivered. The valedictorian this year will be Miss Pearl Vinson and the Salutatorian will be Miss Hilda Hart. The Key of Honor will be presented to the student who has ranked the highest in scholarship, loyalty and achievement. There are twenty-six candidates for graduation and diplomas will be awarded those deserving them.

Last Sunday the Commencement Sermon was rendered by the Rev. R. P. Cohran at the Baptist church. Rev. Cochran spoke priceless words of wise advice to the Seniors who will soon venture into this strange world. He spoke of everyone doing his best, picturing life as a circle with the radius as your power of immagination and the diameter as your power of will and impressing upon them that there was a larger circle which could always be built around your present circle.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the Senior Class Night to be held tonight and the Commencement Exercises tomorrow night.

A STATEMENT FROM MR. LITTLE TO THE PEOPLE

Wishes To Step Up In His Chosen Occupation, Education

Following is a letter from Mr. Luther E. Little, to the people of Chilton County, in behalf of his candidacy for superintendent of education of Chilton County:

To the Voters of Chilton County:

On Tuesday afternoon of this week the Democratic Executive Committee saw fit to nominate me as a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Education, subject to the general election which is to be held on the 20th of June.

In behalf of my candidacy, I wish to say to you, the voters, that I hold a B. S. degree from Howard College, have taught school for eight years, this experience ranging all the way from a one-teacher rural school to the place I have held this year, that of teacher in the County High school. Therefore I have been in personal contact with all the different types of schools which we have in this county. This experience will enable me, if I should be elected to this office, to know the ploblems which are constantly appearing in the various school communities, and to be of personal service to all who may be concerned with such problems.

I have never before offered myself as a candidate for any office, therefore, I am making this race purely on my merits, qualifications, and desire to step up in my chosen occupation, namely education. I shall, if elected, devote my entire time to my work, and shall be at the service of the public at all times.

Next week I expect to have another letter in the paper relative to the campaign and including some ideas concerning the school situation.

I wish to thank each and every one of those who have already pledged their support, and I earnestly solicit the aid of every one.

Very truly yours,
LUTHER E. LITTLE.

Luther E. Little Is Democrats' Choice

Receives Unanimous Endorsement Of Committee As The Man For Superintendent Of Education; Taxes Discussed

Mr. Little Is Well - Known Over County For Fairness

With a unanimous rising vote of members of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County, and visitors present, Mr. Luther E. Little was selected as the Democratic nominee for the office of superintendent of education of Chilton County, at a meeting held here last Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mr. P. D. Wilson, and the matter of selecting a nominee to enter the superintendent's race was immediately entered by the committee. Mr. Little was present and was asked for his qualifications, which he gave and showed them to be properly made out, and filed them with the secretary.

After a brief discussion, Mr. Little was informed of his nomination by Mrs. Lucie Parnell, of Maplesville, the only woman member of the Democratic Executive Committee. He accepted by giving briefly, an outline of his work if elected by the people in the election set for June 20th.

Mr. Little is widely known over this county, having taught in several schools, and received commendation wherever he served for his splendid work and interest in education and children. He is a college graduate of the highest type, and is well versed in the handling of the public funds for the benefit of education. He has had eight years experience in teaching school, which covers a range of from teaching a one-teacher school to holding a position with the Chilton County High School, the latter which he is just closing. His entire teaching experience was in this county, except one year, which was in Coosa County, where his parents came from.

In addition to this experience, Mr. Little has had considerable experience in bookkeeping and office work, an item that will be necessary in the office of the local superintendent due to the intricate method of accounting used there.

Mr. Little, in his acceptance of the nomination, stated that he will make every effort to carry his cause to the people in a manly way, which is true to his reputation. He is making a statement elsewhere in the News this week for the people. Mr. Little is married, and has for his helpmate, a young lady who is highly educated. This was brought out during the discussion at the meeting Tuesday. His integrity is beyond question, and his fairness to everyone, regardless of politics or religion, is an outstanding note in his past services to his fellowman.

The Democratic Executive Committee showed its pride in securing Mr. Little as a man to offer to the people of the county for this office, in their hearty and unanimous endorsement of his candidacy.

All Taxpayers Are Asked To Help In Reduction Of Taxes Here

A tender spot in the heart of every taxpayer in Chilton County was struck at the meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee Tuesday when plans were formulated to bring about a reduction of taxes in the county, in cases where the taxpayers believe themselves burdened.

It was pointed out, however, that the Democrats did not want to be given full credit for anything that might come in the way of tax reductions, but that they wanted every taxpayer to share alike in this movement. It was also stated that there were numerous cases in the county where property valuation had not decreased and taxts were completely out of line with present conditions.

It was voted that the executive committee take immediate steps to get the taxpayers of Chilton County to cooperate in this movement. It was also pointed out that this movement was not to be done in injury to our government but in order that a citizen may meet his taxes and save his property.

One speaker at the meeting Tuesday likened this movement to President Roosevelt's "new deal" for the people and urged that each member of the committee impress it on his neighbors and friends that it is for all taxpayers interest and not Democrats alone, that this is being done.

The plan is to have taxpayers in each voting place to meet right away, fill out proper blanks and file them, protesting high value of their property. Three of Clanton's prominent attorneys, Hon. J. B. Atkinson, Hon. Grover C. Walker and Hon. Raymond C. Smith, were present at the meeting and offered their services in aiding anyone to file protests. It was shown to be very imperative that the cooperation of every taxpayer is quite necessary in this, in order that costs be eliminated. These three Democratic attorneys urged those present at the meeting to carry the message to the people in their respective beats and urge immediate action, due to the meeting of the Board of Review. Only a few days are left in which to do this.

MR. LUTHER E. LITTLE FOR THE OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION

(AN EDITORIAL)

The voters of Chilton County have something new offered to them in the coming election set for June 20th, when they will vote on a county superintendent of education. This comes when Mr. Luther E. Little was nominated as a candidate on the Democratic ticket.

It is new due to the fact that Mr. Little is one of those wide-awake young men who has had considerable experience that makes him unusually well fitted for the job of looking after the educational system of our county. He is young, yes,—but never before in many years has this county, this state and this nation needed young men to work out our problems in line with the changing conditions that are confronting us.

This election in which Mr. Little is being a candidate, should not and is not to be an election to determine whether a Republican candidate or a Democratic candidate will be elected. It is an election, the result of which will greatly determine the future of the educational system of our county.

The people of Chilton County must awake to the ever-changing conditions and realize that now is the time to place men in office who are big and broad enough to push aside petty politics and do something for the people they serve as a whole. Mr. Luther E. Little is this type of man. A man whose past experiences have fitted him to hold many responsible positions and won for him that praise and commendation that comes only from hard work and outstanding service to his people.

Clanton Going On The Air

Clanton again is in for some real publicity — publicity that will no doubt prove beneficial. Mr. H. J. McColliser, of Station WAPI and the National Broadcasting Company was in Clanton this week and stated that on each Saturday and Wednesday mornings at eight o'clock, for four weeks, a program touching on Clanton would be broadcast.

This broadcast comes over Station WAPI and will last each morning for about fifteen minutes. The first program will be given Saturday, May 20th, at eight o'clock. These programs which include several towns are most interesting, being given in the form of an airplane trip over the town. Tune in on Station WAPI, Birmingham, next Saturday morning and Wednesday morning for this program at eight o'clock.

SWAMP DRAIN WORK BEGAN LAST MONDAY

Long Ditch-Digging Project Expected To Completely Drain Swamps

Work got underway, Monday morning, on the mammoth project of ditching and draining several miles of swamp surrounding Clanton, with forty workmen from the regular crews sponsored through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds being detailed to this project.

The movement was inaugurated last week during the regular meeting of the County Commissioners' Court, when members of that body and the city officials of Clanton outlined and agreed on a cooperative program that will, if realized to completion, result in the cleaning, ditching and draining of more than three miles of swamp-land which

PRICES, WAGES TAKE UPWARD TURN LATELY

Optimism Ranks High Over U. S. As Roosevelt Carries On

Little more than two months have elapsed since the reins of governmental power were vested in the hands of the Democratic administration, yet a mighty impetus has been evidenced with a surge in business conditions throughout the nation; and the optimism that prevailed with the overwhelming election last November of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, "the Democratic Man of the Hour," seems not to have been in vain.

The business tone of the nation continues to improve every day with a general increase in prices of stocks and commodities quoted on the leading marts of the country. There has also been an urge to increase wages over the country during the past month. The greatest increase reported comes from

More Men Called For Forest Work

Alabama has been called on for another 2,000 men for the civilian forest conservation corps to be selected at once, according to information from the offices of Thad Holt, state director of the reforestation program, in Montgomery.

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, local child welfare superintendent, stated Tuesday that she expects another call for several men from this county during this week.

One thousand of this contingent will be selected from North Alabama counties. Jefferson county expects to supply 500 of that number, it is understood.

Unmarried men from 18 to 25 with dependent families and who are willing to send an allotted sum home to care for their families are eligible for the forestry camps.

Miss Austin stated, however, that at present selection is being made only from a list of names in her office of persons whose families are already applicants for relief in the county.

CLANTON GETS INDICATION OF BETTER TIMES

Thousands Of Dollars Are Turned Loose Over Chilton County

Merchants and business men in Clanton experienced last week, the best business week for many months. Especially did Saturday bring back fond memories of the "good old days" before the depression became a household term throughout the world.

Many moons have passed since there has been as much cash buying power loosed in the little Chilton county metropolis as was evident during the past week end. Not only were the streets crowded last Saturday, but stores and other places of business were meccas for great congregations. Clerks wore an optimism that was contagious as they went about waiting on customers.

Almost without exception, a brief tour of the places of business in Clanton Monday found a prevailing optimism that has been absent for many months. On every hand merchants reported Saturday the best day for some time.

Above ten thousand dollars were placed in circulation in Clanton last Saturday through receipts from strawberry shipments and payrolls. Although shipment of berries has been suspended because of the drop in prices, receipts amounting to $3,490.40 were cleared through the local banks Saturday and Monday.

One thousand four hundred thirty-nine workmen received $2,575 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds for two to three days work each on various projects that are being sponsored by this organization, in conjunction with the county commissioners' court, throughout the county

Approximately a $4,000 payroll was made to county employes, Saturday, according to information from clerks in the probate office. This included warrants for road work in the several districts and pay to officials and clerical help in the various county offices.

There are approximately 150 clerical employes in Clanton business and professional establishments; and although the average salary is not known, it has been estimated by business men to range between eight and ten dollars per week, which gives an additional amount of between $1,200 and $1,500 per week.

The Alabama Mills, maintaining about 100 employes, are said to have a payroll of above $600 per week. With the price of cotton steadily rising, Clanton business men have every right to be optimistic and to wear a smile of welcome for the prodigal son—Prosperity —who is expected to return to Chilton county in the near future, is the concensus of opinion.

PEOPLE URGED TO SUPPORT ROOSEVELT

Democrats Believe Chilton County Wise To Fall Back In Line

With Presilent Roosevelt swinging forward on his drive to bring prices and wages back to normalcy, and apparently succeeding, the Democratic Executive Committee in session last Tuesday unanimously adopted a resolution pledging support to the President in his fight for the "forgotten man."

Chilton County, normally Republican, expressed its confidence in the Democratic presidential candidate by giving him a wide margin, and the executive committee urges the citizens of Chilton county to give their support in the drive being made by President Roosevelt for better times, peace and prosperity.

The Democratic Party of Chilton County is taking steps to extend a wide invitation to all citizens to join with them in bringing this county in line with the nation.

Fight The Road Hog

"The more I see of the highway traffic problem, the more I study the causes of motor vehicle accidents, the more I am convinced that . . . the trouble of it all can be summed up in two words—'road hogging'," said an officer of the Minnesota Highway Department some time ago.

Road hogging has many phases. Driving to the left of the center of the highway, fighting for right-of-way at intersections, passing on curves or hills, making turns without proper signaling, parking on the highway, cutting in and out of moving lanes of traffic, passing street cars which are discharging or receiving passengers—these are the acts of the road hog. Their result is, each year, thousands of unnecessary deaths, hundreds of thousands of injuries, millions of dollars in property damage.

The whole automobile accident problem really revolves about selfishness and discourtesy on the road. For every intentionally reckless driver, there are a dozen with an entire disregard for the rights of others. They apparently believe that the highways were built for them, and that it behooves every other motorist to keep out of their way. They fail in the first obligation of every driver—to learn how to operate a car efficiently before venturing onto the public roads and streets, and then to meet every other motorist half-way in making those streets and roads safe.

The cure for the road hog is two fold—a vigilant, well-trained traffic patrol, enforcing up-to-date laws, and unremitting educational efforts directed at the driver. The automobile accident problem can be solved—but only direct action, on a national scale, will do the work.

Eating Us Alive

The publisher of the Chicago Tribune recently made an address over the radio carrying the vivid title of "Tax Eaters, Tax Eating and Tax Eaten."

The first, of course, consists of government officials, the second of government and its activities—and the third, of the poor taxpayers. The suggestion is not so far-fetched as it may seem. We're reaching a point where the tax eaters are about to swallow everything we've got.

Keep that title in mind when you meditate upon government. It describes a situation which you, as a voter and a taxpayer, have allowed to develop—and which you must do your part in putting an end to, unless you and all your possessions are to be entirely digested by the bureaucrat.

American Morale

The state bank holidays, culminating in the national holiday declared by the President, and events as they followed, have provided good insight into the national character.

At this writing, there has been no widespread uneasiness whatsoever. In not a single instance has there been anything resembling panic. The public realizes that the holidays were essential to protect the interests of depositors, and is making the best of it. It has shown a splendid spirit of cooperation. It has shown, too, that it is willing to do what the President recently asked—make necessary personal sacrifices in the national interest.

Any country's best asset is the morale of the people. The state of the public morale in this country is the most reassuring sign we have for future stability and recovery.

The Plight of the Farmer

The principal problem of the farmer was simply and lucidly expressed by Fred H. Sexauer, President of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., when he said.

"Our biggest problem today is one of low prices, not low prices of milk alone, but of butter, cabbage, hay, beef, wheat, hogs, onions, etc. Low prices in themselves would not be so serious were it not for the fact that those things which make up our living costs have not gone down as much as have the prices of our products. . . .

"The solution of our problem then, lies in one of two courses: either we must reduce the prices of things bought to the level of those things which we sell, or raise the price level of those things which we sell to the level of the things we buy."

The latter course is obviously the most desirable and the most feasible. Mr. Sexauer believes that it can be partly achieved by a revision of the monetary system, to recognize other mediums as well as gold, as the basis of credit. This would doubtless help to a great extent, and some such change may come. But the farmer must not believe that that alone would save him. To the efforts of cooperative leaders and public officials, must be added his own individual efforts if he is to succeed in freeing himself from depression.

He must, in other words, cooperate with his fellows in any program designed for the common good. It is unquestionably true that an important factor in the collapse of the farm price level, was disorganization, an every-man-for-himself policy that gave the middleman the upper hand in all dealings. All of us buy as cheaply as we can. The farmer will always sell cheaply unless he is represented by some organization with power equal to that of the purchaser.

In short, the farmer must bend his own shoulder to the wheel along with those who are seeking to solve his difficulties for him.

"ROUND TOWN"
---by Doug

And hats off to the Commissioners in their action on the work of draining the swamps around Clanton. I remember back when the News was making a fight to get something done about this work, and now it looks like that dream is to be realized. Another thing the Commissioners did that is worthwhile, is the securing of a Home Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

Chilton County needs a Home Demonstration Agent and is able to have one. I remember also when the News carried editorials about a home agent, pointing out the advantages of having one. But—they give this agent only six months trial. Now, I can't say so much for that. A young lady coming into a strange county to handle a job like that and given only six months to prove her worth, will have to be good. Here's hoping Miss Ruth Pardue, of Saginaw, Ala., will prove her worth in that length of time, and the Commissioners will recognize it.

The women of Chilton County should rally together on this work and assist Miss Pardue all they can. If they have not had any experience with a demonstration agent, then they should be more particular about helping her.

Yes, and Miss Pardue is quite a charming young lady, coming well recommended in every respect.

Here are a couple of trades for you folks this week. Mr. J. L. Sorrell, of Verbena, Ala., Route 1, writes that he has some State inspected potato plants that he wants to exchange for some corn.

Mr. E. T. Weldon, who lives on Route Seven, north of Highland Church, says he has a brood sow, a phonograph, and bass violin, he wants to trade for cattle of any kind, value for value.

Received a communication from Dooker Pooker, the International Authority on the Subject of Wimmin, in reply to my plea to help me do something about keeping the Ed from being hooked into matrimony this month. Here's the Great Pooker's letter:

"Dear Doug:

"If I were you, I believe I'd resign myself to the Editor's fate in the impending disaster. Of course, 'tis but natural that you should do a little weepin', but if I were you, I certainly wouldn't do no wailin' none much and it's a lead pipe cinch I wouldn't gnash no tooth.

"Wimmin have been makin' a monkey outer our poor men for ages—In fact, no man yet born has ever been able to resist the loveliness of feminine charm and sooner or later, most of the poor fellows capitulate, or something.

"Now Doug, your request that I intervene and save the Editor pro your bono, is most unusual. Had the Editor appealed to me pro his bono, I'd know exactly what to do, but he hasn't. And I suspect that by now he is so blinded by sentimental intoxication, that he hasn't even got no desire to be saved.

"And, besides, if I were to intervene, the Editor's future better 90% might bite my head off or maybe snatch my eyeballs out or somethin'. But, if you wish to throw the better part of valor to the winds and intervene, I shall commend you for your bravery. But, even if you were successful, drastic measures such as I recently prescribed in the case of Archy Pellago and Miss Tootsie Wootsie, would be necessary.

"One day Tootsie saw Archy and decided she wanted him to become hern. Archy knew that he was hooked and ast me to help keep him from bein' landed.

"'What, O Pooker, must I do to be saved?' ast Archy.

"'Go downtown and buy yourself a round trip ticket to Australia," I advised him.

"No sooner said than did, and several weeks later I received a cable from Archy in Australia reading: 'Just arrived—what must I do now?'

"'Burn up return trip ticket,' I cabled him.

"Since writin' the above I have gazed into my crystal ball and I see lots of rice and old shoes. Apparently the die is cast, so if I were you, I wouldn't waste no time tryin' to save the Editor.

"Therefore, I'm goin' to weep with you in your sorrow and at the same time, I'm goin' to rejoice with the Editor in his gladness. The next time you see him, please be good enough to extend to him the hearty congratulations and best wishes of the International Authority on the Subject of Wimmin."

The Dook is a great fellow, so I guess I'll just follow his advice. However, I'm afraid that after the 25th of this month we all at the News office will have another boss. But maybe she will be a good boss. If you want to read some of Dooker Pooker's writings from time to time, keep up with The Coal Bin, in The Birmingham News. He breaks forth now and then with his knowledge of the fair sex, or something.

Congratulations to the graduates of the Chilton County High School, the Thorsby Institute and other schools this year. I'm afraid that the people of Clanton are not giving this item sufficient interest this year. They are missing something, too, because this group of graduates are showing up brighter than in some time.

And I suppose the Baptist preachers, including Dr. Ezell, are getting all set for a real convention in Washington now. Rev. Cochran filled the pulpit at the Baptist church here Sunday in a splendid manner in delivering the Commencement Sermon to the graduates. Rev. Cochran is to be commended for that fine sermon, even if he is a Methodist and stood in a Baptist pulpit.

And things are beginning to take on a little interest in the race for the office of superintendent of education of Chilton County. The Democrats met Tuesday to nominate a candidate, and the Republicans hold a primary tomorrow. This column is being written before the Democrats nominate, and I'm unable to comment on the candidate, except to say, sincerely, that the people of Chilton County should continue their forward step when they voted for President Roosevelt on the Democratic ticket, and support the Democrats in the county. I'm sure that Republicans will find a welcome into the party that is remembering the "forgotten man."

Have you ever seen prices and things take such a jump? They are continually climbing every day. Even cotton is showing a little life and going up. Mr. Roosevelt didn't talk much during his campaign, but he is sure doing plenty of work and showing action. Yes sir, the Democrats knew what they were doing when they nominated him, and the Republicans helped elect him.

MORAL ECHOES
D. W. Haskew

Mother. We see her sitting on the front porch of an humble home. The twilight of a setting sun is falling upon her face. In her arms there is a cooing babe, and upon her lips there is one of the sweet songs of Zion. Listen O earth, listen ye angels of heaven—she is singing, "Jesus Lover of My Soul, let me to thy bosom fly." Over the hill top comes the sound of the Whip-perwill - "Jack - married - the - widow" while in the distance can be heard the tap of the cow bell as the cattle slowly find their way home. At that moment the young mother hears the rattle of chains and the tramp of feet, and in tender tones she says to the little one in her arms, "Daddy and the mule are coming, look darling, see them down the lane." It is grand to stand a few feet away and look into the face of that mother. She is the goddess of love. In her calm, trustful soul there is a bit of heaven. We lift our hat to her as the mother of our baby.

Mother. We see her moving about the room, about the house and about the premises. There is much stir and bustle in the home that was once so quiet. We hear the voices of children at play. The bark of a faithful house dog is heard, the lowing of cattle and the bleating of goats, mingle with the shout of children. Nothing about the place looks poetical and rarely ever do we hear a song. From early morn until late at night we can hear the rattle of dishes and pots and the thump of rapidly falling feet. It is a time when floors must be swept, beds must be made, food must be prepared, and garments must be mended and bleeding fingers must be bound. It is the time when the heart throbs in the finger tips and in the heel. O, it is wonderful to look upon that mother as she moves among the little ones in her home and as she lives in their every need. Little ones bury their sobs in her bosum, they cling to her skirt in childish appeals and rest their sleepy head upon her shoulder. We lift our hat to the one who never sleeps soundly now for she is the mother of our children.

Mother. We look upon her as she comes into the full development of her womanhood. On her head there are silver threads among the gold. No longer does she move with such haste. On her face there are lines of hardships borne and burdens carried. In her eyes there are visions of hope and courage. Her hands are a bit calloused from hard service, and there is a visiable bent to the body that was once so erect. She moves like a queen among the grown young men and women who were once the children in her arms. These youngsters have come up by the way of her hands and heart, and now she is carrying the last one of them in her soul. We observe that there are more tears now than in the years gone by. Once she slept lightly, but now she does not sleep at all when one of the children is out at night. We see her as she walks to the gate with her arm over the shoulder of one who is going away to school. We see her standing near when wedding roses are banked and she is suffering untold pains as she chokes back the sobs that struggle to her face. There are more prayers in the home than ever before. We do not claim to know why but the song of the home now is "Sweet Hour of Prayer." O, it is wonderful to look upon mother as she upsets the home most and pushes her own flesh and blood out into the world to battle for themselves. Yes, we lift our hat to her for she is the mother of our manhood and womanhood.

Mother. We see her as she is alone in the home. The birds in her nest have gone and they are now singing their mating songs. The husband and the father is now in the field or at his place of business, and we see this lonely mother as she sits at the window and watches and waits for a message to come from loved ones living under other skies. Her fingers are still busy with the needle, but her thoughts and prayers are far away. Her heart strings reach out to the four corners of the globe, while she sits and dreams and prays. Once her children trampled upon her toes but now they are trampling upon her heart. She never sings aloud, but with closed lips she hums, "How firm a foundation ye saints of the Lord." It is sublime to see her sitting in the rocker and talking of the long ago.

Mother. We see her upon her dying bed. The years have passel over her head and made her hair as white as snow. The years have passed over her face and made it wrinkly and pale. The years have passed over her feet and no longer can they travel. The years have passed over her hands and they can no longer move in service. The years have passed over her eyes and no longer can they see. The years have passed ovr her soul and now it is ripe for the plucking. It breaks our heart but mother is gone. Pick and shovel make gash in the earth and into that wound we pour our tears.

Often we go there and cover the marble casket with flowers. There we bow our spirits and uncover our heads for we are before the mothers of men.

Mother. We see her up in heaven. No wrinkles on her brow, no tears in her eyes, no pains in her spirit and no sorrows to cloud her soul. In her hands there is a harp, on her lips there is the song of Moses and the Lamb and on her head there is the crown of life. She often sits by the window in heaven gazing toward the world, looking for the coming of her own into the land where the weary are at rest. Some day we will become old and gray and children will be weeping about our tomb and then we will be with our mothers in the land where partings are not known. Before the throne we will lift our crown and make bare our heads and with Lincoln we will say, "All that I am and all that I hope to be, I owe it to my angel mother." On Mother's Day let us do honor to the mothers of men.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford Manning

The choice of crops which each individual farmer must make is governed by somewhat the same general considerations in all parts of the country. Attention might well be given to:

1. The different groups of crops—their classification.
2. The factors which influence the choice of crops to be grown.
3. The choice of crops grown in the past, and
4. The choice of crops grown under present conditions, as to market and control of insects, etc.

Crops are roughly classed as:

1. Cultivated or row crops such as corn, cotton and tobacco.
2. Non-cultivated annual crops such as oats, wheat, and barley, and
3. Sod or hay crops such as clover, alfalfa and timothy.

They are also grouped according to their botanical character, their duration and their use.

All life may be divided into the plant and animal kingdoms. The higher forms of these two groups are differentiated readily, but it is extremely difficult to distinguish between some of the lower forms. In the plant kingdom there are something over 230,000 different species and each species contains from one to many different varieties or strains. In order to classi these numerous different plants, t plant kingdom has been divided int four main divisions which are:

1. Thallophytes are the simplest form of plants and are usually considered the most primitive. Most plants of this group are non-chlorophyll-bearing and possess little or no woody tissue. this group belong the bacteria, fung and algae.

2. Bryophytes are plants having be ter organized bodies than those of Thallophyte group. They are simpl structure, chlorophyll-bearing.

3. Pteridophytes are plants hav true roots, stems and leaves, but flowers.

4. Spermatophytes are the seed- ducing plants. Plants belonging to group are considered the most hi organized in the vegetable king They have true roots, stems, leaves flowers.

These classes are divided into ord the orders into families, the families to tribes, the tribes into genera, genera into species, and the species to varieties.

While many plant growth proc are not well understood much is k today regarding factors influencing plant growth which only a few y ago were shrouded in mystery. There is no other phase of crop production which greater attention should be given than to the physiology of the plant and the response of the plant to its enviroment or to different treatments.

The "History of Plants" will be next week's subject.

A BRAVE PROPHET

Again the baseball pennant races are on, and sports writers are risking their reputations by predictions respecting the winners. Perhaps the bravest prognosticator of all is Damon Runyan, veteran sports scribe for the Hearst newspapers, who not only predicts the winners, but makes a complete list of how all the teams will stand at the end the season. Here it is:

Nationals — Pittsburgh, St. Lou Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Chicago, New York, Boston, Cincinnati.

Americans—New York, Washing Cleveland, Philadelphia, Chicago, Louis, Detroit, Boston.

That Mr. Runyon doesn't think much of Boston's reputed culture is indicat by his placing the Hub's two team seventh and eighth place, respectiv

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

It would be rather appropriate to open this column this week with a farewell song, but since I am no songster I will refrain from inconveniencing my readers. This is the last column of Ink Drops that I will write for this school year. Today ends the last days of real school, tomorrow night, Friday, the Commencement exercises will be held and the doors of dear ole C.C.H.S. will be closed to school until next September. I want to take this humble opportunity to thank all those with whom I have had the pleasure of cooperating in school with and to wish them a fond farewell. Especially do I want to show my appreciation for the wonderful services our dear teachers have given me. I will always cherish memories of them. And I speak for the entire student body when I say "Farewell till we meet again and good luck."

The following students have had the honor of being the most intellectual in their respective classes. These students have made the highest averages for the past school year: Junior I, Annie Mae Clements; Junior II, Paralee Henson; Junior III, Joe Hall Johnson; Senior I, Wade Alford; Senior II, Dan Smith.

Last Sunday, May 14th, the Commencement sermon was delivered at the Baptist church by the Rev. R. P. Cochran. This was a most impressive sermon and we hope that of those who heard it those members of the graduating class will realize some good from it. They seemed to have an air of royal splendor about them as they marched down the aisle and stately took their seats.

At the chapel period on Monday of this week the traditional ceremony of the Seniors leaving their seats and the Juniors occupying them was simply, but impressively carried out. Margaret Jones, president of the outgoing Senior Class, presented the class key with a short speech to Janet Sumner, the president of the Junior Class, who, in behalf of her fellow students, thanked the Senior Class and promised to carry on the dignity, loyalty and honesty that the outgoing class had bestowed upon this school during their existence here.

The new fence which is being erected around the ball park certainly adds a touch of beauty, should I say so, to the school grounds.

Here are the returns on the Tennis Tournament sponsored by the Tennis Club at the high school: The winners of the Men's Doubles was the fast team of Jesse Frank Foshee and James Tiffin. The runner up was the team of Coach Walker and Bill Simpson. Miss Sarah Colley and Bill Simpson were the winners of the Mixed Doubles and the runner ups were Mary Lou Tiffin and Carl Jones.

Don't forget the Senior Class night tonight at the high school auditorium. And folks, the program on tonight is to be different, and I don't mean maybe, from any other class night program which has been presented at this school. Tomorrow night is the big night. Graduation exercises will be held tomorrow, Friday night, May 19th, at 8:00. Remember if you attend you will have the rare privilege of hearing Dr. J. A. Kellar, newly elected president of the Alabama Educational Association.

The memorial that the Senior Class of 1933 is leaving their dear ole Alma Mater certainly speaks well of their untiring efforts and spirit of loyalty to their school, to their class, to their fellow students and to their faculty. Drop down to the school house sometime and gaze upon this monument which will keep afresh the pleasant memories of the Senior Class of 1933. A unique feature of this memorial is that the names of all the members of the Senior Class and the faculty will be sealed up in a fruit jar and cemented into the center of one of the posts.

What will the Senior Class of 1934 leave to their dear beloved Alma Mater.

I wonder upon what lucky and deserving student will be bestowed the high honor of being presented the Key of Honor. Who will it be?

Miss Kendrick and the entire Senior Two Class want to publicly thank Jarrell Burdette for his splendid services he so unselfishly and kindly gave them. Thank you, Jarrell. And they want to thank all those who took part on the program or helped in any other way to make this event a success.

Tomorrow night the doors of the Chilton County High School will close and another Senior Class will be launched out into the world to try their hand at the game of life. I wonder if they have stopped and thought of the responsibility and duties which will now rest upon their shoulders. Will they continue to show that untiring spirit of work and make a name for themselves? They will not have the guiding hand and spirit of their teachers to rely upon and to seek aid from as they have in their years as students. Remember, that it is not the number of times that a man keeps from failing in life that counts, but it is the number of times he can come back after a failure.

So farewell, fellow students and dear teachers. It has been a pleasure to serve you or at least attempt to serve you in this humble way. Again I want to thank all my teachers who have so unselfishly helped me in my struggle.

I'll be seeing you next year.

IN MEMORY OF MR. ANNISON MARCUS

On Wednesday morning, May 3, the dtath angel visited the home of Mrs. Annison Marcus and bore her husband's loving spirit from this sinful world to the Great Beyond.

He had been ill two years or more, but all was done for him that loving friends and doctors could do. He was 86 years old and had been a member of the church for 20 years or more. He bore his suffering and pain with the same patience and kindness that he always met the trials and hardships of his past life. We hated so badly to give him up, but we know that our loss is heaven's gain, and may God teach all of us to live a life so that we may meet him again some day.

We miss him, Oh! we miss him! But the Lord knoweth all things best and carried him home to live with Him in that dear land of rest, where there is no pain or sorrow or grief any more. We all loved him dearly, but Jesus loved him best and called him to that happy home where he shall forevermore rest.

He leaves to mourn his loss a loving wife and nine children and a number of grandchildren, two brothers, one sister and a host of friends anl relatives.

He was laid to rest May 4 in New Salem cemetery. The pall bearers were his grandsons.

Letters To The Editor

A LETTER FROM B. LAWRENCE

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I thought last week when I wrote an article for the press that I would not write one this week but I feel that in view of certain reports which have been circulated that it is only fair and just to you as well as myself that I give another article for your consideration.

I notice that one of the main things my opponent on the Republican ticket stresses is the fact that he stands for the equalization of educational opportunities for all white children. That is exactly the thing for which I have contended ever since I was first elected to this office. Previous to my administration only a few children had the privilege of attending high school. I feel that every child regardless of where he lives should have the same opportunity to complete high school work as another. As a result of this effort to secure equal opportunities we have more than three times as many children in high school now as previous to my administration. I do not know whether he means to go back to the old system of one high school in the county or not but if so it means that only a very few parents will be able to pay the board of their children in this school so that they might attend that one school. We now have five accredited senior high schools located at central points in the county and I feel that they are serving a good purpose. At least I get a bit of joy out of seeing some of the poorest children in the county graduate from these high schools every year. If you bring it down to one senior high school in the county they will be denied this privilege.

I feel that the County Board of Education has evidence of the fact that they have economized in every way possible. As evidence of this I stated in last week's issue that in the beginning of my administration we owed more than $20,000 but through economy we have been able to pay off that ndebtedness and only have one warrant of $5,000 outstanding now which is due January 1, 1934. If the taxes were collected and the state would pay us the appropriations due the county we would be able to meet every outstanding obligation and would have a balance in the treasury of around $50,000.

Some would have you believe that the bad state of affairs in our school system is due to bad management on the part of the County Board of Education or the County Superintendent. If one will stop and remember that every county in the state is in a similar condition he will readily see that it is due to the fact that the State of Alabama has failed to meet its obligations.

It has been stated furthermore in the press recently that Chilton County has the poorest school system in the state. The writer should give some reasons for this and when he begins to look at the facts he will see that Chilton County is far above many of the counties of the State of Alabama. We do not begin to measure with counties like Jefferson, Montgomery and Mobile, but if you will select rural counties as our own you will find from the records that Chilton County is far above the average. In fact many of the counties had to close their schools last year before the schools of Chilton County closed. Many of them are so heavily involved that for a long time they will be unable to pay off their entire indebtedness while Chilton County is solvent and can meet its obligations anytime the State of Alabama wil discharge its duty.

Assuring every voter of the county that I will appreciate his or her support and pledging you my very best services if permitted to serve out my term, I am,

Respectfully yours,
B. LAWRENCE,
County Superintendent.

High School Juniors Entertain Seniors.

The dining salon of the Exchange Hotel was a scene of beauty and merriment last Friday night when the Junior Class of the Chilton County High School entertained the Senior Class with an informal banquet. A color motif of red and white was carried out in the decorations and favors which are the class colors of the Senior Class. An impressive and entertaining program was presented for the entertainment of the sixty-five guests present. A delicious three-course dinner was served.

First on the program was piano novelties by Miss Helen Roberts, followed by several selections on the accordion by Lloyd Howard of Thorsby. A toast was given to the Senior Class by Jeanette Sumner, president of the Junior Class. Margaret Jones, president of the Senior Class, responded to this toast. Next a toast was given by Louie Alford, a member of the Senior Class, to the girls of the Senior Class and Louise Knox, also of the Senior Class, gave a toast to the boys of the Senior Class. Dance interpretations were given by Pauline Plyler, Maralyn Hardy, Elizabeth McSwain and Janette Sumner.

Pearl Vinson, of the Senior Class, gave a toast to the faculty which was responded to by Professor L. C. Warr, principal. The Rev. R. P. Cochran of the Methodist church, gave a short and impressive talk on "Class Ties". Misses Hilda Hart and Maralyn Hardy rendered several popular songs which were greatly enjoyed. Concluding the program were the futures of the members of the Senior Class read from the magic crystal by Dixie Johnson. Thruout the evening musical selections were offered by Helen Roberts and Lloyd Howard.

All the members of the Senior Class and the Junior Class and the members of the high school faculty and several outside guests were present at this banquet. This banquet was greatly enjoyed by all those present though there was a feeling of sadness because of the fact that the members of the Senior Class were to leave, and enter into the wide, wide world.

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardui has helped thousands of women:

"I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unnerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day.

"My mother had taken Cardui, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time."

Cardui, the purely vegetable medicine which so many women take and recommend, is sold by local druggists.

I want to remind the people again of our Memorial and Home-Coming Day next Sunday, May 21st.

Devotional Exercises.

10:00 o'clock, by W. H. Shaw.

10:30 Welcome Address, by W. F. Thompson.

10:45 Response by Howard Roper.

11:00 Preaching by Bro. John T. Martin, from Brent, Ala.

The third Sunday in May has been a big day with us for a number of years. It is the day to meet again with your old friends whom you haven't seen in a long time, and we feel sure this will be the best day we have ever had. So just come over and be with us.

There will be singing in the afternoon, and we are going to have some real good singing. We invite all singers to come and enjoy the day with us. Bring either or both books. We use Stamps, Baxter and Henson.

Our singing last Sunday afternoon was mighty good. We just had a house crowded with folks and the most of them were singers. Oak Grove boys and Mars Hill sang some good special songs.

Just come next Sunday and meet with your friends, and don't forget to bring your dinner.

O. B. MARTIN, President.

Mothers Everywhere Await this Hour . .

IT'S THE HOUR when son or daughter or old friends visit her each week from some distant place by telephone. How happily she looks forward to this hour.

Thousands of families are doing this each week . . . enjoying a short, inexpensive voice visit by telephone with mother or other members of the family in other cities. Because your voice is you over the telephone, such visits are just as personal as though you were in the same room.

Visiting loved ones at regular intervals by long distance telephone is the most satisfactory way to keep family ties alive at small cost.

Old Bethesda Church Made Into Memorial For Rev. D. S. Martin

By Victor Norris

For nearly a century there has stood nestled in the hills of Coosa county near Equality, a little Baptist church by the name of Bethesda.

Several years ago, not far from its native site a new building was erected to house the worshippers that congregated there to pay homage to their chosen religion.

Reluctant to see the old frame building destroyed in which he consecrated himself to a life of service, and in which he had worshipped for more than a half-century, the Rev. Darius S. Martin purchased it and let it stand.

Not many weeks ago—after a brief illness, the Rev. Martin died at the venerable age of 82—and terminated a life of commendable service to his and surrounding communities with the interment of his body in the little cemetery, near the old church he loved so well.

Now, in tribute to him, the old building is being repaired and renovated, and with the four-acre grove surrounding the church and cemetery, will be dedicated a memorial to the Rev. Darius S. Martin and his work of character building, according to his son, J. Mell Martin, of Clanton, who is in charge of the work.

In speaking of the proposed memorial to friends many have voiced a desire to have a part in the work, Mr. Martin stated. and several have offered contributions. For these loyal friends a permanent scroll, bearing their names, will adorn a place on the walls of the building.

Articles most sacred to the venerable minister during his life, including his books and other equipment from his study will be arranged and dedicated with the building. The building will be used for special religious services and in furtherance of the work to which the Rev. Martin devoted his life; and the grounds will be converted into a park, Mr. Martin declared, which will be at the public's disposal for church and Sunday school conventions, or other religious gatherings.

NEW CEDRON WINS FIFTH BY DEFEATING MAPLESVILLE

A barrage of base hits scattered over seven innings enabled the New Cedron club to win by a shut-out, 14-0. Every man on the New Cedron club played during the game and everyone got one or more hits. Cruise led the batting attack with four out of four and scored three runs. The batteries were Hayes and Atkinson for Maplesville and Williams and Cruise for New Cedron. Williams allowed one hit and only one man got as far as second base.

Speaking of Gardening

I have seen some attractive gardens but in most cases they were not balanced. Most vegetables are perishable and if they are grown in excess, much loss will be the result. I notice that nearly half of our entire garden is planted to early cabbage. All of them mature at the same time and after you have eaten them two or three times, you detest the smell of cabbage. Yet, you have a garden full of them. The same holds true with other vegetables. If too many are planted big losses result.

This thing of having gardens is nothing easy. One must make definite plans ahead of time and work earnestly toward that end. Be sure to plant the right varieties at the right time.

In My Garden

At present the following are in my garden: Strawberries, radish, snap beans, two plantings, lima beans, two plantings, sweet potatoes, beets, spinach, white potatoes, English peas—three plantings, corn, three plantings table peas, black eye, pole beans, two plantings, cabbage, four plantings, watermelons, cantaloupes, okra, squash onions, two plantings, mustard, turnips and tomatoes.

My early English peas, mustard, radish, onions and early cabbage will be ready for removal very soon. Tomato, pepper (bell and cayenne) egg plant and cabbage have been planted in boxes and old buckets and will be ready for transplanting as soon as the early vegetables are removed.

I shall plant my collard seed about the latter part of this month in order for them to be ready for transplanting about the first of July. It is not deemed necessary to plant collards so early when they are not usable until fall. Why not let something else use that space until then?

Thus far, I have not run into any serious trouble with insects, as I use controlling methods as soon as they first appear. It pays to look over your garden carefully each day.

A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years---1929 to 1932---we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward---through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method---new political and financial machinery---to pull us out the way we are going---forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only---the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.

And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

Hospital Day Program Attended By Large Number Here Last Friday

Last Friday morning on the lawn of the Central Alabama Hospital a very splendid program was given in honor of Florence Nightingale, the world's first nurse. Florence Nightingale was born of English parents in Florence, Italy. Besides being known as a sweet, kind and loving nurse, she was a wonderful singer. May the 12th has been always set aside as Florence Nightingale Day by the hospitals.

The students and the faculties of the grammar school and and of the high school were present at this commemoration. Dr. V. J. Gragg, of the Central Alabama Hospital opened the program with a short talk in which he praised the good work of Florence Nightingale. Following this Dr. C. O. Lawrence led the audience in singing "America". The Rev. R. P. Cochran led in prayer. Next on the program was Miss Theda Wyatt who told a few interesting facts about the life of Florence Nightingale.

Following this, students of Miss Bessie Thomas at the grammar school sang "America The Beautiful". Mayor J. Lee Smith was the first speaker on the program. He congratulated the nurses and doctors of the hospital and spoke of the value of the Central Alabama Hospital to the town and community. The Rev. R. P. Cochran was the next speaker. Bro. Cochran represented the churches of Clanton. He spoke of the relationship existing between the churches and the hospitals. Here several former patients of the hospital were called upon the steps. Among these were the three attractive young daughters of Hon. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson, who were born in the hospital. The oldest of the three, Mary Frances, was the first child to be born in the hospital. Mr. W. M. Wyatt, representing the Kiwanis Club of Clanton spoke next, stating that the Kiwanis Club is always ready to support a valuable institution such as the hospital. He also emphasized the importance of the hospitals as the last resort. Mr. Wyatt was followed by Mrs. Reid Mullins who as a representative of the Clanton Pilot Club, spoke a few words of praise for the hospital. The schools of the county were represented by County Superintendent of Education B. F. Lawrence, who urged the support of the hospitals by all the people.

Dr. Gragg stated that in its existence the hospital had had four cases of secerian infection. Though there is an average death rate of 40 per cent in this disease in the United States, all four patients are still living which speaks well of the hospital and its staff. The program was closed by Superintendent Lawrence.

This program was greatly enjoyed and appreciated by those fortunate to be present.

Columbiana Business Men Visit In Chilton

Last Monday afternoon a group of business men of Columbiana visited in Chilton County.

Mr. Montgomery, vocational teacher at Jemison high school, conducted the group through the county. The Jemison and Thorsby Strawberry Growers Associations were visited. A tour was then made through Collins Chapel and New Salem communities. Several farmers were visited. The visitors saw at first hand, the picking, packing and grading of strawberries. They saw dewberry fields, Tennessee green pod bean fields and Irish potatoes, crops to be sold in carload lots.

The visitors had never visited farm communities in Chilton county, and did not realize that we had farm communities with such good land, crops and homes.

The Experiment Station, which we now have in the County, was visited. The Station is on the farm of Mr. Cox, below Thorsby and is run by Mr. R.W. Taylor of Auburn. This work is part of the Auburn experimental work. A complete program to determine the best varieties and methods of fertilizing strawberries, beans, Irish potatoes, is now in progress. These crops have meant, and may mean much to Chilton county in the future, as they are shipped in carload lots. The most economical production of these crops is becoming of major importance to us. Mr. Taylor has numerous worthwhile experiments in progress, too many to mention in this article.

It is hoped that this work, which has such a splendid start, may be made permanent and that the bad financial condition of the State will not cause us to lose this Experiment Station.

Another feature of the tour with the visitors was an inspection of Mr. Burgess' storm pit at Collins Chapel and Mr. Nat Bentley's pit at Thorsby. The owners of these pits and Mr. Meade, the builder, are to be congratulated on the beauty, comfort and durability of these pits.

Chilton County welcomes visitors and hopes that we may have more visits from Shelby and other counties.

The visitors from Columbiana were: Messrs. Edward Davis, President of Columbiana Bank, W. E. Christian, Cashier, Luther Fowler, Editor of Shelby County Reporter, Max Lefkovits, merchant, Perry McGee, merchant, Judge B. L. Riddle, Life insurance, Joe Stone, vocational teacher, and A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent.

JOHN HEARD STRANGE LAUGH AND DISCONTINUED DITCHING

A weird tale of strange and supernatural happenings was recounted in Clanton Monday afternoon by John Crawford, aged negro who lays claim to powers of prophecy, after a group of white men succeeded in stopping him for a few minutes on the Fair corner.

"I wuz ditchin' down in Jedge Reynold's 'pastur'—when sompen jest laffed right behin' me. I looks 'round—and dere wuzn't a'thing dere. Few minutes it laff agin—and say to me—'I'se gonna talk wid you! I'se in de sperrit! Go tell de people dat if dey wants to talk to me—dey hav' to get in de sperrit, too'," the frightened negro panted.

And John went—Tam O' Shanter never did a better piece of sprinting than John was doing when he crossed the railroad down below the Post Office.

Coming Program To Be Started Here

The following announcement was made this week by Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, local child welfare superintendent and director of the local unit of relief work, in regard to an extensive canning and food preservation program that her office expects to conduct this summer. Intensive effort is being made by Miss Austin and her corps to place as many as possible of those who are receiving relief on a self-sustaining basis by fall.

"A canning program is being arranged by the Alabama Relief Administration in cooperation with the Alabama Extension Service to provide food for the needy after the growing season. Although jars and cans may be procured with County R. F. C. funds for those families on relief, persons who have jars and bottles which they are not planning to use are requested to notify the local welfare office if they are willing to donate these. Some of the workers will be glad to call for these containers."

Buffalo, N. Y., where the Buffalo Sales Weight and Foundry Company announced recently a 75 per cent increase in all laborer's wages employed in the company's plant.

E. L. Cord, head of the Auburn Automobile Company, the Lycoming Manufacturing Company, Dusenberg, Inc., and the American Airways, announced a 10 per cent increase in the wages of more than 10,000 employes, effective May 10. A 10 per cent increase has also been announced in the wages of the employes of the Armstrong Rubber Company, of New Haven, Conn.; and a 20 per cent raise has gone into effect for the employes of Planters Nut & Chocolate Company, of Suffolk, Va.

Several hundred employes have been added to the payrolls of the Commerce National Manufacturing Company, of Commerce, Ga. S. F. Briggs, president of the Briggs & Stratton Corporation, of Milwaukee, announced recently that his firm will operate five days a week now, instead of three as has been true for several months.

G. B. Garner, manager of the Montgomery branch of the Alabama Packing Company, has been notified that the employes of this firm in the Montgomery and Birmingham districts are subject to a five per cent wage increase, effective last Monday.

Throughout the South there has been a vast increase in construction work recently and railroad companies report that carload hauling has experienced an improvement since the new administration inaugurated and set into motion its "new deal."

Cotton, the financial barometer of the southern section of the country, has shown inclination to reverberate back to normalcy. With the outlook favorable for a ten cent crop, optimism continues evident in the cotton states. Other farm products have also been benefitted by the improvement in conditions.

Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of the Department of Labor, has pledged the full cooperation of that department in the drive launched throughout the country in reestablishing a lucrative wage basis and bringing about the employment of more persons by a shorter work week.

SWAMP DRAIN

entirely surrounds Clanton, and has afforded for many years regular breeding places for mosquitoes and flies—and detracts generally from the appearance of the town.

With Charles B. Cox, John Thompson and former Sheriff Dudley Collins supervising the work, the workmen congregated at the Dake old Mill, two miles below Clanton and began work on a ditch that is expected to completely drain the swamps. It is understood that the runway of the creek will be used in places where it is sufficient to take care of the water, but will be straightened to lessen the hazards of becoming choked up with trash.

Tom Wyatt, who was highly recommended by C. D. Duke, is in charge of the work, it has been announced. Mr. Cox has offered to furnish a stump puller to remove the stumps and trees, which will greatly speed up the work. A plan outlined and suggested by staff engineers of the state health department is being followed, it is understood. Blue prints have been furnished those in charge of the work.

The work is expected to be in progress most of the summer and is estimated to greatly enhance the beauty and health conditions of Clanton and surrounding territory. The draining work will extend, it was stated, above the Alabama Cotton Mills.

SHIPMENT OF FISH PUT IN CREEKS HERE

Local Citizens Assist In Liberating Fish In Streams Here

A shipment of bass and bream from the State Fish Hatchery was liberated in the different streams of Chilton County tributary to Lake Mitchell during the last few days. Many local sportsmen were present and assisted, the planting being under the direction of the district game warden and an assistant from the State Hatchery.

One of the considerations in making consignments is the promise by local sportsmen to help protect streams in this vicinity from seining, dynamiting, poisoning and other illegal methods of taking fish.

The fish were received from the State Fish Hatchery at Eastaboga near Anniston, being brought in by truck. In addition to the two hatcheries operated by the State at Eastaboga and Aliceville, the Department of Game and Fisheries has control of Oxford Lake, from which it secures both bass and bream. A total of 750,000 fingerling were produced and distributed last year, these fish going into every county of Alabama, according to a statement by I. T. Quinn, Commissioner of Game and Fisheries of Alabama.

While this is an exceptional production, it is not nearly suffirient for restocking the numerous streams of the State.

Fishermen hope the day is not far distant when Alabama will have many more hatcheries. With the natural fishing advantages offered in this State, Alabama should be one of the most important fishing states in the Union.

The following local sportsmen were present and assisted in the planting: D. A. Wingard, E. E. Upchurch, H. M. Simpson.

WORM CONTROL IS IMPORTANT SAYS CO. AGENT

Urges Farmers To Keep On Lookout For Worms And Kill Them

County Agent Stapp calls attention to the outbreak of vetch worms in the County and urges farmers who have vetch still standing to watch same closely for worms, as they will spread from vetch to other crops near by.

Mr. Stapp points out that there is no need for farmers getting alarmed because the worms are easily controlled by dusting with Calcium Arsenate. If the crops near by where worms are found are dusted for some thirty or forty feet, the worms can be headed off from the rest of the crops. Calcium Arsenate costs about ten cents per pound in small lots, and one pound may be mixed with three or four pounds of lime and dusted from sacks, or the Calcium Arsenate may be used full strength without injury to the crops.

Mr. Stapp doesn't think that farmers who have only Austrian peas will likely be bothered with the vetch worm, but cautions those who are saving peas for seed to keep on lookout for the worms and treat as above should any be found.

LUTHER LITTLE GIVES HIS OPINION ON SCHOOL COSTS

Says Rigid Economy Must Be Shown In Operatin The School System Throughout Chilton County

To The Voters of Chilton County:

The most popular word in a candidate's appeal to the voters today is the word economy. There is in my mind three types of economy, false economy, petty economy, and rigid economy. To employ teachers in our school system on a bid contract would certainly be false economy in the most detrimental form. Your children require the best teachers this country affords. There should be, however, some changes made in the salary scale. Petty economy would be effected by merely placing a few more small schools over the county, and effecting a slight savings in the item of transportation. Rigid economy, that which we stand so badly in need of today, can be effected by a change in the entire system which would enable the child to complete his elementary and high school studies in a period of eleven years instead of twelve to fourteen years as is the case today. The city of Mobile has never adopted the twelve year plan. Birmingham, Gadsden, Dothan and other city systems have realized the folly of the present system of schools and are now making plans to operate in the future on a more economical basis. If Chilton County will cooperate with other counties in bringing pressure to bear on the idea that when text boks are contracted for by the State again, that we want and must have a complete set of books which will enable us to operate on an eleven year basis, then we are going to be in position to save eighteen percent of the teacher cost, and twelve to fourteen percent of the transportation cost. This will give us a very real saving in the total cost of operating the schools; and, in addition will save the parent a great deal in the cost of text books.

School supervisors are almost necessary where teachers with no experience and with a minimum of training are placed in the one-teacher schools. My opinion is that we should at this time place these beginning teachers in schools where there are one or more experienced and trained teachers and have those teachers help the one who has no experience. This plan would enable the system to use the salary and expense of a supervisor in paying the teachers and adding that much to the length of the school term. This would not be false economy if properly handled, but would fall under the head of real economy. With proper cooperation of the teachers, and they are cooperative in this, the attendance officer's duties could be handled without employing, at a high salary, an attendance officer. I am aware of the fact, too, that the county is penalized in its appropriation when no supervisor nor attendance officer is employed. But the State today does not meet its obligations, therefore we must not depend on such. This is another instance where pressure should be brought to the front by school people, and have the legal setup of school appropriations changed to meet the needs of the present time.

I shall have more to say to you next week along the line of further economy, and in regards to school problems.

Very truly yours,
LUTHER E. LITTLE.

PEOPLE URGED TO PURCHASE POPPIES SAT.

Poppy Day To Be Observed In Clanton Under The Legion Auxiliary

Next Saturday America will pay honor to its World War dead. Millions of Americans in every part of the country will wear bright red poppies to show that they still remember and are grateful for the services of those men who gave their lives in defense of the country fifteen years ago. Here in Clanton the women of the Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will distribute memorial poppies in all parts of the city throughout the day.

Preparations for Poppy Day have been completed by the local [illegible] women. A large corps of volunteer [illegible] are enrolled on the Auxiliary's [illegible] squads. School girls will distribute poppies by the side of gray-haired Gold Star Mothers whose sons died [illegible] the poppies in France. The women [illegible] the city will be united in a patriotic effort as they were in the World War days.

The poppies which the Auxiliary will distribute tomorrow have been made by disabled World War veterans working under Auxiliary [illegible] Hospital in Tuscaloosa. The employment [illegible] that the Auxiliary has been able to give thees men has helped them provide food and fuel for their families during the period when they could not possibly have found other employment. How soon the poppy making can be started again depends on the public response to Saturday's sale.

The Auxiliary will distribute its poppies on a voluntary contribution basis. Poppies will be given in return for contributions of any size the individual is able to make. None of the American Legion Auxiliary workers, who will be easily identified by badges, will receive any compensation for her services. All contributions will be used for the relief and rehabilitation of disabled veterans and their families.

To Help A Man Who Has Helped Himself

From a plow boy to principal of a city school, and still a young man. That is the record of Luther E. Little, Democratic nominee for county superintendent of education of Chilton county.

In nominating Mr. Little, the Democrats of Chilton County have selected a man whose life story would be interesting and a great lesson to young people. Mr. Little has shown his desire to rise in the educational world, by his work and his stickability from the time he was given a one-teacher school years ago. His record as a school teacher and now a leader in education would read like one of the well known Horatio Alger stories of the young men who have succeeded against odds.

To say that Mr. Little is the man for the place as superintendent of education of this county, would be putting it somewhat mildly. Chilton County needs a man of the calibre of Mr. Little to handle its educational office. In saying this, we do not mean to throw any reflection on any man who has held the office. Our point to bring out is that the people of this county will be doing well if they elect Luther Little to that office.

His campaign, which he intends to conduct from now until the election will be clean and open to anyone for question. That is the statement he made to this newspaper. In a conversation with the editor of the News, Mr. Little also stated that he hoped those who have heretofore voted the Republican ticket will feel perfectly free to join the Democrats in giving him a helping hand so that he may extend his scope of service to the people of his county.

A Demonstration of Fairness

Some criticism may be piled upon this newspaper for taking views it does in regard to our county government when those in office are due some credit. Some activities of the Commissioners Court during the past few weeks have brought this newspaper to notice that several things have been done whereby petty politics have been slightly pushed aside, and we feel that we should say something to show that the News is still big enough to recognize a demonstration of fairness.

The President Recognizes The South

We wonder how many of those Republicans of Chilton County can remember a President who has been so devoted to the South as President Roosevelt. Have you ever seen a President who went into Southern states and selected members of his cabinet? Have you seen a President in the past fifteen years who could take a problem like Muscle Shoals and give it back to the people of the South? Since when did one of our Presidents take the time to visit Alabama and its cities?

Of course right here, we must bring out that President Roosevelt is a Democrat, and we are proud of that fact. We are also proud that he is showing up to be even a greater man than the people anticipated. Mr. Roosevelt's activities and ways of bringing the country back to the people is setting an example for the Democrats of Chilton county, and they are following it. But, we must not confine this to the Democrats, as we realize that there are numerous voters who have heretofore marked under the Republican emblem, are going to be welcomed into the Democratic voting ranks of the county in order to put Chilton county in accord with the nation.

The Water Question In Clanton

We are somewhat reluctant about offering suggestions to our city officials, but we believe that we have a suggestion to offer that will meet with their approval, and we are sure it will meet with the approval of the drug stores of Clanton, and the hundreds of persons who come to our town on Saturday.

The News has always urged the people to come to Clanton and do their shopping and will continue to point out to them that Clanton has many advantages to offer the buyer. But we didn't take into consideration these hot days and the fact that people will get thirsty before the day is over. That calls for water, and ice water at that.

Our suggestion is that maybe the city would give some consideration to erecting or installing some more drinking fountains in town to relieve the congested traffic to and from soda fountains on Saturdays. Three or four more fountains, placed at advantageous points in town would help a lot, and we believe the drug stores will agree with us.

If Luther Little is elected, we'll bet there will be a lot of young girls and boys who will dance with glee. They all seem to like him.

Cultivated dewberries are beginning to show up mighty well over the county now. We hope there is a great possibility in this crop for our county.

The voters of Alabama will have before them some amendments to the Constitution in July. Two of the amendments are published in this issue of the News and will be published each week for several weeks. Read them and get acquainted.

"ROUND TOWN"

---by Doug

There have been many times in the lives of the business men of Clanton that they have been gypped, hornswoggled, nipped, and otherwise taken for a ride, by these fly-by-night schemers, coming into our town with propositions to put things over. Ending by putting them "under."

* * *

I am afraid that several business men in Clanton have been somewhat "gypped" or something in a little scheme that some fellows tried to put over. However, I don't know whether they realize it or not yet.

The time is coming, if not already here, when merchants and business men of Clanton are going to be in dire need of protecting themselves against such schemers. And until then, they have no one to blame but themselves when they get bit by some guy wanting to put on a publicity stunt for them, get their money and leave town, never no more to be seen.

There's some remodeling going on up the highway, next door to Mack's, the bus station. We keep hearing reports that Dr. Gowan says it is going to be a skating-rink, or something. We are a little jubious about that however. In fact we don't much believe they would put a skating rink that close to Mr. Taylor's blacksmith shop. However, Mr. Taylor may have become somewhat softened toward skating rinks and is now wanting one.

And we note in the Birmingham News and Montgomery Advertiser of last Sunday that Mr. Frank Gulledge of Verbena will take for his bride Miss Frances Brown of Maplesville. Well, that union will bring together two prominent families. One from the southern part of the county and one from the western part. I extend heartiest congratulations to Mr. Gulledge and Miss Brown.

To give you readers a little inside dope on this matrimony business, you can look out for one or two more announcements that some young people are contemplating, planning and otherwise fixing to delve into matrimony.

There is some mighty good dewberries showing up around town these days. And they taste pretty good, too, even if they are not the wild ones, where you pick them off the vines, get all scratched up and sunburned. Now you can just go to the grocery store and buy a basket of Chilton county grown dewberries.

Hill Grocery Company is now proudly boasting of a new store in Clanton. That is, I mean their store has a new location. Ernest Arant is doing himself up well, now moving into a new place, with new windows and everything. Speaking of moving, I've never seen a store moved so qiuck before. They really moved. The new location is on main street, between the popular Ben's and the barber shop, across the street from Calloway Drug Company. Don't forget that when you come to town looking for Hill's. Ernest Arant and Jack Jones are ready to greet you with a welcome in their new place.

Was talking with a fellow who travels quite a bit over the country and really is not given to telling untruths or lies, and is usually pessimistic. He openly and frankly told me that business seems to be going on the up and up everywhere he is traveling. Boy, now does that sound good. You're asking me?

It is pleasing to a Roosevelt man like myself to note that such men as Dief and Henry Ford are becoming real Roosevelt boosters these days. Dief has put on some very excellent photographs of Mr. Roosevelt in his service station and cafe, and says he has one at his home. And Henry Ford is publicly stating that he is for Roosevelt and his efforts. That's great for Dief and Henry, because whe ntwo men of such calibre as these, get behind a movement, things are going to pick up.

Now when Mr. Roosevelt's new deal gets down here in the center of Alabama, we want to remember the Roosevelt boosters and help this "new deal" along.

We are glad to learn that Mrs. Erle Thomas and her children who were injured last week in an automobile accident, are improving steadily. And that Mr. Samuel Scott is able to be back on the job after being away for a long time in the hospital. Samuel has always been a figure round Clanton and when he is absent for so long a time, he is missed by his friends.

Well, today is the day that the Ed ceases to be a single man, and takes upon himself a bride. I'm going to the wedding to see how it is done—or rather to see if he is going to get cold feet, nervous or something. I've seen him do a lot of things but I know he's never said "I do" to a preacher before.

And from what I hear, the Kiwanians did themselves up in a big way last Thursday night at Mitchell Dam, when they met with several other clubs in the state. I'll have to hand it to John Hollis and his men at the dam. They are truly well versed in the art of being hosts, even to a couple of hundred people at one lick. Everybody I've seen who were guests at the dam Thursday night, report that it was one of the best times they have had in sometime. Now, don't I wish I was a Kiwanians.

That ain't all. The Clanton Kiwanians are going to Fairfield tonight for another big blow-out with the Fairfield Kiwanians.

And here come more reports through that one and only Victor Norris, chief reporter, wise-cracker, laugh creator and scoop champion, of the News, that business in Clanton last Saturday was far above what it was this time last year, and better than a month ago. That should make the business men rather tickled under the shirt or something.

That reminds me of something. I heard a certain merchant ask a question Monday that was fully answered on the front page of the News last week. I'm afraid that the merchants and business men are overlooking reading the local papers as they should. Of course I realize they think that about all there is in them is the country news, or something in geenral. Well, I'm telling them that they are mistaken when it comes to the News, and in order to keep well informed, they better start watching this newspaper.

And did you read the editorial to the left of this column about the drinking fountains for Clanton. I'm like the Ed on that. I believe the drug stores would appreciate getting a little relief.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I was in the home of poverty and sickness. The mother and her two sons at one time had been faithful and loyal to the church, but they had given up the church and were living all to themselves. The oldest son came in one day and said this to his mother: "Mother, when we went to church and tried to live right we had a lot more than we have now and people thought well of us, but now we have nothing, we are unhappy and people let us alone." That put the mother to thinking and she called for me to visit her. With tears streaming from her eyes, she made confession of her fault. That was only one case among many where a like condition prevails. When people are true to the church and try hard to live right they always do better than when they turn their backs on the church. It is strange to me why people will forsake the church and get nto the bad and then call to the church for assistance. It pays to remain true to the Zion of our God.

For many weeks I observed a lumber barge anchored near the wharf. The waves would rock the barge, but it was safe because the water and the waves were on the outside. One day there was a leak in that barge and it started to lowering itself into the water. This kept up for several days. More and more the water came on the inside of the boat, and one day it was full of water and went down. Like that barge, we are anchored in this world. As long as we keep the world on the outside of our hearts we can ride the waves of this life in safety. Woe be to us when we allow the world to enter our hearts. The more of the world that we allow on the inside, the lower we are going to sink, and when we are full of the world, down we will go. It is all right to live in this world and be rocked by her waves and winds, but it is certain destruction when we let the world fill us.

A law abiding citizen was before the mayor's court, charged with violating the parking regulations. He informed the court that he was innocent of an intention to violate the law, as there were no markings to indicate traffic regulations. He was excused from the charges, and the mayor immediately called in the chief of police and ordered him to put a crew of men on the streets and have them make clear with white paint the regulations of traffic requirements. For two days men were busy remarking the faded lines for parking, and making clear the regulations of traffic laws. I fear that the lines that regulate the Christian conduct of church members have become very faint. I know that there is something wrong, or church members would not be parking in front of Sunday picture shows, or about the grandstand of ball parks on the holy Sabbath. The time has come when the preachers of all denominations should be instructed to go out with the paint of God's book and re-mark the parking lines of heavenly traffic.

On climbing the steps of a home I saw the white button of the electric bell. I walked to it and pressed it with my finger. No sound of a ringing bell was heard. I pressed it many times and no response. Then I knocked on the door and the lady of the house answered my knock. She informed me that the electric bell did not ring. In order to make that bell ring what was necessary. Would polishing the bell make it ring? Would it help to rewire the connections? Only one thing was needed and that was to re-charge the batteries. As a pastor I have pushed the white looking life of a church member, expecting to make the bell of the heart ring, but got no answer. I have tried time and again with no results. What is the trouble? Will it help to polish the member with more culture? Only one thing is needed—the battery of the heart needs to be re-charged with the power of God. There is nothing wrong with the connection, nothing wrong with the bell, but the heart is not charged.

I was standing on the shore watching some fishermen as they were drawing in their seine. It made a large circle in the water and at first there was but little sign of fish being on the inside of the circle. Slowly and quietly the men tugged at the lines and the circle grew smaller. The school of mullet on the inside became disturbed and they started to jumping over the corks and making for the deep. The smaller the circle, the more of the choice fish went over the lines. Many very fine mullet were drawn in, but hundreds of them had jumped out of the circle, and they were ever to be caught, some other fisherman must make a haul for them. When we start our revivals there is not much concern by the unsaved. The longer we run, the more disturbed become the sinners who are being sought. Many of the choice ones being sought become agitated and they jump oyer the lines. The stronger the effort, the more numerous becomes the jumpers. Often the preacher feels that the choice fish are all jumping over the lines. When the meeting is over, there are many choice fish drawn in, but many have escaped. They will never be caught unless some other preacher drags them in at another revival. Sad to relate, many of the sinners will not be caught in the net of God's kingdom. The devil will catch all who are not caught in God's seine.

SILENCE OF THE GRAVE

Before Harry Houdini died, that greatest of magicians agreed with his wife that he would try to communicate with her from tne spirit world, although he had long scoffed at spiritualism. After his death in 1926 his widow watched and waited for a message.

Finally Mrs. Houdini confessed that she had abandoned hope of ever having a communication from beyond the grave, and said: "The silence is impenetrable; there is only a void."

The Society of Psychial Research refuses to accept as authentic any of the many reported messages from the "other world."

After 48 years of painstaking investigation of thousands of alleged communications through mediums and relatives of deceased persons, the society has not found a single one which has stood the test of scientific examination.

Yet many sincere persons believe that they have had such communications, and no one could convince them to the contrary so strong is the power of belief and imagination.

Plan Suggested For Financing Scout Work To Aid Boys In Chilton County Troops

For over a year past no concerted or systematic program has been employed to secure finances for the promotion of Boy Scout training and activities in the Chilton County district. However, Scout Executive, John J. Sigwald, has been making regular monthly visits here, and while not much has been said, much really has been accomplished with the boys who are enlisted in Scouting.

New leadership has been secured for Clanton Troop 47. Regular Scouting activities have been aided and encouraged in both Troops 47 and 51, besides assistance to Mitchell Dam Cub Pack. A training course for scouters was held. A camp site for local Scouts has been found and designated. Assistance was provided for holding the annual Scout Jamboree at Tallassee. Troops have been organied at Maplesville and Verbena. These accomplishments constitute the high spots of last year's Scouting program in Chilton County.

Chairman Sam R. Powers and those other Scouters who are volunteers in promoting this character-building program among the boys last spring assured Mr. Sigwald that his professional services were still desired, and even though the district must postpone paying its share fo ra twelve-months period, that we would raise our finances.

In every way we received services satisfactory. Now the time has come when we should show our appreciation and fulfill our obligation. Clanton Scouters plan to secure every Clanton business concern an das many individuals as possible to subscribe to the 50 cents a month plan. This easy payment i to be made during each month, and a receipt will be given by the collector. This plan most fairly distributes the responsibility, but must meet with the approval and cooperation of enough of our public spirited business concerns and individuals, if it is to be a success.

In thinking of your opportunity to help in this great movement, you are asked to remember that our leaders in the business and civic world of tomorrow shall come from the boys of today. Surely, therefore, Scouting is worth your support and mine, because it is a concise, systematic and sincere movement designed to make of our boys better men for tomorrow. It is a work that is effective. It produces results.

The chairman of the finance committee will in a few days have the fifty cents a month financing plan outlined, and someone will call upon you for your support and regular contribution. We hope to secure a hearty response from our business and professional men. Every individual will have an opportunity to help.

Liver Sufferers Amazed At Results Obtained From Remarkable New Treatment

Thousands Reporting Sargon Soft Mass Pills Have Brought Them Lasting Relief From Constipation—Sour Stomach —Sick Headaches — Gas— Bad Breath—Coated Tongue —Nervousness and Dizzy Spells After Everything Else Had Failed.

If Your Liver Is Not Performing Its Proper Functions—Sickness — Suffering and Ill Health Are the Inevitable Result.

Science Has Proved That Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, Laxative Pills, Herb Teas or Extracts Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest —it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and natural in their action there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them.

Field Mice Control

By C. E. Stapp

Mr. Roy Moore, Leader of Roden Control Work of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, advises Mr. Stapp that field mice and cotton rats are destroying crops in many sections by digging up the seed. Mr. Moore states that these rodents can be controlled by poisoning with bait prepared by mixing one ounce of powdered strychnine alkaloid and one ounce of borax with 12 pounds of rolled oats, (regular, not three-minute oats). This bait should be sprinkled on top of the ground where the seed are being dug up by the mice.

Locusts Emerge After 13 Years

Auburn, Ala.—After thirteen years in the ground, thousands—perhaps millions—of locusts or harvest flies will emerge and swarm over Alabama this year.

This is reported by Prof. J. M. Robinson, head of the department of entomology and zoology of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who says that the insect, known as the periodical cicada, may be seen in most parts of the State the latter part of May and thruout the month of June. In the past the insects have been seen in nearly all counties of the State, the first recorded appearance being in Etowah County in 1814. The last emergence was in 1920.

A report from Fairfax states that the insects have already begun to emerge there, 70 of them having come from one hole in the ground in a few minutes.

The insects come out of the ground in the form of a nymph which climbs trees houses, etc., and molts. The winged adult crawls out, leaving a cast-off skin hanging on the tree or house. It then lays eggs, usually on fruit trees. The eggs hatch and the nymph drops to the ground and remains there 13 years before emerging again.

The locust or cicada has a blackish body, red eyes, brownish wings, and the insect's body is 1½ inches long with the body and wing length being 1 3-4 inches.

Prof. Robinson is anxious to have reports on appearance of this insect from all parts of the State and urges all those who locate specimens to deliver them to county agents who in turn will forward them to Auburn for recording.

The principal damage done by the periodical cicada is to fruit trees. The limbs are damaged when they are punctured for the laying of the eggs.

Clanton Fire Department Observes Four Years Of Very Commendable Service

An enviable record has been made by the Clanton Fire Department during its four years of existence. With more than a hundred serious fires during that time, less than a dozen buildings have been destroyed, according to figures compiled by Chief William H. L. Smith.

Although a voluntary unit, there is perhaps no metropoltan force more efficient in fighting fires and the preservation of adjoining properties, according to admiring citizens. Only one fire this year has ganed headway enough to destroy a building, and in that instance commendable work was done in preventing the flames spreading to near-by buildings in spite of the high winds that prevailed.

Organized little more than four years ago by the present chief and former Chief Macey Jones with a membership of sixteen members, nine of the original number are still with the department. Mr. Smith, who is employed by the Upchurch Drug Company, has guided the destiny of the fire-fighters for the past three and one-half years—and has been the recipient of numerous complimentary remarks by persons from all sections of the country, as well as by appreciative residents of Clanton.

The present membership of the unit is composed of William H. L. Smith, chief; Eddie Wyatt and Rufus Brown, captains; Earl Gore, Reise Driver and Milton Smith, drivers; Lester (Red) Wagoner, Albert Davis, Sleepy Miller, Arthur Broadhead, Luther Culpepper, Courtland Retherford, Eugene Gore, Paul Marcus and Edwin Wagoner.

The most modern equipment is employed, including an American-La France 500-gallon pumper, which forces 500 gallons of water per minute; a 50-gallon chemical tank and equipment; two five-gallon chemical outfits; a five-gallon hand outfit, which can be strapped on a man's back and is used in combatting minor flames in ceilings and other places inaccessible to the more complicated equipment.

Twelve-hundred and fifty feet of hose is a part of the regular equipment and, according to Chief Smith, will efficiently connect any building in Clanton with one of the fifty-three fire plugs in the city limits. Also a hook and ladder outfit is maintained.

Chief Smith stated all the fire plugs in the city have recently been examined and standardized, which will greatly lessen fire hazards, he said.

Time and again I am told——by my own organization and by others——that I penalize myself by quality.

Friendly critics protest our putting into the Ford V-8 what they call "twenty-year steel." They say such quality is not necessary; the public does not expect it; and that the public does not know the difference anyway.

But I know the difference.

I know that the car a man sees is not the car he drives——he drives the car which the engineer sees. The car which is seen, comprises beauty of design, color and attractive accessories,——all desirable, of course. The best evidence that we think so is that they are all found on the Ford V-8.

But these are not the car. The car proper, which is the basis of all the rest, is the type of engine and its reliability; the structure of chassis and body, ruggedly durable; the long thought and experiment given to safety factors; the steady development of comfort, convenience and economy. These make the car.

A car can be built that will last two or three years. But we have never built one. We want the basic material of our car to be as dependable the day it is discarded as the day it is bought. Ford cars built 15 years ago are still on the road. It costs more to build a durable car——but two items we do not skimp are cost and conscience. A great many things could "get by"——the public would never know the difference. But we would know.

The new Ford V-8 is a car that I endorse without any hesitancy. I know what is in it. I trust our whole thirty years' reputation with it. It is even better than our previous V-8. It is larger, more rugged and mechanically a better job all round.

I readily say this in an advertisement because I know the car will back it up.

The History of Plants

The word "plant" is a small one, but has a large meaning. Many people live on the farm all their lives and never stop to think just what the plant is or of the origin of plants which they work and cultivate each year.

There are three great epochs of geological time into which the earth is divided. The first, or primary epoch, brought the appearance of plants such as seaweeds, mosses, ferns and finally of huge trees, whose abundant vegetation was the source of our coal. The second epoch brought many animals, the fossils of which we find today. The third epoch brought man, who gradually became civilized more or less as we see him today. He began to watch the habits of small plants, mainly those from which he derived his food, clothing or shelter. crude as were his observations. The facts collected by modern science make it certain that early man was first a savage, who lived on roots, herbs, and animals which could be killed with his crude weapons. Then he was a barbarian before he reached anywhere the stage of civilization, where he began to cultivate the small plants for a means of food and clothing.

There were no corn nor cotton then as we have them today, but there were wild grain, grasses, berries and other plants which resembled the plants of today.

Man found that a plant would grow faster and bigger by digging around it with a stone or a stick. Later he learned that he could collect small seed from the wild plants and place them in the ground and they would come up and produce fruit as did the ones from which the seed were collected.

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION AT JEMISON WENT OFF FINE

The spring session of the Chilton County Singing Convention at Jemison last Sunday exceeded all expectations both as to attendance and general interest of both singers and listeners. The announcement had been made that there would be more big singers than had ever gathered before in the county, and this was probably true. Outstanding composers were a little shy, but what they lacked was more than made up for by fine quartets.

Singing was opened at ten o'clock by the county chairman, W. G. Culp. A program committee was appointed, composed of P. B. Shaw, A. H. Glasscock and Akins I. Collins. After the chairman sang one song the opening prayer was offered by Rev. Geo. W. Freeman of Randolph. Another song was sung by Mr. Culp and the first director was called.

Only one song was allowed for each director, and after every two directors there was a quartet. There were six bands who put on one or more numbers, some of them singing as many as five. They were: McDonald quartet of Birmingham; Stringfellow quartet of Tuscaloosa, a ladies quartet from Centerville, the Loyal Four of Shelby County, the Clanton quartet, and the Jemison quartet. All of the bands did good singing, but special mention should be made of the ladies from Centerville. They sang two numbers before noon and had to leave the convention at that time. The quality of their voices was unexcelled, and their harmony and melody showed that they have spent no little time and effort in preparing themselves for singing together in a quartet.

Those directing were: T. E. Wyatt, Sam Stone, P. B. Shaw, Marvin McDonald, L. T. Grant, Herbert Lowery, Marion Easterling, W. R. smoke is belching from the flues of Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company, heralding the approach of the "New Deal" to Alabama. Several Birmingham iron industries have resumed activities.

The collosal task of transforming into reality President Roosevelt's dream of converting the Tennessee Valley into a national industrial workshop has been assigned to Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, in Ohio.

Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska Republican, who is the author of the main principle of the Muscle Shoals bill, has estimated that between 3000 and 4000 men will be given immediate employment as a result of the passage of the bill.

The recent passage of the Public Works bill, authorizing the allotment of approximately $300,000,000 for road building purposes, is expected to alleviate unemployment conditions to a great extent. Alabama's quota of this fund has been estimated at approximately $8,000,000, which it is estimated will give employment to about 21,000 men.

If the state receives the money it will be enough to build about 650 miles of pavement, according to Capt. Langdon G. Smith, state highway director. Governor Miller recently stated that he is very hopeful that Alabama will have before the summer is over nearly $13,000,000 for road building purposes.

Lawrence Thanks Voters Of County

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I am taking this means of expressing my appreciation to all those friends of mine who supported and voted for me in the Referendum-Primary held on Friday, May 19th.

Let me appeal to every citizen of the county to stand by any program that will mean better education for all children. I feel that many good people of the county do not understand the school program and the school situation. The teachers have sacrificed in a noble way and I am hoping that on July 18th everyone will be able to rise above any prejudice and that the Warrant Act will be passed in order that our teachers may be able to get pay for the warrants they are now holding. The "so-called" Economy League is putting out much misleading information both against the Income Tax and the Warrant Act. I can now speak without any room for misunderstanding. Both of these issues will be voted on after my term of office and there is no room for any misunderstanding about my position. I am saying what I have in the interest of the children and not in the interest of an individual. Our school system must go forward and I again say that I am ready to support any and every move that means better schools.

B. LAWRENCE,
County Superintendent.

Business Shows Gain In May Over April

Indications continue evident that business conditions in Clanton are gradually on the incline, according to information from several business firms in the town. Although there was a slight drop in business last Saturday over the Saturday before, which was boosted considerably by receipts from strawberries and the county payroll, there is an optimism in the air that has been absent for many months.

Business men of Clanton are concurring in the opinion of financiers of the Nation, that at last the corner has been reached and is gradually being left behind in a natural evolution that will restore normalcy within the year.

Grocery establishments have felt the increase in business conditions more than other places, but the managers of other types of business seem equally as optimistic. Almost without exception firms reported their business twenty to twenty-five per cent better this month than during April.

NEGRO NABBED AFTER TELLING OFFICERS LIQUOR IS BERRIES

With a nonchalance that even Murads couldn't improve, Cleve Davis, negro, trudged along the Maplesville highway Monday night, fondly clasping a paper bag.

But just as the roosters heralded the mystic hour of midnight—Cleve found himself blinded with a powerful light, and a voice that sent chills shivering up his spine rumbled—"What you got in that bag, Negro?"

With a brave effort to resume his nonchalant attitude, the negro declared, "This heah berries!"

But examination revealed a quart of illicit beverage, so Sheriff Gillespie brought him to jail. And Cleve wailed pessimistically "Mah dollah's done gone, too."

ON MATTER OF REDUCING TAXES IN CHILTON COUNTY

Clanton, Ala., May 24, 1933.

Editor, Chilton County News:

Dear Sir:

The Republican Executive Committee in session last Saturday, May the 20th, 1933, passed a resolution favoring a re-adjustment of the tax values of Chilton County, Alabama, said valuations to be fixed in accordance with present values.

It was also suggested that Monday, May the 29th, 1933, was the latest day that a person may file application for reduction with the chairman of the Board of Review, Mr. Akins Collins.

You will therefore please call attention to your readers of this fact that if they feel that their values are too high, they should file this request at once with Mr. Collins.

Yours very truly,
J. Z. MIMS.

BOARD OF REV'W MEETS MONDAY TO STUDY TAXES

Over 300 Protests Against Rates Of Assessments Have Been Filed

Members of the Chilton County Board of Review will convene next Monday morning for a session of perhaps two weeks duration, to consider petitions from several hundred taxpayers in the county for a reduction in the amount of assessment against their properties.

With approximately four hundred protests already filed, members of the commission declared that it is possible that the session may last nearly two weeks. Tax Assessor Akins Collins, secretary of the Board of Review, declared, however, that he believes it will be possible to complete the hearings within one week.

The law provides that the county board of review must convene the first Monday in June, and if necessary may remain in session until the second Monday in July, but in this county, Mr. Collins stated, the hearings may be completed in a much shorter time.

Leaders of both the republican and democratic parties are sponsoring reductions in taxes, and are furnishing legal advice to persons wishing to file protests. Only those protestors who appear personally and on oath testify to reasons why he thinks his taxes should be reduced will have consideration given to their filed protests, it was stated.

The Chilton County Board of Review is composed of the four county commissioners C. D. Duke, J. C. At[illegible]son, J. L. Cobb and J. M. Mims, Akins Collins, tax assessor, and Hugh [illegible]mpson, license inspector.

'Legger For Thirty-five Years Caught Recently

The copy book maxim "you can't beat the law" was exemplified here last Saturday morning, when legal justice overtook a man that officers said admitted he had distilled whiskey for the past thirty-five years in violation of the law without being arrested.

Tom Caton, elderly resident of the Caton community west of Thorsby, told officers Saturday morning when they raided a still near his home and arrested him, that he has constantly manufactured liquor for the past thirty-five years, but had never been arrested before.

Deputies James and Louis Gillespie and P. L. Robinson participated in the raid. Caton is at liberty on bond.

HOME AGENT DOING GOOD WORK HERE

More Than Twenty Home Demonstration Clubs Are Now Organized

A spirit of ideal cooperation has been manifested in the promotion of the organization of home demonstration work in Chilton county, according to Miss Ruth Pardue, newly appointed home demonstration agent for this county.

Within ten days more than twenty-five clubs have been organized in the various communities in the county, with a membership of approximately 400. Two leaders have been appointed in each community to assist the agent in the promotion of the work.

Miss Pardue stated that in no place where she has worked, has there been evidence of more worthy cooperation than has been evidenced in Chilton county.

Most of the summer months will be spent in behalf of canning projects, Miss Pardue stated. An extensive program is being mapped out in connection with the local relief unit.

It was decided to add a home demonstration agent to the county's service to its citizenship after more than thirty women met the commissioners' court last week and entered petition for an agent.

Miss Ruth Dobyne of the Auburn staff, who outlined the advantages of a home demonstration agent to members of the court, accompanied Miss Pardue to Clanton and assisted her in arranging details of organization program.

Clubs organized have been at the following places:

Baker school, Concord (Beat 4), Providence (Beat 16), Thomas Jr. school, Morganville, Enterprise school, Fairvew school, New Cedron, Shiloh, Isabella, Sardis, Shoults, Stanton, Alpine, Pletcher, Jackson Chapel, Collins Chapel, Union Grove, Pinedale, Oak Grove, Providence (B), Pates Chapel, Pleasant Grove, Freeman, Mt. LUTHER LITTLE TOUCHES ON PHASE OF PROBLEMS OF SUPERINTENDENT

Opinions Meeting With Hearty Approval

Again this week, Mr. Luther E. Little, Democratic nominee for the office of superintendent of education of Chilton County, gives to the people of the county more of his knowledge of the responsibilities and problems that are to face a superintendent of education.

Mr. Little's unusual ability to easily ferret out these matters and devise means of coping with them has been attracting attention for some time. His opinions on school costs, and ways of operation, expressed by him are meeting with hearty approval from the thinking citizens of the county. Following is Mr. Little's letter to the people this week:

To the Voters of Chilton County:

"There are many problems connected with school work which every individual interested in school work should be familiar with, and which every voter should study carefully. These problems cannot be solved by your local County Superintendent regardless of who is serving in that capacity. Many of these school problems can and should be settled by our state legislature. For instance we have in this state eleven State Secondary Agricultural Schools which were chartered before our present high school idea was developed. These schools were located at strategic points over the state for the purpose of offering training in high school grades and especially in agriculture. Each of these schools receive annually a sum of $7500.00 for maintenance, this sum coming direct from the State. This means a sum of $82,500.00 goes direct to these schools which no longer serve the purpose for which they were originally organized. This statement is justified by the fact that every county now has a number of high schools, some of which are Vocational Agricultural schools, and also practically every County has a County Agent, and also a Demonstration Agent. It is further justifed by the fact that in the annual report of the State Superintendent of Education for 1930-31 we find this statement regarding these District Agricultural schools: — "It has been urged by some that good reasons no longer exist for their operation independently of the local system: that good administration would be conserved if they were placed under control of school boards on the counties or municipalities where they are located." If the cost of these schools was distributed equally among the counties of the state, Chilton county would receive enough to operate a two-teacher school for a full term. Therefore, it is a school problem for the local Superintendent to advise the voters of this county of situations like the above, and then let them urge upon the local representative and senator to favor legislation which would permit Chilton County to share in the above mentoned $82,500.00, and in any other appropriations which might also be more equally distributed.

"The State motto, 'Every Child an Equal Chance,' can never be realized until we inform our people of the many inequalities existing, and go to work in a concerted manner to remedy the ills of the present manner of distribution of state school funds.

A thorough knowledge of the entire state conditions is a most essential qualification for your local school men."

Very truly yours,
LUTHER E. LITTLE.

"Fats" Win Over "Leans" Last Tues.

A jewel in the field of sports entertainment was presented in Clanton, Tuesday afternoon, when the "Fats" played the "Leans" furnishing laughs for one of the biggest crowds that has filled the Clanton baseball park this season.

"Some tired!" was echoed on every side, after the fat boys raced the skinny fellows around the bases for a 35 to 33 victory. Stiff joints cracked—bulging waist lines interfered with the freedom of breathing—but with a smile of triumph, the heavy nine piled up a two point victory.

The line-up was:

FATS—Sam Martin, Captain, George McCain, Chester Mims, Red Wagoner, Earl Parrish, Maurice Lande, Dewey Rockett, Adelbert Norris, Jim Wade, Joe Calloway, Cat Fish Eubanks.

LEANS — John Durwood Mullins, Captain, L. Cobb, Albert Davis, Louie Smth, Mack Wyatt, Joe VanDerveer, Bob Atchison, Dr. J. E. Edgar, Claude Reynolds, Gene Gore, Renfroe Jones.

The game was sponsored by Mrs. Renfro Mullins circle of the Clanton Baptist church.

Attempted Suicide Victim Will Recover

The chances of recovery for a woman who gave her name as Louise Sanders, of Mobile, who is being treated at the Central Alabama Hospital for internal injuries she suffered when she is said to have swallowed a strong poison solution, last Saturday afternoon at the Willis Tourist Camp, one mile north of Clanton, in an effort to end her own life, are excellent, according to information from the hospital.

Although the solution which the woman is said to have swallowed is said by physicians to be deadly poison, treatment was administered before serious effects were incurred. She was rushed to the hospital in a Martin & Sons ambulance, after she told an attendant at the tourist camp that she had swallowed the poison.

An unsigned note addressed to "Douglas" was found on the bed with the unconscious woman, in which she made a plea for him to take "his" child to his mother's and take care of it; and to quit drinking and be a better man.

The child, a girl about a year-old, was turned over to Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, local social director, and placed in a boarding home temporarily. The woman informed officers that a Clanton man is the father of her child.

OFFICER FIRED AT BY NEGRO WITH WHISKEY

Alleged To Have Had A Quantity Of Liquor While On Train

An unidentified negro man fired a pistol at Deputy Louis Gillespie Saturday afternoon, when the officer attempted to arrest him after he abandoned three gallons of liquor in a swamp near Clanton.

Deputies Louis and James Gillespie sought to arrest the negro after being informed by the conductor on a freight train that he was armed and had threatened trainmen when they tried to put him off the train. They told the officers that he boarded the freight at Saginaw and repeatedly threatened members of the train crew until they reached Clanton, where he leaped off the train and rushed into the swamp.

The officers said they found the negro secreted in a growth of honeysuckle vines, and when they ordered him to surrender he began firing a pistol at Deputy Louis Gillespie, but failed to hit him. The deputy returned the fire and the negro took cover in the swamp and made a get away.

Officers said that for some time negroes have been transporting liquor from Shelby county into Clanton by riding freight trains and jumping off in the swamp when the train slows down for Clanton.

CHILTON BOYS DOING REAL FOREST WORK

Lance Franklin Writes About Life In Forest Camps For The News

Out there in the great vastness of unsubdued nature, forty-eight Chilton county boys are learning many lessons: Learning that the clean, wholesome life of the outdoors lends a surprising vigor and cheerfulness to life that is absent in the more metropolitan sections.

Six months in the reforestation service, lending their support to the restoration of nature in the wilds—and to the restoration of prosperity for those back home—will develop a responsibility and resourcefulness that will mean much to these boys throughout life.

Commendable in the boys of Chilton county, who have joined the reforestation ranks—is their liberality in providing for their families. Each of the forty-eight boys selected to represent this county voluntarily assigned $25 per month of his pay to his family, according to Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, social director of the county.

Following is a letter from Lance Franklin, former correspondent for the Chilton County News—describing life in the camps. Young Franklin has agreed to write regularly for the News of the happenings among the recruits in the reforestation service.

It is my privilege to be able, by actual experience, to give you a tip on the life of the members of the Civilian Conservation Corps here at Fort McClellan. There are about 4,000 of us here with 212 to each company. We sleep 8 to the tent under the supervision of the regulars of the army with officials such as foremen, sub-foremen, squad leaders, etc.

We took the physical examination on arriving and the oath of enrollment. After that, we were issued our clothes, army cot, pillows and blankets

It is a funny sight to see the boys in line for their share of spuds. I don't mean we have spuds alone, but plenty of good food of various kinds and ice cream and cake on Sunday. We have breakfast at 6 o'clock, dinner at 12, and supper at 5.

Each company has its own bath house, bulletin board and mail box. We have a post exchange to spend our money.

The lights go off at 9 o'clock and by that time nearly everybody is in bed.

We have religious services each Sunday morning at 8:30 with Chaplain Matthews in charge. The army band furnishes the music. The services are held in the open air theater which seats 900 people. Chaplain Matthews also conducts prayer services on Wednesday evenings.

We have plenty of music by the army band or the boys here in camp. We also have access to Hostess House where we can read, write and listen to good music over the radio. Above all we have a peach of a swimming pool with life guards on duty.

To sum it all up, we are having a good time, and I wouldn't leave it for anything.

It's almost time for the lights to go off, but from time to time I will tell you more about our camp life.

LANCE FRANKLIN,
Co. 470 C. C. C., Ft. McClellan.

Blow Your Whistles

One of America's great poets once was so deeply impressed by the melody of ringing bells that he wrote an immortal poem expressing his feelings on their music. We are not poets, but if we were we would seriously consider dedicating a bit of verse to the whistles of our country. Just a few days ago the writer was pleasantly aroused from a depressing reverie by the deep-toned notes of a steam whistle. No train was puffing by, and for a moment said writer was perplexed, but the direction of the sound gave a clue and when upon further observance it was noted that the time was midday, it became evident it was a saw mill whistle pealing forth the glorious old dinner-time message to working men.

We have big whistles and little whistles—
There are bass whistles and tenor whistles.
What a knell they can tell in a symphonic band
To the devils of depression in Colombia Land!

Your Investment In Railroads

Railroad securities may not be listed in your name. But the chances are that you have an insurance policy, a savings account, perhaps an interest in some endowed institution. If you have, you are a railroad stockholder. For a great many years banks and insurance companies and universities and hospitals have been putting much of their money into railroad bonds. They did this because it seemed a sure-fire investment, from the standpoint of safety—no industry seemed more necessary to the country or to have a better chance of permanence than the railroad.

The question now is—was that a mistake? The railroads are still the basic medium of transport. They still carry practically all of the long-haul freight in the country, and the bulk of the short-haul. They still reach into every corner of the nation—something no other transport system does. They still offer unparalleled standards of service. There is still no competitor in the field which is able to fill their shoes.

Railroad improvement in the United States has stopped because we have regulated the railroads with an iron hand—and allowed competitors to escape the same type of regulation. It has stopped because we have used railroad taxes to subsidize water-way, air-mail and highway competition. It has stopped because we have throttled the railroads with political red tape and given favors to transport mediums which, while they have a place, are far inferior to the rails in magnitude and efficiency of service, in responsibility, and in their importance to the financial future of the country.

What are you going to do about your interest in the railroads?

Business conditions have improved steadily since the latter part of March.

Greater activity and generally higher prices characterized the commodity and security markets after gold exports were suspended. Steel mills have gone to more than 20 per cent of capacity, after the drop to 15 per cent in March. Automobile output has rapidly expanded. Department store merchandise sales are sharply increasing. Lumber and electric power production, both good indicators, have advanced. Some improvement has been registered in car loading. The farmer's markets show similar advances, with grains reaching and holding better levels.

Now Is The Time To Spend

The public has grown weary of the old slogans to the effect that "Prices are booming! Buy now!" etc. But there's truth in those phrases at present.

Recent inflation activities and the prospective change in the gold backing of the dollar, will be the most powerful price stimulant in three years. It really is time to buy now!

Best of all, by buying now, and building and repairing now, you can do your bit in the most dramatic stage of the war against unemployment and distress and at the same tme secure the greatest return on your dollar in more than a generation.

A dollar in property improvement means a dollar touching the lives of a thousand people—and doing a thousand dollars' work. Repair the steps, paint the house, remove fire hazards, renovate the garden, renew rotting foundations with concrete—do any of these things, and you'll be a factor in the work of recovery.

It is not prophecy to say that in your lifetime you'll never have the opportunity to get work done as cheaply as now. It's fact. The price structure is abnorammly low. It is lower than even the intenseness of depression justifies. As demand increases, the rate of climb will be sharply accelerated.

Remember that providing jobs is cheaper than charity—and that it's better to provide a job now than to have to contribute to charity next year. Remember, too, that unless the jobs are provided it won't be long until nothing is left for charity!

"ROUND TOWN"
---by Doug

Not being much of a politician, and usually always putting my foot in my mouth when I get to writing about politics and politicians, I sometimes hesitate to comment on politics in Chilton County. But, this time I believe I know what I'm talking about. I believe the people of Chilton county are going to put Luther E. Little in as superintendent of education.

Now, I might just stop at that, but you folks would be wanting to know why I believe that. That's natural, and especially for the ladies to want to know why. You know, it just occurred to me right then that the ladies could take a big hand in this election next month, and do Mr. Little a great deal of good. In fact if the ladies would get behind it, there is no question about it—in he would go.

Congratulations are in order, and I extend my heartiest to Prof. and Mrs. L. C. Warr on the arrival of the fine young son last Monday night.

Congratulations are in order again, and this time to Mr. Louie Smith and Miss Zora Guy, whose engagement was announced in the daily papers last Sunday, the wedding to occur in June. Clanton has been expecting this announcement for some time, and now that it is here, the question arises, what day in June will this couple take the marriage vows. Being well known as they are, a great deal of speculation is going on round town as to the date. So far, neither of them has stated, but I'll bet my bottom dollar it won't be very long.

G. C. Armstrong (Cleve, as he is known to his friends) will be taking off several days right away as a vacation won by him in a sales contest of the A & P Stores in this district. Mr. Armstrong has been making some mighty rapid strides since he became manager of the Clanton A & P Store, and the fact that he won in this contest with six hundred other stores is something to sit up and take notice of.

The beauty pageant at the high school. Ah, there's something for you. Twenty-six of Clanton's good looking young ladies, all bedecked in pretty clothes and representing various business houses in town. Let's have another one sometime and make the next one a bathing beauty contest. I'd like to be one of the judges or something.

It's mighty hot weather, and when two persons are close together moving around, it gets still hotter. And the weather is going to cause the thermometer to rise a little higher during the next two months. That's going to be bad for some people, but I keep hearing rumors about a dance that is going to be held sometime soon round town, and I've been thinking it is about time for one to take place. And this tme it will be a dandy because I hear that it is going to be sponsored by reliable people. I'll bet you thought this paragraph was going to be about something else.

Yep, I was right. There were several business concerns that got a little gypping in Clanton last week, by biting at a publicity scheme.

Congratulations are soon to be in order for another couple popular in the county. To get further information, my tip is to watch the Birmingham News social section next Sunday.

Since I've been hearing all the rumors about what is going in the building next to Mack's, on the highway, I'll be almost willing to make some bets. It's going to be something that we already have several of in town.

Among those who went from Clanton to the wedding of the Ed last Thursday in Wetumpka, were a couple of fellows who sure fixed the Ed and his bride up in a big way. When he left the church in his car, it sounded like a tornado was whipping down the street, tearing things coming and going, leaving a stream of white pebbles in its path. But it was only a flock of old automobile tags making the noise and a stream of rice coming from the car. It took that to make it seem like a wedding, is the way the Ed took it, and he was expecting it.

I understand that Clanton will have several visitors in town tonight from Troy, when the Troy Kiwanis Club comes to Clanton to meet with the Clanton Club at the Exchange Hotel.

Did you see the picture in the daily papers sometime ago of President Roosevelt signing the Muscle Shoals Bill? If you did, you saw our own congressman, W. B. Oliver standing right behind the President when he was signing the Bill. You known, our Congressman is certainly on the job in Washington these days. I've been following his activities through Congress and he is right there for Alabama and his congressional district. Chilton County, and the other counties in his district will be doing themselves proud to extend Congressman Oliver a glad hand when he comes back to Alabama.

Have you been noticing the way the Clanton Cash Store and the Peoples Cash Store have been fixing things up for folks hunting bargains in groceries? I'm telling you that they have certainly been staying with the guns on prices. Mr. DeLoach who is manager of the Clanton Cash Store and Mr. Billingsley, manager of the Peoples Cash Store, are doing themselves proud in the grocery business.

The Democratic Executive Committee met again last Tuesday, and I understand they are eager to carry their messages to those people who have been voting the Republican ticket in the county. Their messages are something that should be considered by the Republican voters because they are statements showing the people where Democracy is bringing the country back to the people, and as fast as the people get in line with President Roosevelt's plans and help, the faster we are going to see better times.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Two huntsmen were crossing a swollen stream on a log. One of them carried a belt of ammunition about his waist. When about half way over the stream he lost his balance and fell into the surging water. The weight of his soggy hunting clothes, his heavy boots and the belt of ammunition about his waist, carried him under. He struggled with all of his strength to stay on top until his pal could pull him from danger, but he was weighted down and under the water he went. The poor fellow lost his life because he could not swim with the load that he was carrying. Many a person—male and female—has lost his balance and fallen into the turbulent waters of our testing age and has gone down because he was laden with burdens that he was not able to carry. When we belt ourselves with the weight of bad habits, bad company, low ideals and ungodly pleasures, we are powerless to swim to shore. The turbulent stream into which we have fallen will most certainly carry us to our ruin. Only one hope and that is to unbuckle the weights that pull us down.

An old chestnut tree stood in the midst of an acre patch near our country home. It was laden with fruit and the burrs were just beginning to open. How the boys in my father's home watched that tree, and waited for the time to gather the nuts. All the family went away for a day and while we were gone some rude, thieving boys came to the tree and stripped it of every burr and carried away everything that we had hoped to possess. In their greed they had not only taken the nuts, but they had thrashed up the tree until it was ruined. On our return the tree looked like a tornado had swept thru its branches. Giving to the imagination a little play anyone can know about how we felt. When God has a beautiful Sabbath day, one He claims for Himself, and men and women steal it from His possession, and then literally tear it to pieces in pleasure and sinful conduct, a little play of the imagination will reveal about the way God feels. His mercies are wonderful.

I was pastor in a progressive little city. The people were happy and prosperous. They own many broad acres that were covered over with virgin timber. One day I saw the foundation of a large saw mill plant being placed down by the rail road track. Everything looked good for better homes and bulging purses. The farmers were glad to supply the timber for the big saw mill. For the last few months we have witnessed the terriffic efforts of the Brewers to establish Beer gardens and whiskey joints in this temperate nation of ours. "We Want Beer," "We Want Whiskey," is being flaunted into the face of right thinking and right living people. When a business of any kind is opened, somebody must furnish the raw material to make it a going business. Suppose that "Beer Gardens" and "Whiskey Joints" are opened, are you willing to furnish the boys and girls to make the business a going success? Be honest now, tell me how many boys have you in your home, in your community, that you would like to turn over to the whiskey business to make it a success? If you want beer and whiskey for your neighbor's boy and do not want it for your own boy you are a selfish monstrosity that has no right to citizenship in a civilized country. God pity a man who clamors for beer and whiskey and he is not willing that his own boy should be the victim. On the other hand the father who is willing that his boy should be the victim of the whiskey business is too base to deserve pity.

I stood by an orange tree and sought for two leaves that looked alike. On that tree there were many, many leaves, but not any two of them were alike. Strange to say that the leaves were not alike and yet every leaf on that tree showed itself to be an orange leaf. No one who knew the foliage of the orange would have a difficulty in placing every leaf on the orange tree. No two Christian people in this world are alike. We differ in looks, in tastes, in ideals, in mannerisms, in theology, in our inward and outward visions, but there is something in every believer's heart that will show that he belongs to Jesus Christ. When a man is a Christian there is something in him and about him that will show that he belongs to God's tree of Life.

THE COST OF WAR

It is estimated that the World War has cost the United States to date 51 billion dollars. President Coolidge once estimated that before it is paid for in full the total cost will be more than 100 billion, or about the present value of all the states west of the Mississippi.

The 51 billion already spent is too great a sum for the mind to comprehend. One writer tries to illustrate it, but very vaguely, by saying that if someone had begun throwing away dollars at the birth of Christ and had continued to throw them away at the rate of one a minute until the present, without stopping for rest or sleep, he would only now be starting on the second billion. Then to throw away the remainder of the 51 billion would take an additional 95,000 years.

This vast sum, if invested at 5 per cent interest, would yield an income of more than two and a half billion a year, or enough to run the Federal government in approved bureaucratic style.

Letters To The Editor

FOR REPEAL OF THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

The Editor,
Chilton County News:

I appeal to all of the citizens of the State of Alabama, prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists, to unite in repealing the 18th Amendment. I do it for the following reasons:

1. The question of repeal was presented to the nation, for the national Democratic Convention placed in its platform the following: "We favor the repeal of the 18th Amendment." "We demand that the Federal government effectively exercise its power to enable the states to effectually protect themselves against importation of intoxicating liquors in violation of their laws." These declarations were advocated by the President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, who announced that he was 100% for these provisions. Upon this declaration Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected President by an overwhelming majority in which Alabama joined. His opinion has not changed. We have shown our confidence in him, and he has shown his capacity as a statesman; then why should not we acquiesce in his opinion as to the repeal of the 18th Amendment.

2. The repeal of ths amendment does not in any wise compel or authorize the open saloon, or any other saloon, or the sale of any liquors in those states which have their own prohibition laws. To illustrate: If the amendment was repealed today, the prohibition laws of Alabama would still stand and no one would be allowed to sell or dispose of any liquors prohibited by our state laws. It only gives each state the right to govern its own internal affairs on the liquor question. By the repeal of the 18th Amendment, it does not repeal or modify, or in any wise change the laws of the State of Alabama which prohibit the sale of liquors. The platform prohibits those states which have no prohibition laws from shipping or expressing liquors into those states which prohibit the sale of liquor. To illustrate further: The sale proposition arises that each state should govern its own internal affairs in reference to the liquor question, the same as we Alabamians do now in governing our educational, suffrage and judicial systems. Why should we say to Maine, New Hampshire, New York or any other state that you shall not pass laws pertaining to liquor, any more than they have the right to say to us that we shall have mixed schools or regulate the suffrage of our people. When the 18th Amendment is repealed, the onlv way that our prohibition laws could be changed or affected would be by the people's representatives in the Legislature, for the United States Government would not have the right nor the power to interfere one way or the other, with the prohibition laws of a state, except to prohibit liquor from being shipped into a prohibition state.

3. Voting for repeal of the 18th Amendment does not bind anyone to vote for or against Prohibition nor does it pledge anyone in any manner whatsoever to modify or repeal the prohibition laws of the State of Alabama. It only leaves it to the soverign people of each state to say what its laws shall be upon this subject, without the interference of the national government.

4. The question of repeal of the 18th Amendment has no connection, nor is it in any wise related to any of the constitutional amendments proposed by the State of Alabama to its constitution. These matters are separate and apart from the question of repeal of the 18th Amendment.

In conclusion, let us say that the question of the repeal of the 18th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States is to redeliver or turn back to each of the states of the Union the right to govern its own affairs without Federal interference, and does not affect in any manner the prohibition laws of Alabama or any other state in this Union. The Democratic party announced broadly and specifically, in convention assembled, that this amendment should be repealed. The Republican party in effect said it should be resubmitted. Both parties evidently realize that no state should be deprived of the right of local self-government.

President Roosevelt has shown himself a student of the affairs of Government. We have trusted him and he has not failed us, as to the great economic questions of the nation, unemployment, labor, and all other matters pertaining to the Government. Why cannot we trust his judgment and adopt his declaration by voting for the repeal of the 18th Amendment; and should we not trust him as to this, when he is only advocating those things that the founders of our government believed in—State's rights and local self-government,

A. M. TUNSTALL,
Chairman, Campaign Committee.

IS PROHIBITION A CURSE?

Editor, Chilton County News:

As these are two great problems to be voted on in July by the voters of our state, namely: Shall we repeal the 18th Amendment, the present national prohibition law, and legalize all drinks, and also shall we impose an income tax on those who are prosperous enough to be drawing an income.

I would like to offer a few comments and also give our readers a few of my ideas on the two problems.

I will first consider the present prohibition law. Has it been a blessing to the people of our nation or has it been a curse. If I know what it takes to make a curse it is my belief that it has been a great curse. Because the people of our country have been taxed billions of dollars to have the law enforced and liquor and drink are just as plentiful now as it was before we had the Prohibition law. Millions of people raised their disapproval against prohibition, not because they are drunkards and not because they are not good Christans, but because they have found out that the law has proved to be a curse to the people of our nation. That was proven last November when the voters of our nation gave Franklin D. Roosevelt a majority of more than seven million votes and he was known as the dripping wet candidate, and he has been true to his platform and is proving to be the greatest President that has ever occupied the White House.

In conclusion let me say in regard to the income tax that it is my opinion that it is the only kind of tax which would not be burdensome because the law provides enough income for a good comfortable living that would not be taxed. Why should any person mind paying an income tax on all income that they may have above a good living I think such a tax is the only sensible and honest way of levying taxes. I wish I was in possession of an income that I would have to pay an income tax.

Will the voters of our State vote for a law to have the person who is able to pay taxes pay them, or will we vote against such a law and vote for the person to pay them that hasn't any income.

I shall vote for both repeal of the 18th Amendment and for the income tax.

COUNTY ALMSHOUSE

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words? I just want to tell the readers of the News that I have had the pleasure of attending services at the Alms House on last Sunday. And I surely did enjoy it. Rev. S. D. DeLoach preached for them. We sure had a glorious service.

The inmates told us that they did not get to be in very much services of the kind. I think the people are not treating them as they should. I think we should go to see them more.

We found them comfortably kept They were clean and the homes and surroundings were nice and clean. I don't think the county officials co get a better or a nicer man for t place than Mr. Bean.

Mr. Bean is on his job looking aft the old folks. He sure deserves m credit for his goodness to them.

I think the county officials have p pared a nice place for them. I hope to see something in print from some oth who have visited the Alms House.

Miscellaneous Shower For Bride-Elect.

Another of the delightful prenuptial events, honoring Miss Mary Nell Bachelor whose wedding with Mr. Billy Smith is to be consummated today, was the miscellaneous "Tea Shower" given by Miss Ethel Dean Williams at the home of Mrs. W. M. Pennington on Tuesday afternoon.

The apartments of this attractive home were beautifully arranged with a wealth of colorful summer flowers effectively used. Following a clever contest in which Miss Eugenia Rouse was the winner of the prize, a rolling pin, a short program featuring two readings by Miss Mary Lucia Lull and a vocal number by Mrs. C. T. Reneau was enjoyed.

In the spacious dining room was the prettily appointed punch table. Sweet peas in delicate shades of pink were massed about the bowl over which Misses Eugenia Rouse and Carolyn Johnson presided. Mints and dainty sandwiches tied with green ribbons were served.

The gifts were presented in a novel way. Little Ann Huddleston dressed as Dan Cupid, her costume being a huge maline sash and bow, entered drawing an express wagon loaded with all sorts of lovely and useful gifts which were "delivered" to the honoree.

Assisting the hostess at this delightful party were Mrs. Pennington and Mrs. L. W. Farrow. The guest list included, besides these, Misses Bachelor, Margaret Cousins, Mary Irby Stowe, Mary LeBron, Jewel Sanders, Carolyn Johnson, Eugenia Rouse, Asenath Robison, Mary Lucia Lull, Mesdames A.G. Smith-Bachelor Marriage Is Of Note.

Wetumpka, Ala., May 27.—A marriage of unusual beauty and of wide interest throughout the State was that of Miss Mary Nell Bachelor and Billy Smith, of Clanton, which was solemnized Thursday afternoon at the Baptist Church. The Rev James H. Ivey, pastor of the church, officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with a profusion of Southern smilax, which was used as a background for baskets of white lilies and many lighted candles placed among the evergreens added to the beauty of the scene.

Preceding the ceremony was a program of music rendered by Mrs. A. G. Ruffin, organist, and Mrs. C. T. Reneau, soloist. Mrs. Reneau sang "At Dawning," by Cadman and "All For You," by Bertrand Brown. Mrs. Ruffin's selections were, Nevin's "Venetian Love Song," "Traumeri," played during the ceremony, and the Lohengrin Wedding March.

The ushers were Dan Smith, brother of the groom and Rufus Brown, both of Clanton and the best man was J. B. Atkinson, also of Clanton. The bride entered with her father, Henry Bachelor, by whom she was given in marriage. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. J. R. Sanford, who was matron of honor.

The bride wore a costume of powder blue triple sheer crepe. Her hat was a shark skin model, maline trimmed and shoes and accessories in shades of pink. Her flowers were pink roses and valley lilies.

The matron of honor was costumed in the blush triple sheer crepe with beige accessories and carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

Miss Bachelor is a member of a prominent Elmore County family, is a graduate of Womans College and has taught for several years in the public schools of Alabama and Florida.

Mr. Smith has won distinction in newspaper circles. He is editor of the Chilton County News and of The Rockford Chronicle.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will return to Clanton, where they will make their home.

Lovely Breakfast Is Given Honoring Miss Bachelor.

One of the most beautiful affairs given honoring Miss Mary Nell Bachelor who became the bride of Mr. Billy Smith of Clanton last Thursday afternoon, was the breakfast given by Miss Mary LeBron last Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in Wetumpka.

The spacious and attractive home of Miss Mary LeBron in Wetumpka was made more beautiful and inviting in decorations of fragrant flowers. Especially was the dining room outstanding where the color scheme of white and green was so refreshing. In the center of the beautifully appointed table was placed a silver bowl of white sweet peas and silver candlesticks holding green candles tied with white tulle were placed at the corners of the table.

The attractive place card for Miss Bachelor was a miniature bridal bouquet of sweet heart roses and angel breath daintily painted by the hands of an artist friend. Place cards for the other guests consisted of little white baskets holding sweet angel breath flowers.

A three-course breakfast was served. The climatic moment was reached when a box was presented the bride-to-be in which were expressed many wishes of happiness, in unique ways, by pupils and friends from schools where Miss Bachelor had been a favorite teacher. From one school came a Victrola record telling of love and good wishes.

After each guest had made a happy wish for Miss Bachelor, she was presented a beautiful linen towel by the hostess.

Miss Bachelor's invited friends on this occasion were Miss Eugenia Rouse, Miss Mary Irby Stowe, Miss Caroline Johnson, Miss Dean Williams, Miss Asenath Robison, Miss Margaret Cousins, Mrs. A. N. Davis, Mrs. Whitley McDonald. — Wetumpka Herald.

WOMAN'S CLUB HOUSE BUILT AT SMALL COST

The clubhouse of the Rockford Home Demonstration Club, was built recently for a recreational and educational center by the farm women of the community who are members of the club. It was built at a cash outlay of $627.75. of native stone, the low cost being made possible by cooperation between members of the club, their husbands and sons, and other citizens of the town and community. Top right shows the clubhouse. At the bottom is the fireplace in the clubhouse. Upper left is Miss Mignon Mallette, Coosa County home demonstration agent, who is meeting with unusual success in her educational work with farm women in Coosa County.

Dedication services for the recently completed Rockford Women's Clubhouse, a monument to co-operative effort among rural women, were conducted not long ago, when several local and out-of-town speakers paid tribute to the sterling perseverance of twenty-eight Rockford women, whose efforts wrought realization to a dream of closer fellowship that has long existed among the residents of this little Coosa County hamlet.

Native stone, gathered from nearby fields and forests, were used in the construction of the new club house, which is said to be one of the finest rural club houses in the entire state.

The building is two stories and is equipped with auditoriums on both floors, permitting divisional exercises or programs to progress simultaneously. It is expected to prove an unequaled asset in the promotion of home demonstration work in the county. Plans are underway now for partitioning a department on the first floor to be used for this work—members of the club are making a special study this year of foods and discussions and lectures will be held at the club house at regular intervals.

Work was begun on the club house project more than two years ago and the story of its progress is one of Utopian co-operation and constant persual of a purpose, resulting in paramount achievement. When actual work was begun on the building only $75.65 was in the treasury, but as additional funds were required, they were raised from various projects—by staging plays, box suppers and other programs to secure more money to promote the work. The total cost of the building was but little more than $600 it is understood, but the building is worth much more than that, according to the estimations of builders.

J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer of Auburn, designed the building and furnished plans for its construction.

Mrs. H.T. Wallace is president of the club, Mrs. J. S. McEwen is vice-president, Mrs. T. W. Spence, secretary and Mrs. Winston Stewart, treasurer. Members of the building committee were Mrs. H. W. Pond, Mrs. J. N. Howard, Mrs. Geo. B. McDonald, Mrs. Winston Stewart and Miss Mignon Mallette, home demonstration agent.

Interest of the members and their achievement is a splendid tribute to Miss Mallette, as she has been an inspiration to the members throughout the undertaking and her leadership made success possible, Mrs. Wallace said.

BRIDGE FIEND TEST

Considering the great spread of the bridge-playing industry, it is strange that none of our legislators has had any laws passed for its regulation. Now comes a suggestion that players be compelled to pass an examination before being licensed to indulge in the game.

The suggestion comes, not from a United States Senator, but from an editor, whose zeal for the public welfare has been aroused by a report from Kansas City, where a wife shot her husband. The victim was also the lady's bridge partner, it appears, and when he bid one spade and another player plunged on a different suit the wife raised four spades. The husband was set, blaming the wife for reckless bidding, and as a result of the argument she shot him.

Now, the aforesaid editor asserts, all persons who aspire to play bridge should be caused to pass a rigid test, not with reference to their skill, but to determine their mental poise. If the applicant is unable to be set or have an ace trumped without showing undue emotion, a license should be denied.

The trouble is that such a law, if enforced, would practically eliminate all who take the game seriously.

New Orange Motor Fuel Is Announced

Full pages in today's newspapers are announcing the latest idea in motor fuel, Orange Pan-Am Gasoline. It brings to motorists in this section an antiknock gasoline containing ethyl fluid without extra cost.

Pan-Am Stations are alive with colorful orange banners, gay balloons and advertising display signs. Pan-Am station men are explaining to motorists the driving advantages and economy features of Orange Pan-Am.

Free balloons for the kiddies and 100 piece jig-saw puzzles for grown-ups and kiddies to amuse themselves, are being given away with every purchase of the new gasoline, and there are other novelties for the kiddies too.

Mr. C. L. McCutcheon, representative for Pan-Am was enthusiastic over the wild acclaim already given Orange Pan-Am antiknock by Pan-Am dealers and predicted that local motorists will feel the same way about it.

"Every one who drives an automobile will be grateful for the rich antiknock premium performance of Orange Pan-Am because they will now get this quality gasoline without a cent of extra cost," said Mr. McCutcheon.

"This is the most far-reaching good news local motorists have heard in a long time. It affects motor performance and pocket books. In addition to the economy giving antiknock qualities through the addition of ethyl fluid, Orange Pan-Am Gasoline is delivering life and zip to old cars.

"It is especially adapted for use also in the newer high compression motors. Our engineers have built this new gasoline to give split-second start, fast get away and added power—all without the sign of a knock—and all without added cost. Orange Pan-Am burns clean and keeps the motor clean and at peak performance.

"The Pan-American Petroleum Corporation will keep up an intensive and aggressive newspaper campaign because we realize the importance of the daily newspaper in advertising and sales promotion as well as in the every day life of every automobile owner People look to the newspaper for news and Orange Pan-Am is welcome news to everybody."

Livestock Reminders

—o—

By F. W. Burns, A.P.I., Auburn

Sorghum for silage should be planted at once. Silage from a trench silo will mean much toward increased milk flow next winter at a much lower cost.

—o—

Cows which produce two gallons of milk daily should be fed grain even on good pasture. One pound of grain to each 3½ pounds of milk will help keep up more profitable production.

—o—

Three hundred pounds of corn and cob meal, 100 [illegible] and 100 [illegible] meal is an excellent grain mixture for cows on pasture.

Brood sows should be bred in May for September litters. Pigs sired by purebred boars require less feed per 100 pounds gain and are ready for market earlier.

Thistles, dock, and fennel are now seeding in your pasture. Let's get rid of them before they mature seed and thereby cause a bitter pasture next year.

Spring pigs should be weaned this month if they are eight weeks old. Keep them growing rapidly if you wish to market them in September.

If you are interested in purchasing a purebred sire this spring write the Animal Husbandry Dept., at Auburn, Alabama. This department is in touch with the reliable breeders of the state and will be glad to assist you in every way possible.

> ARTICLE XVIII. Section 284. Amendments may be proposed to this constitution by the Legislature in the manner following: The proposed amendments shall be read in the house in which they originate on three several days, and, if upon the third reading three-fifths of all the members elected to that house shall vote in favor thereof, the proposed amendments shall be sent to the other house, in which they shall likewise be read on three several days, and if upon the third reading three-fifths of all the members elected to that house shall vote in favor of the proposed amendments, the legislature shall order an election by the qualified electors of the state upon such proposed amendments, to be held either at the general election next succeeding the session of the legislature at which the amendments are proposed or upon another day appointed by the legislature, not less than three months after the final adjournment of the session of the legislature at which the amendments were proposed. Notice of such election, together with the proposed amendments, shall be given by proclamation of the governor, which shall be published in every county in such manner as the legislature shall direct, for at least four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for such election. On the day so appointed an election shall be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the state upon the proposed amendments. If such election be held on the day of the general election, the officers of such general election shall open a poll for the vote of the qualified electors upon the proposed amendments; if it be held on a day other than that of a general election, officers for such election shall be appointed; and the election shall be held in all things in accordance with the law governing general elections. In all elections upon such proposed amendments, the votes cast thereat shall be canvassed, tabulated and returns thereof be made to the Secretary of State, and counted, in the same manner as in elections for representatives in the legislature; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of the qualified electors who voted at such election upon the proposed amendments voted in favor of the same, such amendments shall be valid to all intents and purposes as parts of this Constitution. The result of such election shall be made known by proclamation of the Governor. Representation in the legislature shall be based upon population, and such basis of representation shall not be changed by constitutional amendments.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of the election upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding the 18th day of July, 1933, in each County of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 3rd day of May, 1933.

STATE OF ALABAMA
A PROCLAMATION
By The GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at its last extraordinary session ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which proposed amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from and after the final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature at which the amendment was proposed, and

WHEREAS, the said session of the Legislature at which the said amendment was proposed finally adjourned on Friday, April 14, 1933, and the first Tuesday after three months from and after the said final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature is Tuesday, July 18, 1933, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by a proclamation of the Governor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 18th day of July, 1933, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz:—

> "Section 213. After the ratification of this Constitution, no new debt shall be created against or incurred by the State, or its authority except to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, and then only by a concurrence of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature, and the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and entered on the journals; provided, the Governor may be authorized to negotiate temporary loans, never to exceed Three Hundred Thousand Dollars, to meet the deficiencies in the Treasury, and until the same is paid no new loan shall be negotiated; (provided, further, that this section shall not be so construed as to prevent the issuance of bonds for the purpose of refunding the existing bonded indebtedness of the State. Provided, further, that this Section shall not be so construed as to prevent the Governor from paying interest at the rate of not exceeding 6% per annum, payable semi-annually from July 1, 1933, on the floating indebtedness of the State at the close of business on September 30, 1932, as shown by outstanding and unpaid warrants drawn on the Treasury, as provided by law, amounting in the aggregate to $16,943,357.12 and items enumerated in an Act of the Legislature number 294, being Senate Bill 272, approved November 9, 1932, all of which are hereby ratified and confirmed.) All warrants and/or instruments issued or to be issued representing such indebtedness shall be a direct obligation of the State, and for the prompt and faithful payment of the principal and interest thereon, the full faith and credit of the State is hereby irrevocably pledged, and such warrants and/or instruments shall be exempt forever from all taxes of every kind. Any Act creating or incurring any new debt against the State, except as herein provided for, shall be absolutely void. To create a sinking fund for the prompt and faithful payment of the floating indebtedness of the State, and interest thereon, the net proceeds of any income tax which may be levied by the Legislature pursuant to law is hereby pledged. To prevent future deficits in the State Treasury, it shall be unlawful from and after the adoption of this amendment for the State Comptroller of the State fo Alabama to draw any warrants or other order for the payment of money belonging to, or administered by, the State of Alabama upon the State Treasury, unless there is in the hands of such Treasurer money appropriated and available for the full payment of the same. In case there is, at the end of any fiscal year, insufficient money in the State Treasury for the payment of all proper claims presented to the State Comptroller for the issuance of warrants, the Comptroller shall issue warrants for that proportion of each such claim which the money available for the payment of all of said claims bears to the whole, and such warrants for such prorated sums shall thereupon be paid by the State Treasurer. At the end of each fiscal year all unpaid appropriations which exceed the amount of money in the State Treasury subject to the payment of the same after the proration above provided for, shall thereupon become null and void to the extent of such excess. Any person violating any of the provisions of this amendment shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine of not exceeding Five Thousand Dollars, or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than two years, one or both, at the discretion of the jury trying the same, and the violation of any of the provisions of this amendment shall also be ground for impeachment."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of the election upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding the 18th day of July, 1933, in each County of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 3rd day of May, 1933.

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

May 22, 1933

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users.

We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer — it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience.

We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.

The History of Plants

So scientists believe, and so history has proven much of our most valuable knowledge has come through work which, at the time, was done in order to discover truth, with no thought of a practical application.

Although there is some difference of opinion, it is rather generally believed that corn is of American origin. John W. Horshberger suggests that the corn plant probably was cultivated first in a high plateau region of Central or South America. This region is the native habitat of teosinte and gama grass which are closely related botanically to corn. He states that the cultivation of corn probably started in this region about the beginning of the Christian era, spreading rapidly both to the north and to the south, reaching the Rio Grande about 700 A.D. and as for as Maine by about 1000 A.D.

It is believed that both corn and teasinte doubtlessly trace back to a plant resembling gama grass, the plant having a tassel at the top of the central stalk or culm and tassel-like structure on the long lateral branches, all the tassels bearing both male and female flowers. In the process of evolution and diversification those plants survived which most successfully and efficiently used food materials in producing seed. As the pollen tends to fall to lower levels that from the lower tassels was often lost, while the female flowers from the uppermost tassels were least likely to be pollinated and produce seed for reproduction. In time through careful selection of seed and plants the lateral branches were shortened as the seed plants with long branches were lost, due to the branches breaking down. As these branches were shortened the seed parts were enclosed by the modified leaves,—the husks.

The story of corn deals somewhat with the experiments of the great Austrian scientist, Gregor Mendel, whose labors have given us a worth while thing, the knowledge of heredity, and laws of ratio.

When this continent was first discovered by European explorers, the American Indian of the North Atlantic Coast was an extensive corn producer; and we are told that the early colonists would have perished by starvation except for the corn stores of the Indians. These colonists soon learned the art of growing corn as taught them by these friendly people.

Cotton came into existence about the same way as corn, only cotton probably branched from small trees with the environment of weeds. Cotton is not a native of America as is corn. Columbus found cotton growing in the West Indies and it was found by other explorers in Mexico and Peru. Cotton production did not become very important in the United States until Whitney invented the saw gin in 1793. From that time field crops have been gradually improving in more production to less acreage, and will continue to do so in the future.

Black-Draught
Clears Up Sluggish, Dull Feeling

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for constipation for a long time, and find it gives relief for this trouble," writes Mrs. Frank Champion, of Wynne, Ark. "I think it is good for spells caused from gas on the stomach. If I get up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish, a dose of Black-Draught taken three times a day will cause the feeling to pass away, and in a day or two I feel like a new person. After many years of use we would not exchange Black-Draught for any medicine."

P. S.—If you have CHILDREN, give them the new, pleasant-tasting SYRUP of Thedford's Black-Draught.

K C Baking Powder On Sale 42 Years

Manufacturers who advertise expect to get repeat business because of the quality and the efficiency of their product. They produce high quality goods on which they concentrate their advertising. Initial cost of introducing the goods would be prohibitive if there was no assurance of repeat business and that can only come through the recognition of merit by the consumer. Only quality products can stand advertising, according to the Jaques Manufacturing Company.

"K C Baking Powder has been on the market for more than 42 years," says the company. "During all that period its manufacture has been under the direct supervision of members of the family which now controls the company. Their purpose has always been to manufacture a baking powder of the highest quality and sell it at a fair price. The demand for K C has steadily increased year after year.

"The U. S. Government presented the Jaques Manufacturing Company with a Certificate of Merit and Award for Distinguished Service during the World War. In cooperating with the government they supplied more K C Baking Powder than all other brands combined. Since that time more K C has been used in various governmental departments than any other brand. A fine testimonial to K C Baking Powder, since merchandise used by the government must be of high quality.

Manufacturers who expect repeat business, advertise products of real quality. In cooperating with the wholesale and retail grocers the makers of K C Baking Powder have consistently followed a plan of advertising in a large list of newspapers year after year. The News has been running K C Baking Powder advertising for some time.

Liver Sufferers Amazed At Results Obtained From Remarkable New Treatment

Thousands Reporting Sargon Soft Mass Pills Have Brought Them Lasting Relief From Constipation—Sour Stomach —Sick Headaches — Gas— Bad Breath—Coated Tongue —Nervousness and Dizzy Spells After Everything Else Had Failed.

If Your Liver Is Not Performing Its Proper Functions—Sickness — Suffering and Ill Health Are the Inevitable Result.

Science Has Proved That Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, Laxative Pills, Herb Teas or Extracts Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest —it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and natural in their action there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them. ..

Only 60c for a full 30-day treatment. At your druggist, or write G. F. Willis, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

IN MEMORY OF MRS J. L. PALMER

On the evening of May 1, 1933, the death angel visited the home of Mr. J. L. Palmer taking his beloved wife, Mrs. Melissa Palmer, to that beautiful home on high where we all hope to meet her by and by.

She was born in Shelby county in 1852 and a little later moved to Perry county where she joined the Baptist church in early life.

In 1881 she was married to Mr. Jackson Palmer and moved to Chilton county, and living here the rest of her life.

She was a faithful wife and a loving mother and a loyal friend.

She lived a Christian life, proving it in the way she lived. She was a regular attendant at preaching and Sunday school until she became too old and feeble. She was confined to bed only one week, and how she suffered no one knows. She seemed to know the end was nigh. She stated she was ready to go, just hated to leave her dear husband. But God called her home where there's no more pain and sorrow. We miss her, but God knoweth best. So he took her home to rest. The Lord giveth and taketh away so we must be prepared to meet her on that judgment day.

Dear Grandma, we know God never makes a mistake, but why, oh why, did He take you, for we all loved you so, but God loved you best. May God send angels to hover over and guide and drect us, and one by one we'll meet you, and our other loved ones gone on before.

We greatly thank the good people of this community and surrounding communities for their untiring help, beautiful floral offerngs and songs durng the illness, death and burial of our dear one. We will always remember you in our prayers. We also thank Brother Grady Williams for the wonderful passage of scripture and comforting words spoken.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. J. L. Palmer, two daughters, Mrs. R. L. Davenport and Mrs. J. T. Nix, and one son, Mr. J. Lee Palmer, eight grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, two sisters and a host of other relatives and friends.

Her remains were laid to rest at Mulberry cemetery, there to await the resurrection. The pallbearers were four of her grandsons, Mr. J. W. and Vinson Veazey, Mr. James Palmer and Mr. Eugene Davenport and two friends, Mr. Willie Hayes and Mr. W. J. Cummings.

I cannot and I will not say
She's dead; she's just away.
With a cheery smile and a beckoning hand
She's wandered into the unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very sweet
Awaiting the time for all to meet.

EVELYN NIX.
A Step-Granddaughter.

Time to Side-Dress

I was discussing the matter of side-dressng cotton with a farmer the other day. The farmer's cotton had been chopped and dirted. I asked him if he had side-dressed it. The answer was "No, going to wait until squares start to forming." In this instance he is using only 50 pounds per acre. Cotton should be side-dressed before the first plowing after chopping and not after it starts fruiting. Corn should be side-dressed, from 35 to 45 days, after planting. Of course that means under normal conditions. According to the feeding habits of these crops, one gets better results when he uses the above method of side-dressing.

On making my rounds, I saw a man's cotton looking awfully puny. He interceded, "I am going to put my fertilizer around my cotton this year." It did fine one year. We are peculiar beings. We can't remember those many years we tried those old methods, and failed utterly; but with pride we point to that one year of luck. Why not take the average? We'd be much better farmers if we did.

Many Young Men Go To Camp

It is very gratifying to note that so many of our young men are eager to get an opportunty to go to the forest camps. Many have spread the propaganda that this was a means of getting young men ready for the army; but it has had little effect upon the situation You know, we have some folks who see "bogies' 'in everything. In my opinion this is one of the best piece of legislation that has ever been enacted for the young men of this country, and I think I am right.

Cleanliness and Then Godliness

I have been noticing for a long time, but was impressed more than ever last Saturday how so many of our folks go to town. Up at the bank where the people crowded in to get their checks cashed—My! My! There were many who had donned the same old sour clothes that they had been wearing all the week, to come to town. There were others, doubtless, who had taken their baths and donned ragged, but clean clothes. They looked much better to me. Listen, folks, when other people take their baths, put on clean clothes and come to town and here you come with those old sour, sweaty clothes that you have been wearing all the week, it is not only unclean but ungodly. It is unfair to the tidy person when you jam yourself up against him with your untidy self. They tell me that the people in the far East change clothes every day but never bathe, and the people in Africa take a bath each day but never change clothes. That may be true, but you must remember that this is the United States of America, the melting pot of civilization, and you must show that you are civilized by taking your baths and changing your clothes. If you have only one suit of overalls, wash and press them overnight. Pardon me for personal reference, but the first three years that I spent at Tuskegee, I had only one uniform, which I was required to wear every day. That uniform was washed and presesd every Saturday night. I washed it until it was as white as linen, but it was clean. What was good for me is good for you. Many of the folks who need to read this and take heed may not even see the paper, but you who do read it please pass the word on.

Jackson Chapel-Lomax

In looking over the News the writer failed to see mention of various interesting items in regard to our Sunday School at Jackson Chapel and at Lomax Tabernacle, and also the fine singing at New Harmony. We have Sunday school at Jackson Chapel every Sunday at 10:30. Everybody is invited to come and help. Also there is Sunday school at the Tabernacle. So, people don't have to stay home on account of nothing doing. And on the fourth Sunday in every month there is preaching at New Harmony, and every third Sunday preaching at the Tabernacle.

Now, people, don't stay away; come out and help out in the services. If we don't do you any good, we surely won't do you any harm.

There will be preaching at Jackson Chapel the first Saturday night, June 3rd, by Rev. A. E. Trice, and on the second Sunday, June 11, Rev. T. J. Daniel of Lomax, will preach at Jackson Chapel at 11 o'clock.

Everybody come and bring someone with you.

Tire prices may never be so Low again!

GOODYEAR certainly makes it worth while for you to put money in tires now. Your dollars never bought tires to equal the quality, the safety, the mileage which Goodyear is today building in every tire wearing the Goodyear name—

And because Goodyear now concentrates on two main lines of tires—a real saving in costs is passed on to you.

Look at the present prices of the world's most popular tire, the Goodyear All-Weather — and the prices of the thrifty Goodyear Pathfinder — and you'll certainly agree, it's smart to buy Goodyears NOW— while prices are still down close to bottom, and your money buys more than it may ever buy again.

COOSA CITIZEN PRAISES WORK OF MR. LITTLE

Says Chilton Would Never Regret Selection Of Luther E. Little

Rockford, Ala., June 5, 1933.

Mr. Billy Smith, Editor
The Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama,
Dear Mr. Editor:

I understand that Mr. Luther E. Little is the nominee of the Democratic Party in Chilton County for the office of County Superintendent of Education, and I desire to express my gratification that this honor has been conferred upon Mr. Little, and my hope that the voters in the General Election will give Mr. Little earnest consideration in this race.

Mr. Little is well known in this county and I may say without hesitation that he is very much liked.

Mr. Little taught in this county in the year 1928-1929. He was principal of the school at Stewartville. He made an excellent school principal and was remarkably cooperative in the county educational work.

Another bond which endears Mr. Little to the people was established when he married Miss Laura Burks, a native and a teacher in this county. He took one of our best teachers and we have had to console ourselves with the feeling that our loss was his gain. I think if Mr. Little should be elected to the office of Superintendent, he would bring to the duties of that office, in addition to his own remarkable qualifications, the help which the ability and charming personality of Mrs. Little could give.

As Chairman of the County Board of Education of Coosa County, I would not for a moment be understood as trying to influence voters in another county, but I cannot help saying that we appreciated Mr. Little's services while over here and we feel that the people of your county would never have occasion to regret their selection if he should be elected.

Very truly yours,
J. A. EMBRY, President
Board of Education, Coosa County.

County Agent Asks For Farm Information

This week, letters are being mailed from the office of County Agent Stapp, to farmers of this county, asking for information concerning their farms, including gardens, poultry, pastures, crops, livestock, mortgages, etc.

Mr. Stapp's purpose in this is to enable him to enlarge his scope of service to the farmers of the county. In his letter he stated in part, "I am very anxious to be of the most service possible to the farmers of Chilton County. In order to improve my services, it becomes necessary for me to get some information from you. I expect to study the information that you furnish me then list you for seasonal information, meetings, etc."

At the bottom of the letter were several questions relative to the farms. Mr. Stapp urges all farmers to give their cooperation in this matter so that he will be able to improve his service.

FARLEY SHOWS INTEREST FOR STATE REPEAL

Asks That Alabama Support Democratic Platform On Dry Question

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman and Postmaster general in the Roosevelt cabinet, is very much interested in the state's rights repeal campaign in Alabama and this interest was manifested in a letter he wrote Col. Alfred Tunstall immediately after Col. Tunstall as speaker of the Alabama House of Representatives, voted to submit the repeal matter to the voters. At that time Col. Tunstall told the House that the personal views of members of he Legislature ought to be subordinated to the Democratic platform.

The entire Democratic administration at Washington is interested in the situation in Alabama. Alabama is the first strictly so-called "dry" State in the Union which will vote on repeal of the 18th amendment. Arkansas will follow on July 19 and Tennessee on the 20th.

Under date of May 4, soon after the Alabama Legislature voted to submit the question of the repeal of the 18th amendment to the voters, Chairman Farley wrote Col. Tunstall as follows:

PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN URGES SUPPORT OF LITTLE

Business And Administrative Ability Of Luther Little Of Nine Years Ago Is Set Out In Letter From W. A. Gulledge

One of Chilton County's most prominent and successful merchants and business men, gives a letter to the News this week in behalf of the candidacy of Mr. Luther E. Little, Democratic nominee for the office of county superintendent of education. In this letter, Mr. Gulledge points out the ability of Mr. Little to take care of a large business nine years ago. Following is Mr. Gulledge's letter:

Verbena, Ala., June 6, 1933.

Editor, Chilton County News.
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

I wish to say to the public through the Chilton County News some of the things I have been saying to the people with whom I have talked personally in regards to the candidacy of Luther E. Little for Superintendent of Education.

In the first place I have known Mr. Little since he was a mere youngster of about fifteen years of age. In January, 1924, Mr. Little accepted a position with our general mercantile firm here in the capacity of Bookkeeper. While Mr. Little was serving in this position I had an opportunity to observe his ability not only as a bookkeeper, but as a young man serving the public. He made friends with the people he served while in our employ, and served them at all times in such a manner as to show them that he had their problems and wishes at heart. He was dependable, and honest. He never shirked his duty, and at all times acted in the manner to be expected of one many years his senior in both years of age and experience. In my absence Mr. Little passed on the matter of credits, and in this respect we at all times found him displaying an entirely satisfactory business ability.

The above experience which Mr. Little has had, while not connected with school work, is a type of experience which makes him all the better qualified to hold the office which he is seeking.

It has been nine years since Mr. Little worked for us, and during these nine years we have kept in close touch with him and his work, because of our confidence in his determination to make a success in his profession. It is a pleasure to me personally and to his many friends around Verbena, to see him in the race for Superintendent of Education.

In conclusion, let me urge every voter in Chilton County to consider the interest of the children in the county, and vote for a man to head the school system in the county who will shed a real inspiration to every child in the county, and at the same time who will stand for real business principles in the school system.

Very truly yours,
W. A. GULLEDGE.

MORE OF LIFE IN CIVILIAN CAMP FOR UNEMPLOYED TOLD THIS WEEK

Local Boy Writes About Routine, Sanitation

Following is the second letter from Lance Franklin, a Chilton County boy who is in one of the Reforestation Camps, receiving training, thru President Roosevelt's recent orders:

Well folks, since you last heard from the C. C. C.'s we, the Company of 470, have entered our third week here and lots of interesting things have happened. First, we have become more like home folks here and are learning to trust each other more and more each day; and, another thing that we have taken up is when a boy hears from home everybody wants to know how home folks all are.

We were privileged to hear the Salute fired on Memorial Day. This consisted of 21 shots each fired at half-minute intervals. Other things that we enjoy here are the Army Band which favors us with about forty minutes playing each evening. Next is movies, boxing and wrestling, all presented in the open-air theater, but the most beloved of all things here is the worship service led by Chaplain Matthews each Sunday morning in the open-air.

Friends, it is interesting to notice how the boys respond to Chaplain Matthews' suggestions when it comes to our preaching time which is 8:30 each Sunday morning.

Another interesting thing is all the boys learning housekeeping, i.e. learning to do their own washing, making up their bunks, sweeping floors, etc. Now here is our routine for the day: Every morning at six o'clock is breakfast, except Sunday and it is one hour later, dinner and supper every day at 11:30 and 5:00. After breakfast we police the company area, that is, we pick up everything on our street and around the mess hall and if we haven't cleaned up our tents before breakfast we have a few minutes after breakfast to do that. Then the whistle blows and we "fall out and in line" for any announcements our captain and 2nd lieutenant may have to make and at seven-thirty we march over to the ball field and take exercise, then back to the company area where we are assigned to our day's detail and when the cannon fires at 11:15 we come in for dinner, rush to the bath house and get ready for dinner. At one o'clock we go back on duty where we remain until three o'clock, when we are off the rest of the day unless we have a special job like K. P. (Kitchen Police.)

The boys here are getting plenty of practice in sanitation, a bath each night, teeth must be brushed three times a day straight. Now the pretty part about the sanitation is that the best tent, that is the tent in the best condition, gets a flag of "HONOR" of white letters with a blue background, the second best gets one with "2nd Honor" of red letters on a blue background. This flag is pinned just above the door. It remains here for the day and maybe the same tent will get it next day or maybe another tent will win it. Each day the grades of each tent are pasted on the Bulletin Board. The grades that may be won are: 1. Excellent; 2. Superior. 3. Satisfartory; 4. Unsatisfactory. Those marked up as Excellent and Superior are the ones to get the Honor Flags.

Each company has its own barber set and barber. The barber cuts a few heads of hair, that is all who want to apply for the position, then they go before the judges and tell them the one that did the job and in Company 470 R. Q. Jarrett was selected, a Chilton county boy, from near Maplesville.

Well, bye, bye, for this week.

OLIVER TO BE SPEAKER FOR COUNTY PICNIC

July 21st Will Be Big Day For People Of Chilton County Says Stapp

Several days ago some comment was given in regard to the county-wide picnic to be held for this county and the date was set as Friday, July 21st.

Announcement was made recently by County Agent Stapp that Congressman W. B. Oliver, of this district, would be the principal speaker for that day. Thousands remember the picnic held last year and the splendid remarks delivered by our congressman at that time. The announcement that he will address the gathering this year is being received with a great deal of pleasure throughout the county.

Mr. Stapp stated to a representative of the News that plans were being made to take care of a much larger crowd than that attended the picnic last year. Further information will be given out from time to time, he stated.

REFINANCING INFORMATION EXPECTED BY STAPP SOON

County Agent Stapp stated to a representative of the News that he was expecting some definite information in the very near future in regard to cotton acreage, price adjustment and the refinancing of farm mortgages.

He stated that this information would be given out just as soon as he received it.

WARRANT ACT GETS SUPPORT OF TEACHERS

Local Teachers in Recent Rally Declare In Favor Of Four Amendments

More than a hundred Chilton county school teachers congregated last Friday afternoon at the Chilton County High School building in Clanton to discuss plans and formulate an organization, supporting the Warrant Act which is to be voted on July 18, whereby it is hoped the State will be enabled to meet its obligations to the school teachers over the entire state.

Discussions of the several Amendments that are to be voted on July 18 were rendered by Dr. J. Alex Moore, former superintendent of education of Walker county; Dr. C. N. Parnell, of Maplesville, W. L. Sanders, member of the Chilton County Board of Education, Rep. Percy Pitts, and others.

J. A. Peterson, president of the Chilton County Teachers' Association, was chosen to appoint a committee to formulate plans whereby greater support may be given the amendments by the Chilton teachers.

Representative Pitts rendered an explanation of the several amendments to be voted on, declaring it absolutely necessary to the State's honor that its obligations be met

The teachers of Chilton County believe in: (1) a fairer distribution of the tax burden, so as to relieve the over-taxed home and land owner; (2) constructive economy in all phases of government; (3) the honor and faith of our people and state, and that just debts should be paid. These principles are embodied in the amendments, and therefore, the teachers of this county endorse them most heartily.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Chilton County Board of Education, last Friday, a resolution was passed endorsing and advocating the passage of the State Warrant Act, which is one of the four amendments to be voted on July 18.

The resolution urges parents, teachers and all others interested in the ad-

The Uncertainty Of The Schools

The uncertainty of the educational chances for the children of Alabama for next term of school is well known to the citizens of the state, and it is regrettable. Dr. Harman, the state superintendent of education, says it is uncertain whether we shall have schools next year.

We regret this for the whole state, but especially are we interested in Chilton County and its schools. Our county has usually progressed educationally, but present indications do not point to any direct means of our county schools opening for the next term.

The future of the school system of Alabama depends a great deal on the outcome of the amendment elections on July 18th this year, and of course this includes Chilton County.

The man who is elected superintendent of education in Chilton County will be faced with a problem few men would cherish at this time. He will have one year to show his ability as a superintendent, and right now not one bright spot can he place his finger on to show the people that Chilton County will have schools for the next term. We, like everyone else, are hoping that something will turn up whereby our schools will open at the usual time and continue without any great obstacles, regardless of who is elected as our county superintendent.

Buying The Ballots

By Wickes Wamboldt in The Birmingham Age-Herald

"I have been actively working in the political game for 35 years," said an old campaigner to me the other day, "and it is getting harder and harder to buy votes."

Vote buying used to be more or less a matter of commerce. It was not uncommon years ago to hear men seriously asking at the polls: "What are they paying for votes?" There was a class of voters that systematically and without any feeling of wrong-doing sold their votes at every election. Sometimes when the answer was that a dollar and a half or two dollars was being paid for votes, the voter would reply in disgust that he wouldn't sell his vote to anybody for that price, and would walk away from the polls with an offended air much as he would have done if someone had offered him a dollar and a half or two dollars for a ton of No. 1 hay.

Political conditions are changing for the better. In the first place the public conscience is being educated. The apostles of clean government are not only emphasizing the saeredness of the proper use of the right of franchise but they are placing obstacles not easy to hurdle in the paths of those unprincipled manipulators who would prostitute the virtue of the voters.

The right to secrecy in the matter of balloting has been a great help to clean government. The Australian balloting system which allows the voter the right to express his own convictions at the polls without letting anybody know how he votes, has been a solar plexus blow to those who would coerce or otherwise control votes.

The regulating of the marker at the polls is another headache for the vote-buyer. Political machines with money to spend and no consciences to bother them cannot be sure that the voter is voting the way he is paid to vote unless they can know how his ballot is marked. So they like to have a machine henchman go to the polls with the bought voter and mark his ballot for him or see him mark it.

Therefore, the opponents of rottenness in government have in some localities passed laws that have put a crimp in the marker scheme. No one other than a member of the voter's own family is allowed to assist the voter in marking his ballot except he appear before the election officials and take a certain oath. Furthermore no marker can assist more than one person in the marking of a ballot. This plan provides help for persons who are unable for one reason or another to mark their own ballots but it effectually prevents the vote-buyers from checking up on the vote sellers.

But the greatest of all influences for honesty and decency in government is the education of the people to the vital importance of honesty and decency in government as a simple matter of self-protection. Recently at a precinct meeting a disciple of good government addressed those present in this way:

"My friends," he said, "they are going to try to buy this election, but you mustn't let them do it. They have money to spend. They are already flashing twenty dollar bills. But you mustn't sell your birthright for a mess of pottage. The man who buys a vote is a sinner and the man who sells his vote is a sinner. Probably there are men right in this audience who are so hard up that they are going to take money for their votes in this election. I urge such men not to do that for it would be a sin and a crime. But if any of you feel that you must commit the sin and the crime of taking money for your vote, don't, I beg of you, commit the greater sin and crime of voting the way the vote-buyer tells you to vote. If you do violate your conscience to the extent of accepting money for your vote, don't still further violate your conscience by voting contrary to your convictions. The man who would buy your vote is a crook and a thief; he is a traitor to his country and you are under no obligations to him, no matter if you do take his money."

One of these days the people of the United States are going to realize the overwhelmingly imperative necessity of taking active, personal, conscientious interest in government. When that day arrives, and according to the signs of the times it is not a long way off, then we shall have in reality a government of the people, conducted by sincere representatives of the people, for the benefit of all the people.

Mr. Little's Far-Reaching Acquaintances

In casting ballots in this county in the special election on June 20th, voters will not only have before them a man as a candidate for superintendent of education who is thoroughly familiar with the schools of Chilton County, but they will have combined with this, a man who has a knowledge of the operation of schools in other sections of the state.

This man is none other than Mr. Luther Little, one of the most promising educational men in the state. To be perfectly frank about this, the News thought it was familiar with the splendid reputation of Mr. Little, but during the past several days, since his selection as a candidate, we have learned considerably more about him that enlarges greatly on his already outstanding record of unselfish service and progress in the educational field.

We have learned that Mr. Little has built for himself a reputation in other places that is bringing action from those countless friends of his outside of this county. We are not only finding ourselves receiving recommendations for Mr. Little, but are confronted many times with oral comments from outstanding citizens of adjoining counties, highly endorsing him for the office of superintendent of education. These endorsements come from the places where he has served as an educator in the past and are received unsolicited. Places where he has had an opportunity to show his ability as a school teacher and instructor in many lines of the work.

This is not written solely for the purpose of boosting the Democratic nominee for the office, but also for the purpose of acquainting the people of Chilton County with more of the fine record of this comparatively young man who is before them now, asking their support to place him as their superintendent of education, so that he may carry on his work in his home county and for his home people. A very, very noble act of his in offering himself to the people of Chilton County in this uncertainty of affairs

In this issue of the News will be found a letter from a well known citizen and a public servant of our neighboring county, Coosa. This letter comes unasked for, and is a mere statement of the opinion of many other prominent citizens of that county, dear to the hearts of many residents of this county, who have fond recollections of early days in Coosa.

Let us consider for awhile the need in this country of ours today, of young men with vision. Young men who have been trodding the path of hard work and practical experience in order that they could bring themselves to a position whereby they might be of service to their fellowmen and the future citizens of the country.

Chilton County is no exception and its place in national affairs is just as important as any county of its standing, if its citizens will make it so. A man of Mr. Little's age, experience and vision in the office of the county superintendent of education of Chilton County, will go a long way in placing this county in line with what is occuring throughout the country. Young men, with experience, a hard-earned education derived by working during college years, and a determination to amount to something worthwhile. Mr. Little's record from his high school graduation, through his college education, in his experience in a one-teacher school, a two-teacher school, and on up through the years as instructor in our county high school and his selection as principal of the Clanton Grammar School, has been thoroughly examined, and each question will bring a reply that will voice high approval of his nomination as a candidate for the office which he seeks through the election to be held on the 20th of June.

We bring these thoughts to the voters of Chilton County that they may weigh and consider them. We do not write them as ballyhoo for Mr. Little. but to try to show the people of this county that they will have an opportunity on Tuesday, June 20th, to enable a man of wide study and experience to make another step forward in his chosen profession, and place himself in a position whereby he will be able to give his home county the benefit of this wide experience and study.

Mr. Little draws no line as a teacher, a candidate or otherwise, between Democrats and Republicans. We know Mr. Little and know that we can depend on what he says. We know that we can feel free to quote him as having said he wanted Republican voters to feel perfectly free to call on him in office if he is elected. The school system of our county, our state and nation is in turmoil. We need men like Mr. Little to put their minds together and bring us back to the good old days.

Contrast

"The contrast between Hoover's methods and Roosevelt's were never better exhibited than in the treatment of the bonus marchers," says The New Republic. "Mr. Hoover vacillated for weeks and then drove the veterans out of Washington with disgraceful brutality. Mr. Roosevelt planned in advance for the arrival of the marchers, gave them quarters in a nearby army camp and provided them with three good meals a day. It was explained to them, politely but firmly, that, at least for the present, the president is opposed to the bonus and would veto any bill which Congress might pass. The marchers, and other ex-soldiers, were offered enrollment in the forestry army at $1 a day and board—which, when both halves of the offer are taken into account, is certainly equal to the going wage for similar work, under private auspices, in the United States today. As a result, and despite the fact that most of the marchers were supposed to be under Communist leadership, nearly all of them have signed up for the forestry army. The others are being given railroad tickets back to their homes, the cost to be deducted eventually from their service-compensation certificates. When the last large contingent of them marched Washington, one policeman shepherded them!

So many things have been happening that most of us have overlooked this striking performance. But it is a triumph in decency and diplomacy which deserves the appreciation of all thoughtful Americans. What took place when Mr. Hoover bungled the job will not be soon forgotten. Mr. Hoover tried, first, not to recognize the existence of the marchers, and then he had them abruptly expelled. He was both blind and brutal. If he had chosen to be understanding and tolerant, he might have succeeded in keeping his record clear of an ugly blot. As it was, he was so utterly in the dark about the whole business, so utterly at a loss for a solution, that he made it possible for Mr. Roosevelt to mark up an easy victory when confronted with the same test. More than that, Mr. Hoover made it inevitable that the country should wonder which is "the great humanitarian," the dispenser of vast sums for war relief, or the sympathetic healer of the wounds of peace. —Birmingham Age-Herald.

D. W. Haskew

Two nurses carried the little tots to a swing in the back yard. The flowers were blooming and a bumble bee was lazily buzzing about in search of honey. Each child saw the buzzing bee about the same time and each one set up a yell to possess it. Each one wanted it and the nurses had to pull them back by force. Poor little children, they wanted something that they did not need. Lots of grown people become fascinated with certain things and they set up a yell to have them. I have seen young men who would become interested in a beautiful girl and then set up a yell to marry her. They married, but the boy caught a bumble bee. I have seen girls become interested in a young man and they would reach out the hand to possess and they caught a bumble bee. I have known men to want an office or a position and when they got it they discovered that they had something that they did not need. Better know your needs before you set up a yell to possess. You might catch a bumble bee.

One Spring morning the rooster in our back yard flew to the top of the fence and flopped his wings, making all the noise possible. His very mannerism seemed to say, "Take notice all ye ladies and cockerels, I am going to crow." Then he stretched his neck and made the welkin ring. No one seemed to notice him and he flopped his wings with more noise and then tried the crowing stunt with all of his power of speech. May I not say that I have seen many people following the example of that rooster. When they have in mind to pull a special stunt, they want everybody to know it. I saw a man walk the full length of a church to put a nickel in the collection plate. I saw a woman slam the church door as she entered so that the congregation would look back and see her walking down the aisle. Everywhere I go I find folks on the fence; flopping their wings, so that the world will take notice that they are about to pull off something.

I entered a home and found a beautiful young woman sitting in the reception room. She held in her hands a movie magazine. Our conversation started off in the discussion of movie stars and to humor her fancy I pretended to be deeply interested in the play world. That set her on fire and without delay she gave me to understand that she cared nothing about anything other than the movie world. She had about as much talent as a Blue Jay, but that did not dampen her admiration and thrills as she studied and talked of her heroes in the movie magazines. There she sat with her painted lips and cheeks and with her artificial make-up, dealing in things of secondary importance and leaving untouched the things of first value. She knew nothing about making up a bed and tidying a room. She was blank on the question of Art and Literature. She had no love for music and despised every duty in the kitchen. To me she looked just about as beneficial to the world, as a rose bud when the house is on fire. My Lord, how can some parents train up their children with such ideals?

It was night and I was making my way along the highway. Just ahead I knew that a beautiful home was located by the roadside. I drove up to the gate and it was dark within and without. I called and no one answered. I listened and I could hear the growl of cats and the snarl of dogs. It was a mighty gloomy place and all because the owner was not on the inside. Soon the family arrived from church and went on the inside. Lights were turned on and fires were built. The place became cozy and cheerful and all because the owner was on the inside. The human heart belongs to God, and when God is driven out the owner is not on the inside. How dreary and desolate becomes the soul when the devil comes in with his darkness and his gloom. When God is out of the heart there is to be heard growls and snarls. A life without God is lacking in attraction for the owner is not within. When God comes in and the light is turned on, the life becomes cozy and attractive. Beautiful indeed is the heart when its Owner is within.

The Constitutional Amendments

Editor of Chilton County News:
Clanton, Alabama,
Dear Sir:

Upon the request and suggestion of several of the citizens of the county I desire to discuss the four Constitutional Amendments to be voted upon in the Special Election called for July 18.

As I understand all four of the proposed Amendments will be listed on one ballot. No. 1 will be the Sparks Amendment. No. 2 the Income Tax, No. 3 the Warrant validating Amendment and No. 4 the Reduction of Publication time.

The Sparks Amendment is purely an economy measure and amends the Constitution in order that the Legislature may reduce or cut the salaries of Constitutional officers during the terms of office which is now prohibited by the Constitution. If this amendment is ratified on July 18 it will mean an estimated annual saving of approximately $100,000.00. You will recall that the recent session of the Legislature passed a salary cutting bill which became effective last month which makes an annual saving of $324,516.00. This salary cut applied to most all State statutory officers that were not exempted by the Constitution. I feel like that the people of Chilton County desire that some of our Constitutional county and State officers are receiving too much compensation during these times of depression and if they desire an opportunity to make this change this Sparks Amendment as I understand the Constitution is necessary.

The Amendment No. 2 known as the Income Tax Amendment in the main, apparently from the great amount of money and expense that has been used in the past to poison the minds of the people, under the smoke screen of the Economy League, apparently, is the milk in the cocoanut as compared to the other amendments from a publicity standpoint.

I believe after the Legislature and particularly the last Special Session passed economy measures seeking to live within the income of the State by reducing salaries, cutting out some useless offices and at the same time submitting a fair, equitable and just income tax to the people for ratification that if the people are not misled by the high financed opposition which is sponsored by those who have charge of this campaign backed by the monied and corporate interest of this country that the income tax will receive a vote of approval by the majority of the voters not only of this county but by the State at large.

If some of the voters of Chilton County knew of the true situation that has confronted the law makers in the past at Montgomery, where all of the public utilities and larger corporate interests have many high-powered lobbyists seeking to prevent the monied and corporate interests of the State from paying their proportionate share of the taxes to maintain our Government and realize that these same monied interests are seeking to evade paying the income tax, and spending enormous amounts of money in sending free literature over the country and at the same time scattering much propaganda through the daily press, the masses as a whole would unhesitatingly support the income tax. Knowing the conditions that exist in Montgomery and over the State from my past experience as your Representative, I am convinced that in spite of the fact the Legislature and this Administration, (and not the Economy League) has passed economy measures which are now on the Statute books which permit the State to live within its income; however they will not provide for the payment of the State's honest and just debts, most of which are due the loyal teachers of Alabama for instruction of our youth. The income tax or the sales tax, one of the two, is inevitable. The sales tax will be the worst form of taxation that could be passed in Alabama and it would be upon the shoulders of the man and woman who were not making a net income but upon all alike. The income tax would be imposed upon only those who are making a net and not a gross income and upon those who are able to pay. In other words a married man, under the proposed income tax amendment, would have to make a net income of $3000.00 per year before he would be called upon to pay a 5% income tax, corporations are only assessed a 3% income tax.

There has been much in the press pertaining to the fact that there was a joker in the income tax Amendment which would allow the Legislature in the future to increase the rate of the income tax to be paid. In today's press Mr. Wilkinson's joker was eliminated from the deck, by a ruling of the Supreme Court which held that the anti-income tax people were wrong in their contention. This is another one of the methods, which has heretofore been used to mislead the voters and cause them to cast their vote against this amendment. The highest court of the State only yesterday, held that their contention as above mentioned was untrue.

The 3rd Amendment to be voted upon is what is known as the McDaniel Warrant validating Amendment. This amendment in my humble judgment, is one of the most important of all in that it validates the honest debts of the State and makes the warrants negotiable and interest bearing, which by reason of the present financial condition of the State are practically worthless at the present. I do not believe that the fathers and mothers of children who have received instruction at the hands of our loyal and self-sacrificing teachers of Alabama can fail to vote for this amendment, which in effect will validate the debt, that we are justly due them and make their now worthless warrants interest bearing and negotiable. Many of these teachers have gone for months and months without pay for their untiring efforts in behalf of the youth of our county and State and I do not believe that the people of Alabama will fail them at the polls on July 18.

In Amendment No. 3 the warrant validating act, this amendment embodies in the Constitution the following: "to prevent future deficit in the State Treasury it shall be unlawful for and after the adoption of this amendment for the State Comptroller of the State of Alabama to draw any warrant or other order for payment of money belonging to or administered by the State of Alabama upon the State Treasury unless there is in the hands of such Treasury money appropriated and available for the full payment of the same * * *". The foregoing quotation is a part of the Fletcher budget bill which was passed during the recent Legislature, and if this had been the law many years ago no deficit would be in the State Treasury at the present time. In other words the past three or four Administrations have been issuing warrants on the State Treasury in an anticipation of funds and whether or not the State had money sufficient to care for same. If this warrant act amendment is passed it would be a safe guard against another deficit in the future which I think would be a blessed assurance to the tax payers of Alabama, in the future. The safest way to get this assurance is to have this Fletcher budget bill written into the Constitution as provided for in this McDaniel Amendment referred to as No. 3

Every man and woman in Alabama who loves the State that protects them, who would serve the Government of the people, who would maintain its credit and sacred honor (and their own) in my humble judgment, should vote for the income tax amendment on July 18, in order to pay the debts which the McDaniel Amendment validates; together these two amendments write into the Constitution a safeguard against a future deficit and are one and the same in spirit and truth. One would validate the honest debts of the State, the other would pay the debts.

The last amendment which is known as the Bradford Act reduces the publication time of proposed amendments from eight weeks' publication in the paper to four weeks. In other words the Constitution provides that all of these amendments should be advertised in each county of the State in local papers for a period of eight weeks prior to the Election. You will easily see that this is useless expense to the tax payers of the State and four weeks' publication or advertisement of these amendments would be amply sufficient. This amendment is another economy measure which I am informed will save approximately $90,000.00 to the State of Alabama, according to the report and past experience in advertising these measures.

These amendments are all published in local newspapers and I trust the people will not be misled by those who are seeking to defeat the income tax and other amendments and I believe upon the study of these amendments, and after careful examination that the voter of Chilton County will see fit to vote for them, especially since the Legislature has effected economy in the Government as partly outlined amounting to approximately $8,000,000.00 per year. Also when this indebtedness is cared for the net income from the income tax will go to reduce the ad valorem tax which now is a heavy burden on the land owners in our county and State at the present time.

Respectfully yours,
PERCY M. PITTS.

Ball Ground Scraped

Through the hospitality of Mr. Ward, operator of the road machine, and Mr. C.D. Duke, commissioner of the district, we were successful in getting our baseball ground graded and scraped last week. We feel that it is our good conduct with our White friends that makes it possible for us to get such good favors from them. Hats off to Commissioner Duke and Mr. Ward.

If we would conduct ourselves like citizens many valuable things would be given to us. We shall never reach these goals unless we travel the moral, spiritual and intellectual road of development. Yet, I can point with pride to the way we have conducted ourselves as a group, when I think of some of the nearby counties and how racial difficulties have developed. It makes me feel proud to know that no such feeling or spirit exists in Chilton County. But we can do even better than we have. Help keep Chilton spotless.

I Knew You'd Come

Early in the Spring when we were doing regular repair work at the shop, all the people in the community were urged to come while it was raining and repair their old scooters, scrapes, plows etc. Many came, but scores stayed away. Now, it is plowing time and those persons who spent the early part of the year idling away the time are losing half days at a time sharpening and repairing plows, and they are still coming.

The Alabama Music Association Meets In Clanton

The Alabama Music Association met last week at the Union Baptist church. Some very interesting programs were rendered on each day of the meeting. Particularly interesting was the program rendered on Citizens Night. The Colored citizens presented several musical numbers which were climaxed by a very practical talk on How To Become Good Citizens by Gertrude Draper. Following these renditions was an unusually interesting program presented by our White friends and citizens. Those who contributed their bit toward making this program a success were Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate, Miss Pardue, Home Demonstration Agent in Chilton County, Hon. Percy M. Pitts, attorney, who spoke on the Negroes' Contribution to Music, Prof. L. C. Warr, principal of the County High School, who spoke of the Negroes' Contribution to American Civilization, and Mrs. J. Q. Wade, prominent figure in Clanton's religious and civic activities.

We are very grateful to our White friends for their presence on each of the nights, for their willingness to participate on the program on Citizens' Night, and for their financial support.

Clanton-Wide Chorus At Court House Monday Night

Due to the fact that our White friends who were present at various programs during the Alabama Music Association last week were so favorably impressed with the music rendered by the chorus, and because so many more who did not hear the chorus would like to, the chorus received a special request to sing at the court house. The chorus kindly consented to present a program at the court house Monday evening at 7:30.

We appreciate the invitation from our White friends as a manifestation of how very much our music was enjoyed.

Rubber Valve Tubes Ready For All Cars

Goodyear Dealer Announces Further Use of Popular Motoring Improvement

Application of the new, Goodyear rubber covered automobile tube valve shortly will be made to include all inner tubes in the company's line and to fit all cars in present use, according to Dief's Service Station, local Goodyear dealers.

Introduced to the market by Goodyear in 1932 the rubber covered valve met with instant approval of motorists everywhere. These valves will soon be regular equipment on all Goodyear Standard, Pathfinder, Heavy Duty and Airwheel type tubes, Mr. Dief said.

Because it is vulcanized to the tube replacing the usual clamped-in metal valve, danger of high pressure leaks around the base of valves is eliminated, and although the rubber valve has a metal stem which permits the use of standard valve cores, there are no metal parts required inside the tire which might injure the tube.

Further advantages pointed out by Dief's Service Station, include a tight compression fit against the tire rim so that no dirt or water can get into the tire.

This compression fit in the rim makes it unnecessary to use lock nuts for holding the valve in place or as a covering for the valve hole. This feature prevents danger of injury to the tube by having the locked-in valve torn out in case of flats, because the rubber valve will slip out of the rim before being torn out of the tube, but will not be drawn far enough inside to be inassessible for inflation unless the tire is run absolutely flat.

The new rubber covered valves as now supplied by Goodyear may be used satisfactorily on all types of wire and artillery wheels, thus eliminating to a great extent the requirements for angle valves for many types of wire wheels.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford Manning

Seed Selection

'Tis funny as can be that a thing so small as an acorn can start a huge tree. Nutrition and reproduction are the two great functions of plants. The production of seed is the principal means by which field plants increase in number and the means by which annual plants live over from year to year or even through adverse seasons when no new seed are produced.

From the side-line you have often heard two farmers talking about the great seed corn or cotton seed he is going to plant. They are probably some seed that he bought from a neighbor who probably named the seed himself and "shot-a-line" about the seed being pure, will produce better, etc., when the seed will not be fifty per cent pure. To prove this, there was hardly a farm in the county that did not have some of this Mississippi Red cotton on it last year. This cotton has a different color leaves from the other, and we can tell it by that. So you see this cotton has mixed at the gin, and so has a number of others from year to year. This can not be avoided unless the farmers organize to plant the same kind of selected seed, and have gin days for same at the public gin or private gin, and clean them thoroughly before using.

There are three things a person should know when buying seed for planting purposes. First, he should know the percentage of germination or per cent of the seed that will sprout. (A single tester can be made to find the percentage of germination by taking two blotter papers and placing some of the seed between them, place them in a plate, and keep damp for about 10 days at about 20 degrees C. then get the percent that sprouted.) Second, he should know the percent purity. Seed of the variety named or percent of other variety of seed that is mixed with them. Third, he should know the percent filler such as dirt, grasses and other kinds of seed that could possibly be mixed with them, which makes an underweight when buying seed, and you are buying seed that does you no good and probably will do you harm.

We are protected from bad seed now more so than we once were by the Federal Seed Act, the Uniform Seed Law and the American Trade Association.

The topic for next week will be "Cross-Pollination."

CORN DAMAGE

By C. E. Stapp, County Agent

Reports are coming in from all parts of the County about the damage to corn by bugs and worms. The damage being done to corn now has no connection with the vetch worm damage that was done some two weeks ago. The vetch worms work only a few days and can be controlled with poison. The damage being done now is by several insects that attack corn. One is a hard, black bug about one-third as large as a June bug. This bug eats a hole in the base of the stalk near the lateral roots and is known as the sugar cane beetle.

Two other insects working are known as the corn stalk-borer and the larger corn stalk-borer. The larger one when full grown is about one inch long, with a dirty white body thickly dotted with irregular darkly colored spots. The lesser borer bears a dark brown or purple band around the middle of the body and several brown or purple stripes run lengthwise of the body.

These two worms enter the stalk at the base and tunnel the stalks on up into the roll, causing many holes.

The worm, or larva, of the 12 spotted cucumber beetle is also found doing much damage. They also enter the stalk at the base and cut the stalk full of holes.

The sad part about all of the above insects is that there seems to be no effective treatment. Where the stand is destroyed, many plough up and plant again.

One farmer in the County who had considerable damage from the above insects last year ploughed up the worst damaged cuts and planted over. Where he had only a fair stand, but was afraid the damage would continue, he planted a row of corn in the middle with the expectation of saving the row that showed the best prospect of making corn. He later ploughed up his later planting.

The above information is given because so many farmers are calling at my office to know what to do for these insects.

How Cardui Helps Women

"Mal-nutrition" means that your body is not getting enough to keep it up, so that what it has to do is not done well. You may not be eating enough to keep up the work of the body, or there may be something wrong that keeps you from getting full value from the food you eat.

Because of mal-nutrition, some women have aches and pains every month. Such pains should not be neglected.

Take Cardui to give you a better appetite, to give you more strength from the food you eat — to build up and increase your feeling of well-being. Aches and pains go away as you build up with the help of Cardui.

BIRMINGHAM MAN SAYS THAT INCOME TAX IS FAIR

Former Gov. Thomas E. Kilby will support the constitutional amendment authorizing a limited income tax and the issuance of $19,000,000 in debt-funding warrants.

Kilby, who as governor 14 years ago pushed an income tax through the legislature, only to see it declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, reiterated his faith in the princple of income taxation in an interview at Anniston last week.

"The state needs the money which an income tax would provide," the former governor declared.

"The income tax is the only levy which would not be unjustly burdensome just now," he added. "It would not be unfair, because only those whom the depression has left with considerable income would be touched. The income tax is the fairest tax which can be levied."

Kilby said he was for the deficit-funding warrant measure regardless of whether all the debt which it is proposed to pay may be strictly legal.

"The money is owed to people who gave the state full value in services to education or in loans for needed functions of the government," he said. "The honor of the state demands that these debts be paid."

"The moral obligation is unquestioned. Repudiation is out of the question, both from the moral and practical point of view."

Industrial leaders of the state will make a mistake to oppose the limited income tax in the July election Kilby warned.

"Business and industry should think long before turning down an income levy with rates limited to 3 per cent on corporations and 5 per cent on individuals," he declared. "Not to accept these rates may mean the imposition of more burdensome rates later.

"I voted for the income tax last fall, but I consider the measure to be voted on this time much superior. It is true the income tax will not yield a great deal of money under present conditions, but the revenue will be heavy in good times.

"Proceeds from the income tax are dedicated to paying the floating debt and to lessening the property tax. This should attract the farm vote. One of the objections to an income tax is that the proceeds are so variable, depending on the general prosperity.

"Students of taxation advise that this objection can be overcome by striking an average and setting aside part of the income tax in peak years to make up for the low income in depression years. A future legislature could give attention to this.—Birmingham Post.

Auburn, Ala.—The pledge that the "Agricultural Adjustment Act will be administered by practical men in a practical fashion," made by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, himself farm-bred and a farm owner, is being fulfilled in the appointments of administrative officers.

George N. Peek, Federal administrator of the Act; Charles J. Brand, his associate; Chester C. Davis, in charge of production phases, M. L. Wilson, wheat administrator, and C. A. Cobb, cotton administrator, were all born on farms and have farmed for a living.

Short Farm Notes

The first reports indicate an increase of 50 per cent in the Egyptian cotton acreage. An ncrease is also indicated for Brazil.

Whe nthe depression began in 1929, the world carryover of American cotton was a little under the normal 5 million bales. By the next year it stood at 6 million. By 1931 it jumped to 8 million, and last year to its present huge size of 13 million.

Live hogs sold at Chicago in 1929 for an average of $10.50 a hundred pounds. The principal products from each 100 pounds of these hogs retailed in New York City for an average of about $15 that year. The difference between these figures, representing wholesale and retail costs, is about $4.50 per hundred pounds. In 1932, with hogs averaging $4 at Chicago, the principal products sold in New York City for about $8.50. The $4.50 margin between prices of live hogs and prices of pork products at retail was still there. But the producer got less than 50 per cent of the consumer's dollar while in 1929 he got 6[illegible] per cent.

Poultry Shipped Via Co-Op Cars

Auburn, Ala.—The eighth year of successful cooperative marketing of poultry by Alabama farmers has just been completed, reports G. W. Ray, extension marketing specialist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who has assisted farmers with their organized effort.

This year, the eighth since the first cooperative poultry car was run in the state in 1926, 40 carloads of poultry were shipped to northern and eastern markets by cooperating farmers. The 40 carloads weighed 560,229 pounds and brought farmers who participated $50,400. Prices received this year were low, the average gross return per car being $1,250, which compares with $3,538 for carloads shipped in 1929. This shows that poultry was slightly over one-third as valuable in the spring of 1933 as in the spring of 1929.

The number of cars run this year compares with 78 for 1932 and 102 for 1931. The smaller number does not mean that fewer chickens were sold, but that more trucks were used in the movement of poultry this year than in former years, Mr. Ray said. "Several counties this year have shipped more poultry than usual, but it has traveled by trucks and not by train," Mr. Ray said.

There has been a decided gain in poultry production in Alabama in recent years, Mr. Ray pointed out. Census figures show that since 1919 there has been an annual gain of ½ of 1 per cent annually in poultry on hand, a gain annually of 1.3 per cent in the amount of poultry on hand raised, and an annual increase of 5.7 per cent in egg production.

o-o-o

Department of agriculture figures show that the gross income of farmers fell 57 per cent from 1929 to 1932. Roughly, this meant that farmers could spend only 60 per cent as much in 1932 as they spent in 1929 for goods made by city folks.

A woman in Syracuse, N. Y., complained to the police that low-flying airplanes keep her awake and "shake dishes off the shelves."

Morris Saches of St. Louis was freed from a speeding charge when he complained that the policeman had to borrow his pencil to make out a summons.

As a demonstration of the food value of eggs, T. S. Easton, high school principal of Flora, Ore., ate two dozen raw eggs during the course of a class.

SINGING AT PLEASANT GROVE ON JUNE 4TH

The singing was enjoyed by a large crowd Sunday. The singers all seemed to be in the spirit to sing and all did their best, which we do not think could be any better. The singing was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Albert Headley at ten o'clock. He sang three songs while the committee of three men fixed the program. The following sang two songs each: S. A. Henley, Jake Henley, Inez McKee, Olen Williams, Melvin Devaughn, Thelma Stewart, Mack Durbin, Mrs. Zella Scott, Hudson Williams. This brought us up to eleven-thirty, at which time Brother Johnson delivered a wonderful sermon which was greatly enjoyed. Then we were dismissed for lunch until 1:30.

Lunch was served at the church. We did not have a table spread, but spread on trucks and tried to see that everyone had lunch. We sure do thank each and everyone who helped us out.

After lunch the chairman selected Mr. Melvin Devaughn to take his place. All met back in the house for the afternoon singing. The directors for the afternoon were Messrs. O. L. Devaughn, Emmett Wilson, W. G. Culp, J. W. Lowery, Hiram Littlejohn, G. C. Melton, Leonard Culp, Johnnie Minor, Zeb Mims, W. J. Cox, F. I. Popwell, Wyn Williams and Mr. S. J. M. Webb was one of the directors in the morning. Pianists were Mrs. Zella Scott, Miss Thelma Stewart, Miss Oline Mims, Messrs. W. G. Culp, F. I. Popwell and others.

The quartets were greatly enjoyed. This brought the program to a close. We are expecting all visitors and singers and quartets to meet back with us on the first Sunday in October, at the annual singing.

Accepting the scientific challenge that fatigue causes tire wear and destruction, they developed new secret processes and methods that give unheard-of new tire safety and mileage. Kelly-Springfield Fatigue-proof is the name given these sensational new tires — on sale here at exactly the same price you have to pay for old-fashioned TIRED tires. Just study the features and look at the prices. Don't spend another dollar for TIRED tires.

1 Corkscrew cotton—a Kelly-Springfield discovery. Scarce, expensive, far kinkier than ordinary cotton. . . . Found only in these tires.
2 Gum-inforced plies—an enormous improvement in tire building. Pure rubber compounds, under tons of pressure, are forced right into the weave!
3 Prime first rubber — only used in these tires (there are five grades of raw rubber). None of the cheaper, inferior grades are used in these tires.
4 Vitalized rubber treads—bigger, deeper, thicker. . . . New vulcanizing agents. . . . New secret processes. . . . Never-before-known mileage.
5 Non-skid—wide, deep grooves. . . . Perfectly balanced treads. Positive, lasting non-skid protection.
6 Made by the new Monitor System—that controls every material and every process — then tested by mountain fleets on the world's toughest testing grounds.

CENTER HILL LADIES ARE IN CANNING PROGRAM

The people of this community are like those of all others, busy. On last Wednesday, May 31, Miss Ruth Pardue met here with a group of ladies and organized a community club. Plans for canning and preserving were discussed.

The leaders elected were Mrs. B. L. Cobb and Mrs. W. C. Erwin, who are to attend the Leadership School in Clanton on June 7th.

The girls here are greatly thrilled over Miss Pardue's plans for organizing a 4-H Club here later.

The Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely with Mr. W. N. Thomas as superintendent.

Our B. Y. P. U., although young and as there has never been a union here before, is real wide-awake and at work in earnest. Drop over when convenient and pay us a visit.

The Harmony singing held here last Sunday was an inspiration to all who attended, and how the older people enjoy their music.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb, James Gentry, Alton Cobb and Miss Mildred Cobb were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Miller last Sunday.

Mr. Irby Webb of Anniston visited friends and relatives over the week end.

Mr. Jimmy Sims of Sylacauga visited here through the week end with his mother, who fell and injured herself slightly.

We are glad to say little Imogene Cobb is still improving.

The Center Hill second nine of this place had a game with Oak Grove last Saturday afternoon. Although Oak Grove took the game the boys did not feel bad over it, for it was the first time they had ever been on the field together and then some of their players were not with them. We all feel sure they will come to the front with Mr. B. L. Cobb as their manager.

Many of this place attended the singing at Longview Sunday, and some at Oak Grove.

Next Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching appointments here. Everybody come and give Mr. Cost a large congregation, especially the church members are asked to be present, as there is some business to come before them.

Guess this is enough from this place for this time.

MISS PARDUE MET WITH LADIES AT MINERAL SPRINGS

Thirty-five ladies met with Miss Pardue last Thursday afternoon at Mineral Springs church about three o'clock and discussed plans for canning and preserving fruits and vegetables. Miss Pardue appointed Mrs. Annie Paschal and Mrs. Lishie Gore to attend the demonstration meeting on June 6th. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. H. Vinzant on June the 9th at eight o'clock A.M. Everyone is invited to come.

Mineral Springs News

We did not have Sunday school Sunday on account of singing at other places. We had a large crowd at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night and a splendid program was rendered. There is much interest shown in the contest we're having in B. Y. P. U. Each group is trying hard to win. We invite everyone to come and be with us in Sunday school and B. Y. P. U.

Messrs. Cecil Giles and Will Smith and Miss Ruth Kate Heflin were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Delen Durbin.

Miss Bertlove Gore is visiting her sister, Mrs. Euell Robinson, of Oak Grove.

The following enjoyed a party at the home of Misses Ruby and Helen Willis last Thursday night: Misses Myrtle Ashcraft, Delene Durbin, Lola and Sybl Vinzant, Louise Giles, Bertlove, Gertrude and Attis Gore, Lillian Thompson, Sallye Mahan, Ruth Kate Heflin, Martha Jane Robinson, Alyce Littlefield, Mildred Dobbs, Ruby Heflin and Messrs. Stewart Ashcraft, James King, Ernest Peters, Edam Gore, Cecil Giles, Dovard Gilsmore, Eurelle Dobbs, Roy Thompson, Clarence, Frank, George Thomas and Howard Gilmore.

Miss Elizabeth Eubanks of Clanton was the week end guest of Miss Louise Giles.

Miss Myrtle Ashcraft spent a few hours with Miss Delene Durbin Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ulmer Ashcraft spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Graham Gilmore.

A large crowd from here attended singing at Shelby Sunday and reported a nice singing.

Weep not, dear ones, for our loss is heaven's gain, and all we can do is to live and try to meet our loved ones who have gone on before.

The family wishes to thank all of the people for their kindness and especially their doctor who was so kind and good in the sickness and death of their son and brother.

FARM PRICES ADVANCE GREATEST SINCE 1919

The advance in prices paid farmers for agricultural commodities during the month ending May 15 was the largest recorded for any one month since April 1919, reports F. W. Gist, statistician of the Department of Agriculture.

During the month the farm price index was raised from 53 to 63 per cent of its pre-war level and was 6 points above a year ago, he said.

"The increase has resulted in a corresponding advance in the purchasing power of farm products, the index of prices farmers pay remaining unchanged at 100 per cent. The exchange value of farm products, was, therefore, 62 per cent of the pre-war average, compared with 50 per cent a year ago."

Alabama prices paid to farmers on May 15 were found to be as follows:

Corn 70c per bu., oats 40c per bu., potatoes 65c per bu., sweet potatoes 50c per bu., cotton 8.4c per pound, cottonseed $13.70 per ton, hogs $3.50 per hundred, beef cattle $2.65 per hundred, calves $3.50 per hundred, lambs $5.00 per hundred, milk cows $21.00 each, horses $54.00 each, mules $80.00 each, chickens 9.3c per pound, eggs 10.5c per dozen, butter 18c per pound, butter fat 17c per pound, wool 15c per pound, loose hay $7.00 per ton.

HONEY BEES BRING $250,000 TO ALABAMA

Alabama bee producers have this spring shipped 70,000,000 bees to the northern states and Canada and for them have received about $250,000.

Thomas Atchison, Department of Agriculture Apiary Inspector, reports 250,000 queen bees and 60,000 two-and three-pound packages of bees shipped. This is a 25 per cent increase over any previous year.

Mr. Atchison estimates that the 60,000 packages of bees contained about 140,000 pounds of bees and that there are 5,000 bees to the pound which makes approximately 700,000,000 bees in the total shipment from the State.

A New Deal For Liver Sufferers

Don't be misled any longer. Calomel, salts, oils, mineral waters, laxative pills, herb teas, powders, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile food doesn't digest properly—it just ferments and decays—Constipation, gas, sour stomach, headaches and nervousness follow.

WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE MOTOR CAR

There is some doubt that people care to hear very much about what goes on under the hoods of their cars.

The driver knows that "driving qualities" are not accidental; they are put there. How the manufacturer creates or evolves those results may not interest him. He judges entirely by the results he gets in driving.

Well, it is not essential to talk "shop"; let us talk Results.

Smoothness. Drive the Ford V-8 and you will find that the engine runs with surpassing smoothness, due to its design and the extra precise methods of its manufacture.

Power. There it is, 75 horsepower (we could say 80) at the drive-shaft for the driver's use. With less weight to pull around, the mettle of this car—its life-like response—is rather remarkable.

Economy. Our V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gasoline than any car we have made. Mileage is partly a matter of individual driving, but under average conditions the Ford V-8 does 17 to 20 miles a gallon. Of course, car economy is not only a matter of fuel. Ford V-8 has that too, but it is also economical in the complete sense—initial cost, operation, maintenance.

Appearance. This is woman's contribution. The motor car must not only be useful, but also good-looking. View the Ford V-8 and you will not need our comment on its fine appearance.

Comfort. This also is woman's concern. In 30 years she changed the motor car from a wagon to a coach. Comfort is a quality made up of numerous ingredients. There is no comfort without a quiet, smooth-running engine. We have all the other ingredients too,—color, good taste, quality, ease, safety, roominess and convenience.

STATE REPEAL

May 4, 1933.

Honorable A. M. Tunstall,
Greensboro, Alabama.

My dear Colonel Tunstall:

I noticed that when the bill providing for the convention in Alabama for action on the proposed amendment to repeal the 18th Amendment was under consideration in the House of Representatives of the Alabama Legislature, that you as Speaker of the House of Representatives asked to explain your vote for the amendment and state that in view of the fact that the Party Platform declared for the repeal of the 18th Amendment, you felt that every Democrat ought to stand by the platform and, irrespective of his personal views in the matter, vote for the repeal.

I hope that you cooperate with the Honorable Leon McCord, the National Committeeman, Mrs. A. Y. Malone, National Committeewoman, and the Honorable E. W. Pettus, State Chairman, in the organization for the campaign for the repeal and then in the conduct of the campaign.

Sincerely,
J. A. FARLEY.

At the time the Bill providing for a Convention for the ratification or rejection of the Repeal Amendment was being considered in the House of Representatives when the name of the Speaker, Hon. A. M. Tunstall, was called he asked unanimous consent to explain his vote which was granted.

Mr. Tunstall said, "I was a candidate for the Democratic nomination as a member of this House from the County of Hale. I was nominated by the Democrats of Hale County. As a candidate for Speaker of the House, I was nominated as the Democratic candidate for Speaker of the House by a Democratic Caucus and unanimously elected. A National Democratic Convention assembled in Chicago declared for the Repeal of the 18th Amendment. I, therefore, am of the opinion that I and other Democrats should stand by the platform irrespective of our personal views and vote for the Repeal. Mr. Clerk, please record my vote for the passage of the pending Bill providing for a Convention for the ratification or rejection of the Repeal Amendment to the Federal Constitution."

WARRANT ACT

vancement of education, not only to advocate, but to actively work for the passage of the Act.

Following is the text of the resolution:

"We, the Chilton County Board of Education hereby endorse the Warrant Act to be voted on July 18th and urge the patrons, teachers, trustees and all citizens interested in the advancement of education not only to advocate but to actively work for the passage of said Amendment.

"Realizing that this Amendment carries no additional taxes but is only a guarantee of the faith of the state in the payment of its debts, we feel that every honest citizen should be interested in seeing that this Amendment passes.

"In the face of the recent ruling of the Supreme Court if this Warrant Act should fail to pass it means a repudiation of the State's debt, on the other hand its passage is merely an acknowledgement of the state's debt."

Notice To Delinquent Taxpayers

Beginning the first week in July I will have to advertise for sale all property on which taxes have not been paid. I have given the taxpayers three months extension on the time of payment of their taxes in order to favor them as much as possible.

The first of July is as long as I can possibly extend the time. Those who are delinquent on the first of July will have additional cost of advertising added to their taxes. It is not my wish to have these costs put on the taxpayers, but it is not in my power to avoid doing so. I must discharge my duty under the law.

Let me urge all delinquent taxpayers to take notice and do your very best to settle your taxes before advertising costs are added.

LEADERSHIP SCHOOL HELD HERE TUESDAY

Canning Demonstration Held At Methodist Church By Home Agent

Nearly a hundred women, representing every community in Chilton County, gathered at the Clanton Methodist Church, Tuesday morning, for a county-wide leadership school and food preservation demonstration.

Miss Margaret Garret, food preservation specialist from Auburn, assisted Miss Ruth Pardue, county demonstration agent, in the presentation of the demonstration, which illustrated several methods recommended by the Auburn institution in preserving various types of foods.

During the morning session, demonstrations in the preparation and canning of soup mixtures, lima beans, string beans, tomatoes, and turnip greens were given. The afternoon session was devoted to the organization of canning centers in the various communities throughout the county, and in demonstration of drying foods.

A luncheon, supplied by members of the county commissioners court and served by a committee of Pilot club ladies, was served to the several score of women who attended the school.

Plans are being formulated whereby the R. F. C. canning project, which is to be staged this Summer, may be incorporated into the routine county demonstration work under the supervision of Miss Pardue, it is understood. Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, head of the local relief unit, and Miss Ruth Jones, Mrs. Barney Burnett, Miss Mary Ellis, and Miss Icabelle Coburn, field workers, attended the meeting Tuesday.

At a meeting of members of the commissioners court, local relief workers, and representatives of Auburn and the State R. F. C. organization at the court house, last Saturday a plea was made to the commissioners to purchase about $200 worth of equipment to be used in the Summer canning campaign. Although the commissioners have been in session all this week, no definite action had been taken on the matter, it was stated, however, information from members of the court seemed favorable toward its passage.

L. B. Williamson, canning expert employed by the State relief organization, was the principal speaker on the program at the Saturday meeting. He outlined and explained the part that the State department will take in the promotion of a canning campaign in the county by furnishing containers.

More than 25 club centers have been organized by Miss Ruth Pardue in little more than two weeks. She reports that exceptional interest is being taken in home demonstration work in the county.

being made in assessments, and not in rates—thus relieving home owners without dangerously reducing the amount of the county's income. About 75 per cent of Chilton County's income is from taxes paid by foreign corporations, it is reported.

Leaders, both in the Republican and Democratic parties, have gone on record for reducing assessments against the small property owner and furnished legal aid in filing protests. Indications are that the board may be in session for several days. The law provides that the county board of review must meet the first Monday in June and may stay in session until the second Monday in July, however, it was explained, that will not be necessary in Chilton county.

The board is composed of County Commissioners C. D. Duke, J. C. Atchison, J. M. Mims and J. L. Cobb, Tax Assessor Akins Collins, and Hugh Simpson, license inspector.

Specially Trained Person Is Required To Fill This Type Of Office

Following is a letter from Luther E. Little, Democratic candidate for the office of county superintendent of education, to the voters of Chilton County, in behalf of his candidacy:

To the Voters of Chilton County:

In this last letter to the people before the election next Tuesday, I wish to briefly summarize the things which many of you have personally requested opinions on regarding the work and qualifications of your superintendent of education.

The superintendent of education in this county and every other county, in order to do constructive work in the schools, must first be able to cooperate with both the State Board of Education and the County Board of Education. The county school system is but merely a small portion of a state system; with practically all the problems of schools regarding appropriations, selection of text books, certification of teachers, making the courses of study, and many others, settled by the State Department of Education. Your county superintendent should be in position to advise with, and cooperate with, the State Department in setting up our school program, keeping in mind the above listed items of our program which originate in Montgomery. I shall be glad for any one interested in so doing to investigate whether or not the State Department officials feel that I am capable and trained in school work sufficiently to speak intelligently regarding the school program as set up in Montgomery. I do not agree with them at all times, and shall contend for some changes in matters of effecting economy in the entire system. With reference to cooperating with the County Board of Education, my experience as a school principal has well proven that I can work harmoniously with this Board.

One of the most important qualifications of your superintendent should be the experience in school work which he has had. I submit to you again the fact that I have taught in every type of school in the county, from the one teacher school to your county high school. I also wish to call your attention again to the fact that the office work, and the matter of making a conservative financial program for the school year will not be new to me, because of the fact I have had contact with the business world in respect to such problems.

Finally, let me urge each of you to take an interest in the selection of your County Superintendent of Education. This is an opportunity you have desired for a long time. In doing this, remember this is unlike the other offices of the county. This office requires a specifically trained person. Do not think in terms of personal favors from this office, but consider the big job of this office is to make true as far as is humanly possible the motto, "Every Child an Equal Chance".

Yours for the schools,
LUTHER E. LITTLE.

Churches Pay Tribute To Rev. J. Robert Bean

More than two hundred persons—members of the Union Grove and Friendship Baptist churches—congregated Wednesday morning at the old Thompson Mill site on Yellow Leaf Creek, about eight miles from Clanton, in the fourth annual joint celebration as a tribute of honor to the Rev. J. Robert Bean, pastor of both churches.

Four years ago, Mr. Bean became pastor of the Union Grove and Friendship churches and each year a meeting paying tribute to him has been held at Lay Dam. but this year the new location was chosen because of its more centralized position, it was explained. Residents of the Collins Chapel and Salem communities also participated in the celebration.

The Reverend Bean rendered a forty-five minute discussion on the subject of "The Two Greatest Mistakes—Those of the World and Those of the Church."

FOOD CANNING PROGRAM HERE BEING PUSHED

R. F. C. To Furnish Cans In Preservation Of Food For Winter Use

Although the Reconstruction Finance Corporation appropriation to Chilton county has been greatly reduced for the months of June and July, and it has been necessary to reduce the staff employed for the dispensing of relief funds in the county—Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, local social director, announced Tuesday that she had information from Thad Holt, director of the Alabama organization, to the effect that unlimited cooperation will be given the Chilton county canning program, which is to be staged during the Summer months.

Declaring that the food preservation program to be a major objective with the Alabama Relief Administration, Mr. Holt stated to Miss Austin, "You may evolve plans for an adequate county canning project with the assurance that this office will make provision for you to carry it through."

At a meeting with the county executive committee on relief, at the courthouse last Saturday, Mr. Holt explained that where county funds are expended for relief, the state administration will match one-third of the amount. He suggested that Chilton county is in position to use local funds for relief pur-

Mr. Little And The Election Next Tuesday

On next Tuesday, June 20th, less than a week from today, voters of Chilton County will make their choice of a Superintendent of Education. This is a Special Election and the winning candidate will serve for less than a full term. For these reasons there may be those who have not given serious consideration to the issues at stake. We submit to our readers that in this election next Tuesday there is more at stake than party politics, more than the ambition of any individual, that the one fundamental consideration is the educational welfare of our boys and girls.

The management of the Chilton County News, knowing Mr. Little as it does, his character and qualifications, without stint and without reserve, endorses his cause to the people of Chilton County. We sketch below a few of the things which enter into our endorsement of him, and it is our hope that readers of this newspaper will carefully consider these qualifications of Mr. Little which we believe are ample reasons why we should give him our influence and our vote.

1. Mr. Little is a gentleman of the highest type. He is a man you—or any citizen of Chilton County—would like to know and associate with. His sympathetic understanding of people—from the lowest to the highest walks of life—and their problems is exceptional. His personality is such that he can gain the cooperation and admiration of those whom he works for and with. We believe that, if elected, he would be well able to direct school affairs in such a manner that our school system could be operated on an efficient and serviceable plan.

2. Mr. Little is thoroughly qualified for the position he seeks. Of course there are legal standards to be met in order to be a candidate which he has filed with the proper officials. That is the "letter of the law" so to speak. We believe there are other and more important qualifications even than these and which we are assured Mr. Little possesses in abundance. We speak of his broad grasp of the problems of education. Recent years have been trying ones for education, and those immediately ahead do not promise to be all fair sailing. We need a man at the helm of Chilton County's educational system who knows what he is doing when decisions are to be made, problems are to be solved, when our children's educational welfare must win or lose, depending on how well he succeeds.

We believe that Luther Little is such a man. We know that he has spent years—in fact all his life—in educational work. His record is one of continuous promotion. School officials under whom he worked have commended him without exception, the children whom he has taught love and admire him, his school patrons have endorsed him. He knows by actual experience what problems confront the little school, the medium-sized school, and the larger school. He has had these problems to solve in the years just past—and he has succeeded splendidly. More than that he has always kept his mind open and alert to the fundamentals of our school system as to county and state. It has not been our privilege to talk to any man, any time, who had a fuller understanding of the workings of our state and county school systems. He does not believe everything is as it should be, though he is no "kicker" in any sense of the word, but he does have carefully thought-out ideas which are constructive, that he would like to work-in as improvements.

3. There is a considerable amount of business judgment needed in the office of Superintendent of Education. Overburdened taxpayers should put men into administrative offices who are thoroughly qualified to make every dollar of the public money do one hundred cents worth of work. Mr. Little has had training along these lines which assure efficiency in the management of business phases in the office he seeks. He has been trained and he has had experience. Business men with and for whom he has worked in this capacity endorse him.

4. He is worthy of a promotion in his vocation. It was not Mr. Little's privilege (if it may be called a privilege) to have an education handed to him. He has had to work for it. The manner in which he has succeeded in preparing himself is a tribute to his initiative and resourcefulness. In the gaining of practical experience he began at the bottom—and the rapidity of his rise attests eloquently to his ability. A man who has made such use of his opportunities deserves a promotion at the hands of his fellow citizens.

5. Throughout his campaign, Mr. Little has been open and beyond reproach in all his actions and statements. His manner of conducting himself and his campaign has met with hearty approval in all sections of the county, and won many friends that heretofore did not exist.

6. Mr. Little draws no line in politics when it comes to serving the people. He is broad enough to openly state that if he is elected, Republicans and Democrats alike, will receive the same consideration from his office. He is not only appealing to Democratic voters, but also to Republican voters to place him in the office he seeks.

7. And as a summing up of all the foregoing we would place the greatest emphasis upon the welfare of the school child and the benefits we are confident would accrue to him with the election of Luther E. Little as Superintendent of Education of Chilton County next Tuesday, June 20th.

Gleeson Howard Visits Home Before Taking On His Duties On Ship

Among those 432 boys, representing every state in the Union, who were the elated recipients recently of commissions in the United States Navy and commendation from the hands and lips of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt was Ensign E. Gleeson Howard, Chilton County's own son—hailing from Verbena.

Young Howard made a record of which he, and Chilton county, should justly be proud. Ranking among the foremost in scholastic standing, Ensign Howard received honorary mention in the program that was broadcast thruout the Nation as being among the 22 leading students, who were graduated from the Annapolis Naval Academy a few days ago, after four years of effort.

Commensurate with the places of honor won by him during his preparatory training at the Verbena High School, was this honor of first mention in a class of more than 400 boys from every section of the country. Ensign Howard was valedictorian of the class of 1928.

Prior to going to Annapolis Young Howard enrolled at Auburn, where he studied electrical engineering for one year. Through Senator Hugo Black he received his appointment to the Annapolis institution in 1929. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs O. L. Howard of Verbena.

Ensign Howard's parents and Miss Katherine Gaines of Verbena attended the graduation exercises. Young Howard returned with them, and will remain at home for about ten days when he will report to the U. S. S. Colorado, at San Pedro, Calif., for a period of service at sea. He is only 22 years old.

Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Sir:

I was born and reared in Chilton and still feel an interest in the schools there, where I got all of my education up through high school. I read the News every week and keep posted as to what is going on in Chilton.

It is with pleasure that I read of my good friend's candidacy for Superintendent of Education, Mr. Luther E. Little. I would like to say a few things in his favor.

Having known Mr. Little all my life, and having been in high school and college with him and having worked with him, I feel that I know him well. He made close friends everywhere he went by his sincerity and his personal interest. Mr. Little has a way of getting an interest and an insight of one's problems and always has a good suggestion to make that will set a fellow right. This is a very fine trait for a public servant. His readiness to listen to and help is very noticeable and wins confidence immediately. I have marveled at the cleanness of his life, with the highest ideals and his ambition

Swamp Work Resumed Following A Brief Halt

After a temporary pause in the swamp draining project in the swamps surrounding Clanton, work was resumed Monday morning when fifteen R. F. C. workers were delegated to the job.

Work had been temporarily suspended because of of lack of funds to employ labor. Workmen have been furnished from the regular R. F. C. relief funds available to Chilton county, but due to a cut in the county appropriation a temporary halt in the project was necessary.

However, it is believed that most of the draining program will be realized. About three-fourths of a mile of ditch is completed and with this start it is believed that land owners will continue the project, even if the county should have to discontinue the program.

Yes, Prices Are Going Up

For two successive months, according to a graph in the New York Times, the index of commodity prices has been moving upward without interruption.

The nation-wide policy of the moment is to raise prices to a more normal level and, by one means or another, keep them there.

Here are two facts that should interest every property-owner, and every potential builder. They mean that present low prices are doomed; that we're going to pay more for what we buy—whether it's food and clothing, or a new house.

The wise citizen who possibly can, will spend now, when it will get him the largest dollar's worth he has ever known. And he will spend largely on property-improvement, where it will give him something of real and permanent value. There is hardly one of us who hasn't let his property slide a little the past few years. We have put off painting, repairing, installing labor-saving machinery in kitchen and laundry, building a new garage, overhauling the heating plant, repairing or replacing the roof, walks, fences, etc. But we have now reached the point where if we put it off any longer it will mean dollars out of pocket.

A Safety Device Or Death Trap

Clanton has another traffic light installed. This fact is known by many already, and many others are to find it to be true. This light, installed at some expense to the town, has for its purpose, making an intersection of the highway and a street, safe for automobile drivers, pedestrians, wagons, etc.

If properly enforced, it will serve the purpose intended, and being located at a dangerous intersection, it will serve well. Not long ago, several children and a woman narrowly escaped death at this intersection, and almost every week, cars have narrow escapes from collisions at this crossing. If not properly enforced by the city officers, this traffic light will serve as one of the worst death traps Clanton has had in some time.

A representative of the News, watching tihs light and the traffic, found that in ten minutes, three cars and one wagon disregarded, or overlooked, the red signal and took the right of way. That is dangerous—exceedingly dangerous, with the green lght giving the right of way to traffic on the other streets.

We also note that automobile drivers passing through Clanton on the Birmingham-Montgomery highway do not see the light in time to observe its signals, it being recently installed and otherwise new. An accident here by an out-of-town visitor to our city, would no doubt leave somewhat of a bad taste of Clanton. The News suggests to the city officials that signs be erected on the outskirts of Clanton, on highways, warning autoists to watch for traffic lights.

We hope that the people of Clanton will cooperate with the city officials in enforcing the law that goes with a traffic light, and as a precaution to drivers of automobiles and wagons, we might say that a traffic light in operation is law in a city, and a violation of this law subjects a person to a fine. We also hope that the city will not wait too long to begin its enforcement of this new traffic light and eliminate possibilties of it becoming a more dangerous crossing.

Clanton's Trade Territory

A town of a population of something like 2,000 situated in a trading territory of about thirty to forty-five miles certainly should be a live, wide-awake town, full of the same type of merchants and business men.

Clanton is situated in such a trade territory, and while the News hesitates a little in saying this, we are somewhat of the opinion that a little more effort could profitably be put forth by leaders of the town in taking advantage of the fact that Clanton can draw trade from a good sized territory.

This is just a passing thought at this time, and we pass it on to the merchants and business men of our town.

The Rev. Sorrell's Letter On Luther Little

Unsolicited, comes a letter this week to the News from a minister of the gospel, the Rev. G. S. Sorrell, pastor of the Baptist church, of Ashville, Ala., who writes in behalf of the candidacy of Mr. Luther E. Little, for the office of superintendent of education.

The News publishes this letter with a great deal of pleasure. Preachers are not usually given to stepping into politics. They (and rightly so) know that politics has no place in the pulpit. We believe the Rev. Sorrell to be a minister of high type and one who is able to deliver his gospel messages without any hint of politics.

But, the fact remains that the Rev. Sorrell did see fit to write a letter praising a candidate in a political race, and write it for publication in this newspaper. With the idea expressed in the preceding paragraph in mind, and knowing the Rev. Sorrell, we do not hesitate to say that he had no intentions of becoming a politician nor writing in behalf of any particular political party. The Rev. Sorrell knows Mr. Little and his clean life as an open book. It is this that this preacher is writing about to the people of this county, and not the fact that Mr. Little is a Democrat. It is the fact that Mr. Little has a reputation that is beyond reproach, has lived a Christian life, a useful life and climbed the ladder of hard knocks and earned the esteem of such men as the Rev. Sorrell. When such men see fit to openly write a letter in behalf of a man who is offering his services to the people, it is truly something commendable, and warrants a great deal of consideration from the voters of this county.

Roosevelt, The Master

Judging from the rapid rise of confidence, stock markets and commodity prices, we have reached the turn in the road to better times, and our people will soon be self-supporting and back to normal living. What a grand and glorious feeling! There's but one reason for such a rapid recovery, and that reason is President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He may well be termed the savior of the country. His broad vision, his untiring interest in the masses, his love for mankind and his broad knowledge of conditions combined with his manly courage, have saved the day for this country.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is the first man who ever occupied the president's chair who did not in some way, cater to the demands and threats of powerful corporations and the wealth of the country. They all look alike to him, millionaire and pauper, and it looks now like he is going to be able to put over his campaign promises, and then some. When he hits the table with that powerful fist and says what he wants, congress responds, while utility corporations mumble their complaints in undertones, afraid to come out and attempt to dominate both congress and the president as they have done in the past. This is a day for the common people—a day which most of us thought would never come. He has done more to help the masses than all the presidents combined in the history of this republic, and if he lives and is able to carry on as he has for the past two months, this country will be back to normal living within twelve months.

When a congressman or senator dares to block the president's plans, a roar of protests come up from the home state sufficient to whip him back in line, both democrats and republicans alike. The people demand of their congressman unselfish support of the president's program, and if they fail to obey, they may expect to lose their jobs at the next election. The president is going to save the country when it seemed to be lost.

Get Something For Your Money

In spite of the wave of building we passed through after the war, reliable figures indicate that 67 per cent of the dwellings in the country—a total of over 14,000,000 structures—were erected more than ten years ago.

What this means is that there isn't as serious an overproduction of homes as is generally believed. There are millions of dwellings which have gone to pieces to the extent that they should be torn down and replaced; millions more need extensive alterations and repairs to make them comfortable and attractive.

There was never a better time to build, never a better time to repair and replace. Materials of all kinds are at unprecedented low price levels.

Millions of people have money to spend. They could, with great profit to themselves, invest a few hundred dollars to improve their property and at the same time give employment which would start other business and create more employment all over the country. Construction dollars create an endless circle of purchasing power.

It might be well to remember that jobs are cheaper than charity—and that without jobs for all there soon won't be anything left for charity. You get a great return on the money you spend on your property now and it will act as a tonic to the nation. If a million of us join in a property betterment campaign, the depression will be licked. If we don't, our savings and earnings will be absorbed in non-productive charity.

Warns Against Business Extermination

After pointing out the danger that this nation faces today from putting government too extensively into business competition with private citizens, Walter H. Bennett, counsel for the National Association of Insurance Agents, discusses in the April 21 issue of the American Agency Bulletin, the plan to have the government go into the power business under the guise of a relief measure at Muscle Shoals. He states fundamental truths when he says:

"I know of no sufficient reason, even in these times of emergency, for government to enter into cut-throat competition with any properly managed industry. It cannot be said that a further suppression of business or the extermination of a great industry will contribute to business recovery. What we most need is opportunity for the free and fair operation of all legitimate business and not the creation of government competition which would be carried on at the expense of already over-burdened taxpayers.

"It may be that the great investment at Muscle Shoals should be utilized and no longer allowed to remain as a wasteful monument to governmental extravagance. If so, the government should content itself with operation of the plant and turn its power development over to all comers, at the source, and not enter into a delivery of electric energy to ultimate consumers over government-built and controlled transmission lines."

This is a timely warning before our taxpayers are completely submerged in a sea of debt for political experiments. It upholds our government's original theory of encouraging and protecting private initiative and enterprise and individual opportunity.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

The plantation boss drove up to the home of Uncle Wash. While they were talking over the crop outlook they were being constantly disturbed by an old dog that was sitting near, howling at the top of his voice. The boss remarked, "Wash, there must be something wrong with your dog." The old negro replied, "Nossah, Boss, dar am nothing wrong with dat dog. He am setten down in an ant nest and the old rascal am too lazy to get up." That sounds very much like a description of many folks in these days of the depression. They have been out of work so long and have become accustomed to doing nothing so long until they have become too lazy to even try to get up out of the ant nest. When we hear people howling for food and they are too lazy to even try to grow a garden, we are inclined to just let them sit in their ant nest and howl.

I was driving along in my rattling flivver and almost lost my temper because of the roughness of the road. I knew but little about cars and blamed the road for all the rattles and the bumps that came to me. A man by the roadside flagged me down and I thought that he proposed to tell me that the road ahead could not be traveled over, but he informed me that I had two flat tires. When I railed out on the road and blamed it for all of my trouble, the man quietly replied. "Friend, the road is all right, your trouble was that you were trying to travel over it with flat tires." Then I understood that I was to blame for much of the roughness that I felt in travel. I got out and changed tires and the road was much smoother for my shambling Ford. It seems human for us to blame the road for the most of our bumps in life. We should not forget that often we are traveling on "Flat Tires" that we could remedy if we only tried. If a man allows himself to go to pieces and to get out of harmony with everything, it sounds foolish for him to be howling and fretting about the road. A lot of folks need to get out and remedy some of their own faults, they would find their way of life much smoother.

In South Carolina there is a man who has large holdings near a college campus. This man cares nothing for education and nothing for a student body. To make his holdings private he has fenced every foot of land to which he holds titles. By doing this he greatly injured the college and the freedom of its student body. That man's name is "Self." We must all agree that his character and his name are the same. Selfishness is nothing but fencing up what you have for yourself. When a man throws a fence around all that he has, and holds it for himself, a large sign should be placed at his front gate, "Mr. Self Lives Here." Blessed is the man who has no fence about his holdings.

Over in India there is a Rain tree. During the rainy season this tree will store up water, filling all of its cells, and hold that as a reserve for the time when there is no rain. This tree flourishes in all seasons for it has stored up power. Under the blazing sun it can defy parching winds for then it draws on its reserve strength. Why is it that some people can pass through a crash, through a testing time, in such a smooth, even manner. It is because they have learned the art of storing up for that time. Reserve power is the one thing that we are going to need. We can withstand the blasts and the blows of life if we have reserve power on which to draw. Like the Rain tree, we should be storing up for the day of need.

A mother and her five year old son entered the parsonage. No sooner had the lad entered the room than he set up a process of disturbance and wreck. He jerked a cut glass vase from its stand and crashed it on the floor. He pulled a book from the stand and riddled its pages. He rolled up every rug on the floor. He saw a crack in the wall paper and ran his little finger into it and tore out a hunk as large as the side of a bale of cotton. The mother was chasing the little rascal all the time and that seemed to make him worse. It took us a long time to get over that visit. Many folks in this world are just like that boy, they carry wreck and ruin wherever they go.

PENSIONERS OF 2000 A. D.

This is only 1933, but if history repeats itself there will be veterans of the World War still alive and drawing pensions in the year 2000.

Daniel F. Bakerman, last survivor of the Revolutionary War, lived until April 5, 1869, or 86 years after the war ended. Hiram Cronk drew a pension as a veteran of the War of 1812 until his death on May 13, 1905, at the age of 105 years. Five soldiers of the Mexican War were still on the pension rolls 80 years after the close of that war.

In this connection it is interesting to note that two mothers of Civil War veterans were still drawing pensions up to four or five years ago. They were Samantha Button of West McHenry, Ill., and Samantha Farrer, a negro woman of Athens, Ala.

Although the Civil War ended in 1865, it is qute probable that a veteran or two who followed Grant may be alive and drawing a pension in 1950. Considering the vastly greater number of those who fought with Pershing in France, it is not unreasonable to suppose that some of them will still be in the land of the living in the year 2000. A youngster of 17, who enlisted in 1917 would be 100 years old then. And with the greater span of life which modern science is making possible there will doubtless be many to attain that age.

Questions And Answers In Regard To Constitutional Amendments

Prepared by President Shackelford for the benefit of the students of the S. T. C.

NOTE: Q is for question and A is for answer, and both are made as short as possible, with the hope, however, that they are clear and full enough to be easily understood.

General Introduction

Q. Why is Alabama in debt
A. Because she has not collected enough money to pay her appropriations.
S. Who is responsible for it?
A. Sometimes the Governor; sometimes the Legislature; and sometimes economic conditions.
Q. How much does she owe?
A. $19,348,420.14.
Q. How long has this debt been accumulating?
A. Since 1907, during Governor Comer's administration.
Q. To whom is it due?
A. Nearly all of it is due to teachers, bus drivers, and merchants who have sold supplies to schools.
Q. Is it a just debt?
A. Yes; the service has been rendered and it should be paid for.
Q. Can Alabama pay this debt?
A. Not with her present income.
Q. Could she, by economizing, save enough to pay it?
A. No; she has already cut expenses more than $8,000,000 per annuam, and in some cases they have been cut so much that the service is seriously crippled. This is especially so in education and public health.
Q. Can she afford to repudiate it?
A. Not without sacrificing her self-respect and the respect of everybody else, and ruining her credit besides.
Q. If expenses have been cut as much as is practicable, and if the State cannot afford to repudiate her just debts, what can be done?
A. The State will have to borrow the money and pay it back gradually.
Q. How can she do that if she can't pay her present appropriations?
A. She will have to sell warrants and raise the money with which to pay the warrants and the interest on them.
Q. Can she do that?
A. Yes, if the people give her that authority.
Q. How can the people do that?
A. By voting for the amendments to the Constitution on July 18th.
Q. What else does the amendment provide?
A. Nothing except that the Budget Control Act is included, so as to make it a part of the Constitution, and thus prevent future Legislatures from repealing it and letting more debts accumulate against the State. If you don't want the State to get in debt again, vote for this amendment.

The Income Tax Amendment

Q. What is the income tax amendment?
A. It is an amendment to the Constitution authorizing the State to tax the net incomes of both individuals and corporations.
A. With corporations, it is what is left after paying the expenses of operating them. With individuals, it is what is over and above their necessary business expenses and their exemptions.
Q. What exemptions are allowed individuals?
A. For unmarried people, the exemption is $1500 per annum; and for married people it is $3000 per annum plus $300 for each dependent under 18 years of age.
Q. How much tax would they have to pay?
A. Corporations would pay 3 per cent straight; individuals would pay 1 per cent on the smallest taxable incomes and it gradually increases to 5 per cent up to and above $10,000 per annum.
Q. Who would pay this tax?
A. Every corporation and everybody who earns as much as is mentioned above, and nobody who doesn't earn that much.
Q. For what purpose is the income tax to be levied?
A. To pay interest on the debt warrants and to pay the warrants when they become due.
Q. Would this tax raise enough to do that?
A. Not now. It would probably raise a little more than half enough; but, as business conditions improve, it would raise more and more until it would be sufficient to pay the entire debt.
Q. Is it a just tax? If so, why?
A. It is just because only those pay who are able to pay; it is just because incomes are not now being taxed; it is just because it is the only way to reach those wealthy people who live on interest and profits from investments in stocks and bonds, which are themselves exempt from taxation. No net income no tax.
Q. Can this tax be passed on to the poorer classes? If not, why not?
A. No; because banks who advance money are charging all the law allows merchants must meet competition; the salaried classes have no opportunity and these three classes are about all who would pay the tax.
Q. When would the first payment be due?
A. When the next general taxes are paid.

SUNDAY, JUNE 18TH, TO BE STATE TEMPERANCE DAY

Montgomery, Ala.—Sunday, June 18, is to be Statewide Temperance Day when the ministers of all denominations are requested to preach on the Bible's message of the deadly effects of alcohol on every phase of human wellbeing. Ministers are also asked to arrange community wide temperance meetings for the afternoon or night that will bring together all who oppose the liquor traffic and the saloon. Since next Sunday's Sunday school lesson is on "Jesus Rises from the Dead," Sunday school teachers are asked to stress the present necessity of keeping John Barleycorn in his grave and of all right thinking people rising wth Christ to save Alabama from the direful consequences of the return of the legalized liquor traffic with its iniquitous barroom.

That the objective of international, national and state liquorites is to sweep away all of Alabama's prohibition laws and bring the saloon back is supported by recent events, according to Dr. L. E. Barton, chairman of the executive committee of the Alliance Against Repeal of the 18th Amendment, Inc. Dr. Barton quotes a wire from William Randolph Hearst to Arthur Brisbane: "The old-fashion politicians are laboring for the return of the old-fashion saloon." He also says that State Senator Sanford Mullins, wet leader, told a senate committee at the capitol during the last legislature that he and his colleagues were not only trying to repeal the 18th Amendment but also to sweep Alabama's prohibitory laws away.

The Alliance has announced itself as fighting against the return of booze through the repeal of the 18th Amendment and for the state's right to decide the liquor issue without outside political meddling or coercion by Postmaster General Farley. Liquor was classed as an avowed enemy of every legitimate business. Statistics were quoted to show that the consumption of milk increased 242 per cent since prohibition, and that the liquor traffic at its peak pocketed five dollars for drink bill for every dollar it produced for commerce, labor and tax revenue. John Barleycorn was pictured as trying to stab King Cotton in the back.

Charley Rice, mayor of Homewood, eminent Birmingham attorney, Spanish-American war veteran, and democrat, is director of the Alliance campaign to lead Alabama to vote against repeal. The Alliance will be organized in every county and will have a full ticket of delegates for the convention to retain the 18th Amendment.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford Manning

Seed Selection

Cross-Pollination

Any process by which pollen is carried from a stamen to a pistil of any flower may be called pollination. If the pollen passes from a stamen to a pistil of the very same flower, the process is called self-pollination. If the pollen of a flower goes to the pistil of another flower of the same species, the process is called cross-pollination. There are two general methods by which pollen may be carried from one flower to another, whether these be on the same plant or on different plants. First, by insects such as honey bees, which are in search of nectar or pollen itself, they visit many flowers of the same kind and carry pollen from one to another. The pollen on their bodies and appendages is rubbed against the stigma of the pistil and the cross-pollination is complete. Second is by the wind. When the pollen is to be carried by wind it becomes dry and powdery, and is very light. The flowers have no need for being showy and no nectar or fragrance is found. Corn grasses, some small grains, and many weeds are examples of flowers pollinated by wind. Of course there are other methods of pollination, such as pollination by water and underground pollination (by the roots), but the insects and the wind are the main methods of carrying pollen from one plant to another.

Sometimes muskmelons have the taste of a cucumber, because they have the same genus and will easily mix when planted near each other. Corn will cross-pollinate more so than anything else, because the pollen is light, and can easily be carried from one place to the other by the wind.

The Fingers of the Wind

The fingers of the wind
Are shining in the sun.
I have seen them run
Like a comb through wheat.

The fingers of the wind
Are sensitive and thin.
I have seen them pass
Trembling over grass.

The fingers of the wind
Are quick as sin,
To steal the pollen of one plant
And deliver to another.

ALABAMA HEADS NATION IN RURAL POWER PROGRESS

Chicago, Ill., June 9th—The Thomas W. Martin Award, a bronze plaque for the company operating in any part of the United States showing the greatest accomplishment in rural electrification during the past year, was awarded to Alabama Power Company at the closing meeting of the Edison Electric Institute here today, Bernard F. Weadock, Executive Secretary, announced.

The plaque contains an electrified farm scene and bears the inscription "Presented to Alabama Power Company in recogniton of its invaluable contribution to the rural life of the territory served by it through providing electric service for stimulating the improvement of the economic and cultural advantages of farm life." Such a plaque will be awarded each year for 10 years to the electric light and power company member of the Edison Electric Institute showing the greatest contribution to the advancement of rural electrification during the previous year.

The donor of the prize, Thomas W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Company, has been one of the country's pioneers in the movement to carry electricity to the farm. The project on which his company was awarded the prize was begun as early as 1923, in cooperation with Alabama Polytechnic Institute, the Experiment Station, the Extension Service, Alabama Farm Bureau and Alabama Public Service Commission. The program has been carried forward continuously until Alabama has made greater progress in the electrification of farms than any other state, farm income per capita considered.

In the past 10 years the Alabama Power Company has built 720 rural power lines, with a mileage of 2,133, in 64 of Alabama's 67 counties. They now serve 9,159 customers in rural communities having a population of 110,000.

Two other prize awards were won by Alabama Power Company, the Curtis Prize for the lighting of interiors and exteriors of commercial, and public buildings, and third place in the Davidson Prize for the promotion of electric service and merchandising sales.

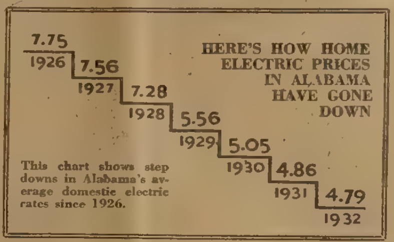
Inflation Sweeps Up Price Of Almost Everything . . . Except

ELECTRICITY

CARRIED upwards by the sweep of the inflationary program, prices are now soaring. Cotton, wheat, food, clothing, in fact nearly all commodities have advanced sharply in the past few weeks. Almost the sole exception is ELECTRICITY.

Electric Rates In The Home Have Steadily Gone Downwards Since 1926

Electric rates did not advance when living costs soared up to peak time heights during boom times. Instead, when everything else went sky high, electric prices here in Alabama dropped still lower. Electric rates are not advancing now, when every item in the cost of living is rising rapidly. Average electric rates for home service today are 57.4% lower than they were in 1913. Alabama's average rate for all domestic service has declined over 38% within the past six years and is now 14% below the national average. The only "inflation" in electric service is in its GREATER USEFULNESS—its steadily increasing number of helps, conveniences, economies—all available today to Alabama homes at lower prices than ever before.



This chart shows step downs in Alabama's average domestic electric rates since 1926.

Notice To Farmers Interested In Bees

By C. E. Stapp, County Agent

Last week I mailed out a circular letter seeking certain information that if given will enable me to render greater service to the farmers of Chilton county. In that circular I failed to ask for the names of those interested in bees. I would like to have the names of the farmers in the County who are interested in bees. I do not know anything about the care and handling of bees myself, but we have a man in our department in Auburn who has made a close study of bees. I have written to him asking that he give us a day in Chilton County sometime soon. If you are interested or know of anyone who is interested in bees, let me have your name or the names of the ones who are interested and I will advise you when our bee specialist is to be in the county. Even tho I have always been afraid of bees and never have learned much about them, I realize there are lots of people in the county who do know quite a bit about them and would like to know more. Therefore, I am calling our bee specialist into the county for a meeting for those who are interested in order that they might exchange ideas with each other and get the latest ideas from the specialist.

Garden Contest Ends

The garden contest ended last week with George Knight and Lindsey Draper getting first and second prize, respectively. The gardens, as a whole, were very good ones. They were handicapped the early part of the spring by continued rains and have been handicapped for the last month by drought.

Jessie Walter Benjamin, Robert Coker and Frank Dickerson started out in the early spring as though they were going somewhere, and they had attractive gardens, but they failed to continue the planting of late crops. Arthur Lee Oden is to be commended for such a good showing after getting a late start.

Another garden contest will be sponsored very soon for fall and winter gardens. I shall say more about it later.

I am very grateful to Mattie B. Wilson, Leila C. Woods and Ruby McCall, judges, for the splendid way in which they handled the affair. Some of our people never get tired of working. They always serve with pleasure.

No Trips In July

A letter from the State Department of Education advised me that the N. F. A. Conference had been postponed until fall, due to the lack of funds. As you know, we teachers have been getting a promise of pay for a long time, and it appears that they have stopped that now. So Lord have mercy upon us and keep the drug, grocery and gas men from us. We will go in the fall just the same.

Big Day On The Fourth

I am sure that you have heard about it by now. If you haven't, you will. Anything you want will be on sale and many extra attractions such as hog calling, cow calling, cake eating, broad jumps, high jumps, etc. Prizes will be offered to the winners. Yes, and ball games all day. You must not miss this "Big Day."

A Letter of Confession

I ran across a letter the other day. It read as if the writer were in serious trouble. The letter reads in part: "Now, Mr. Taylor, you white people are our only dependers, we have to do as you all say do when you tell us. Of course I am sure you all know I was arrested for whiskey and resisting officers in the month of Jan. Mr. Rowland, I was drinking and the devil and that whiskey told me to fight the law. Now I could have gotten killed. I pray that you good white people forgive me. I won't do that any more. The devil has been leading me for the last years until he led me down here. I pray that when I am a free man I will leave him down here." I wish I had space for the entire letter. There is a mighty good lesson in it for us all. Is it not well that we stop and think before we act? It's three ways to reach a conclusion, namely: (1) guess at it, (2) ask somebody, (3) weigh the facts in the case carefully yourself. Too many of us are using the first method when we should be using the latter.

Let us not go heedless into trouble and then cry for help, but steady ourselves that we will not be lured by petty illusions. Then, if fate should deal us unhappily, our friends will come to us and willingly give aid.

Several quartets were enjoyed by the class and visitors. Two were given by Prof. Hiten, Houston Robinson, Dewey Hughes and Wayne Hiten of Verbena. Two others were given by Archie Jones, I. D. Huett, A. M. Jones of Corinth and Edward Jones of Prattville.

The society was greatly encouraged by the presence and singing of the visitors from the various communities and we should all like to say, "Come again."

An announcement of interest to every member of the society was given by Mr. W. A. Jones. That announcement was that Prof. I. D. Huett, who taught a very successful singing school at Corinth last summer, will begin another there on the second Monday in July, 1933.

The society will meet again the 4th Sunday, June 25th, at Shady Grove. Come all and help us have another great time of singing.

IN MEMORY OF HAZEL CHRISTINE FLOURNOY

It was on Tuesday night, June 6, 1933, the death angel took from us Hazel Christine. All rays of sunshine seem to have fled, leaving only sadness and darkness and yet we realize that our loss, that seems too great to bear, is only God's gain.

She was only 23 months old and loved by every one that saw her. Her illness was brief. She was given by God for only a short while on this earth, but she leaves a vacant place that never can be filled. Although our grief seems so hard to bear, we realize that all we can do is to live and try to meet her on heaven's shore.

She leaves father, mother, a little sister, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn for her.

"Sleep on Hazel Christine
And take your rest.
God called you home—
He knew it was best."

—By an Aunt.

A New Deal For Liver Sufferers

Don't be misled any longer. Calomel, salts, oils, mineral waters, laxative pills, herb teas, powders, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile food doesn't digest properly—it just ferments and decays—Constipation, gas, sour stomach, headaches and nervousness follow.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of their effect—You feel stronger, healthier, happier—life and color return to faded eyes and cheeks—appetite and digestion improve rapidly.

WHEREAS, the said session of the Legislature at which the said amendment was proposed finally adjourned on Friday, April 14, 1933, and the first Tuesday after three months from and after the said final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature is Tuesday, July 18, 1933, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by a proclamation of the Governor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Lance Franklin Gives The "Inside"

Fort McClellan, Ala.

Gee! Folks I was having a good time this evening sitting here and listening to the falling rain as it hit my tent about two feet from my head. You see my bunk is in one corner of the tent and I use it as my chair and bed. Now, here is what happened: I remembered that Lieut. Walters said that in case a rain came up to always loosen the ropes of our tent or they would get wet and shrink and tear our tent. Just at that thought I reached for my corner line and it was already tightening, so on went my rain coat and out I went to loosen my corner line. Well, it was soon over and I went back and went to bed—I mean to "bunk". Yeah, those bunks sure do sleep good, because there is no one to uncover you at night.

Well, folks, I told you a part of our daily routine last week, and this week I want to add some more and then what we do on certain days and periods of the week. After roll call each morning the section foremen get their orders from the captain and go out on the detail for the day.

Well that "certain day" I was speaking about is Wednesday. Each Wednesday our tent is furled, that is, all the ropes are unfastened, with the exception of the four guy lines that are fastened to the tent cap. These lines support the tent whilt it is furled. The tent stays in this position until noon. Then they are unfurled and fastened back into their proper places, and those "periods" I mentioned are four days long and in these four days a squad serves out its sentence on K. P. (Kitchen Police), and as some of the C. C. C. boys have interpreted it "Keep Peeling" "Spuds". The K. P.'s job is to fill each boy's mess kit as he passes by the food in a line, and he also washes the dishes, tables and the wash pots. These pots are situated under a tent by the mess hall where the boys wash their mess kits after each meal. Those pots I was telling you about are three galvanized barrel-shaped pots, 40-gallon capacity each, and is the water hot when someone happens to splash a little on your hand in their hurry to get in formation for roll call! Well, I wouldn't ask you that.

Folks, you remember last week I told you R. Q. Jarrett was our company barber. Well. now listen, he is a special duty man and wears a yellow insignia on his cap, but now that isn't what I want to tell you. He is not out on any detail; but he sure does catch it after the boys come in from work each day, and folks he sure does look "funny" when he is fortunate enough to finish cutting a guy's hair and thinks maybe he will get to rest a bit, when here come two or three hollering for a hair cut.

And is Samuel Morris a popular guy up here about mail time? Gee! I'll say he is. Now here is what Samuel does each day at ten o'clock: He rushes over to the post office and get's 470's mail, then back to the orderly tent and gets the roll, and sees where each letter is supposed to go; then he marks the tent number on the letter and he is ready to distribute the mail through the company, and folks, you can bet he takes care of each boy's mail, because he won't let anyone have your mail except the one it belongs to.

Friends, here are a few terms that are heard every day in this camp: "Say, buddy, how long is that 'chow' line?" "Say, pal, save me a place in the 'chow' line." "Give me a light, I'm out of matches, hurry up with that short." "My goodness, how long is it until 'chow' time?" "It's five o'clock, there goes the cannon." "Hey fellow, where ye from? Mississippi. Well, ye ain't no good. Say, pal, where are you from? Alabama. Fine, shake then."

Well folks I will be going this time, but I'll let you hear from me from time to time. Now, listen, I want to add this to my letter: I wouldn't leave here if a hornet nest, or a bee gum were to get after me. No, sir, not any of us, and I say we like this camp life better and better each week. I'm staying the six months and reenlisting if I can.

Could you lend me a Dime?

NO ONE would think of running across to a neighbor several times a day to ask, "Could you lend me a dime, please?"

Of course, borrowing the use of a neighbor's telephone is not exactly like borrowing money, because it doesn't cost your neighbor anything extra for your call except the interruption or possible inconvenience.

It is also true that neighbors may borrow freely from each other and remain friendly, so long as each is careful to return the loan in full measure. When you borrow the use of a telephone you are getting something you can't return, and in this way, too, borrowing telephone service is different from borrowing money.

The very fact that you have to borrow your neighbor's telephone shows you really ought to have one of your own.

When you stop to think of the convenience, comfort and satisfaction of mind that a telephone provides, you will probably agree that in trying to do without a telephone you are sacrificing too much for the few pennies saved. Why wait longer? Order your telephone today.

LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS

We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high.

But we do sell a high quality car at a low price.

Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference.

The reason for this is simple: — a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy.

But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years.

Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality:

1. Volume Production
2. Taking only one profit

First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales.

Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy.

There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car.

Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy.

Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one.

It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it.

Pastor Lauds Work Of Luther E. Little

firmly set on something worthwhile.

When Mr. Little was attending Howard College he worked at the Boys' Industrial School in Birmingham as book-keeper and buyer. He also was a commissioned officer. He had complete charge of the buying and the books and did it splendidly. He served many times as an officer in returning runaway boys to the school. He held the complete confidence and admiration of all connected with the school. Besides doing his duties at the Boys' School he met his classes at Howard College and stood at the head of them. I worked with him at the Boys' School and often wondered how he was able to do so much work and make such good grades in college.

Mr. Little has unusual ability and judgment of a person many years his senior. He applies his best to whatever he puts his hand to.

While Mr. Little is a comparatively young man I feel as the majority in Chilton County feel, I'm sure, that we need a man with the insight and ability of Mr. Little. The young man is having a better chance to-day and is making good where older ones have failed. Mr. Little deserves an opportunity to go higher and show the people of Chilton what he can do. I'm asking my many friends in Chilton County to vote for Mr. Little and at the same time assuring them that they will never regret it but will be proud to point him out as "Our Superintendent of Education."

Yours for Chilton's success,
G. S. SORRELL.
Pastor; Ashville, Ala., Baptist Church.

UPWARD TREND

cle Shoals project assured, business in Alabama and Tennessee has taken on new life and again smoke is belching from the flues of steel and iron factories in northern Alabama.

Many employes have been recalled to their old jobs with Birmingham industries. Railroads in this section, and throughout the country, report increased business for the period since "the New Deal" went into effect.

With cotton, the financial barometer of the South, above nine cents, business men in this section have every reason to anticipate this the best business year since the 1929 slump sent prices tobogganing.

That they realize this and are willing to cooperate in the advancement of the Democratic program for the restoration of prosperity is evidenced by reports from local business men of enlarged programs for this year. Two new stores have been opened by the V. J. Elmore chain of 5c, 10c and $1 Stores throughout this section of Alabama. The new stores, opened last Saturday, are located at Athens and Hartselle—in the heart of the Tennessee Valley project.

Reedie Taylor, manager of the Chicago Sales Company, in Clanton, reports that for the past five Saturdays the store has employed twenty clerks and were unable to wait on the increased trade.

Another Clanton firm reported a $10,000 cash business for last week, and officials of the firm declared that they anticipate a half-million dollar business during 1933. Other Clanton firms are equally optimistic of the future and declare themselves wholly behind President Roosevelt and his Democrats.

Mr. Elmore stated "Our business has shown a nice increase over a corresponding period for last year." This, he said, applies to almost every store in his chain.

Canning outfits for the four commissioners' districts have been purchased for use in the extensive canning program planned by the relief oragnization and the county home demonstration agent's office. Cans will be furnished by the R. F. C. it was explained. It is hoped through this food preservation program that provisions may be made for the immediate food needs of most destitute families in the county this Winter.

MISS ETHEL POWELL DIED IN BIRMINGHAM RECENTLY

Funeral services for Miss Ethel Powell, 23, who died last Thursday night at a Birmingham hospital, where she had undergone an operation, were held Friday afternoon from the Providence Baptist church and burial was in the Providence cemetery, near her childhood home. Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, conducted the services.

Miss Powell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Powell of Clanton. She is survived by her parents and several brothers and sisters. Martin & Sons were in charge.

Letters To The Editor

ON THE INCOME TAX

Editor, Chilton County News:

It is pleasing in this time of depression to see many people getting their taxes reduced on homes and farms. An ad valorem tax has always been a chief source of revenue in this country. This tax has worked a hardship on people in times of depression. Many farmers with practically no income have to pay the same amount of taxes as they did when their farm produce brought them a profit, which is not equitable.

A limited tax on a man according to his income is a fair method of taxation.

The income tax amendment to be voted on July 18 will not work a hardship on anyone. This amendment does not tax a man before affording him a luxurious living. A man and his wife are allowed a net income of $3000.00 before he is taxed one penny. In addition, he is allowed 300.00 exemption for each dependent under 18 years of age. Regardless of the amount of income he may make, the rate is never more than five per cent. It seems to me the person who does not favor this amendment, would be in the capitalist class and is not willing to share his part of the tax burden. The amendment itself states how the money shall be spent. It is to go to pay the floating indebtedness of Alabama, after which, will go to lower ad valorem taxes.

The floating indebtedness of Alabama consists largely of warrants which were given to teachers, contractors and others for services rendered mainly to the school children in the State of Alabama. Teachers have suffered a reduction in salary, a shortage of term and in addition accepted these warrants in good faith. These warrants as they are today, cannot be cashed at the banks, nor will they be accepted in payment of taxes.

The Warrant Act to be voted on July 18, if passed, will make the above warrants interest bearing and negotiable. This would stimulate business as the warrants would then have a greater value. These warrants were issued in good faith, and within the law, for whole-hearted services rendered to the State. However, there is a provision in the Warrant Act that prevent the offcals of the State from ever letting this occur again. To issue a warrant without money in the treasury to pay it is now punishable by law, as much as two years in the penitentiary or $5,000.00 fine or both. This law was passed by the legislature in 1932. The Warrant Act if passed will make this law a part of the constitution of the State of Alabama and thereby prevent any future legislature from repealing this law.

J. P. MONTGOMERY.

CAN THIS BE CALLED SHOWING PARTIALITY?

June 13, 1933.

Editor, Chilton County News:

It is rumored that Judge Reynold's Executive Committee of the R. F. C. met recently for the purpose of cutting overhead expenses and did cut out some employees and cut down salaries of others but not all.

One $85.00 per month man and a fifty dollar man whose duties, so report has it, are very small—were left severely alone. Maybe they have a "pull" that defied this Ex. Com.

May be they are among the bunch that were glad to have the democrats vote for the R. F. C. loan but after the election entered strong protests when any except "our crowd" were favored.

Another rumor that Judge Reynolds has diverted all the road funds to the drainage of the Clanton swamps.

Of course any informed person knows that the "King Fish" has no control over disbursements of the tax money but may be the Judge might tell us "Hill Billies" something about it provided he cares to do so. Personally I prefer the drainage to the waste on the roads.

Yours truly,
H. B. OLIVER.

REV. J. T. NELSON WILL SPEAK HERE SUNDAY

In response to the request of various parties, Rev. J. T. Nelson, who was 100 years old last January, will speak at the courthouse at 2 p.m., Sunday, June 18, on "Reminiscences of the Civil War," and other things of interest in the 60's and 70's.

All are urged to attend, and especially are young people urged to come and hear the ways of a past generation, after which they would do well to pattern. Everybody should hear to what he attributes his long life.

Messrs. J. N. Scott, W. H. Conway, J. D. Hedgpeth, J. E. Cobb, C. C. Conway and others have been requested to come and aid in furnishing songs for the occasion. Everyone who can sing in the sacred Harp is urged to come and help in the singing.

Very few people have ever had the opportunity of hearing a talk made by a man over 100 years old. This meeting next Sunday will afford you a privilege you have never before been able to enjoy and one which you will perhaps never have again.

LITTLE IS WINNER OVER BEAN

FIELD WORKER FOR REPEAL IS VISITOR HERE

Comments On Attitude Of People In Trips Over Alabama

After a tour of many counties in the State in the interest of repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Miss Myrtle Miles, field worker for the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, visited Clanton during the week end.

"We feel confident that the people of Alabama will vote for repeal," said Miss Miles. "Certainly it has become evident to all that the present system is a failure and that remedial effort must be made at once, both for moral and economic reasons. Thirteen years is long enough to test out any theory. We have given the so-called 'noble experiment' that long to prove its worth, and today it is perfectly plain that liquor is more widely sold and consumed than during the first years of prohibition.

"During my recent tour I visited counties along the Tennessee border. Throughout that region people who formerly doubted the wisdom of repeal are daily joining our ranks. They have seen with their own eyes, hundreds of persons motoring to Tennessee to pur-

SHRINERS TO BE GIVEN DANCE IN MONTGOMERY

Mr. H. T. Pipes informs the News that there will be a dance given by the Shriners, to be held in Montgomery tonight (Thursday) at the Whitley Hotel at eight o'clock.

This entertainment is being given honoring uniformed bodies, the entertainers and workers who assisted in making a great success of the "Country Fair."

Mr. Pipes stated that all Shriners, regardless of the Temple affiliated, are invited, and the invitation stated that the only admission credentials necessary will be "wear your Fez and a smile."

CULVER & JONES STORE DISSOLVES PARTNERSHIP

The Culver & Jones I. G. A. Store in Clanton is now under the management of Mr. Mack C. Culver, who recently purchased the interest in the store owned by Mr. W. W. (Bud) Jones. This partnership has existed for many years and this store has grown popular over the entire county as one of the best known grocery stores in the county.

The two men operating Culver & Jones are widely known and while Mr. Jones will not be connected with the store any longer, he will continue to furnish the meat market there with the same choice meats as in the past.

Since this popular store moved into its present new and modern location, it has continually grown and found it necessary to increase its corps of workers. In the future it will be known as Culver's I. G. A. Store and will continue to handle the complete and fresh line of groceries and meats of all kinds.

RESIDENT OF THORSBY IS TRAIN VICTIM

Funeral Services For Mrs. Bob Martin Were Held Last Sunday

Struck by a northbound freight train at the upper crossing in Thorsby, Saturday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock, Mrs. Martha L. Allen Martin, 62, wife of Bob Martin, was instantly killed.

Evidently not hearing the approaching train, Mrs. Martin was said by witnesses to have stepped on to the track when the onrushing train was only a short distance from the crossing. Her body was hurled about 20 feet into the air and her neck and both legs were broken.

Mrs. Martin was returning to her home two miles north of Thorsby when the accident occurred. She had visited her daughter, Miss Myradine Martin, at a Thorsby store where she is employed and had started to her home, when she was killed.

She was prominently known in the Thorsby community, having lived there

Little Expresses Thanks To Voters

Following is a statement given the News by Prof. Luther E. Little, the new superintendent of education:

I wish to take this opportunity of expressing to the entire County my sincere appreciation of the honor given to me in the election Tuesday. I know of no words that can possibly express my real feelings of gratitude to every man, woman and child that made my election possible and real. I only trust that my actions while serving as an humble servant of your schools may speak for me.

I wish to request every individual of the county to join together in an attempt to make our school program a success, and to do so in spite of the adverse conditions which we have been having, and which are sure to remain with us for some time to come.

May I again express my thanks to every one who made possible my election, and once again assure each and every one of you who supported my opponent, that your help is solicited, and that your problems and your interest in school matters shall have exactly the same consideration as is given to those who saw fit to support me in the race.

JUDGE TATE HERE WEDNESDAY TO HEAR MOTION DOCKET

Circuit Judge F. Loyd Tate was in Clanton Wednesday, hearing a motion docket and attending to other court business. He stated that the regular July non-jury session will be held July 17 and 18.

Congratulations To Mr. Little And Chilton County

The people of Chilton County are to be congratulated on their selection of Luther E. Little as superintendent of education. They have selected a man who fills every qualification to hold such an office. A man of high ideals, minus petty politics, and a man who will work his best toward the interest of our schools and our children.

In placing Mr. Little in this office, the people of Chilton County have taken a very progressive step. Progressive because Mr. Little is the type of man found to be in line with the program of the President of the United States. Progressive because Mr. Little is a man who is well informed and keeps himself so, being able to cope with changing conditions of these modern times.

Mr. Little is also to be congratulated on having the people of Chilton County select him as their superintendent of education. CHANGE UP IN OWNERSHIP OF LOCAL STORE

New Dry Goods Store To Be Opened In Clanton By Reedie Taylor

The past week brought a change-up in the ownership of the widely known Chicago Sales Co., one of Clanton's large dry goods stores.

This store formerly under the management of Mr. Reedie Taylor, will now be under the ownership of Messrs. Roland Taylor and Tom Taylor, two prominent and successful business men of this county. Roland Taylor recently purchased the interest in this store of Reedie Taylor, who was in partnership with Tom Taylor.

There will be no change in the name of the firm and it will continue to handle its large and complete stock of dry goods and clothing.

In making this change, Reedie Taylor who has for several years been manager of the store, announces that he will open another place of business about August 1st. This new store will occupy the building formerly occupied by the Robinson Department Store, which is on main street, and across from the Chicago Sales Co. Mr. Taylor stated that he will carry a large and complete line of dry goods, shoes, notions and clothing of all kinds. During the past several years he has made a name for himself in the dry goods business in Chilton county, having managed one of the largest stores here. The announcement that he will continue to be in business in Clanton will meet with approval from his many friends.

The Leader Urges People To Buy Now

Being connected in business as he is, in touch with markets, there are few men who are able to speak knowingly about prices on dry goods and clothing as is Mr. M. Lande, proprietor of The Leader, in Clanton.

In commenting on prices on dry goods and clothing, Mr. Lande stated that the wise person will buy all possible now, and especially needed articles, as prices have already started a sharp upward turn.

Mr. Lande also stated that he is pleased to announce he reached the clothing markets in time to take advantage of low prices before the rise took effect and is able to pass on to the people of this section, these savings. The Leader has just received a shipment of 1200 pairs of Star Brand shoes, and a quantity of other goods. Keep up with The Leader's low prices in their advertisements.

The program of the Kiwanis Club for Thursday evening was in charge of Mr. Earl Thomas of the Isabella community, who is chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the club. Some of the principal features of the program for the evening were: A talk by Miss Pardue, county home demonstration agent, on home demonstration work in Chilton County, and a talk by Clifford Manning, president of the 4-H clubs of the county, on what the 4-H club boys are doing in the county and their program for the year.

James and R. C. Veazey, sons of Mr. Bob Veazey of Isabella community, rendered several entertaining musical numbers on the violin and mandolin for the occasion. Mr. Thomas presented the Agricultural Program for the year, and the club voted unanimously to give it their hearty support. Mr. Thomas' program included assistance of the club in sponsoring the county-wide picnic of July 21, which is to be held at Popwell Woods, in front of Roswell's tourist camp on the Birmingham - Montgomery highway about three miles south of Clanton. The club appointed Dr. C. O. Lawrence and Representative Percy M. Pitts on a committee with County Agent C. E. Stapp and Miss Pardue to work out a program for the July 21 picnic.

Other projects which the Agricultural program recommended for the club to sponsor were the 4-H club work, the soil improvement program, home demonstration work and visits to sub-experiment stations.

Mr. C. E. Stapp, secretary of the club, summarized the projects adopted at the previous meeting which included work for control of communicable diseases in the county, encouragement of Boy Scout activities and plans for locating an aviation field at Clanton. The program for the control of communicable diseases is to be worked out by Drs. C. O. Lawrence and V. J. Gragg. Plans for the location of the aviation field are to be worked out by a committee composed of Mr. W. M. Wyatt, president of the club, Dr. V. J. Gragg and Mr. Sam Powers, who are to work together with the American Legion.

There were thirteen members present at the meeting.

HOSPITAL OFFICERS RE-ELECTED AT STOCKHOLDERS MEETING

Local Institution Has Fine Financial Report And Is Praised For Progress By Auditor Here Recently

The annual meeting of the stockholders of Central Alabama Hospital was held at the hospital building in Clanton Monday morning.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. V. J. Gragg, president of the institution. In his report of the business operations of the hospital for the past year Dr. Gragg brought to the attention of the stockholders a number of very important and interesting facts and figures.

The basis of his remarks was the report of Mr. Carl Gumpf, auditor of the hospital business for the period of March 1, 1932 to March 1, 1933. The following quotations from the report of the auditor were made and discussed by Dr. Gragg:

"I am glad to report that this period shows a decided improvement over the previous year, and shows a cash gain of $319.75, together with about $900 unpaid accounts for hospital service furnished during the year.

"This splendid showing, in spite of the depression, is brought about by the splendid management of yourself (Dr. Gragg) and the superintendent, Miss Grace Robinson. You have cut expenses to the bone and you have not only paid your running expenses but have paid on old debts and in addition kept your interest payments up and paid $146.48 on your mortagages.

"I am always impresed at each visit, of the great amount of good your institution is doing, and the amount of charity work you have done, amounting to thousands of dollars during the last eight years.

"That your county and city do not give your institution financial assistance in this matter of charity work, which properly comes wthin their duty, is something that can not be understood, and is to be deplored.

"Recognizing the great work you are doing, I have gladly contributed my time this year, and I trust that your directors may be able to obtain some kind of appropriation for this most worthy institution."

These words from Mr. Gumpf gave great encouragement to the stockholders who were present. They authorized the board of directors to follow up the

Get Acquainted With Amendments

On July 18th there will be an election held in the State of Alabama to get the opinion of the voters of the State on Constitutional amendments.

There is the question of the the repeal of the 18th Amendment; the income tax; the amendment giving authority to the legislature to reduce salaries of state and county officers and the amendment to validate nearly twenty million dollars in state debts. The outcome of this election on Tuesday, July 18th, will have a great deal to do with the future of the State of Alabama.

The people of Alabama have plenty of time to get acquainted with these amendments to their Constitution, and serious thought should be given them before votes are cast for or against.

Time To Start Again

We are over another election in Chilton County, and just around the corner is another one. On Tuesday, July 18th, comes a state election on constitutional amendments and we are to have the opportunity of saying yes or no to these amendments.

It has been said that in elections where such questions as these come up, half the people really don't know just exactly what they are voting on. Let's not have this occur here this time. Let's read up on these amendments, inquire about them, talk about them.

A Revolution In Policy

The Administration's railroad program lays especial stress on lessening railroad operating costs by eliminating duplication of service, and consolidating lines serving more or less the same area.

A step of this kind will doubtless do much. But along with it there must be a program to solve the greatest of all railroad problems—inequitable competition from other forms of commercial transport. There are three such forms of importance:

First, the trucks, which, operating on the public highways, and being comparatively free from regulation, have been able on certain classes and hauls to cut rates of the railroads, which must pay heavy taxes, build and maintain their own rights of way, and are subjected to severe Federal regulation.

Second, the busses, which have had similar effect on the railroad passenger business, and for similar reasons.

Third, the waterways, which are built and subsidized by the government. Low rates are made possible by the fact that the user of the waterway pays but part—and sometimes a small part—of the cost of transporting his goods. Any balance is passed on to the taxpayers in the form of a deficit which is paid out of the public treasury.

There is, of course, more to the railroad problem than this, but few will deny that government-subsidized, half-regulated competition is gradually throttling the life of our greatest single industry. In the interest of the worker, the investor, the farmer, and business in general, there must be a revolution in our transportation policy.

Teach Safe Driving In High Schools

The automobile driver of tomorrow is the high school student of today. This driver of the future should be a careful, courteous and conscientious motorist, mindful of the rights of all others and thoroughly informed as to traffic laws and regulations.

That is why high school motor clubs are multiplying rapidly in the United States. Several hundred such organizations are actively at work.

,now is the ... now is the ,,,,,, now now is the time for all

High school automobile clubs have three basic functions: First, the teaching of safe driving principles; second, accurate mechanical information; and third, education in state, local and municipal laws and ordinances. In this program police departments, automobile manufacturers, insurance companies and all others interested in traffic safety, are always ready to lend a hand to provide demonstrations, speakers, lecture courses, booklets, pamphlets and other material.

Statistics for 1932 show that 11,960 drivers under 18 were involved in accidents, although few states permit youngsters of that age to handle a car alone in public.

There is no better place to instil the principles of any subject than in a school, Carpentry is taught in schools, but more boys will drive automobiles than will work at a bench. Girls will drive more frequently than they will cook, but cooking is taught in modern schools.

The high school automobile club provides safety education. It is no expense to the schools. Nothing is spent but the willingly contributed time of the safety agencies.

School authorities planning for their fall courses would do well to investigate the motor driving club plan, and encourage its establishment. If further information is desired, the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, One Park Avenue, New York City, offers to supply it.

Something Else To Think About

We don't want to be troublesome about little matters, but we know of a little matter that is a big matter with us. That is subscriptions to the News. Along about this time of year there are several subscriptions that are expiring, and we just want to remind these subscribers that we would like for them to drop in the office sometime soon and see about it.

To Thorsby On The Fourth

Flags will be flying, automobiles will be gayly decorated and business on the hum, on the Fourth of July in Thorsby, if plans that are now underway are carried out. And the News does not doubt that they will be carried out in true form.

Thorsby is to be congratulated on taking a step like having a big Fourth of July celebration. Those attending this celebration next month may be assured that Thorsby will do the thing up right, because doesn't Thorsby always do things right?

Of course the News has a soft spot for Thorsby and expects to be represented at the celebration, because the editor remembers that his first play-days were in Thorsby.

$750 Gone Up In Smoke

A Crenshaw county farmer last week went to Brantley to sell cotton. While he was gone his residence and the smokehouse full of meat burned to the ground. The news item which gave the information did not state whether or not the farmer was protected by insurance.

But the news item did state that he had $750 in paper money in his house, and every cent of it was destroyed by fire. Even if the house and smokehouse were insured, the paper money was certainly not insured; for no insurance company in the world insures hidden or hoarded money.

Money insurance is the only insurance in the world that does not cost a cent, and yet pays a dividend. The bank is money insurance.

This Crenshaw county farmer lived within a short distance of a safe, strong, sound bank—a bank under U. S. Government supervision, with Uncle Sam's guarantee behind it—and he kept his money in the house, where fire destroyed it.

The farmer was selling cotton at the time of the fire. The money he received from the sale of the cotton would also have been lost if it had been hidden in the house, but now it will have to be used to replace the residence and furnishings, the storehouse and meat. The $750 is gone forever.

How easy it is to insure money! How expensive it is to fail to insure it.

Just An After-Thought

In commenting on Clanton's new traffic light last week, we failed to bring to mind that we might be found to fail to stop when the light was on the red, and how embarrassing it would be to have to dig out a dollar or more as a fine.

As an after-thought, maybe we shouldn't have been so insistent that it be enforced so soon, as we find that we have not yet grown accustomed to the light being where it is.

On Escaping Revenue

A gentleman who operates a filling station and lunch room on the Alabama-Florida line gives us some interesting figures regarding his beer sales.

Since Florida legalized the beverage on May 9, he has sold approximately 600 cases of beer, or an average of 20 cases a day. He has paid the state of Florida 18 cents a case tax, which amounts to $108. His federal license is $20, state license, 27, and county license, $13.50.

Thus he has paid in taxes and licenses during the first month of operation $168.50.

He does not believe that he can continue to sell 20 cases a day, as the price is a bit too high. But it is significant to note that 98 per cent of his customers are Alabamians.

The brewery charges $2.63 a case for a popular brand. The wholesaler passes it to the retailer for $3.20 a case, and when the consumer consumes a bottle it costs him 20 cents each.

This gentleman stated that, if Alabama legalized beer, we should not make the same mistake that Florida made in forcing the retailer to buy from the wholesaler and permitting the wholesaler to charge as much as he thinks the traffic will stand. The Florida law prohibits a retailer from buying direct from the brewery—he must buy from the wholesaler and pay as much as $3.20 a case, and then pay the freight or truck charges for delivering it to him.

The place under discussion is merely one of hundreds on the Florida and Tennessee lines. And only a small amount of imagination is required to see where and how much Alabama tax money is going. The money, of course, should be kept in this state. It is unanimously agreed that the state needs it. — Dothan Eagle.

Ways Of Economizing

There are more ways of economizing in county and state government than by cutting off every worthwhile activity. In the first place, many boards, commissions and departments can be consolidated. Many employes could be removed without much loss. Many sinecures could be dispensed with, less salaries could be paid in many cases, there could be less printing and propaganda at the expense of the state, less duplication. In other words, there could be more efficiency and less waste and much less politics and favoritism. — Haleyville Advertiser-Journal.

o-o-o-o

It is not too early to begin thinking about who will be chosen to serve in state and county offices next year. The primary election is now less than a year off. Our hope that the state and county will be able to share fully in the New Deal that is now being offered to the country at large, is that men who know the meaning of the New Deal and believe in it shall be elected next year to serve in state and county offices, all the way from governor down. —Shelby County Reporter.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I saw a father who was a noted ball player as he played ball with his six-year-old son. That father did not throw the ball with the same force that he did when he was on the diamond in a contest game. He knew the strength and the skill of the lad and he gently threw the ball over to him so that he could catch and hold it. It was beautiful to witness the gentle manner in which the strong man dealt with the learning lad. The teacher who learns the fine art of gentleness will be able to approach and lead the timid pupil to deeper learning. The gentle wife can coax and win the confidence of the squirrel until it will come and eat from her hands. Gentleness is a noble virtue. It is the crowning grace of human life. Just try being gentle to people, animals and things and see how quickly they will be at your feet in devotion.

While I was in a home the five-year-old boy brought out his new wagon that his pastor might see it. I ventured to ask, "Son, what do you do with your wagon?" The lad replied, "Why, I keep it on the back porch, and I keep all the other boys from touching it." That boy was proud of his wagon, but he refused to use it himself, and he would not let other boys use or abuse it. In my rounds among the churches I have found many church members who assumed the same attitude toward their church and toward the gospel of Jesus Christ. They were proud of their denomination and proud of their faith, but they kept both as a relic. They did not use their possession and they would fight like a tiger if anyone abused their fiath. It is all right to have a wagon, but use it. It is all right to be a member of some church and to be orthodox in faith, but use your possession. It is better to put our faith into use than to park it as a thing of beauty.

The owner of a hothouse was showing me through his building and many were the flowers that I saw. Finally we came to a darker room, and I was shown a long line of pots. In these pots were many bulbs that would not germinate so well in the light, and they were placed in a dark room. Our life is just like that flowerhouse. There are many beautiful things that belong to character and life that will germinate in the warmth and in the sunshine, but there are still many other things that beautify our characters that will only germinate in the dark. Out of our sorrows and shadows we are sending out life giving roots that will bloom in beauty in the years that are to come.

I saw a mocking bird sitting on a limb that was badly decayed. I could see that the limb was trembling under the weight of the bird, and I could not refrain from shouting to the feathered songster, "Look out little bird, you are in danger on that limb." She seemed to laugh at my anxiety and leaped up into the air and then settled back on the limb, and all but bursted her throat with a song. She seemed to say, "What care I for the dead limb and danger for I have wings." That limb could break beneath her, but she was safe for she had wings. When our soul, like that bird, has wings, we can take sweet rest on things that will break beneath us. Let us shout and sing even when the body is trembling and all but ready to break for we have wings.

On the plantation of my childhood there were two bodies of water. One was a stagnant pool. The waters came down from the surrounding hills and the pool swallowed them up and gave nothing out. Soon those waters were filled with slimy, creeping things and death and disease went out from its bosom. The other body of water was a boiling spring. It too received its supply from the hills above, but it gave itself in a cool flowing stream for man and beast. It laughed its way between the hills and on each side of its path there was life and refreshment, and all because it gave itself to others. Alike, the selfish and the unselfish man draws his supply of life from above. How are you disposing of the blessings of your life as they flow down from the hills on high?

HAZEL CHRISTINE FLOURNOY

On June 6, 1933, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Flournoy and took from them their loving little girl, Christine. Christine was sick only a few days. All that could be done for her was done, but God said, "I love you best, little Christine, come home and be with me forevermore." And she sweetly went away to be with God and our other loved ones gone on before. Christine was two years of age. She had a sweet disposition, and to know her was to love her.

We loved our little Christine—nobody knows; but all we can do is to live and meet her on that blissful shore, where all our hardships and heartaches will cease and be joy forevermere.

IN MEMORY

On May 12, 1933, the death angel visited our home, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ray, and took from us a loving son and brother, Leroy. Little Brother was sick only three weeks. All that kind doctors and loving hands could do was done. But God said I need you little Leroy, and he smiled and left this world of sorrow to be with Jesus forevermore in that beautiful home where sorrow is unknown. If Leroy could only know and say, I am sure he would say, weep not dear mother and daddy, and sisters, I am only sleeping; be good and teach little brothers and little sister so that you all may meet me on that blissful shore where all your heartaches will cease and be happy forevermore.

But Oh! How sad it was when he kissed us 'bye, and told us he was going to his brother who had gone on before. Little brother was almost thirteen years of age and awful small. It seemed that he suffered more than his part. We loved our dear little brother—no human tongue can tell. We said good-bye for a little while, but we didn't say farewell.

His little body was laid before us, not many days ago, but O, my heart is aching. I'd love to see him now, but still I feel it sure, he's an angel in heaven for aye.

May God help us to meet him in that sweet by and by.

We greatly thank the good people of this community, especially Dr. Franklin of Thorsby, for their kindness and help in the sickness and death of our son and brother.

A Sister Who Loved Him Dearly.

J. O. MIZE WRITES ABOUT TOMATOES IN TEXAS

Whitehouse, Texas, June 12, 1933.
From J. O. Mize, to all the Farmers of Chilton County, and especially to the County Agent, Mr. C. E. Stapp:

As many of you people back home know, Professor Daniels has entered the University of Texas, at Austin, Texas, for a special course that he could not get in Alabama. I came this far with him and I have learned a little about tomato raising that I think should be of special interest to all the farmers out there, as the soil there is so much better for tomatoes than it is here. I will give you a few figures that I have gathered:

One of my nephews, Mr. Richard Terry, has only three-fourths of an acre in tomatoes and has only picked them over twice. The first time he gathered 12 bushels and sold them for $23.20. Second picking, 17 bushels, $35.02; three bushels culls, 30c, making a total of $58.52. With favorable weather conditions, he will get three times that much more. Another man, whose name I do not recall, has only one acre and has already gotten $74.63 in cash for them. He has only got about one-third of the crop. I was present when the farmers were unloading their wagons and trucks. One man got $85.35 for his truckload, another man got $167.00 for his load. This is just a few figures that I am in possession of for tomatoes.

Here at this packing house they employ about 150 hands that consist of boys and girls here in the community. Boys and girls about 12 years old make about 10c per hour, and grown-ups make about 25c per hour, averaging from $3.00 to $5.00 per day during the season, and the seasons usually last from four to six weeks. It is wonderful to see them working. Now boys, I think the thing for you to do is to go see Mr. Stapp, pay his expenses out here and get him to make arrangements to get tomato raising going there. I would urge you to get him to come on at once while they are in a good way so that he may see just how it is all done, and teach you after he returns. I would suggest that Mr. Tobe Posey come with him for one, and then Mr. Stapp and Mr. Posey select two other men to come with them. They are loading about seven cars per day here now and they are getting from $500.00 to $700.00 per car.

This is paid in cash right here in a radius of 30 miles area. There are about 175 packing sheds. Now gentlemen, it will not cost you much to send Mr. Stapp over here. Professor Daniels and I traveled 626 miles. It cost us $6.23 for gas and nothing for oil.

The scenery at Vicksburg, Miss., is just wonderful. The statues of all the leading officers of the Civil War are mounted on their horses with their guns and bayonets, and everything just as it was in action during that great battle. Then the bridge across the river is 1.6 miles long, has a passway for people on foot, a railroad track and also the highway with plenty of room for two cars to run along side by side, so that is beautiful scenery also.

I will close now, hoping to see Mr. Stapp, Mr. Tobe Posey and anyone else that you wish to bring or send along, real soon. Inquire for Mrs. D. A. Terry, Whitehouse, Texas. I will be here for at least a month yet.

Cordially yours.

Insects

The number of species of insects has been estimated at 600,000, and the loss of various crops at from 5 to 10 per cent of their total value, thus making the losses from insects total nearly two billions of dollars, without including direct losses to humans from disease nor costs in controlling insects.

It is estimated that about half of our worst insect pests have been imported into this country. Most of them coming from Europe. From the standpoint of farm crops, some of the most important pests brought in accidentally are the European corn borer, the Hessian fly, the cotton boll weevil, the pink boll worm, the sugar cane borer, the alfalfa weevil, the pea weevil, and the angovnois grain moth. In some cases insects, in addition to causing direct loss, may carry diseases to plants; the aphids carry mosaic to the potato, sugar cane and tobacco; the leaf hoppers carry the curly leaf of beets and the Colorado potato beetles carry the wilt of the potato.

Nearly every day during the early seasons of the year a new kind of insect comes to the farmer as an enemy, and most of them bring along a disease to give to his plants for him to fight in order that the plants will produce. Still the prices of food that the farmer raises decrease nearly every day, because of the competition that is among the farmers and the complaint of the customers.

Topic for next week: "General Methods of Controlling Insects."

It is now in order to have a Senate investigation of President Roosevelt's "brain trust."

HIGH POINTS OF THE WARRANT ACT

1. The McDaniel Warrant Amendment proposes to refund outstanding and unsecured obligations of the state upon the ratification of the amendment by the qualified voters at a special election set for July 18.

2. The amount of this debt to be refunded is $16,943,357.12 plus $2,405,063.02 appropriated for the construction of new school and college buildings for which no warrants have been issued. The total of these two sums is $19,348,420.14.

3. If approved, the McDaniel Amendment would authorize the state to substitute five per cent interest bearing warrants for all outstanding, unsecured, and non-interest bearing warrants. All new warrants issued under the authority of the proposed amendment would be negotiable.

4. The interest would be payable semi-annually on the floating debt mentioned above, the first interest payment falling due on January 1, 1934.

5. The amendment further provides that the new warrants "shall be a direct obligation of the state". For a prompt and faithful retirement of which, including principal and interest, "the full faith and credit of the state is hereby irrevocably pledged". The new warrants are declared exempt from taxes.

6. To provide a sinking fund for the retirement and payment of interest, the net proceeds from any income tax which may be levied by the Legislature is pledged in full. This does not mean, however, that the McDaniel Law will fail to become effective if the income tax amendment is not approved.

7. The McDaniel amendment includes several provisions from the Budget and Finance Control Act (commonly called the Fletcher Bill). Upon its adoption, therefore, these provisions would be preserved in the state's constitution and could only be removed or changed by the submission of another constitutional amendment to the people. Included in the amendment are these provisions from the Fletcher Bill: (a) It shall be unlawful for the comptroller to issue any warrant unless there is money for its retirement in the treasury. (b) At the end of each fiscal year any existing deficit in the state treasury shall be prorated among the several state departments. The violation of this Act entails a penalty of a $5,000 fine or a two years in prison, or both. (c) At the end of any fiscal year unpaid appropriations in excess of the amount of money available for their retirement after the proration clause has been applied shall become null and void.

8. Other sections of the McDaniel Amendment deal with the proclamation and advertisement of the proposed amendment, calling of the election, the selection of the election officials, the canvassing and announcement of the returns of the election results.

This is reported by B. P. STANDARD OIL LABORATORIES DEVELOP NEW MOTOR-FUEL

Will be offered motorists on Saturday

Motorists throughout the South will be interested in the announcement by W. E. Smith, President of the Standard Oil Company Incorporated in Kentucky, at Louisville, that a brand-new type of motor fuel will be sold by Standard Oil Company dealers and service stations effective Saturday of this week.

This new motor fuel, which will be colored orange and marketed under the well known name of Crown Standard Gasoline, was developed in the Standard Oil Laboratories. It will be a more powerful fuel, with actual, added anti-knock properties, but will be sold at no additional cost.

In discussing this new product, Mr. Smith states: "We feel that the public is tired of the exaggerated claims that are making gasoline advertising so hard to believe. We make no extravagant claims for this new Crown Standard Gasoline. We merely state that it is a better fuel at regular price than has yet been made for the modern motor. We stand squarely back of Crown Standard Gasoline as such a fuel, and guarantee its smoother, more powerful performance. We say this fully aware of our responsibility to our many customers in making such a public statement."

EVERY COTTON SCALE IN ALABAMA TO BE TESTED

Every scale over which cotton is bought and sold in Alabama will be tested between now and the time cotton begins to move this fall, reports Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

The work of testing the scales has just started in southeast Alabama and will move northward until the entire State is covered, he said. It was started in South Alabama because cotton will begin to move from that section of the State first.

There are approximately 650 scales in Alabama over which cotton is bought and sold. H. S. Holloway, chief of the weights and measures division, will supervise the testing of these scales.

When scales are found to be incorrect they are condemned and are not permitted to be used until they are reworked and re-checked by the Department of Agriculture to see that they are correct.

"This work is done to insure fair and honest weight on every bale of cotton bought and sold in Alabama," Storrs said.

We had a fine preaching service Saturday night, though our crowd was not so large as it should have been. It was decided to change the date for our revival meeting from the first Sunday in August to the fifth Sunday in July, as that was the date on which Oak Hill Church had announced their meeting.

The young people of the community and the singers attended the singing at Collins Chapel Sunday afternoon.

On last Sunday night our B. Y. P. U. was visited by a group of young people from Pleasant Grove (west of Jemison). They gave us a program that was really worthwhile. This was rendered in three parts. The first part, "The Church That Christ Built," by Mr. Maurice Hodgens; second part, "Home Missions" by Miss Gwendolyn Clements; third part "Foreign Missions" by Miss Ada Rasco. We extend our thanks to these young people and assure them that we appreciated and enjoyed this service. It was rendered in a very appropriate and entertaining manner, and we are sure that Pleasant Grove church has cause to feel proud of these boys and girls. We ask them to come back and be with us again at any time convenient for them to do so.

Everybody keep in mind that the first Sunday in July will be our all-day singing date. Everyone invited.

Mr. Harry Martin and sister, Miss Lois Martin, of Birmingham, were visitors here Sunday.

MAN SHOT BY L & N OFFICER TUESDAY NIGHT

Alex Frasier, 39, a former employe of the L & N Railroad Company, was shot and seriously wounded, Tuesday night, by railroad detectives, when they declared they surprised him in the act of burglarizing a freight car in Clanton.

Hearing a noise while patroling the tracks, E. G. Ashley, special agent for the railroad company, and J. A. Nevins, night policeman, flashed a light on a box car, they declared, and Frasier was attempting to pry open the door with a bar. They said the man threw down the bar and ran up the track toward Clanton.

Calling to him to halt three times, Ashley opened fire, according to Nevins, and emptied his pistol at the fleeing man. Nevins stated that he fired his gun once, but shot straight up.

The officers overhauled the wounded man near the Wilson Hotel, about 150 yards from where they first opened fire on him. Frasier, the officers said, declared when they captured him, "You've got the wrong man."

Shot through the right side in the region of the kidney, the wounded man was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital, where physicians pronounced his condition very grave. Dr. Gragg stated that an operation may be necessary.

Frasier is alleged to have stated at the hospital that he was walking up the railroad track and hearing shots, stopped to investigate and declared two negroes ran past him. He declared that he did not know the officers were shooting at him until a bullet struck him.

Officers said that an epidemic of burglaries has been going on the railroad property in Clanton and Special Agent Ashley was assigned to this territory in an effort to apprehend the burglars.

Observations

I was out near Maplesville in New Convert community the other day. I am here to tell you that those people out there have some mighty good looking crops and they show signs of being well kept.

The farmers in the Training School community seem to be just a little ahead of the New Convert farmers. Robert Williams, Will Abercrombie, Archie Hall, Fate Williams, Ralph Oden, Otho McKinney, Rogers Bryant, E. W. Calloway and Horace Brown have some good looking cotton. Earl Brown, Archie Hall, Jr., and Otho McKinney have some healthy looking corn.

This Radical I. L. D.

Lest you should come in contact with some of these International Labor Defense sympathizers, let me acquaint you with the organization. The I. L. D. is a radical organization that tends to stir race hatred. No good, as far as we are concerned, can come out of it. The organization, as you know handled the defense of the recent Scottsboro case in Decatur, Ala. The I. L. D. has never won a case and in every instance embitters the feeling of our best friends. Guard yourself against such bolshevicks.

Sunday school and prayer meeting at this place are progressing rapidly. Everyone seems very much interested and willing to take part.

The Advanced Class had charge of prayer meeting Wednesday night. The subject for the evening was, "The Three Ways of Life," which are: The High Way, The Road to Destruction, and The Straight and Narrow Way, Inspiring talks and special music were enjoyed. We invite everyone to come and worship with us.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Beagle from South Alabama are spending a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Schurter.

Miss Lena Dean Dyer has returned from Tampa, Fla., where she has been taking a nurses course.

We deeply sympathize with the Ruddick family in the loss of their dear mother, grandmother and great-grandmother. Mrs. Ruddick leaves to mourn her death four sons, Mr. Jim Ruddick, Mississippi; Mr. Walter Ruddick, Georgia; Mr. Boone Ruddick, Birmingham; and Mr. Willam Ruddick, Stanton; three daughters, Mrs. U. T. Milan, of Stanton; Mrs. Arthur Osborne, Selma; and Mrs. John Melton, Riderwood, Ala. There are thirty-seven grandchildren, forty-three great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild, which is dead, and a host of friends, who, with them will miss her.

We trust God for His blessings on the Haigler family from Maplesville in the death of their husband and father. May we all realize God's will must be done and not ours.

Miss Ethel Gregg from Mars Hill, N. C., is spending her vacation at home with relatives and friends.

Quite a number from this place attended the Home Coming Day at Brent last Sunday.

REVIVAL REPORT

We have been made to realize the need for cooperation among the Christian workers in Clanton. Probably we did not make it plain enough last week that we desired the presence of all the ministers, their congregations and friends in order to make this meeting a blessing to all.

The purpose of the meeting is not to build denominations, but for the salvation of lost souls. The meetings have been well attended and there has been a good response to the messages on repentance and faith in God. We hope you will be with us to enjoy the closing messages of this campaign for souls

Sermon subjects are as follows:

Thursday, "Signs"; Friday, "Live as You Please"; Saturday, "A Funeral Service" is to be preached for the two worst men in town. Sunday closing service, an illustrated message on the Ten Commandments. Don't miss these meetings

Miss Kitty Cottingham of Randolph is spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Grady Heflin.

Mrs. Loren Smith, Mrs. Milton Smith, Miss Kitty Cottingham and sister of Randolph, accompanied Mrs. Grady Heflin to Montgomery Wednesday to see the picture "Adorable."

YOUTH COOPERATIVE MOVE IS ACTIVE IN THE COUNTY

The Baptist Youth Cooperative Conquest of Alabama is actively at work in the Chilton-Unity Associations. Mr. Maurice Hodgens, Miss Gwendolyn Clements and Miss Ada Rasco of the Pleasant Grove church were the speakers at Jemison and Thorsby on the first and second Sunday evenings. They were greeted by one-hundred fifty people at Jemison and three-hundred at Thorsby. It is said by many who heard them that they handled their subjects well and gave much needed information. Mr. Hodgens spoke on "The Church That Jesus Built" and laid a good foundation for the other speakers.

Miss Clements spoke on "State Missions" and gave much needed information on the work of the Baptists in the State and showed something of the possibilities for the future.

Miss Rasco spoke on "Foreign Missions" showing very clearly the business of the church to give the gospel to the world and some of the results already accomplished.

The Pastors' Union of the two associations voted unanimously to endorse the movement and to do all they could to push forward the work.

A group of young people spoke at Samaria Sunday night the 18th, and other churches will be reached just as fast as the young people can get to them. Any church opening their doors to the young people will serve two great ends. First, is the encouragement of the workers and second is the informa tion that will be given out to those present.

KILLINGSWORTH FAMILY HAD REUNION LAST SUNDAY, 18TH

The annual reunion of the Killingsworth family was held last Sunday at the home of Mr. Jim Killingsworth. The occasion had been looked forward to with much eagerness. Four generations were represented by those present. Some seventy-eight persons assembled here to make this the largest family reunion ever held in this section of the county.

A bountiful dinner was spread in a nearby grove. This proved to be a real feast which was verp delightful to all.

Those attending were: Mr. W. H. Killingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Killingsworth, Mrs. S. R. Killingsworth and family, Mr. Euell Killingsworth and family, Mr. Jim Killingsworth and family, Mr. Ernest Killingsworth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ellison and family, Mrs. Susie Busby, Mr. Leir Thames, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Aldridge, Mr. Marvin Busby and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ewings, Miss Jennie Killingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Killingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blankenship, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lantrip and little daughter, Mr. Pink Collum and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Collum, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Alexander, Mr. Bernie Killingsworth and family, Miss Mertie Killingsworth, Mr. Jim Blewster and family and Mr. Harmon Barfield.

The afternoon was devoted to refreshing memories of events long past. When night approached everyone returned to their respective homes, hoping to enjoy a similar occasion on the second Saturday of July 1934, which is the date set for the next reunion at the home of Mr. Jim Killingsworth, near Minooka, Alabama.

ANNUAL REUNION AT HOME OF MR. AND MRS. BEN GRAY

On Sunday, June 11, a large number of relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gray, Mt. Creek, Ala., assembled at their home with well filled baskets and had an old fashioned reunion. At the noon hour dinner was spread on tables under the beautiful oaks on the back lawn, and there was plenty of everything good to eat and served picnic style with plenty of iced tea for all. Mr. Tommie Billingsley was called on to "return thanks" which was very beautiful and appropriate.

The following enjoyed the day: Mr. and Mrs. John S. Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Billingsley, Mr. Hollis Merchant and Miss Ollis Merchant, all of Thorsby; Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Billingsley and two sons, Doss and Billie, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Bice, Mr. and Mrs. Alec Bice and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Vester Bice and baby, Mrs. Minnie Mullins, from Clanton; Mrs. Sim Glenn and son, Elmer, from Verbena; Mr. and Mrs. Newt Atkinson and daughter, Norma, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Norris, Mr. John Baxley, Mr. Amzi Kycker, Misses Hazel Baxley and Billie Baxley and Mrs. Effie Speer, from Mt. Creek.

In the afternoon Mr. Emmett Billingsley led the singing with his sister, Mrs. Marvin Davenport, as pianist. Having quite a number of trained voices made beautiful singing.

At about 4:00 p.m. good-byes were said with promises to repeat this occasion as soon as possible.

To Hold Meeting Friday Morning For Those Interested In Bee Culture

Persons in Chilton county who are interested in bee culture are invited to meet Mr. Stapp, Friday morning at 9 o'clock, at the home of Grady Williams, on the Clanton-Maplesville highway, where W. A. Ruffin, bee specialist of the Auburn staff, will deliver a lecture on the latest methods of handling bees.

Mr. Williams has several hives of bees; and it is expected that first hand information will be available on the best methods of caring for bees, Mr. Stapp stated.

Following is a letter issued by Mr. Stapp in regard to the meeting:

"I have arranged for our extension bee specialist, Mr. W. A. Ruffin of Auburn, to be in the county Friday, June 23rd. I have arranged for a meeting at Mr. Grady Williams' place about two miles west of Clanton on the Clanton-Maplesville highway. The meeting will begin at 9:00 o'clock, and I am anxious for all who are interested in bees to attend this meeting and get the latest information on the handling of bees.

"Those who will come through Clanton may meet in my office at 8:45 and go from there out to Mr. Williams. I am writing this letter to all whose names have been given to me as being farmers interested in the production of honey. This is just another effort to be of service to you in the county."

Yours very truly,
C. E. STAPP, County Agent.

A New Deal For Liver Sufferers

Don't be misled any longer. Calomel, salts, oils, mineral waters, laxative pills, herb teas, powders, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile food doesn't digest properly—it just ferments and decays—Constipation, gas, sour stomach, headaches and nervousness follow.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of their effect—You feel stronger, healthier, happier—life and color return to faded eyes and cheeks—appetite and digestion improve rapidly.

Only 60c for a full 30-day treatment. At your druggist, or write G. F. Willis, Inc., Atlanta, Georgia.—(adv.)

A COMPANY THIRTY YEARS OLD

Last Friday the Ford Motor Company completed 30 years of automobile making.

It is also my fortieth year at the same job. I made my first engine in 1893, and it still runs. This is the engine that won the Selden Patent Suit——which took the motor car out of the exclusive class, and opened the automobile industry to hundreds of manufacturers who started during the last 30 years.

Some of the men who began with me that June day in 1903, are working here yet. All of the principles we laid down then, are still operative; we find that they have great survival value for the future. To date they have produced and sold over 21,000,000 Ford cars.

Although we created the automobile market we have never thought it was good for anyone to monopolize it. We have always believed that before business could be good for one, it must be good for all. Our discoveries and improvements have always been open to other manufacturers without patent restrictions.

Of course, there is one thing we cannot share——everyone must get it for himself——and that is experience. Money could duplicate our buildings and machines, but it cannot duplicate 40 years of experience. And it is experience that makes a motor car.

But the past does not especially concern me; it has all been a preparation for the future. For myself, I feel that I have just been gathering the tools to do something worth while, and that my real task is still ahead.

Great changes are upon the world. False ideas of every kind are vanishing in the general upheaval. Those who built truly on principle will survive——their service will carry over. Business integrity and commodity honor will be fully justified. And newer and better ways of living will appear.

That is the outlook for this young thirty-year old Company of ours.

suggestion of the auditor in reference to the matter of securing public aid with the charity work done at the hospital.

The detailed report of the auditor showed that during the year the hospital had a cash income of $3,865.54, and had expenses of $3,545.79. The money spent during the year included $159.25 for insurance; $146.48 on mortgage; $367.84 for interest; $25.40 for taxes. In addition to the cash income the auditor reports approximately $900 due the hospital in unpaid accounts for hospital services rendered during the year.

At the meeting Monday the same officers and directors of the hospital were elected to serve again during the coming year. They are as follows: Dr. V. J. Gragg, president; Dr. R. B. McNeill, vice president; W.M. Wyatt, secretary; J. C. Page, treasurer; Directors, Dr. V. J. Gragg, C. Fenn Jones, Dr. C. O. Lawrence and M. L. White.

It is especially encouraging to note that during the past year the hospital has been able to meet its current operating expenses and to pay interest on its mortgages, and a small amount of the principal on its mortgage.

sioners Court, Monday morning, to petition that body to allow exemption from taxation for a period of five years until the system has been placed on a paying basis.

Mr. Arledge stated that he is very optimistic of the possibilities of a gas service in Clanton. Declaring that gas is the most economical system of heating to be found, he stated that fuel bills in Clanton can be reduced fifty per cent with the installation of natural gas. Indications are, Mr. Arledge said, that there will be between 400 and 600 regular users in Clanton alone. Other towns to be served by the system will be: Coosada, Elmore, Speigener, Deatsville, Roolins, Wadsworth, Marbury, Mt. Creek, Verbena, and Cooper. Rural districts will be able to obtain the service for a half-mile on each side of the line, it was stated.

The franchise requires that work be begun within the next 90 days. Employment will be given to 300 men for a period of three months in the digging of the ditch between the connection with the main line and Clanton, according to Mr. Arledge. Regular employment will be afforded to thirty-four persons with the installation of the system.

Approximately $25,000 will be expended during the Summer months, according to Mr. Arledge, who said that the entire system will cost about $132,000. He estimated that laborers will be paid between $1 and $1.50 per day for work on the ditch.

chase legal beer. A citizen of Madison county told me that on a recent visit to Nashville he had motored past a beer parlor which has been operated by an Alabamian ever since the day Tennessee legalized beer; and that this man reported to him sales amounting to $450 during the Saturday and Sunday of the previous week end. The beer seller added that there had never been a day when he had fewer than fifty visitors—and customers—from Alabama.

"This incident is one of the many proofs of the folly of the present law."

The Woman's Organization for Prohibition Reform, according to its field representative, is a permanent organization and after the repeal of the amendment has become an accomplished fact, will continue its efforts toward bringing about laws controlling and regulating the sale of intoxicating beverages. They are a temperate group, believing that the logical way to improve conditions in Alabama is first to ratify repeal; second, to control and regulate sale and transportation of liquor; third, to educate children to temperance in the home, the school and the church. The organization has forwarded a request to Governor Miller that he name a commission to make a study of various systems of prohibition control now in force in other governments throughout the world, with the view to having a workable plan to offer the Alabama legislature when they next meet.

Maplesville Man Killed Last Thurs.

John G. Haigler, 45, of Maplesville, was killed instantly last Thursday morning, when a stalled truck which he was attempting to prevent from rolling backward knocked him down and rolled over his body.

The truck, heavily loaded with wood, stalled on a hill near Maplesville and when the negro driver failed to stop the machine from rolling backward by changing gears, Mr. Haigler leaped off and attempted to shove a piece of timber underneath the wheel, became entangled and was thrown under the heavy wheels.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon from the Maplesville Baptist church, with the Rev. G. G. Williams and the Rev. Paul Oden officiating. Burial was in the Stanton cemetery.

Taxpayers Are Given Until September 15th

Tax Collector W. G. Culp, has revised his previous arrangements for handling delinquent taxes, and has announced that September 15th, will be the dead line for tax payments before additional costs of advertising and selling are added.

In explanation of his revised schedule, Mr. Culp said:

"I have heretofore stated that July 1st would be the dead line for payment of taxes. Desiring to be sure that I would extend to the taxpayers every bit of time I possibly could, I made a thorough study of the laws relating to tax payments. I found that I could extend the time of payment to the 15th day of September.

"Therefore, I have set my calculations upon that date. September 15th is positively the latest day I can set under the law that governs my office. All taxes not paid by that time will have to be advertised and sold.

"Again I want to assure the people that I want to extend to them every possible favor in handling their taxes. It is going to work a hardship on me and my office to make this extension to September 15th, but I am willing to do it in order to give the people all the time possible for me to give.

"I ask everyone now to please bear in mind that I shall not again be able to extend the time. September 15 is as far as I can go. All taxes not paid by then will have to be advertised and the property sold."

Man Burned While Trying To Save Household Goods

Chances of recovery for John Gustin, 60-year-old resident of the Thorsby community, are limited, according to information from the Central Alabama Hospital, where he is being treated for severe burns suffered Tuesday night when a part of the roof caved in on him while he was trying to remove furniture from his burning home.

Trapped by the falling roof, the man's clothing caught fire and was almost completely burned from his body before he finally scrambled to the door and fell exhausted into the yard. His two daughters, who had rushed from the burning building attired in scant night clothing, succeeded in smothering the flames that enveloped their father with a quilt that one of them had jerked from a bed as she rushed from her room.

Gustin was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital by a Martin & Sons ambulance. Staff physicians at the hospital declared that he is in serious condition. His entire body is deeply burned and the flesh fell from the bones of his feet and legs when being dressed.

Awakened about midnight by the roar of the fire, the Gustin family barely had time to escape before the roof began falling in. Gustin rushed back into the burning building in an effort to save some of his furniture and became trapped by a part of the falling roof.

What Makes a Safe Tire? I KNOW!

THE MASTERPIECE OF TIRE CONSTRUCTION

ARE you willing to risk your life on advertising statements claiming blowout-proof and unblowable tires? One manufacturer gives as the reason for claiming blowout-proof tires—the use of one ply of another color—another, a patented "no breaker" construction—a mail order house, high stretch "elastic" cords, etc., etc. Actually the fundamental cause of a tire blowout is the flexing of the tire which causes friction of the fibers in the cord, resulting in heat and causing the rubber to soften and the cords to deteriorate.

There is a reason why Firestone Tires have won the 500-mile Indianapolis race for 14 consecutive years, the most gruelling tire test. The reason is the Firestone patented extra process of Gum-Dipping which saturates every fiber and insulates every cord with pure rubber —which gives strength to the cords and prevents friction and heat in the fibers. This year 42 drivers in this race equipped their cars with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and not a single driver had any tire trouble.

Race drivers know why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are safer and not subject to blowout and will not risk their lives on ordinary tires. Your life and the lives of your family are often in danger at the high road speeds of today and you should not take greater risks than the race drivers who make sure that they have the best and safest tires they can buy—Firestone. Come in today. We will give you a liberal trade-in allowance for your old tires on new Firestone High Speed Tires—the safest tires in the world

PEOPLES SAV'GS BANK BECOMES RESERVE MEMB'R

Another Step Forward Taken By Local Institution Of Long Standing

Announcement that the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton is now a member of the Federal Reserve System marks another milestone in the progress of this popular and reliable banking institution. When interviewed on the matter Mr. Frank J. Callen, president of the bank, made some statements which are of wide interest to our readers, because of the intimate touch held by this bank with the life of Chilton County during the past thirty years. Mr. Callen said:

"The Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton has seen many and various changes since its day of beginning, over thirty years ago. Starting business in 1901 during the reconstruction period after the Spanish-American War this institution has steadily grown and prospered. The panic of 1907 found this bank so thoroughly established that it was able to withstand the ravages of those trying days and emerged safe and sound to enjoy the period of business activity that followed till the dark days of 1914 when the equilibrium of the whole world was disturbed by the outbreak of the World War.

The Peoples Savings Bank, because of its firm foundation, weathered this period without flinching and stood sound and steadfast all through the war period ending in 1918. The depression of 1920-21 found this bank again ready to test its strength against the panic psychology. It weathered this period with flying colors and entered the boom period 192329 untarnished, unmoved, unafraid, and ready for whatever the future might have in store. The trying days of 1930-31-32 and into 1933 beat

FRASIER DIED FROM WOUNDS FROM BULLET

Special L & N Agent Bound Over To The Grand Jury Under $2,500 Bond

E. G. Ashby, special agent for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, was bound over to the grand jury at a perliminary hearing here Tuesday morning, on charge of first degree murder and was placed under a $2,500 bond in connection with the death of Alex Frasier.

Alex G. Frasier, 39, died Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Central Alabama Hospital here of a bullet wound he received last Tuesday night.

Frasier was shot by E. G. Ashby, special agent for the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, during the investigation of an alleged box car robbery. Seven shots were fired by Ashley and Night Policeman J. A. Nivens, one striking Frasier in the right side and penetrating the kidney.

The officers charged that Frasier was attempting to break the door on a box car near the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company's warehouse and was fired on when he failed to heed repeated calls to halt; but the wounded man after being carried to the hospital denied the accusation and explained that he ran because he had liquor hidden in that vicinity and feared that the officers would find it.

Frasier is said by officers to have no criminal record and is well thought of in Clanton and Chilton county.

Frasier, a railroad employe himself, is a member of a railroad family. His father, Terry Frasier, of Montgomery, died a pensioned employe of the company; and Milton, a brother, Elliot, a son, and W. R. Edwards, his father-in-law, are all employed by the L. & N.

Surviving Mr. Frasier are his wife, Mrs. Arrabelle Edwards Frasier; three sons, Elliot, James Donald, and Harold; three daughters, Marie, Edith and Mary Lou, all of Clanton, and his stepmother, Mrs. Terry Frasier, of Montgomery.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Samaria Baptist church, two miles south of Clanton. Dr. S. J. Ezell officiated. Burial was in the Samaria cemetery, with Martin & Sons in charge.

PLAN DESTRUCTION OF TEN MILLION ACRES OF COTTON

Government Plans To Lease Land At A Fixed Rate; Meetings Being Held Over The County To Promote Program

Cotton Cutting Meetings Held

Chilton Farmers Being Asked To Join In Program

In accordance with the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment program to eliminate 10,000,000 acres of cotton in an effort to raise the price of this year's crop by regulating the production, County Agent C. E. Stapp is conducting a series of meetings over the entire county this week acquainting the farmers of the county with the provisions of the Bill and urging their cooperation.

Mr. Stapp announced that he hopes to induce the farmers of Chilton county to agree to retire 12,000 acres of their crop. In meetings Monday and Tuesday, attended by approximately 1,000 farmers, the sentiment has been almost unanimous for co-operation with the President's program, Mr. Stapp stated. J. P. Montgomery and Earle Thomas, vocational teachers in the county, are assisting Mr. Stapp to conduct these meetings.

Fifty-two farmers of the county are engaged this week in presenting the contracts to their fellow-tillers in an

A call for the destruction of 10 million acres of growing cotton was sent out last week by Secretary Wallace in a long-limber experiment to curb production of the South's big-money crop.

A campaign was started Monday throughout the South, and growers have been asked to sign contracts to rent cotton lands at from six dollars an acre and up, depending on the average past yields and estimated production of the land this year.

The farmer can either offer to take an outright cash payment for plowing up portions of his crop or can take a smaller rental and obtain in addition an option on about 2,400,000 bales in an amount equal to the estimated output of the land he retires from production.

These options will be offered him at six cents a pound or nearly three cents below the current market price. He may order these options exercised at any time up to next January, his profit being the difference between the six cents and the price cotton is selling for at the time he sells.

Plan Depends on Farmers

Wallace said operation of the whole plan was contingent upon the degree of cooperation shown by growers during the week's campaign to obtain contracts.

Unless Wallace is certain that he can

THORSBY PREPARING FOR A BIG DAY NEXT TUESDAY, JULY 4TH

Whole Town Will Be Ready To Welcome Hundreds Of Visitors; Big Parade Will Be One Of Many Features During The Day

Latest reports from Thorsby, one of Chilton's thriving little towns, state that the committees in charge of the Fourth of July celebration have everything in shape for a big day next Tuesday.

Leading merchants and places of business are cooperating with the committees in seeing that all plans are ready and are carried out. Indications are that this will be one of the biggest days in many years in Thorsby. Hundreds of people are expected to come to Thorsby to spend the day and join in the observance of Independence Day.

A full page advertisement in this issue of the News, extends a hearty welcome to the people of the entire county to come to Thorsby on next Tuesday. Merchants and business men of that town put on this page to extend this welcome. The names of those cooperating will be found on the page, and readers of the News are asked to read the advertisements from each one of them.

One of the many features of the day will be a big parade in which automobiles, bicycles, and other vehicles are to take part. Gayly decorated, this will present a pretty sight. Prizes are to be awarded to the best decorated automobile and the best decorated bicycle.

The Thorsby Band will be present throughout the day to furnish music. This alone will be a treat to the people present. Dr. O. C. Carmichael, president of Alabama College, will be the principal speaker for the occasion.

Victim Of Flames Dies At Hospital In Clanton

Funeral services for John Gustin, 60-year-old farmer of the Thorsby community, who died last Wednesday night at the Central Alabama hospital in Clanton of severe burns suffered last Tuesday night when a part of his burning home fell on him, were held Thursday morning at 11 o'clock from the Mt. Hope church, seven miles northeast of Jemison.

Trapped by the falling roof when he re-entered the burning building in an effort to remove some furniture, the man's clothing caught fire and he was badly burned before he finally made his way into the yard where a step-daughter smothered the flames with a blanket.

He was rushed to the hospital in a Martin & Sons' ambulance, but the burns were too severe to be overcome. He is survived by two step-daughters Martin & Sons were in charge of the funeral.

Extensive Canning Program To Begin July 5th In This County

Fourteen hundred persons in Chilton county received a bit of cheer when they were notified that one day's work will be available this week on the several R.F.C. projects in the county. Work had been suspended for the past two weeks because of lack of funds, but another appropriation Monday made it possible to renew the county program on a limited basis.

Miss Austin declared that she thinks it possible that work may continue thru this quarter on the "one-day a week" basis.

Plans have been perfected for an extensive canning program to begin July 5 in an effort to place as many destitute families as possible on a self-sustaining basis before Winter, according to Miss Austin, who declared that it is hoped that between 30,000 and 50,000 quarts of food may be preserved during the canning program.

Three types of vegetables are being preserved, tomatoes, beans and soup

2 MASTER BILLS BY ROOSEVELT PUT IN EFFECT

Industrial Act Promises To Aid Working Man And Push Industry

Climaxing three months of the most dynamic action ever experienced in the White House, President Franklin D. Roosevelt concluded his program to end the depression with two Bills that promise to revolutionize the entire system of industry and government in this country.

The Industrial Recovery Act, termed by learned statesmen over the country as the greatest piece of legislation ever written, and the Agricultural Adjustment Act, which tends to lift the tillers of the soil by their boot straps out of an economic slavery into which they are fast drifting, perhaps mark the innovation of a new era for America and for Americans.

Demanding that the industrialist pay a living wage to his employe and not make him the brunt of competitive cut-throat business warfare, the Industrial Recovery Act vests in the President and his aides powers necessary to promote self-regulation of industry under Federal supervision with a view to curtailing overproduction, improving wages, shortening working hours—eventually resulting in higher wages and increased employment.

Under the provisions of the Bill, the President is given power to enforce the adoption of codes of fair competition to be agreed upon by industry and the Government. Each industry, under Federal supervision, will draft codes regulating the activities of that particular industry and violators of these codes will be subject to fines.

It has been explained that the Bill does not intend to destroy competition, but merely demands that the working

BOY SCOUTS GO TO CAMP NEXT WEEK

Boys Will Leave Thursday For Camp At Paint Creek On Coosa

Thursday morning, July 6th, has been definitely set by John Hollis, chairman of camping for Boy Scouts of Clanton District, as the opening date for the second camp under direction of John J. Sigwald, Scout Executive.

On this date over 40 scouts are expected to encamp at Treasure Island, the picturesque 60-acre site on Paint Creek, above Lay Dam. This setting for the Scout Camp should bring back to the minds of the boys many enchanting stories of pirate ships and loads of golden treasures.

The camp director, himself impressed by the desirable setting for such adventures, has arranged for the Scouts in camp a real treat in the form of a treasure hunt.

Local schouts should apply at once to their scoutmaster for the camp application blank. Send it in post haste to Scout Council headquarters at Opelika. Mr. Sigwald will then enter your name on the preferred list.

The executive assures all local friends of scouting that all food, supplies, etc. needed for the camp, will be purchased in Clanton. Thursdays and Sundays will be visitors days at camp. Every scout in the Clanton territory should by all means enlist for Treasure Island July 6th.

ICE CREAM SUPPER TO BE AT HOME OF M. C. DURBIN

There will be an ice cream supper at the home of Mr. M. C. Durbin, six miles west of Clanton Saturday night, July 1st. The proceeds to go to buy lamps for Pleasant Grove church. Everyone is invited and the members of the church are urged to bring cream, cake or sandwiches. Don't forget the date, July 1st. Our revival starts at Pleasant Grove the 5th Sunday in July, and we are very badly in need of lights. Rev. A. L. Lumpkin will be with us for a two weeks meeting at that time.

Farmers do not usually seek escape from their financial troubles via the bankruptcy route, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Less than 5,000 farmers resorted to bankruptcy during the year ended June 30, 1932. This was only 7.7 per cent of all bankruptcies in the United States.

Luther E. Little

The News does not want to appear to be boasting that a Democratic candidate was elected last week to the office of superintendent of education of this county. We do not want to take credit for his being elected. We do not mean to try to tell the people a lot of good-time stories about what Mr. Little will do as superintendent.

But, we do want to tell the people of Chilton County that we believe they have every reason to be proud of their selection of Mr. Little, and that we do believe they will find him fair in every way in dealings wth everyone. It is his nature. And we do want to say that we are proud that we had a hand in helping him and doing what we could to make the people acquainted with him during his campaign.

Mr. Little will assume office on Saturday, July 1st. He goes into office with the policies of the Democratic Party—to be fair, impartial and to give the people a voice in all matters pertaining to their interest. If you have never met Mr. Little, you should do so at the first opportunity. Shake his hand, tell him you are going to give your cooperation for the interest of our schools and childres. In return, we believe you will find him grateful, with a ready ear to listen to you.

Newspaper Work Is Work

The perpetual lure of newspaper work is probably based upon the idea that dropping around among friends and making notes of this and that, is about the sum of labor involved, and nothing was ever more remote from the truth.

Newspaper work is one of the most exacting of all callings and those who seek a nice, quiet life, surrounded by ease and glamour, would do better to find a job around a steel mill or in the erection of skyscrapers.

To the newspaper worker there is no such thing as hours. The worker must be on the job when things are happening, whether it is in the dewy morn or sultry night, and must remain on it until the job is done.

News and the printing of it wait upon no man, nor woman, either, for that matter, nor can the writing of it wait upon that doubtful thing called "inspiration." That "now is the accepted time," is forever true of the newspaper.

Vast numbers of young persons look to the newspaper profession with longing eyes—which is fortunate for the newspaper, since it is from these armies that it draws the few recruits when needed—but too many of them expect too much, having but the vaguest idea of what they are attempting and many lacking the necessary qualifications.

Too many "just know they can write," hence have little to learn in this connection, and that is fatal; while others assume the task is easy, and that is still more fatal. Only occasionally does one of these young persons come into a newspaper office equipped with a real capacity for writing and with a proper appreciation of the fact that newspaper work is a job calling for serious and sustained application. From such as these develop the real workers, the men who labor on through the years, rendering a fine service to society and getting a lot of satisfaction out of doing a constructive task.—Tuscaloosa News.

Good-Bye, Price-Cutting Printers

For years the price-cutting job printers have made life miserable for the ones who have tried to maintain a decent living standard. These price cutters always told the buyers that the legitimate operators were highway [illegible], and many people believed them. Then the mail [illegible] houses sent in their advertising and many of the home merchants fell for them, to the detriment of home printers.

Under the recent industrial rehabilitation act, all of this will be reversed. Uncle Sam says for the printers to get a living price. In fact, after the price of printing is agreed upon and O'Kd at Washington, the printer who cuts below the established minimum will be subject to a fine of $1,000, plus six months imprisonment in a Federal penitentiary.

This law is caused by the selfishness, ignorance and bullheadedness of a few fellows in business who acted the hog and produced printing without making a profit themselves and barring their competitors from even a look-in at the business. Now the price-cutting men, either home printers or mail order houses, will have an excellent chance to see the inside of a Federal prison, or raise their charges to a legitimate level.—Montgomery Weekly.

Repealing The 18th Amendment

Will repealing the 18th Amendment mean that we will have open saloons, and liquor whenever and wherever we want it? That is a question that is no doubt bothering many persons now.

Elsewhere in the News this week will be found some questions and answers on the proposed amendments to the Constitution of Alabama. As a matter of information, we will state that in repealing the 18th Amendment, it does not mean we will have saloons, as many people are believing. It merely gives the State the right to control its own liquor problems. From week to week the News will give some information in regard to the amendments to come before the people on the 18th of July.

Business is on the up-grade. This is not prophecy, but fact. Improvement has been registered in various basic industries—steel, copper, hogs, wheat, corn, department store sales, etc. Recently the New York Times index of industrial activity advanced for the seventh consecutive week to the highest point in 17 months.

Standing By Our President

Last November, voters of Chilton County took into their own minds and hands their choice of a man for President of the United States, and for the first time in over forty years, gave a margin of votes to a Democratic candidate for the highest office in the country. They were out to select that man whose party platform promised them the best and a sure, quick way of getting this country back so that the farmer will have a decent chance of making a living fo rhimself and his family. And they selected the Democratic Party.

Now that the Democrats have a good swing in national affairs, with President Roosevelt, the "Democratic man of the hour" at the helm of things, what progress has been made? What steps has our president taken toward bringing business recovery and a relief to the farmer? What have those voters of Chilton County, who cast their ballots for the Democratic candidate, to look forward to as a reward for their support? Is the Democratic Party doing anything toward bringing better business, better prices for farm products and a living wage for the working man?

Here's the answers. In a little over three months President Roosevelt and a Democratic Congress carried out their pledges to the American people by enacting measures that are designed to smash the depression and to afford relief to the farmer, business man, and to every class.

The measures enacted include the following:

Thousands of small home owners of Alabama will be able to retain their homes with a lower interest rate and with ample time to retire their mortgages.

Depositors have been made secure through federal guarantee of bank deposits, thereby ending bank failures and bank runs. If this democratic law had been in effect during the past three years, hundreds of thousands of dollars would have been saved to citizens of Alabama.

Muscle Shoals and Tennessee Valley development means the utilization of this great national asset, expenditure of millions of dollars in Alabama, thereby benefiting ever portion of the state through industrial and other activities.

Rigid economy in operation of the government was assured when President Roosevelt, through authority given him by Congress, vigorously slashed expenditures, effecting a reduction of at least 25 per cent in the cost of the federal government.

Agriculture has been given relief through the farm mortgage relief law and through rapidly rising commodity prices as a result of the regulation of the currency. Cotton prices ranged around five cents a pound when Roosevelt was inaugurated. These prices now range around nine cents a pound.

Thousands of unemployed were given relief through reforestation camps and loans to counties and cities for rehabilitation work.

The industrial recovery and public works program will put 4,000,000 unemployed men to work within ninety days and thousands of Alabama citizens will secure employment as a result of the $12,000,000 road building appropriation.

The democratic platform pledged a balanced federal budget and this has been accomplished by Congress and the President.

President Roosevelt and the Democratic Congress have gone as far as they are permitted to do toward carrying out the party's pledge for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and for restoration of the rights of the various states in controlling their own affairs. They have submitted the twenty-first amendment which, if ratified, will repeal the eghteenth amendment.

Now that our President is standing by us, the people of Chilton County, and the entire nation, what steps are the people of Chilton County taking to stand by President Roosevelt? What helping hand are the people of Chilton County lending to give our president their cooperation and support that he may not be hindered in bringing this country back to the people.

Everyone of the measures of the Democratic platform and program is far-reaching. No one is being left out. No quetsions are being asked as to how anyone voted. Those who voted for Mr. Roosevelt's opponent, are receiving just as warm welcome in the relief measures as others are. If you voted, or vote the Republican ticket, it does not mean that the Democrats and Democratic Party are against you. Instead, the Democrats are extending a hand of welcome to those who opposed them, and asking for their cooperation.

We Make Progress

The textile industry, crippled for years by cut-throat competition and notorious for its starvation wages, faces the future with its chin up.

Thanks to Mr. Roosevelt's progressive leadership, striking progress under the national recovery act already has been made.

For the past three years the textile industry has been operating at a loss when even a small measure of judgment and cooperation would have placed it on a profit basis.

From the mill hand's viewpoint, deplorable conditions have grown steadily worse. Hours have grown longer and wages lower.

Now comes the code agreed upon by the operators and submitted yesterday for government approval. It is promising. It does not go as far as it should in raising wages but it is a broad step forward. It does offer hope that those mill owners who have not been in sympathy with sweat-shop conditions are now in a position to force less enlightened associates and competitors to a higher plane.

The experience has been expensive, but we make progress.—Birmingham Post.

The Farmer's Discoveries

Perhaps the most encouraging phase of the farmer's troubles is that they have caused him to look with a new and inquiring mind on economic and social problems.

He has discovered that the world has changed much—that methods that were good thirty years ago are disastrous now. He is finding out that no one can prosper alone in a world in which the interests of every business, every producer, are inextricably intermingled. He is finding that the cooperative ideal—whether in industry, or agriculture, or simply social relations—points the road to stability and permanence.

A good sign is the estimate for the U. S. winter wheat crop—337,485,000 bushels. This is 40 per cent smaller than the 1921-30 average, the smallest since 1904. It will be 45,000,000 bushels short of United States consumption. Prices jumped as soon as the official estimate was made public; the farmer smiled.

Interesting fact—it is not unusual for short wheat crops and resulting higher prices, to signify the breaking of depressions.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A well-dressed, kind-hearted lady came into the street car and shortly after taking her seat, a poorly clad boy of the streets came in and took his seat beside the lady. A shiver passed over his thinly clad form and on seeing it the lady lifted her coat and let it fall around him. She then put her arms around the little fellow and held him close to her. Ever now and then she would hug him a little closer and pat his little body with strokes of affection. Nothing was said by either one for quite a distance, and then the little boy looked up into her eyes and while tears streamed down his cheeks said to her, "Lady, you can have me if you want me." No one cared for that boy, and yet his heart was hungry for love. He had found one who had a heart of love and he wanted to give himself into her possession. When we can get people to know that Jesus loves them then they will say, "Lord. Jesus, you can have me if you want me."

I was on a vessel that was finding its way up the Hudson Bay. I kept hearing bells to the right and the left, and on inquiring as to why they were ringing, I was told that they were buoy bells that were constantly ringing to point out the direction of danger. On a vessel I traveled up a small channel of water at Buffalo, New York, and on either side of the vessel I could hear the sound of fog horns. They were being sounded so that the captain would know points of danger. As we travel along this way of life, we are constantly hearing ringing bells and sounding horns. The noise that we hear from within is none other than our consciences warning us of danger. When you hear a voice from within, you had better listen to its warning—it may be none other than the voice of conscience warning you against a point and place of danger. You may not be able to see the danger, but it is there just the same. In your travels through this world listen to the fog horns and the buoy bells.,

Over in Georgia there was a man who drank freely all day. When night came on he was well shot, but not too drunk to attend church. He found his way to the little church on the hill, and it being a cold night, a warm fire had been kindled in a stove on the inside. The man opened the door and staggered his way to the red hot stove and took his seat. He had not been seated long before he begun to heave. Soon he was too sick to remain on the inside and made it for the door. It was lucky that he got there before something happened. He closed the door behind him and slumped down on the steps of the church as sick as any drunk man ever dared to be. While he was pulling one convulsion after another, one of the late deacons came up. He stopped to ask, "Henry, are you sick?" The drunk man replied, "Yes Deacon, the kind of preaching going on in there, is enough to make anybody sick." This story needs no comment.

A Yankee was visiting the South for the first time, and was trying to be as nice to the colored race as he thought that he would be before he came South. He met with a negro woman who was being followed by a squalling picaninny. He ventured to ask, "Lady, is your baby sick?" The woman looked at him wisely and replied, "Nossah, he is not sick." "Then is that kid in pain?" asked the Yankee. "Nossah." The Yankee then proceeded to ask, "Well then my lady, it seems to me that you have a spoiled child." The woman became indignant and replied, "Dat sounds just like a man from up North. Dat baby am not spoiled, he jes natually smells dat way, and you can put it down dat he will be runnin' around long after you smell worse dan he does." It always did tickle me to see some folks get all that was coming to them.

When I was a boy I was currying the old family horse. She raised no objections until I rubbed a sore spot, and then she flinched and turned her heels toward me and gave me a kick that sent me ten feet away. When we curry people we are not likely to meet with trouble until we rub a sore spot. When we strike their sore places they kick high and hard.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford Manning

General Methods of Controlling Insects

There are helpful insects as well as harmful insects, and sometimes we destroy the helpful insects in trying to rid ourselves of the insect pests. There was some complaint a few years ago about cotton poison (calcium arsenate) killing honey bees or maybe fruit tree spray would kill them by them sucking the nectar from the blossoms of trees that had been sprayed.

The control of insect pests is partially effected by natural means. When a particular insect becomes very numerous further development is checked by its natural enemies such as birds, parasitic insects, diseases, and unfavorable food or climatic conditions. This control, however, may not effect any noticeable reduction until after serious losses have been suffered as a result of crop damage. Other methods of control have to do with the prevention of breeding and hibernation, mechanical destruction by means of cleaning up trash in and around the fields, plowing and rotation of crops. Losses are sometimes reduced by regulation of the time of planting and the method of growing the crop and by using resistant varieties.

The insects are often destroyed in large numbers by trapping them in certain stages of development and by the use of insecticides.

Insecticides for insect destruction are of three types, used with reference to the habit and nature of the insect:

1. Poison such as arsenicals, Paris green, hellebore, etc., are used for biting or eating insects in various mixtures as dusts or liquids.
2. Poisons and other contact substances such as tobacco extracts, soaps, oil emulsions, lime sulphur and various dusts are used in the control of sucking insects.
3. Gasses such as carbon bisulphide, hydrocyanic acid gas, paradichlorobenzine and calcium cyanide are used for either biting or sucking insects.

The insects which have caused the most damage to the corn, wheat, sorghum and cotton crops or promise to be the most destructive are the Hessian fly, the chinch bug, the cotton boll weevil, and the European corn borer or the larger corn stalk-borer.

For more information read the two articles under County Farm Agent's Notes of last week's issue (June 22) of The Union-Banner—"Control Measures for Garden Pests," and "Borers Are Damaging Our Alabama Corn Crop."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By
Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

L. C. Snyder, Advertising Director of The Seattle (Wash.- Times, Says:

"In today's world, fast-moving and chameleon-like, the newspaper, chronicling events as they occur, is a vital, necessary part of human progress. Toward the newspaper men and women alike turn for current information covering the happenings of the social and business sides of life. Instinctively as the years have passed they have come to recognize in advertising, as well as the editorial content of the newspaper, news of vital importance to their continued happiness.

"Each year brings changes to each city; children are born and people die; others grow to maturity taking up the burden where their predecessors have halted. Many of these new masters and mistresses of the households of the city are shopping for the first time. They have open minds and their habits of the future are in the making. Because youth is more demanding they will not accept without question the precedents laid down by their fathers. They will search and find for themselves the products they will use in their homes, the food they will consume, and the clothes they will wear on their backs. To these young people and to those people who are not habit forming, who do not return naturally to the store where they purchased before—and there are many of them—and to those who have been dissatisfied with the service received elsewhere and wish to make a change, the message of the merchant of today must be told.

"No better medium than the newspaper in which to speak to each of these classes can be found. All have a common interest in the newspaper; it chronicles for each some event or series of events that to that individual is all important. No other medium for advertising is so all-embracing; no other medium offers a potential market so large within a national shopping area where a definite interest guarantees the 100% attention of each person contacted.

"The Advertising Message of Today Should Be Placed with The News of Today."

GUARDING ONE'S HEALTH

How much one should worry about his health has been the subject for many arguments. Some hold that a periodical physical examination should be taken with a view to discovering any incipient diseases. Others believe that such examinations tend to make a person think too much about his health and that the consequent worry is worse than letting nature take its course.

A recent radio lecturer on heart disease, which is at present the most deadly of all ailments, suggested a middle course. While he advocated periodical physical examinations, he warned his listeners not to take them too seriously. Because, as he pointed out, many persons live for dozens of years with heart trouble, and finally die of something else.

But, as he further stated, the fact that one is concerned about his heart may cause him to adopt a mode of living which will not only tend to ease his heart strain, but will be beneficial to his general health as well. The same principle applies to other chronic diseases.

Concluding, he repeated the sage advice of Sir William Osler, who said, in substance: "If you would live long, get a nice chronic disease and nurse it."

Present Tire Prices Are Still Below 1926

But Local Dealer Believes That Rise In Cotton And Rubber Will Mean Added Rise

"Since 1926 the trend of tire prices has been steadily downward and they are still 55 per cent below the point at which they were nine years ago, even with the two recent increases this year," stated Dief's Service Station, local Goodyear dealers.

"But with the upward movement of general commodity prices, raw material prices, especially cotton and crude rubber which have shown sharp increases since April, tires may go higher.

"At any rate, tire prices are about at the same level they were a year ago, and our advice to those who are in the market is to buy now before prices go up again, since it is a foregone conclusion, in our opinion, that the present low point of 55 per cent below 1926 figures will not continue long on a steadily rising commodity price market."

Further explaining this contention Dief's Service Station said that crude rubber was selling at three cents per pound in April, while early in June it reached six and a quarter cents per pound, or more than double.

Cotton, on the other hand, has climbed from seven and a half cents per pound to nearly eleven cents early in June, an increase of 46 per cent.

"I give you these figures," Mr. Diefenderfer told the News, "not because I want to scare people into buying tires, but because I see the possibility of increased prices as a natural sequence of what will certainly follow with the return of better business condition.

Tire business at Dief's Service Station has shown a steady improvement in the past several weeks, reflecting the effect of the national administration's New Deal."

OAK GROVE

We had a real nice rain over the week end, which we were glad to see.

We had no Sunday school Sunday morning on account of the rain. Attendance at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night was not so good as we would have liked to see, but we hope to have a larger crowd next Sunday night.

The group of young people from here who carried the play to Longview Saturday night, report a pretty small crowd attending, which was rather discouraging, but they had an enjoyable time anyway.

Mrs. Harsel Gilbert and baby of Hueytown are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pierce have moved to the house just south of the railroad, near the Overhead bridge.

There will be preaching here next Saturday night instead of Sunday morning, so that the all-day singing will not interfere with the preaching services.

As this will be the last announcement of the singing, we wish to urge everyone to come and spend the day with us. We are expecting to have some fine singers here on that day.

On next Friday afternoon there will be a meeting at the church for the purpose of cleaning up the church and the grounds. All who are interested should come.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

Fourth Day Celebration

One of the biggest celebrations ever witnessed will be sponsored at the County Training School July 4th. Remember, the cake eating, hog calling, and cow calling contests. You must be there early to see the broad jump, high jump, wheel barrow and sack races. The activities will begin about 11 o'clock, immediately after the first ball game. Come!! Everybody.

Up About Lomax

I was up above Clanton the other day, looking over crops and other things. As a whole everything looked rather prosperous. Richard Turpin seems to be the leader up there. I am reminded here of the remarkable accomplishment he has made along the line of educating his children. One of his daughters graduated from the County Training School a few years ago, went directly to Tuskegee and is now Home Economics teacher at one of our new County Training schools. Two of his daughters are moving rapidly toward graduation and he declares they shall follow in their sister's footsteps.

He has a big strawberry farm which he says has helped him materially in keeping him running. In addition to that he has a prosperous looking crop.

While up there I stopped at J. M. Knight's place. He is doing a serviceable piece of work up there in Lomax. He commands the respect of everybody through his congeniality, poise, business methods and fairness. We need more men like him. Booker Washington said "The individual who can do what the world wants done will in the end make his way regardless to his race." Let us strive to make our way.

Line-Up One Time

I was talking with a farmer about cotton acreage reduction, and he made these remarks, "I don't know, looks like they are so tricky." I told him that he had tricked himself by planting all cotton and little or no food and feed crops. He has no milk, a few chickens and a very small corn crop. Now there is the trick, folks, and it's going to continue tricking you as long as you say, "Cotton, I stretch my hands to thee, in thee only, have I faith."

The recent drive for cotton acreage reduction is 100 per cent sound and should be followed. You had better line up one time. Come to Clanton Saturday and learn more about it.

WILES OF WOMEN

Whatever one may think of the present female habits of painting, penciling, dyeing and the like, it must be admitted that while the effects obtained may be to a degree deceptive, there is no attempt made to conceal the fact that artificial aids to beauty are employed.

Even the least sophisticated of men are aware that art is brought to the aid of nature with the utmost frankness. Whether the effects produced really lend charm to the modern woman is largely a matter of individual opinion.

In former times women who employed cunning devices to lure the male sex were sternly frowned upon. A Massachusetts law of 1634 forbade the wearing of 'any apparel, either woolen, silke, or lynnen, with any lace on it, or silver, golde or silver thread.' The English parliament in 1770 passed an act providing "that any woman who shall entice into marriage any of His Majesty's subjects by means of perfume, false hair or false hips shall be condemned as a sorceress and the marriage shall be declared null and void."

Since those days customs have changed greatly, but human nature has not.

LUTHER LITTLE RECEIVES MANY LETTERS OF CONGRATULATIONS

Prominent Men Over State Express Pleasure On The Election of Mr. Little As Superintendent of Education

While diligently working toward the shaping of his program for directing the school system of Chilton County, Luther E. Little, recently elected to the place of superintendent of education of Chilton County, on the Democratic ticket, has been receiving many congratulatory messages from all over the state. Not only has he been receiving these messages, but daily papers over the state have been giving him considerable space on his victory.

Mr. Little will take office on next Saturday, July 1st, and has been busy since the election, in acquainting himself with the machinery of the school system of the county. Following are some letters received from prominent citizens of Alabama, congratulating Mr. Little on his victory:

Birmingham, Ala., June 23, 1933.

Dear Luther:

I am writing to congratulate you upon your success in being elected County Superintendent of Education. I had a strong conviction that you would win the race. I have made several inquiries from time to time and received replies indicating that things were in your favor. I will be interested to know how close the race was and some of the incidents that arose.

With all good wishes for success during the administration, I am

Most cordially yours,
OSCAR S. CAUSEY,
Registrar, Howard College.

Montgomery, Ala., June 24, 1933.

Dear Mr. Little:

This is the first opportunity I have had to extend to you a sincere expression of congratulation on your election to the important and responsible position of Superintendent of Education of Chilton County. As you are aware, I deplore the selection of people for this important office on the political basis. My gratification on account of your election is due not to the fact that our party affiliations are the same, but rather to the fact that the good people of Chilton County chose to place fitness for office above mere partisan consideration. I, therefore, congratulate both you and the citizens of your county.

May I add in this connection that the resources and facilities of this Department are at your command. The State Department of Education of Alabama rightfully belongs to its people. Its primary functions should be friendly, pro fessional, and advisory. So long as I remain your Superintendent its directory and mandatory functions will be exercised only as the law may require. I hope you will feel free to call on us for any assistance that we can possibly render.

With all good wishes for you both officially and personally, I am

Sincerely yours,
A. F. HARMAN,
State Supt. of Education.

LaFayette, Ala., June 24, 1933.

Dear Mr. Little:

I want to congratulate you on your recent victory in Chilton County. You must be an all right fellow to win an election in what is considered a Republican stronghold. Maybe as a good Democrat you have broken the ice or paved the way for more Democratic victories. I rejoice with you and trust to meet you soon in some of our meetings.

Yours very truly,
G. M. BARNETT,
County Superintendent of Education.

Birmingham, Ala., June 24, 1933.

Dear Friend:

Please accept my congratulations on your splendid, successful political venture. You will make those people a splendid County Superintendent of Education.

Drop in and see me at any time you are in our City and have the time to spare.

Kindest regards.

Sincerely yours,
COL. W. A. BERRY,
Member Board of Education, Jefferson County, Chairman Board of Trustees, Director of Howard College.

Montgomery, Ala., June 24, 1933.

Dear Mr. Little:

This is written to express to you my satisfaction on account of your recent success as a candidate for the office of superintendent of education of Chilton County. While it will be a distinct personal and professional loss for Mr. Lawrence to retire from the office which he has filled so acceptably, it will be my personal and official pleasure to be associated with you in the solution of many difficult problems of school administration with which we shall from time to time be confronted.

Please feel free to call on us for any service which you shall find in the discharge of your duties that we can render. If you are to take office, as I assume, on July 1, one of the first important functions which you will have to perform is the conduct of the examination for teachers' certificates which you will hold on July 17-19. All supplies and instructions for the holding of this examination have already been sent to Mr. Lawrence, who will deliver them to you in time.

Very truly yours,
P. W. HODGES,
State Department, Secretary Division, Teacher Training, Certification, and Placement.

John A. Lee, Publisher of The Hilo Hawaii) Press, says:

"During depression time advertising is absolutely necessary. Competition is keen but advertisers are less and so the person who advertises during this period is the one who will profit.

"It does not make any difference if you live in sunny Hawaii or cold Alaska, advertising in newspapers is read.

"People believe in what they see in black and white. There is some kind of a magic in the written word. Those who hear you bark about your wares may say it's a lot of hooey, but the very same ones will approve when they read it in the papers.

"Advertising in newspapers in times of economic uncertainty will bring customers who have faith in the future and who will spend their money which they would have hoarded otherwise."

Mission Institute Of Unity-Chilton Assns.

July 11, 12, 13th should be checked on your calendar today, and plans made right now, by all Baptist families that nothing may prevent you from being at Clanton Baptist church, at least ten minutes before ten o'clock each day, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 11, 12, 13th, for the greatest Institue ever held in this part of the state.

For four years now, we have been having an Institute each Summer in which the Christian people of our two associations, regardless of denomination, come together for three days of Fellowship, Information, and Inspiration. This year we have secured an unusually strong faculty. Dr. John R. Sampey, Louisville, Ky., is to be back with us; Dr. J. W. Beagle, Supt. of Home Missions; Miss Emma Leachman, Home Mission Field Worker: Dr. Frank McDonald, pastor of Woodlawn, Birmingham, and many other fine speakers and teachers. The program will be given in full next week.

We are to study Home Missions, particularly this year. Cheap books have been secured and will be on sale. None cost more than twenty-five cents each. Anyone wishing a book may buy it. All the books are worth far more than they cost.

The lunch plans are as usual, each church bringing lunch one day. The menu and lunch chairmen are printed in the W. M. U. Year Book of Unity Association. The Superintendent, Mrs. J. W. Jones, Thorsby, and Mrs Grady Heflin, Clanton, are urging every church in their associations to be represented The pastors and the Sunday school superintendents are asked to make the above announcements next Sunday and the Sunday following. A pressing invitation is extended to all our pastors to come and bring all the workers in their churches.

This is a SPECIAL MEETING for the WOMEN, THE MEN, THE YOUNG PEOPLE, and THE CHILDREN. Plan to come and bring every member of the family. Each W. M. U. organization having one fourth the active members taking this study course will be credited with a Mission Study Class.

TWO-CENT STAMPS TO BE EFFECTIVE ON JULY 1ST

Washington, June 19.—An order restoring the two-cent local rate on first class postage on July 1 was signed today by Postmaster General Farley.

The reduction from the present three-cent rate is being made under a recently enacted law and Farley hopes the volume of business will be increased to a point where work will be provided for thousands of postal employees who otherwise might be furloughed without pay.

On July 1, postage on letters and other first class matter, except postal cards and private mailing or post cards, mailed for local delivery at postoffices having city, village or rural letter carrier service, will be at the rate of two cents for each ounce or fraction thereof. The rate on letters mailed to other cities or villages remains at three cents. The rate for cards remains at one cent.

RE-ROOF for all time

Careystone is a permanent roof—first cost is last cost. And it is as fireproof as stone.

Roof Beauty

Careystone is made in five attractive colors. And at no extra cost you can have the "Weather-Age" finish—made only by Carey.

A New Deal For Liver Sufferers

Don't be misled any longer. Calomel, salts, oils, mineral waters, laxative pills, herb teas, powders, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile food doesn't digest properly—it just ferments and decays—Constipation, gas, sour stomach, headaches and nervousness follow.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of their effect—You feel stronger, healthier, happier—life and color return to faded eyes and cheeks—appetite and digestion improve rapidly.

A STATEMENT IN REGARD TO DEATH OF JEFF BOWDEN

A few weeks ago, the News carried an article in regard to the death of Jeff Bowden, stating that his death was due to acute alcoholism, as the verdict of the coroner.

"The Washington Masquerade" Here

Next Monday and Tuesday, July 3 and 4, Lionel Barrymore will come to the Wadesonian Theatre, showing in "The Washington Masquerade." The story of this outstanding picture is outlined as follows:

Jeff Keane, middle Western lawyer, upsets the corrupt political machine of his state and is elected to the Senate. He arrived in Washington with his daughter, Ruth, and by his brilliant fight against light and power interests becomes a dominant figure. Hinsdale, chief lobbyist for the vested interests, finds he cannot bribe Keane, so uses Consuela Fairbanks, a woman attached to his lobbying "racket" and who handles the social contacts, to "vamp" him. Keane falls in love with her. They are married.

When Hinsdale feels that Keane's removal is necessary for the private owners of public utilities, Consuela persuades Jeff to resign from the Senate and become a corporation attorney for a large firm, secretly manipulated by Hinsdale.

Henri Brenner, distinguished foreign interests lobbyist and a co-worker of Consuela's, arrives from Europe. The two are in love. Henri at first is furious at her marriage, then realizes that it is only part of her "work". Ruth, the daughter, learns Consuela is untrue to Jeff, but he will not believe it.

The Senate starts an investigation of Keane's resignation. He returns home to discover Consuela in her lover's arms, and realizes what a fool he has been. Backed by the love of his daughter he goes before the Senate and lays open the entire structure of the lobbying system, scoring a brilliant victory. But the strain is too much for his heart, and as the senators file out, he dies in the witness chair.

DR. GRAGG SAYS VOTE ONCE AFTER THINKING TWICE

Editor, Chilton County News:

Listen all ye that labor and are heavy laden:

Along just after the middle of the hot month of July you will be called on to vote on some very important amendments, and please vote and vote right.

Don't forget, working man, laborer, farmer, merchant, doctor, or whoever you are; if you are a consumer, you are going to "foot the bill" when taxes are raised.

Heretofore I called your attention to this one important fact, and it is a fact, that no matter whether the tax is placed on beer, or on income, or on sales; you, the poor tax-ridden consumer will pay 90% of it and the big boy at the other end of the line will get 90% of the benefit derived therefrom.

Suppose you vote an income tax, do you believe the merchant, or manufacturer is going to cut his own throat by paying it without a murmur? No, he will raise his price and pass the buck to you, the consumer, and you can't blame him if you voted for it.

Suppose you do, or do not, vote the income tax, no matter which, and then vote the debt refunding bill. When you vote that, you open wide the gate for the legislature to meet once again gather unto themselves their 17 doorkeepers and hundreds of clerks and promptly proceed to pass a sales tax or almost any other revenue measure, because your vote, according to their view, will sanction that action.

Don't forget to vote NO unless you want your load made heavier. They will tell you that is your Chritsian duty to pay your debts, and I say so too, but listen, we have already paid this tax in to pay these debts and they have taken the money and spent it for other purposes, much of it illegally. After this has been done openly, purposely, brazenly, and above board, then Mr. Tax Payer, I credit you with having common sense enough not to vote another $20,000,000 on yourself for that same bunch to squander. They will tell you, "Oh! it must go for these debts only". I tell you they did take it and use it for other purposes than that for which you paid it in, and they are the same bunch; and if they could take it one time, they can and will take it again.

They are even tricking you to start with. They tell you that they need $19,000,000 to pay our outstanding debts, when in fact after deducting what has been paid and the cash on hand in various banks over the state, to the credit of the State Treasury, there is only a debt of about $12,000,000 we are told; so you see they seem to want you to vote an extra $7,000,000 more than is needed to refund outstanding debts. Seven million ought to be enough to play lots of politics with.

Surely you have not forgotten how during the last state campaign they told you that we were taxed too much and promised you no more tax raises, but, as you recall, as soon as they entered office, up went your taxes on gas, and many other things that it would be hard to do without.

Now they are telling you to repeal the eighteenth amendment and the beer tax will get everybody out of debts and run the state treasury over with revenue. In the first place it will not do all this, and in the second place if it did do these things the money must come from somewhere and 90% of that somewhere will be the pocket of some poor tax-ridden, hard working man whose family is going hungry and needs clothing and who owes honest debts that are due and unpaid.

Where does most of the money go that is spent for beer? Let's say that it will sell for fifteen cents per bottle, which must be a reasonable estimate, for they tell me they charge more than that for near-beer.

It costs less than two cents a bottle to make it; and let's estimate the revenue would be three cents per bottle, that leaves ten cents per bottle for Mr. Schlitz, Blatz, Budweiser and Co. So you don't wonder at the brewer fighting for repeal. It means millions paid in by the poor tax ridden common people and most of the beenfit accruing therefrom to the already rich brewer.

The biggest argument we hear for repeal is that prohibition does not prohibit. Well, it is true that some liquor is sold, but not nearly so much as will be if its sale is legalized.

Certanly if and when we pass a law to legalize the sale of intoxicants, we have placed the stamp of approval on such intoxicants and our boys and girls will look at it that way.

They say do away with prohibition laws because some liquor is still sold regardless of such law. If that argument is sound then why not do away with all law against murder, for some murder is committed still.

Why not take the law against rape off our statutes; for, so far, we have failed to punish the Scottsboro negroes for one of the most flagrant violations of its kind ever known in this state.

Why not cast aside all laws against embezzlement, robbery, deceit, fraud and mis-representations in general? For men in high places have talked about economy, lower taxes and better schools when seeking office, but when and after they get in office begin at once to unnecessarily squander money, raise taxes, and destroy schools by diverting school funds, and now have the nerve to come back and ask you to vote for more to handle likewise.

Don't fail to go out and vote and think, think several times before you vote. Use your head and reason this matter well.

Think that there are poor people who have paid in tax money in the past that are now suffering for the necessities of life.

Think that there are doctors in your county who have been forced to curtail much needed charity work because of high taxes on gas, cars and drugs. Think that some good farmers, honest men and true, have lost their homes because they could not keep up the tax and earn a living for themselves and family. Think that many others are on the verge of going the same way if the same causes still keep up. Think that your children have been forced out of school because the school funds have been taken from them by men that are now in office and who are asking you to vote more taxes. I say think of this and then vote your honest convictions.

IN REPLY TO LETTER FROM OLIVER

Clanton, Ala., June 19, 1933.

Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Sir:

There appeared an article in your paper last week signed by Mr. H. B. Oliver of Verbena, Alabama, some parts of which I doubt if I fully understand, but I will endeavor to answer and give the best information possible.

It is always a pleasure for me to explain any of my offical acts to the taxpayers of the County and any other matters with which I am connected, as I believe that the people are entitled to be informed about every public matter and to know where every dollar of public money is spent or invested for him.

Mr. Oliver says. "It is rumored that Judge Reynolds' Executive Committee of the R. F. C. met for the purpose of cutting overhead expenses, and did cut out some employees and cut down salaries of others, but not all." The Executive Committee of the R. F. C. funds is composed of Mr. C. Fenn Jones, Charlie Duke and myself. The Committee had a meeting and discontinued the services of two of the four social workers at a salary of $100.00 per month each and also discontinued one Clerk at a salary of $40.00 per month. This was a saving to the County of $240.00 per month. The Committee were of the opinion that two social workers and one Clerk could do the work and that the $240.00 per month would help to relieve the distressed situation in the County. Now, as to the $85.00 and $50.00 per month men, Mr. Oliver referred to, I presume Mr. Oliver had in mind as the $85.00 man, Mr. H. A. Harris who draws this amount per month as the clearing officer of the R. F. C. and the $50.00 per month man as Irving P. Kennedy, who was elected Clerk in road matters by the Court of County Commissioners last February. The Executive Committee has nothing to do with fixing these salaries or reducing them. Both Mr. Harris and Mr. Kennedy salaries were fixed and paid by the Court of County Commissioners and they alone have the right to reduce them. As Judge of Probate, it is my duty to preside over and record the proceedings of the Court of County Commissioners, and I am as much in the dark as to the duties and services rendered to the taxpayers of Chilton County by Mr. Kennedy for the $50.00 which he draws from the Treasury each month as any taxpayer in the County. The only duty I hear of him performing is that he checks lumber for the County, for which Mr. Dewey Rockett was paid the sum of $5.00 per month before Mr. Kennedy was elected Clerk.

In another paragraph of Mr. Oliver's letter he says, "Another rumor is that Judge Reynolds has diverted all the road funds to drainage of the Clanton swamps." I want to make it plain that I have had nothing to do with and have not suggested any project for the County to engage in since the four commissioners took charge early in the year, and I here disclaim all responsibility for the success or failure of any such projects. If the Commissioners have been successful in the handling of County affairs, the credit is theirs. If there is criticism then the four Commissioners and their advisors around the Court House should assume the blame. When the two new Commissioners took office in January they seemed to have but two purposes in view. The first to get rid of me and all my friends at any cost and the second was to take the taxpayers money and build up a political machine for the benefit of themselves and a few others around the Court House regardless of the costs to the taxpayers of the County.

I do not approve the way the commissioners has spent the County's money this year. I request all parties interested to read the Treasurers report which will be published July 1st in the Union-Banner and you can see for yourselves how the money has been spent.

If there is any further information that anyone of Chilton County wants to know, if they will request the same, I will be glad to furnish them with the same.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

P. S. Since writing the above article the Commissioners Court have discontinued the services of the other two social workers and Mr. H. A. Harris until further orders of the Court.

REPLYING TO LETTER FROM MR. OLIVER

Clanton, Ala.

Editor, Chilton County News:

When the President of the United States conceived the idea of appropriating a large sum of money for relief, he was fully aware that it would be accompanied by loss or waste.

The Congress was asked to pass laws making this money available to the needy, they were appraised of the truth that much of it would be used in the making, and large amounts would be spent before it could reach the public.

The R. F. C. federal administrators saw in this issuing large loop holes allowing much of it to drip through and not get to the fellow who was wearing the torn overalls. The State distributors, viz.: Thad Holt and Algernon Blair, were aware of the fact they could not get this money to the poor without some of it slipping away from them and being wasted. Judge Reynolds facetiously referred to as the "King Fish", (and by and large he has done many big things and handled many projects for the county at a saving to the tax payers and citizens of the county). When he was making his fight to secure Chilton County's apportionment knew that no federal funds had ever been used or expended without a heavy leakage, and that it would happen in this case but was willing to justify himself on this score with the fact that Chilton County was entitled to her quota of this fund, in the face of the fact the other counties of the State were securing large amounts, and on the ground it was not to be returned or paid back later. It being a donation loan. The county commissioners knew then, and do now, that it cannot be handled without a certain amount spilling through and being lost.

The local administrators, Red Cross, Welfare, and other R. F. C. administration employes, can see and realize there is bound to be waste and leaks to the spending of this fund. There has always been and will always be more or less personalities and preferments in handling this kind of fund. It is unavoidable.

The overseers appointed to oversee the hands apportioned to them and to have the work done know better than anyone else that the work cannot be carried on as successfully as if it was County or private funds.

It has been reported that the men and ladies employed and so apportioned to the several overseers to do the work look on this money as OURS and that there is no need of putting out to earn our own money. Other reports are to the effect that the hands are working good. The people everywhere look on these funds and have been made to believe by those higher up that this is a gift of relief for those in need, and that all that is required of them is to put in the time and get a ticket to draw on, and if any overseer should get hard-boiled and begin calling on the men under them to bear down you would hear a howl go up to high heaven against it. They would say these men are under-nourished and are not able to do heavy work like those who have had plenty to eat during the past months, so the leak is there and cannot be overlooked. Any man who has for a moment stopped to look around will readily see that every government job that has ever been advanced in this country was a big waste of money. Look to the lock at Wetumpka. How much was wasted there? How about the surveys for sea level elevation posts in this county? How costly were they? Then turn your eyes to the cantonments built by the government during the war. What about the loss of money there? And we can but look in the direction of Mr. McAdoo's railroad administration to see where millions, yes billions of dollars, were thrown to the four winds of the earth. We could name numerous other places where government waste has been seen in box car letters.

Now in the face of all these facts, it is surprising to us to see a man, whom we regard as one of the best business men in Chilton County or the State, a man of keen financial acumen, and one who has been a close student of nature, and has been one of the few who had the financial vision to weather the depression come out with a letter criticising some of the officials who are endeavoring to handle the funds in this allotment of relief money to Chilton County. I refer to the letter of my good friend, Mr. H. B. Oliver. Those who are employed in the work of distribution come from both political parties and are both men and women, and I feel that they are doing their best to handle these funds so there will be no more leakage or loss than there is dripping from other funds handled by men of other counties or states, and that they will acquit themselves with valor.

In conclusion may I say I have been closely associated with several of the personnel of this relief administration and I have found them to be equal in business ability to the average citizen of the county and I do not believe other men and women picked from the County at large would be able to do any better work. Some of these officials were elected to their places while others were appointed and as a whole are a representative lot.

take a large amount of cotton out of production, equivalent to at least 2,000,000 bales production, he is not prepared to proceed further with the plan.

3,000,000 Bales Is Quota

While fixing a 2,000,000 bale minimum, Wallace hopes to take out of production land capable of producing at least 3,000,000 bales. When the contract offers to be gathered up during the campaign have been brought together, the official decision will be made as to which shall be accepted.

The campaign will be handled by extension workers and other agricultural officials and will involve contact with nearly 2,000,000 cotton producers. The drive will be conducted on a county basis with an effort made to distribute rental payments as widely as possible in order to make the moneys serve the purpose of widespread business stimulation.

Yields vary widely in cotton, the average production being about 1-3 of a bale to the acre. By offering rentals on the basis of yield, Wallace will be able to avoid removing from production marginal lands or those with the poorest yield which might make a big showing in terms of acreage but would not be substantial in reducing the potential harvest.

In cases where the grower agrees to take an option at six cents a pound, the rental payment per acre will be based on these yields:

$6 Acre Minimum Rental

One hundred to 124 pounds of lint cotton per acre, $6; 125 to 149 pounds, $7; 150 to 174 pounds, $8; 175 to 224 pounds, $10; 225 to 274 pounds, $11; 275 and upwards, $12.

In cases where the grower does not care for an option he may elect to receive a cash payment in full for plowing up a portion of his crop.

For each acre yielding from 100 to 124 pounds, the payment will be $7; from 125 to 149 pounds, $9; 150 to 174 pounds, $11; 175 to 224 pounds, $14; 225 to 274 pounds, $17; and 275 pounds and upwards, $20.

The voluntary agreements or contracts to be signed by producers will constitute an irrevocable offer for a specified period of time during which Wallace may accept or reject it.

Administrators feel that offers to retire up to 20,000,000 acres may be obtained from growers and that this will make possible great selectivity in accepting offers and assure Wallace that a large amount of cotton of the potential harvest this year will be eliminated.

classes be paid a fair return for their labor. Above a set cost of production the producer may regulate his prices and profits as heretofore, but competition resulting in starvation of workingmen will be banned.

The Bill also provides for a public works program, which provides for the construction of highways, parks, public buildings, conservation, river and harbor projects, and other public improvement projects, costing approximately $3,300,000,000, for which bonds will be issued. Interest and sinking fund to cover this will amount to $220,000,000 per year, which will be raised in the following manner:

"By a tax of one-tenth of one per cent on corporation net worth, with five per cent additional on earnings above twelve and one-half per cent; a five per cent tax on corporation dividends to be deducted at the source; and an increase of one-half cent in the present gasoline tax; three-year extension of corporation consolidation-return authority with increase of one per cent in income-tax rate on consolidated returns, instead of the present three-fourths of one per cent."

The Agricultural Adjustment Act calls for the immediate plowing under of 10,000,000 acres of cotton in an effort to curtail overproduction and raise the price of the product. Throughout the cotton states efforts are being made this week to induce farmers to sign contracts to eliminate from 25 to 50 per cent of their cotton crops, under Government option. Six to $20 per acre will be paid farmers who are asked to comply with the agreement of this contract.

After this year regulation is expected to be based on planting control instead of destruction of the crops already planted. The success of the endeavor depends entirely on the co-operation given by the cotton farmers, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has said. It is a far-reaching program, Utopian in its conception, to prevent the agricultural class of this country sinking back into middle-age peasantry.

It is hoped that 2,000,000 bales of the present crop may be taken off the market through this program. The Secretary announced that maximum processing taxes—about 4.1 cents a pound on the basis of present price relationships —would be levied, beginning August 1, to finance the program.

The farmer can either take an outright cash payment for plowing up portions of his crop or can take a smaller rental and obtain an option on about 2,400,000 bales in amounts equal to the estimated output of the land he retires from production.

Perhaps more important than the immediate results of either Bill is the future effect that they are expected by students of political science to have on the economic and governmental systems of this country in years to come, resulting perhaps in a more centralized system of Government with governmental control, if not governmental ownership of industries.

Former Chilton Girl Killed In Birm'gh'm

Miss Myrtis Adams, 19, former resident of Chilton county and a neice of Miss Cleo Broadhead, of Clanton, died Saturday afternoon in a Birmingham hospital of injuries she suffered last Friday night, when the car in which she was riding with three other persons collided with a street car in Birmingham.

Three of the four persons in the automobile are dead and little hope is held for the recovery of the fourth. Besides Miss Adams, Rosanelle Dowling and Grady Garner died from injuries. A. L. Norris, the other occupant of the car, is not expected to live.

Miss Adams is well known in Clanton, having visited Miss Broadhead here several times. Her parents are both natives of this county. They had made their home in Birmingham for several years. Burial was in Forrest Hill cemetery in Birmingham.

Across a marriage license in the office of Eugene Henry, county license commissioner, is written notation, "Miss Adams passed away before the ceremony could be performed."

The license was issued May 16 to Miss Myrtis Adams, 19, and J. D. Sanders, 21.

Miss Adams, who lived at 957 53rd St., n., died Saturday from injuries she sustained in an auto-street car accident in West End, Friday.

P. Y. Whitman, justice of the peace and clerk in Henry's office, said that on the day of the tragedy he was informed Miss Adams and Sanders were to be married within two weeks.

WHAT IS A MAN WORTH?

—o—

Recent agitation against fabulous salaries or other compensation paid to top-notchers in the business and amusement world have brought to light some amazing figures.

Nearly everyone is familiar with th high values placed upon certain noted athletic, movie and radio stars; also there is general knowledge that high railroad and other industrial executiv have been receiving enormous salari

One outstanding example of extravagant remuneration for personal services is that received by George W. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Company. According to the official reports furnished to stockholders of that company Mr. Hill has received salaries and bonuses as follows:

In addition to a salary of $160,000 a year he received a bonus of $447,870 in 1929, $842,508 in 1930, $891,570 in 1931 In 1932 his salary was cut to $120,000, but in addition he received a bonus of $669,500, or a total of $789,500 for the year.

These large bonuses, it is understood, have been based upon the net earnings of the company, supposedly due to Mr. Hill's ability as a manager. And there is no doubt that he has been and is today one of the most efficient and successful executives in the world. In spite of the depression, his company has continued to make enormous profits. And during the four years si the business slump began he has ceived between $600,000 and $1,000,000 a year for his services.

The question arises as to whether he or any other man is entitled to recei that much money for managing any business, however large it may be. In other words, how much can the services of any man possibly be worth? A hard question to answer.

POLK BROTHERS TO TAKE AGENCY OF PLYMOUTH

Will Also Be Dealers For Chrysler Cars In This Territory

Right along with the announcement that Polk Brothers Motor Co., Inc., of Clanton, has given up the dealership of Chevrolet cars and trucks, comes the announcement that they are now Chrysler and Plymouth automobile dealers. This announcement was made this week by W. M. and George C. Polk.

Polk Brothers have long been affiliated with the automobile business in Clanton and during their ten or more years as such dealers, have built up a large business in this section. In commenting on their taking on the agency of Chrysler and Plymouth cars, Mr. Polk stated, "We want the people to just drive one of our cars. During our years as automobile dealers, we apparently had our eyes closed to the more modern type of car for safety, comfort, convenience and economy. An inspection of the Plymouth will show anyone that it stands up under tests of safety and everything wanted in an automobile at a low price."

They stated they expected to have a Plymouth in their show rooms this week, possibly today, and extended a wide invitation to the people to see it, and drive it. They will continue under the same firm name, and will maintain their usual competent employees. This brings a new dealership in automobiles to Clanton, as this is the first time Clanton has had a dealer for Chrysler and Plymouth cars.

COTTON GROWERS URGED TO ACCEPT PLAN OF GOV'T.

Prominent Business Men Heartily Endorse The Idea Stating That It Is The Salvation Of The Hour For Cotton

Terming the Agricultural Adjustment Act, which plans to eliminate 12,000,000 acres of cotton in an effort to regulate production—thus increasing the demand and raising the price of the product, "the farmer's only salvation" several of the more prominent business men of Clanton and Chilton county have declared themselves thoroughly in accord with the provisions of the Bill and are urging Chilton county farmers to cooperate with President Roosevelt's program to restore prosperity by agreeing to plow under 25 to 50 per cent of their crop.

A representative of the News discussed the proposition with several well-known business men of the county, including W. C. Robinson, prominent lumberman and farmer, J. N. Dennis, first president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau, Renfro Mullins, prominent merchant, F. J. Callen, president of the People's Savings Bank, and J. C. Page, cashier of the First National Bank, and each one declared himself thoroughly in sympathy with the Act.

With his characteristic terseness, W. C. Robinson termed the plan "the farmer's only salvation," declaring that the cotton farmer must "either accept this plan or crawl into a hole." Mr. Robinson continued to point out that the farmer will receive a dual benefit by co-operating with the county agent in meeting Chilton county's quota of 12,000 acres. He will be paid well for the cotton he takes out of production and again will benefit by the increase in price that is bound to result from the regulation of production.

Mr. Callen declared that he and the Peoples Savings Bank are behind the proposition 100 percent. "It hits the nail on the head with the idea of regulating the supply to meet the demand. We have no reason to anticipate an increased demand for cotton this year, so naturally the only possible way to give the cotton farmer relief will be to prevent over-production."

Mr. Page's endorsement was in much the same vein as Mr. Callen's, declaring that although the First National Bank is not requiring farmers, on whose crops it has notes, to sign agreements to plow under a part of their crops, they think it advisable.

"I stand squarely for the proposal to take a large acreage of cotton out of production," said Mr. Page, "believing it is the only means whereby the future price of the staple can be upheld."

Mr. Page turned to a government bulletin on his desk from which he quoted these words by President Roosevelt:

"The fate of the plan depends upon the support it is given by those who are asked to put it into operation. This program for the cotton producer essentially places the responsibility upon the individual farmer. He and he alone will in the last analysis, determine whether it shall succeed. This plan offers the cotton producer a practical, definite means to put into immediate application the method which congress has prescribed to improve his situation. I have every confidence that the cotton producers will face the facts and cooperate fully in the reasonable and practical plan that is proposed."

Concluding his remarks, Mr. Page said: "I agree with the government agencies that this program is the best and surest method of making the adjustments necessary to improve the cotton farmers' situation. I have hope and faith that the farmers of Chilton County will come across with their quota by Saturday night."

Renfro Mullins, of the Mullins & Moore business establishment, said that his firm holds notes on 6,000 acres of cotton in Chilton county and he is advising every tenant and customer to take advantage of "this wonderful chance" to adjust his economical problems. He declared that fertilizer men with whom his firm deals are strongly advising co-operation with the plan.

With less than half the quota set for Chilton county signed up, Mr. Stapp mailed the following circular to cotton farmers in Chilton county, urging them not to allow their county to lag in co-operation with President Roosevet and his plans for restoration of prosperity:

The final call is being made to see who is willing to cooperate in a cause which we think means for improvement in price of the cotton farmers crop. We have at present enough cotton to supply another year. The present report on cotton condition shows an increase of 7 to 10 per cent in acreage, 25 to 30 percent increase in fertilizer, stand good, weevil infestation very little, and an outlook for more than fourteen million bales of cotton this year. This crop added to our present carry over of about thirteen million bales will make a total of twenty-six to twenty-seven million bales of cotton.

Our government is offering to help us to help ourselves. I must say here that surely the cotton farmer who is not interested in cooperating in this great move must not understand it. I urge that if you know of a farmer who is not willing to cooperate in this proposition that you get a committee of 2 or 3 who know this person well and you and the committee go to him and do your best to explain and ask his cooperation.

At a meeting of field inspectors this morning, I instructed them to see everyone they could within the next few days and get a statement from the grower as to what he thinks is a fair basis of settlement and get his signature to same. I instructed the committeemen to not make any inspections this week

Fish tales and hunting tales have been told, some believed and some doubted, but John Deramus came to town Tuesday morning with a tale about catching rats. It sounded a little far-fetched but John was so sincere about it, it was difficult to doubt him.

MASS MEETING IS CALLED TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Will Try To Match Funds Of County With Those From R. F. C.

A mass meeting of the citizenship of Chilton county will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at the court house in Clanton, in response to a petition signed by more than fifty citizens requesting members of the Commissioners Court to use county funds to match a portion of R.F.C. funds to extend relief work in the county.

If the commissioners will appropriate $6,000 for relief, $10,500 will be available to the county from R.F.C. funds for this quarter, according to a letter to Judge [illegible] from [illegible], state director of R.F.C. [illegible] the appropriation is made Chilton county will receive only $7,[illegible] it was stated. The letter also stated that $2,000 of the $6,000 appropriated by the county will be returned.

Since the next quarter's appropriation to Chilton county will be one-third of this quarter, accepting or rejecting the proposition will materially affect next quarter's appropriation: One-third of $7,000 would only be $2,333.33, while if the county appropriation is made $7,500 will be available, it has been explained.

Start Driving Nails

In an editorial concerning the renovizing campaigns that have found a welcome in a multitude of American communities, the Saturday Evening Post says: "When a city or a town makes a united effort to improve the local employment and business situation, it also builds up its own confidence. There is less uncertainty and apathy when everybody pitches in to stimulate work of such a useful kind. . . It is nothing but good local business. But its greatest benefit will come when it is adopted by practically all the cities and towns in the country. The slogan of the renovize movement is a simple one, but for that very reason it is capable of having a far-reaching effect. The slogan is: 'If a man drives a nail he helps business'."

There is another good slogan, too, and that one is: "Employment and investment are cheaper than charity." One of the main purposes of renovizing campaigns is to provide the unemployed with productive work—as distinct from work which is not necessary, and is given more or less as charity. During the past three years millions of structures—hotels, warehouses, business buildings and residences—have been allowed to run down. Their owners have taken the attitude that economy came first—that they would spend as little as possible until they could see what was coming. To permit them to go on longer without repairs is the most prodigal kind of luxury. True economy is to protect the investment they represent by making improvements and repairs now—when they can be had at rock-bottom prices.

It's time to start driving nails.

School's out! Thousands of children all over the country are pouring forth from the classrooms to spend their days out of doors during the summer months. It's time for motorists to be more alert than ever—unless they are, many of these children will be injured or even killed as they traverse the streets and highways to fields and playgrounds.

The schools have done a fine job training youngsters to watch out for themselves. In consequence, when the statistics of adult and child pedestrian accidents are compared, the children are shown to be better. They are more safety conscious.

In spite of this good work 3,400 boys and girls between the ages of five and fourteen were killed last year and 152,550 were injured, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

Drivers, give these youngsters the right of way; drive slowly and cautiously through residential districts; and watch out for the child who darts out from behind a parked car. Every daylight hour should be a safety hour now that school is closed. Help to reduce child fatalities, and give the kids a break!

Roosevelt's Farm Program

Things are looking up in the South. Cotton at ten cents looks mighty good to those who have it and to those who are raising it. But it should not be overlooked that right now the price of cotton is in a precarious position.

The federal government, in line with President Roosevelt's program for restoring prosperity, has taken a big hand in the farmers' affairs. In every community meetings have been or are being held to present this program to cotton growers. All reports indicate that it has been meeting with widespread approval, but in view of the fact that the entire program is dependent upon the obtaining of a definite minimum reduction in cotton produced this year it is still important that every grower who has not already done his bit, seriously consider and cooperate in this move.

It should not be forgotten that this contemplated plan has been one of the biggest factors causing cotton to go up in price. And it should not be forgotten that failure of this plan will almost surely cause a serious drop in the price. If there was assurance that cotton prices would remain at even the present level without government intervention there would be no necessity for the above-mentioned plan. Success or failure is absolutely dependent on how cotton growers cooperate in this plan.

It should also be remembered that similar plans in all other important fields are going forward now for the purpose of raising the wage scales, commodity prices, etc. The textile manufacturing industry has already come to an agreement. Others are rapidly falling into line. It appears to this newspaper that it would almost be a disaster for the South if other major industries put into effect plans for higher wages and higher prices and the cotton producers should fail to put through this plan for their benefit.

As we see it this is not a time for bickering and delay, but emphatically a time for crystallized decisions and prompt actions. This country of ours is coming out of the slough of despondency. No one industry nor even any group, can do it alone, but altogether, we can do it with a bang. And we're betting on the cotton farmers of Chilton county and the South to come through with their part in this gigantic plan.

Factors at play now justify the belief that a heavy upturn in building work will occur before long. During the past two months small residential building has been moving steadily upward, the material makers have noticed a better than seasonal gain in orders. Building upturn would be felt in every industry—lumber, steel, transport, metal, paint and varnish, electric, gas, etc.—and would provide a vast amount of new employment, with a consequent jump in buying power. Also important would be its favorable effect on security values.

Don't let anybody tell you that it ain't hot in Chicago. I'm telling you it is. But one thing to look forward to during the day is the cool, pleasant, refreshing and otherwise pleasing breezes at night. The crowds at the World's Fair are tremendous. Perhaps I should say that 'the crowd is tremendous' because really it is one crowd and it is hard to find where it begins and ends. It don't cost as much to go to Chicago and attend the World's Fair as you think it does. Of course if you want to spend a lot of money there, you can easily do it. But if you just watch things it won't take you long to get on to how to get by, not miss anything, and still not spend much money.

If you go to Chicago, don't expect to find gangsters lingering on every block, nor don't expect to be held up and robbed, because that is all a lot of hooey or something. I don't mean that there are not gangsters in Chicago. I mean you wouldn't know one from Adam's house cat anyway. In one building at the World's Fair you can see an automobile built from start to finish. That is very interesting. But the whole thing is interesting, while not yet fully completed. It is easy to get around up there too. Not so easy to get lost as you might imagine.

The foregoing epistle on Chicago and the World's Fair does not necessarily mean that I have been there. I gathered that information from those who have been up there already. If my readers want to know where I've been for the past several weeks, it would be a rather difficult job to find out. Sometimes I don't even know myself. At any rate I'm back in print this week.

* * *

To say that I have been taking a vacation would be telling a fib, or disfiguring the truth, because I wouldn't know a vacation from nothing. To say that I have been scouting around in political circles, rendezous (if you know what that is) or something, to get some dope on the candidates for the office of Judge of Probate next year, would probably make some of our politicians sit up and read this column. To say that I have been ignored by the editor might be telling the truth.

While I've been out of print for sometime, there has been a lot of work going on next door to the News office. Dr. Hayes has had a bunch of carpenters, painters, masons and other workers, doing a lot of remodeling on three buildings on this block. And now it all comes to light. Dick Hayes is in the spotlight with his brother Jack, in this project that looks like a ringer. The new concern to occupy these three buildings will be the Hayes Chevrolet Company, of Clanton, operated by Messrs. J. W. (Dick) and M. C. (Jack) Hayes. And I understand that they take over the Chevrolet agency in this county on July 7th, which is tomorrow. Jack and Dick are sons of the one and only Dr. J. P. (Sie to his friends) Hayes, and of course everybody knows them. Jack is the Jack who has been attracting so much attention in big league baseball, while Dick has been attracting attention lately seeing that everyhing is getting in shape for the opening of their Chevrolet agency. Yes sir, this end of town is building up now.

This column notices that other business changes have taken place since its absence. Down on the block with the post office, in the building next door to the Farmers Hardware Company, is a new place of business "The Dollar Store." Clanton has never had a "Dollar Store" that I can remember until now. This new store is operated by Mr. and Mrs. H. Pinkerson, who come here from Montevallo to make their home and go into business. This column extends a welcome to the Pinkersons.

Now about this plowing up your cotton. Take it from me, it is the salvation of the cotton farmer. If this project goes over, you can look for a sharp rise in the price of cotton, is my opinion. If it goes under, then I hesitate to say what the outcome will be. Think it over, think fast, and cooperate to put over this program of the President.

Luther E. Little, superintendent of education of Chilton County. Now, there's something for you. And it is great to see how the people of the county are cooperating with Mr. Little since he went into office.

And it is amusing to note how some are trying to dope out why the Republicans were defeated in that election. Some express one excuse and some others, few expressing the right answer, in my opinion.

Now to give you a good laugh. Here's a clipping taken from some newspaper and the author of it is unknown to me. However I'm passing it on to you. If you have ever had a little too much home brew, or a drink or two too many, then you ought to get a good laugh:

"I had twelve bottles of homebrew in my cellar, and my wife made me empty the contents of each bottle in the kitchen sink. So I proceeded to do as my wife directed.

"I withdrew the cork from the first bottle and poured the contents down the sink, with the exception of one glass which I drank.

"I then withdrew the cork from the second bottle, and did likewise with the exception of one glass which I drank.

"I extracted the cork from the third bottle, emptied the good old brew down the bottle, except one glass which I drank.

"I pulled the cork from the fourth sink, poured the bottle down the glass when I drank some.

"I pulled the bottle from the cork of the next, and drank one sink out of it, then threw the rest down the cork.

"I pulled the sink out of the next cork and poured the bottle down my neck.

"I pulled the next cork from my throat and poured the sink down the bottle and drank the cork.

"Well, I had all of them emptied at last, and I steadied the house with one hand and counted the bottles, which were twenty-four. So I counted them again when they came around again and I had 74. And as the house came around again I counted them, and finally I had all the houses and bottles counted, so I proceeded to wash the bottles, but I had difficulty in getting the brush into the bottles, so I just turned them inside out and washed and wiped them all.

"And then I went upstairs and told my other half what I had done. And Oh Boy, I've got the wifest little nice in the world."

MORAL ECHOES
D. W. Haskew

I was sitting on the front porch of my parsonage home and as I watched a man walking down the sidewalk I gave my imagination full play. I imagined that the man was crippled and that he was limping on his left foot. After he had taken a few steps I was sure that he was crippled. I then imagined that he was limping on his right foot and in a moment I was sure that he was limping on his right side. Then I imagined that there was nothing wrong with either foot and in a moment I was sure that there was nothing wrong with the man. Our imagination is a strong thing. We imagine that certain things are true and it does not take us long to become sure that they are true. It is so easy for a preacher to imagine a thing, and soon he will be tell it as an actual fact in his experience. It is an easy thing for a husband, a wife, to imagine infidelity, and soon there is certainty. Better look out how you give play to your imagination—it will get you into the wrong. The imagination of many a boy has transformed a clump of bushes into a crouching beast.

When I was a boy I was the proud owner of a single barrel shot gun. To load it I had to use a ram rod, and to make it fire a cap had to be fitted down on a cap nub. The hammer had two stations, one half cocked, the other cocked. To protect the cap I would carry the gun "Half Cocked." I was told that it was safer that way. One day I was walking along looking for game, and making an awkward step I gave the gun a sudden jar and the hammer fell. The cap exploded and the gun went off with a terrific "Boom." If anyone had been just behind me it would have been too bad. I learned that it was possible for a gun to go off "Half Cocked." Since that day I have been the sad observer of many a human gun going off "Half Cocked." Not many people sit down and think a thing through before calling the tongue into action. Going off "Half Cocked" is one of the things that weakens the pulpit and that endangers the political situation of the world. We are always cautious when the gun is cocked.

Far out in the Gulf west of Tampa, Florida, there are many Coral reefs. The creatures of the sea that build up these coral reefs have a wonderful power to reach out among the transient waters and gather up the material and solidify that into a rock like substance. Thus they build castles in the water that are beautiful beyond description. Man has but one mission on earth and that is to produce character. He is endowed with a wonderful power that enables him to reach out among the ever-varying waves of this ocean of life that welters about him, and gather up the solid substance that can be transformed into character, and out of which can be made lasting monuments. The most beautiful thing that any man can build in this world is a character castle. To build this castle there must be effort and skill.

I was called to conduct a funeral. I had known the man for many years, but the one who came to ask for my services proceeded to tell me about his friend. Said he, "This man was one of the biggest hearted men I ever knew." After the man had gone I tried to figure out the characteristics of a "Big Hearted Man." I have heard that expression all my life, and it is generally applied to a man who drinks, curses, carouses and disregards the Sabbath, and yet he has a few redeeming qualities. Knowing what I do about the expression "He was a big hearted man," I trust that no one will use it in my case when I am in the casket and a preacher is sought to conduct my funeral. When a man is "Big Hearted" with purity and righteousness he is all right, but to be "Big Hearted" with profanity, whiskey and wickedness, that is o pig of another color.

The Circus came to town and the gates were rushed and the seats were filled. It only took twenty-five cents to see the show, and that was not much even during the depression. The poorest could save that amount to see the monkey and the clown. But sad to relate, many of that bunch who filled the coffers of the show management, will not attend church and never have a penny to give to God. "Where the heart is there will be the treasure also."

THE USEFUL HOBO

In the minds of most persons, the terms hobo, tramp and bum have practically the same meaning. But this idea is wrong, according to M. Leinen, agent for a large New York employment company, who declares that he has hired as many as 133,000 Bowery hoboes for railroad work in a single year, and says they were "a fine bunch of men."

Mr. Leinen describes the difference between the three classes mentioned somewhat as follows: A hobo is a traveling worker; a tramp is a traveling non-worker; a bum is a stationary non-worker. While the three intermingle in the large cities during the winter, and the classes are not strictly defined, when the opportunity comes the hobo is willing to work, while the others are not.

Hoboes travel from place to place seeking seasonable employment, such as harvesting, railroad and other construction work, as common laborers, so they fill a real place in the country's economic system. While they are not always exemplary in morals and conduct, they are honest and industrious, as a rule.

And they have a sense of pride as well. The hobo wants to be known as a hobo, and he is insulted when called a tramp or a bum.

AGRICULTURE
By Clifford Manning

Plant Diseases

The loss in various crops due to all diseases has been estimated each year from 1920 to 1930, inclusive. The extremes for each crop during the period are as follows:

1. Wheat losses from 8.9 to 16.9 per cent caused by bunt, stem rust, smut and scab.
2. Corn losses from 6 to 12 per cent caused by ear rots, root rots, smut and leaf rust.
3. Cotton losses from 9.1 to 20 per cent caused by angular leaf spot, wilt root knot, and anthracose.
4. Potato losses from 16.2 to 21.7 per cent caused by blight, tipburn, mosaic and rhizoctonid.
5. Sweet potato losses from 7.5 to 36.2 per cent caused by storage rots, stem rot and black rot.
6. Dry beans losses from 3.7 to 20 per cent caused by bacterial blight, mosaic, root rots and anthracnose.

There are a number of other crops that the same diseases affect, but these are the main ones.

Plant diseases may be classified as parasitic, virus and noparasitic. The parasitic diseases are the direct result of the attacks of parasites, namely fungi, bacteria and nematodes. The direct effects of insect attack on plants are not ordinarily classed as diseases in the United States. The virus diseases belong to a special class, and might be considered as a group under the parasitic.

They are infectious, have definite geographical distribution, and act in many ways like parasitic diseases, but no causal organisms have ever been isolated from them. The nonparasitic diseases form a large and varied group, comprising all types not caused by infectious virus. These are due in a general way to environmental conditions and to some extent to disturbances within the plant itself. Weather conditions, especially the extremes, have a profound effect on all three of these classes of diseases, and in the non-parasitic class may be the main or the sole cause.

Plants suffer from unfavorable weather in varying degrees. It is only the result of extremes which produces some marked injury or symptom from which they do not recover or recover imperfectly or slowly, that should be classed as disease.

The various weather factors may be outlined as follows: Temperature, precipitation (dew, rain, hail, snow, sleet), relative humidity, sunshine, wind velocity, barometric pressure, and electrical conditions. All these, except possibly the last two, very definitely influence plant diseases.

Topic for next week: "Plant Disease Control."

Letters To The Editor

MR. FARMER AND THE INCOME TAX

Following is a letter from Mr. W. S. Moore, received by the News with the request that it be published:

Editor, Chilton County News:

It is amusing to note how much the capitalist would have you, Mr. Farmer, believe he is looking out for your interest. They are spending thousands of dollars in order to get the income tax defeated. They are even publishing a paper called, "County and State" and sending it free to citizens throughout the State—free of charge mind you. Now, Mr. Farmer, do you believe that the Rich of this State is all THAT interested in your welfare, or is it to save their pocket books? I leave this up to you. If they had had last year this love for you and your children would they have permitted the school house doors to close in the face of your children, while their children, located in the richer counties completed their school year, either in a public or a private school? Would they have allowed the taxes on many homes in Chilton county to have gone unpaid? I ask you Mr. Voter did they help you thru this crisis. No, the rich will love you so much as to put their arms around you, tell you what a fine fellow you are, how you have been mistreated by the legislature and Governor, provided you will do just one thing, and that is: to vote against an income tax which will finally lower your advalorem taxes and make them pay a fair part of taxation. If you, Mr. Farmer, will pay all the taxes this so called "Economy League" will say you are a good citizen who attends to his own business and don't harm anybody.

The income tax amendment states specifically, that after the floating debt of Alabama is paid, the returns from this tax will go to reduce advalorem taxes. Also, Mr. Voter, think what a luxurious living one has before he has an income tax to pay. If he is a married man, he has to make three thousand dollars net and is allowed three hundred dollars exemption for each dependent under eighteen years of age. How many farmers in Chilton County made that much last year? I am sure every farmer wishes he could make above this amount where he would have to pay an income tax.

Who is it that is fighting the income tax It seems that Victor Hanson of the Birmingham News, whose salary often ranges above $100,000 per year—I am told, and Horace Wilkinson, who received approximately $53,000 during the Graves administration. It doesn't take a man with two good eyes to see why they are so bitterly opposed to an income tax. However, Mr. Farmer Voter, they could afford to pay a small income tax to the State of Alabama, help us get out of debt, and then, they would have more than fifty average citizens left.

The income tax cannot be handed down to the little man as some people would have you believe. When a man tells me it can, it sounds as ridiculous as the story the carpet baggers told the negro during the Civil War, that was: When they secured their freedom they would be given a mule and forty acres of land. The statement that the income tax can be handed down has about that much truth in it. How is the salaried man going to pass the tax down? How is the business man, when he is going to have to meet competition? It just can't be done, and that is why the fight is on. I say, Mr. Farmer, don't let them pull the wool over your eyes. Go to the polls on July 18 and vote for the income tax amendment. This means a beginning of reduction of taxes on homes and farms.

W. S. MOORE.

A REFLECTION FROM LIFE

Emmarene Dawson

There are many ups and downs in life
The way is hard to go,
But up in heaven there we'll be Far happier than below.

Life is only sorrow,
Sin may take the way;
But ever look to Jesus,
He'll teach you how to pray.

Father has forsaken,
Friends have gone astray;
Put your trust in Jesus,
He will lead the way.

Mother, she is patient,
Reasoning with all;
Christ shall surely lead her,
He'll never let her fall.

Let us all work hand in hand,
Trusting that is all;
Then at last with trials past,
We shall hear His call.

It Takes More Than Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, or Laxative Pills To Arouse a Sluggish Liver

They Give Only Temporary Relief From Constipation and Biliousness, Because They Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest—it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills [illegible] the cause of this condition in [illegible] way. They are not like any [illegible] medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and [illegible] in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative at all.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances.

Only 60c for a full 30-day treatment. At your druggist, or write G. F. Willis, Inc., [illegible], Ga. (adv.)

REGARDING COTTON TAKEN IN ON GOVERNMENT LOANS

The Farm Credit Administration, in accordance with the Agricultural Adjustment Act, was directed by Congress to sell to the Secretary of Agriculture all cotton taken from growers on Seed and Crop Production loans, which will amount to about 788,000 bales.

The Farm Credit Administration has made arrangements whereby final settlement for this cotton with the growers will be made on the basis of 9½c per pound, based on July New York, for middling 7-8 cotton, with current adjustments for variations in grade, staple and location.

The various agencies handling this cotton are rapidly developing final settlement reports for the farmers on this price basis. These reports will be mailed in the near future. In cases where the sales proceeds exceed the loans and costs, the differences will be paid to the growers In cases where the proceeds are less than the loan and where the collateralized value placed on the cotton is greater than the sales proceeds, the grower's note will be credited with the amount of the collateralized value in an amount not in excess of the note.

This trade was consummated by the Farm Credit Administration and the U. S. Department of Agriculture on June 19, at which time the cotton market for July New York middling 7-8 was 9.12, or 38 points under the settlement basis.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. FANNIE MALINDA BEASLEY

It was on May 26, 1933, that the Death Angel visited the home of Mrs. Alice Seals and claimed for its victim her mother, Mrs. Fannie Malinda Beasley. She was 81 years old. She was born in Georgia in 1853, and moved to Alabama with her parents when a small child, where she spent the most of her life. She was married to John Wilson of this state and to that union there was added eight children, four now living and four dead.

God saw fit to call her husband away while they lived in Mississippi. She then lived a widow for several years and was again married to Henry Beasley and to that union no children were added. They lived in Shelby county until the time of his death. He lived only a few years when God again saw fit to take him away, leaving her alone. She then lived with her children until the time of her death. She lived with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Lillie Mims of Jemison most of the time, that is where she called her home.

Grandmother was a member of the church from the time she was a young girl until the time of her death. Grandmother always enjoyed all religious affairs. She was a great Bible reader; seemed that the most of her pleasures were found in reading the Bible and other good books. Grandmother never worried over things of this life. She was always of good cheer. She was loved by all who knew her. She was generally known over her community as "Aunt Fannie."

She leaves to mourn her loss two sons and two daughters as follows: Johnnie Byrd Wilson of Greenville, Texas, Leavie Wilson of Gantts Quarry, Ala., Mrs. Alice Seals of Siluria, Mrs. Lillie Mims of Jemison, Route 1; one sister, Mrs. Sallie Cooper of Calera, Ala., and a host of grandchildren, relatives and friends.

She was laid to rest in Union Grove cemetery with the Rev. Honeycutt officiating, Jeter Funeral Directors of Montevallo in charge.

Sleep on, grandmother, and take your rest.
God giveth life and taketh it, for He knows just what's best.
We miss, O we miss her, no human tongue can tell.
We had to say good-bye, but we never said farewell.
A precious one from us has gone.
A voice we loved is still.
A chair is vacant in our home that never can be filled.

Over yonder in the grave yard where the flowers gently wave, lies one we love so dearly, in her cold and silent grave. As her loved ones, brokenhearted, stood aside to weep, safely in the arms of Jesus she gently falls asleep. She is gone, but not forgotten.

—Written by a granddaughter who loved her, Mrs. Mollie Crowe, Montevallo, Ala.

OF INTEREST TO NEW CEDRON AND NEW HARMONY

The men of Shiloh, New Cedron, Culp and New Harmony communities are requested to meet with the men of Fairview Friday the 7th, to help fix a canning center in the grove between Archie Patterson's and Elijah Devaughn's. We really will appreciate the cooperation of the men of the surrounding communities in helping to fix the furnace and tables for canning demonstrations, as the ladies of those communities are to work at the Fairview canning center. As many men as possible come Friday, the 7th, bring equipment to work with. The men of Fairview will furnish material for furnace, but all bring materials for tables.

I believe Miss Pardue is doing a noble work in this county and we want to give her our cooperation to the fullest extent, in order to help suffering humanity

We are betting on you men to come Friday and fix the center in order that we may begin our program Saturday, the 8th, of helping suffering humanity.

By The GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at its last extraordinary session ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which proposed amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from and after the final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature at which the amendment was proposed, and

WHEREAS, the said session of the Legislature at which the said amendment was proposed finally adjourned on Friday, April 14, 1933, and the first Tuesday after three months from and after the said final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature is Tuesday, July 18, 1933, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by a proclamation of the Governor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 18th day of July, 1933, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz:—

"Section 213. After the ratification of this Constitution, no new debt shall be created against or incurred by the State, or its authority except to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, and then only by a concurrence of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature, and the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and entered on the journals; provided, the Governor may be authorized to negotiate temporary loans, never to exceed Three Hundred Thousand Dollars, to meet the deficiencies in the Treasury, and until the same is paid no new loan shall be negotiated; (provided, further, that this section shall not be so construed as to prevent the issuance of bonds for the purpose of refunding the existing bonded indebtedness of the State. Provided, further, that this Section shall not be so construed as to prevent the Governor from paying interest at the rate of not exceeding 5% per annum, payable semi-annually from July 1, 1933, on the floating indebtedness of the State at the close of business on September 30, 1932, as shown by outstanding and unpaid warrants drawn on the Treasury, as provided by law, amounting in the aggregate to $16,943,357.12 and items enumerated in an Act of the Legislature number 294, being Senate Bill 272, approved November 9, 1932, all of which are hereby ratified and confirmed.) All warrants and/or instruments issued or to be issued representing such indebtedness shall be a direct obligation of the State, and for the prompt and faithful payment of the principal and interest thereon, the full faith and credit of the State is hereby irrevocably pledged, and such warrants and/or instruments shall be exempt forever from all taxes of every kind. Any Act creating or incurring any new debt against the State, except as herein provided for, shall be absolutely void. In case there is, at the end of any fiscal year, insufficient money in the State Treasury for the payment of all proper claims presented to the State Comptroller for the issuance of warrants, the Comptroller shall issue warrants for that proportion of each such claim which the money available for the payment of all of said claims bears to the whole, and such warrants for such prorated sums shall thereupon be paid by the State Treasurer. At the end of each fiscal year all unpaid appropriations which exceed the amount of money in the State Treasury subject to the payment of the same after the proration above provided for, shall thereupon become null and void to the extent of such excess. Any person violating any of the provisions of this amendment shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine of not exceeding Five Thousand Dollars, or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than two years, one or both, at the discretion of the jury trying the same, and the violation of any of the provisions of this amendment shall also be ground for impeachment."

Ninety per cent of Master Farmers in the United States listen to agricultural talks over radio; one-third keep notes; and more than half request printed information offered. These facts were learned from a survey by National Broadcasting Company.

Canadians are the champion butter eaters of the world. From 1928 to 1931 the per capita consumption in Canada increased from 28.54 to 30.24 pounds. If the United States would do as well it would need to produce 1,350,000 lbs. more butter, and that is not a long way from doubling its present production.

LYNCHING RECORDS SHOW DECREASE IN TEN YEARS

There were 6 lynchings in the first six months of 1933. This number is 1 more than the number 5 for the first six months of 1932. In 1923, that is ten years ago, there were 15 persons lynched in the first six months of the year.

During the first six months of 1933 there were 14 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. In 9 of the instances the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented; in the 5 other instances force was used to repel the would be lynchers; thus a total of 17 persons, 6 whites and 11 negroes, were saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the persons lynched 2 were white and 4 were negro. The offenses charged were rape, 1; murder, 4; charge not reported, 1.

The States in which lynchings occurred and the number in each State are as follows: Georgia, 1; Louisiana, 2; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 1.

Says Company Holds Unusual Sales Record

National Survey on Preference Places Manufacturer in First Place

For the eighteenth consecutive year, Goodyear tires enjoy a greater public preference than any other kind, according to Dief's Service Station, local Goodyear dealer.

"Recent national surveys indicate that public preference for Goodyear tires is even greater in 1933 than it was before," it was stated. "Nearly one-third of the tires sold in this country are Goodyears.

"During the past five years many newcomers have taken their place in the Goodyear line—the Airwheel for airplanes, the Airwheel for passenger cars, the pneumatic lug tire for tractors, the pneumatic farm tractor tire, the new and advanced Goodyear bus and truck balloons that have revolutionized long-distance pay-load hauling.

"Eearly this spring, Goodyear concentrated its production of passenger car tires on but two main lines, both manufactured with full center traction for gripping the road and with the famous Supertwist cord which gives the tire longer life and greater mileage," Mr. Dief continued. "Overwhelming public preference indicates the motorist would rather buy first-choice merchandise, especially when it costs no more than second-choice. This has been my experience, too, during the years I have been selling Goodyears.

"When one considers the pioneering that has been done by Goodyear in all phases of tire development, and the consistent quality that has been built into that line of tires, it is no wonder the statement that 'more people ride on Goodyears than on any other kind' has held true for 18 straight years," Mr. Diefenderfer concluded.

Oliver Manning Is Fellowship Winner

Special honors of national importance have been won by a local boy, Oliver O. Manning, junior student at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, according to an announcement just released by the Danforth Foundation and Purina Mills at St. Louis, Missouri. Manning is one of 30 American and Canadian college agricultural students to receive fellowships calling for four weeks' training in business and agricultural leadership.

This group of honor men are scheduled to arrive in St. Louis on August 7 and for two weeks will be actively engaged in a study of the operation of big business organizations. Then they are to spend two interesting weeks on the shore of Lake Michigan near Shelby, Michigan, at the American Youth Foundation Camp where recreation and inspiration will be combined in a strenuous course of leadership training along with other young people from all over America.

According to the established practice, three candidates were selected by the Dean of Agriculture at Alabama Polytechnic Institute and from these three the officials of The Danforth Foundation have picked Oliver O. Manning as the man whose ability and experience seemed to make him best qualified for the training.

At College, Manning is a member of the Block and Bridle, Ag Club, Glee Club, and Kappa Delta Pi. He was State Secretary of the Future Farmers of America in 1929-30, and obtained his National Farmer degree in 1931.

ORIGIN OF BASEBALL

While baseball as we know it is a sport of comparatively recent development, a game in which a tossed ball was batted with a rude club has been traced back to the 14th century in Europe. The present American game was probably an outgrowth of that of "town ball," played in New England from about 1830, in which the runs were made around posts set in the ground, instead of bases.

The first code of baseball rules was formulated by the Knickerbocker club of New York in 1845, the first match game was played the following year, and the first gate-money series of games took place at Hoboken in 1858. The development of the game was checked by the Civil War, but was revived in 1865, when a convention was held at which representatives of 30 clubs were present.

A Rockford, Ill., team first employed regularly salaried players, but the Cincinnati Red Stockings, organized in 1868, is considered the first professional club. It made a tour in 1869, winning 69 games without meeting a single defeat. In 1870 it won 29 straight games being defeated in the 30th by the Atlantics of Brooklyn.

Gamblers having gotten control of the game, a convention was held in Louisville in 1876 at which strict rules to overcome bribery, betting by players and other abuses were adopted, and the National League was formed. There are now more than 20 professional leagues, of which the National and the American, originally the Western, (formed by Ban Johnson in 1893) are the two "big leagues."

The most significant event in baseball history was the appointment of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis as "baseball czar" in 1920.

BEES AND OTHER THINGS

Dear Editor and Readers

If you will please furnish me a small place in your paper I shall be delighted to run a series of articles on the above subject.

As we now have an organization in the county to cooperate in the matter of Bee Culture, we wish to give the subject our best effort. When I was just a boy I became interested in bee culture by contact with my grandfather who was almost an expert in the business. Since then I really enjoy the work and study of "these little folk" for they not only produce a sweet that is unsurpassed and a product that would be lost, but they are very valuable in the matter of pollination of plants.

The honey bee is dreaded by most people because she (not he) is ever ready to give marauders a serum by injection. This is the means of protection God gave the bee. By a careful study and work with bees, anyone can avoid almost all stings. They are "non-respecters of persons" and the saying that bees just naturally sting some and do not sting others, is false. They are exceedingly sensitive to the way you do, the way you smell, and when you work.

The most experience some people have in working with bees is robbing and hiving them in an old fashioned hive. (Some old-fashioned things are good, but don't talk to me about old fashioned bee hives.) Robbing and hiving are only small parts of bee work. Having them in patented hives so that you can work with them properly is just as essential as spraying fruit to have worm-free peaches

Please let us consider two points to begin with: 1. The getting rid of old-fashioned hives by transfering. 2. The getting rid of the old black bee by re-queening every year. The experience of the best bee keepers is that the Italian is far superior to the black bee in every respect.

I shall be glad if I can be of any assistance to anyone in bee keeping

It is hoped that everyone in the county having even one hive will send in his name to Mr. Stapp or to me. It costs you nothing.

G. G. WILLIAMS.

BUSINESS LOOKS UP

The continued improvement in business and employment conditions which has been in evidence during recent months has begun to convince even the most pessimistic that we are really on the road to national economic recovery.

Many factors are contributing to this most desirable result, and it can not be doubted that the bold legislative program enacted by Congress at the request of President Roosevelt is the most important of those factors. This can be freely said without the slightest political partisanship, because leaders of both parties have had a part in passing this legislation.

Among the measures recently passed by Congress and various state legislatures, it is believed by many that the laws legalizing the sale of 3.2 per cent beer have been especially beneficial in affording widespread unemployment relief, while at the same time contributing to the cause of real temperance thru curtailing the consumption of vile bootleg liquor.

Many industries, including the manufacture of brewery equipment, bottles, barrels and boxes, ice machinery and refrigeration facilities, and other supplies have given a new market to products of the farm, forest and factory, as well as employment to many men.

Taxes paid to the Federal, state and local governments during the short time in which the sale of beer has been permitted have exceeded all expectations.

President Roosevelt himself is said to believe legalization of beer to be an important factor in his recovery program, and to an unprejudiced observer it seems to be working out that way.

Gulledge - Brown Wedding Solemnized

A wedding of interest throughout the State took place on June 28 in Maplesville, when Miss Frances Brown became the bride of Frank Dudley Gulledge of Verbena.

The marriage was impressively solemnized at four o'clock on Wednesday at Trail's End, the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton Abney, near Maplesville. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Mr. Peacock, pastor of the Methodist church in Maplesville, in the presence of a group of the intimate friends and close relatives of the bride and groom.

The spacious old Abney home was beautifully decorated with crepe myrtle, gladioli and ferns. An aisle was formed with white ribbons from tall floor baskets to an arch covered with smilax and lighted with white candles.

It is interesting to know that for one hundred and eleven years, the daughters of the Abney family have married in the same room of this old house.

Preceding the ceremony, the candles were lighted by Marion Louise Bankhead, the lovely little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bankhead of Jasper.

Mrs. C. N. Parnell, pianist, Sidney Lanier Gibson and Aubrey Robinson, violinists, and Werth Foshee, vocalist, rendered a musical program of appropriate wedding music preceding the nuptial vows.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Mrs. Heyward Kirtwright, of Tuskegee, who was formerly Miss Evelyn Alley of Chattanooga.

The groom had as his best man Eugene Bailey, Jr., of Decatur.

The bride, lovely in an ensemble of navy blue triple sheer crepe with harmonizing accessories, was given in marriage by her brother, Thomas Hamilton Abney Brown. Her hat was of light blue felt and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

Betty Crumpton, the beautiful little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Crumpton of Atlanta and Montgomery, carried the ring on a silver tray.

An informal reception followed the ceremony and Miss Louise Foshee and Miss Blossom Crumpton served punch to the guests.

After the ceremony, the bride and groom left for a short motor trip, after which they returned to Maplesville where they will make their home. Mr. Gulledge is connected with the State Highway Department there.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Horatio Brown, and the granddaughter of the late Samuel Abney. She was educated at Alabama College and Woman's College of Alabama. On her mother's side she is a descendant of William Cecil, Lord Burleigh of England. Mrs. Brown was Frances Mae Abney, whose family came to Alabama from Virginia over a hundred years ago. The Abney family has been prominently identified with middle Alabama social and business life for several generations and claims a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Gulledge is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gulledge of Verbena. On his maternal side he is the great-grandson of the late Dr. H. W. Caffey. He attended Starke's University school in Montgomery and received his Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Alabama.

A REPLY TO LETTER FROM DR. V. J. GRAGG

Editor, Chilton County News:

"Listen all ye that labor and are heavy laden" is the text of Dr. V. J. Gragg's letter published in your last week's issue in opposition to the Income tax and Debt Validating amendments which are to be voted on on July 18th.

I crave the privilege of using some of your space to argue an opposite view from this same text.

Dr. Gragg says: "The working man, laborer, farmer, merchant, doctor, or whoever you are; if you are a consumer, you are going to 'foot the bill' when taxes are raised." Yes, that is true "when taxes are raised"; but collecting a tax from those who are now escaping taxation is not raising taxes in the general acceptance of the term. The fact is, the laborer, merchant, doctor and all consumers are paying the tribute already to the men and corporations of big incomes and they are building finer houses, buying finer yachts, automobiles, diamonds, taking more expensive and luxurious pleasure trips and building up larger bank accounts instead of paying a small part of their large incomes to help run the schools and other departments of the State. They enjoy the protection of the State and derive their wealth from the labor of the people and the natural resources of the State which, of right, belong to all of the people. There are many of them who pay no taxes whatsoever, unless they own an automobile. They have to pay on that, but there is no way of collecting on their jewelry, expensive furniture and other items of luxury which they own because, owning no real estate, they do not have to make an assessment. I am reliably informed, there are many factory managers, sales representatives, professional men and others who reside in the state, make large salaries; but live in rented apartments and pay no taxes. They have as much protection, share in all the benevolences and enjoy all the privileges that we of little incomes have. Aren't we working men paying their large incomes as much as we would be if they had to bear their share of the expenses of government? And how can they pass any more on down to us that they are passing already? Do they not charge as much as the traffic will bear regardless of taxes? The cost of an article or service can be and is always the basis of the selling price, but the profit on the article or service is quite another thing and can not be put above the point that competition, supply and demand fix for it, and it is the profit alone on which an income tax can be levied, therefore, they can not pass any more on to the consumer than they are passing already. I must, therefore, conclude that an income tax is a just tax and a fair tax. The only serious objection I heard to the Income tax amendment we voted on in 1932 was, it had no limit. That objection is not in the amendment we are to vote on on July the 18th. The tax is limited to 5% on individual incomes and 3% on the incomes of corporations. The exemptions of $1,500 to a single individual and $3,000 to a married individual makes it possible for us to have a comfortable living without paying one cent of income tax. It is a tax based on ability to pay, which is right in any standard of ethics, and a tax that every patriotic citizen should be glad to pay.

Dr. Gragg seems to fear the Debt Refunding Bill also. He thinks that would open the way for a sales tax. I wonder why he thinks the way has to be opened. Hasn't it been open all the time The leading newspaper now opposing these amendemnts ran a banner at the head of its editorial page favoring a sales tax until it saw that continuing to favor a sales tax would so anger the voters with them that they could have little influence with them in opposition to the income tax (which would touch them in a tender spot) and they hastened to abandon their banner and take the other side of the sales tax issue. But just wait till the danger of an income tax is past and see if they do not renew their fight for a sales tax. We have lots more to fear from the sales tax if the income tax is defeated than if it is ratified.

Dr. Gragg says "Vote NO unless you want your load made heavier." Will he say the same to a debtor of his If we vote NO to pay a debt we owe collectively, will we not do the same with a debt we owe individually? Will you do that Dr. Gragg? Will you say these thousands of poor teachers who labored faithfully with your children and mine to make better potential citizens of them should not be paid for their conscientious toil? Will you say the contractors and laborers who built goo school buildings whic hthe future g erations as well as the present will benefits from, should lose their and material? That is just what will be saying if you vote NO on this amendment.

Then Dr. Gragg seems to see anothe bogyman in the fact that $20,000,0 asked for when, as he says, only a $12,000,000 is needed. He seems t want you to believe that our gover our legislators and our other state ficers are thieves or crooks at who have criminally disposed of th money we owe and that they are ing to hoodwink us into providing money for them to steal. Will he they stole the money they owe teachers? Will he say they stole money we owe for our many ma icent school buildings all over the state Will he say they stole the money t build Kilby Prison and to buy and the Atmore Prison Farm? Was there not many years ago, a great hue an cry to take the prisoners from th mines? and did we not lose over million in revenue besides the cost preparing to maintain the convicts ou of the mines? Have we not all bee loud in our demands for better scho buildings and for longer term sch and have not our Governors and ou legislators been laboring to give us ju these benefits? And now to see som of our, heretofore, good citizens say ing vote NO when it becomes nece to pay for a balance due on these b fits, I am made to wonder if there still intelligent people who yet do no believe that "honesty is the best polic

As to the second argument of D Gragg, that is, what he says about th repeal of the 18th amendment to Federal Constitution, I want to endors every word he has said and if it did no presume too liberally with your courte in giving space to this, already too long communication, I should like to add, possible, something to the force of hi argument.

How One Woman Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat

Lost Her Prominent Hips— Double Chin—Sluggishness

Gained A Shapely Figure

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health.

Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting down on pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes, butter and cream. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 salts most helpful to body health. Best of all, a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Ask Upchurch Drug Co., or any druggist for a bottle and start to lose fat today. It's the safe way to reduce but be sure you get Kruschen—your health comes first. adv.

What You Will Vote On July 18

On Tuesday, July 18, the voters of Alabama will pass upon five proposals. Four of them are in the shape of amendments to the state constitution, and the other is upon the question of repealing or retaining the Eighteenth Amendment to the federal constitution.

Briefly, the News will endeavor to explain the provisions of all five propositions to be voted upon, with such comments as appear to it advisable and in the public interest.

On the repeal question voters are to elect delegates to a statewide convention in Montgomery in August to finally act upon it. The delegates elected from every county in the state pledge themselves to vote in convention for or against repeal as the majority vote in the state as a whole, for or against, is registered, regardless of how any one county or groups of counties may vote.

Repeal of the amendment, however, will not restore legalized sale of any intoxicants. Legislative enactment will be necessary before even 3.2 beer may be sold. What the voters will decide on July 18 is whether the Eighteenth Amendment may be stricken from the federal constitution and control of the liquor question be vested in the states themselves, individually. In other words, the question resolves itself into one of state's rights.

All four of the proposed amendments to the state constitution will appear upon one ballot, in the order in which they were passed at the recent special session of the Legislature.

No. 1 is the Sparks Amendment. It provides that salaries of all state and county officers may be reduced during their terms of office. At present this is forbidden. The recent special session reduced salaries sharply, especially those over $6,000 per year. Unless the Sparks Amendment is adopted, these salary cuts cannot be made effective.

No. 2 is the proposed income tax levy. In the opinion of the News this should pass. The state is in desperate need of revenue with which to pay its just obligations and to operate its public schools, and while the income tax will not produce a great amount of revenue under existing conditions, it is right in principle, based as it is upon ability to pay. No individual or corporation not fortunate enough to be earning a large salary or goodly dividends will be required to pay an income tax.

No. 3 is linked as it were with the income tax. It is the warrant validating amendment. It provides that the state's outstanding indebtedness of around $19,000,000 shall be made interest bearing and negotiable. It and the income tax are designed to provide a source of revenue with which to pay the interest and principal upon these interest-bearing warrants. Alabama's just debts should be paid. "Liquidation instead of repudiation" is the idea behind the income tax and the warrant validation amendment.

No. 4 is a proposed amendment reducing from eight weeks to four weeks the length of time in which proposed amendments to the constitution shall be published. This proposed amendment is in the interest of economy and should be adopted. The News is saying this when adoption of the amendment will mean quite a loss of revenue to it in the course of time.

Voters of Chilton county should give careful attention to all five propositions they are to vote upon on July 18th to the end that they may cast their ballots intelligently and in the furtherance of improved conditions in Chilton county and throughout the state.

CORINTH-SHADY GROVE SINGING

Editor, Chilton County News:

Please give me space in your good paper to say a few words in regard to our Corinth-Shady Grove singing society. We met in a call session last Sunday, July 2, at Shady Grove and we had a good singing that was enjoyed by everybody present. The society was opened with prayer by Rev. Hightower. Directors for the afternoon were Archie Jones, Herman Dubose, I. D. Huett, Raymond Jones. Mrs. W. G. Pratt, A. L. Robinson, Miss Dora Jones, N. J. Jones, A. M. Jones. Organists were Mrs. W. G. Pratt, Richard McKinney, Archie Jones, I. D. Huett, A. L. Robinson. Dismissed with prayer.

We want to thank the good people for their attendance. We need them all and we want to give a special invitation to everybody to come to Corinth next Sunday afternoon, July 9th. We hope to have a good singing. We are looking for a number of outside singers to be present, and asking them to bring somebody with them.

On Monday, July 10th, Mr. I. D. Huett will take up his singing school, and we are hoping to have a real good school. Mr. Huett taught a school for us last summer and a great improvement was seen. Now we are hoping that we will cooperate with Mr. Huett and have another good one.

Yours for good singing.

Crops To Plant On Land Retired

Auburn, Ala., — Taking land out of cotton production offers Alabama farmers a splendid opportunity to increase their production of food and feed crops this year, said Dr. L. N. Duncan, di- Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

And J. C. Lowery, Auburn extension agronomist, gives specific suggestions. "Cowpeas is perhaps the best late crop to plant with a reasonable expectation of fair yields of both hay and seed," he said. "Corn is also a very practical crop to plant since most farmers have seed or can get it. Although corn planted from the first to the middle of July will probably make little grain unless rains are plentiful during the latter half of the summer, the stalks may be cut before frost and cured for forage."

Some farmers are planting corn between rows of cotton to be retired. If not they can take out the corn. In doing this many are planting only between every other row of cotton.

Sorghum is another good crop for planting on this land if seed is on hand or can be obtained, Mr. Lowery said. Those who wish to wait until fall may plant oats or wheat and vetch or Austrian winter peas or rye for hay or the legume crops for soil building.

Red Rustproof and Fulghum are good varieties of oats to use.

FEWER WATERMELONS THIS YEAR THAN LAST

Alabama is this year producing 1,300,000 watermelons compared with 2,048,000 last year, reports F. W. Gist, statistician of the department of agriculture.

"The acreage to watermelons this year in Alabama is 4,700 against 6,400 last year and the indicated yield this year is 290 melons per acre against 320 last year," he said.

"The production for sale this year in the second early states, running from Alabama to Texas, is 28,000,000, against 29,000,000 last year."

—o-o-o—

Many farmers who plan to take some of their cotton acreage out of production are now planting corn between the cotton rows. Usually a row of corn is planted in every other cotton middle. If the acreage reduction program is completed the corn will be left. If not the corn will be taken out and the cotton left.

Rev. F. A. Gibson Died Last Thursday

Chilton county and the State of Alabama lost a character of wide influence in the death last Thursday morning of the Rev. F. A. Gibson, who for the past fifty years had made his life a concentrated effort toward the upbuilding of character in Chilton and surrounding counties.

Death came to the venerable Methodist minister at the home of his son, the Rev. J. W. Gibson, of Salem, near Opelika, and followed an illness of many months duration. He was 77 years of age and had followed the vocation of ministry for more than a half-century.

Coming to Chilton county in the '80's, the Rev. Gibson made his home in the Pleasant Grove community, where he met and married Miss Mary Henley. His membership has been with the Pleasant Grove church since that time. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge 423 and also a member of the Clanton Commandery 127.

One Injured When Four Autos Collide

One man received severe injuries in a four-way smash-up Monday night on the Montgomery-Birmingham highway about two miles north of Verbena.

J. W. Wells, 53-year-old contractor of Charlotte, N. C., suffered possible broken ribs and severe bruises about the body, when the automobile in which he was riding en route from Montgomery to Charlotte collided with another automobile when they attempted to pass by a parked truck, loaded with cotton.

Wells was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital by passing motorists. Two other men who were traveling with Wells were not injured and occupants of the other car escaped unhurt according to reports.

After the cars collided another automobile smashed into the back of the parked truck, according to witnesses, but no one was injured.
